STATIONS, MISSIONARIES, AND OTHER LABOURERS, MAY 1864.

 By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as, cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving Europe.

The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out. The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS OF THE
CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Committee, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for such Members of the Royal Family as may honour it with their protection; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of all England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office; and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such Temporal Peers and Commoners as, being also Members, shall be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upward, and if Clergyman, Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings and upward per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds and upward shall be Governors for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April; when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee; or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons as Patrons and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex-officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries: these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the FOUR following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidate: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation, or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly.....This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a license or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation refore a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i. e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras to extend, as far as circumstances would admit these benefits to the Mission of Travancore; which as an independent state, not forming part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite lin between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

* The Three Bishops of India, and the Bishop of Australia, are the Presidents of the Corresponding Committees in their respective dioceses.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour. This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbadoes—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So, also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and painfully, to the glory of His name!"

February, 1839.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May the 3rd, 1864, being the Sixty-fifth Anniversary—

The Right Hon. the EARL OF CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair,

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN, M.A., PREBENDARY OF HEREFORD,

On the Motion of the LORD ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, V.P., seconded by the EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, V.P., and supported by the REV. JOHN BARTON, M.A., Missionary from North India, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. Archibald Boyd, for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies—[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of the REV. JOHN C. RYLE, B.A., Vicar of Stradbroke, seconded by the REV. JAMES SMITH, M.A., Prebendary of Derry, and supported by the REV. SAMUEL CROWTHER, Native African Missionary, and Bishop Designate of the Niger, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That while the successful establishment of a settled native church in Sierra Leone and in other parts of the Mission field, through the blessing of God upon the labours of this and of kindred Societies, calls for devout gratitude to the great Head of the church, it calls also for more zealous and enlarged efforts to send His Gospel into the regions beyond.

On the Motion of the REV. HUGH STOWELL, M.A., Minister of Christ Church, Salford, and Hon. Canon of Chester, seconded by the REV. C. D. MARSTON, M.A., Rector of St. Mary's, St. Marylebone, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That while this Meeting unfeignedly rejoice in the multiplication of Protestant Missionary Societies, and in the uniform measures of success distributed to them by the Holy Spirit of God, they would earnestly call upon the United Church of England and Ireland to secure to its Missions a foremost rank, by increased liberality, and by the dedication of her worthiest sons to this sacred enterprise.

At a Second Meeting, held in Exeter Hall, on the Evening of the same Day—

LIEUT.-COLONEL ROWLANDSON, in the Chair,

Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Samuel Crowther, the Rev. John Gritton, Missionary from Tinnevelly, and by the Rev. Charles Marson, M.A., Association Secretary.

Suggested Order of Proceedings at a Meeting preparatory to the Formation of an Association in aid of the Church Missionary Society.

1.—Mr. will move, and Mr. will second, a Resolution, "That be requested to take the Chair."

2.—The Chairman will briefly state the object for which the Meeting is assembled, and then call on the Rev. to offer up the usual Prayer to Almighty God, for a blessing on the proceedings of the day.

3.—After Prayer, the Chairman will make such further observations as he may deem necessary, and then call on Mr. to move the First Resolution.

FIRST RESOLUTION.—Moved by

Seconded by

That this Meeting fully recognises the duty incumbent on Christians to employ all suitable means for the propagation of the Gospel throughout the world; and hails, with thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church, the labours of the CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY in its various Stations in Heathen Lands, and among decayed Christian Churches.

SECOND RESOLUTION.—Moved by

Seconded by

That an Association be now formed, and entitled, "The Church Missionary Association;" and that the following be its Officers and Rules with power to add to their number.

PRESIDENT. VICE-PRESIDENTS.

TREASURER. SECRETARY.

COMMITTEE:

RULES.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward; or if Clergymen, Half a Guinea; and also such persons as shall collect in its behalf One shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward; or if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas; and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at its General Meetings. Subscribers of Ten Shillings per annum will receive a copy of the Annual Sermon and Abstract of Report. Collectors of Sixpence and upward per week will receive a copy of each Monthly Number of the "Church Missionary Record"; and Collectors of Two Shillings and upward per week will receive a copy of the Annual Report, in addition to the "Record." Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society. Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors. Contributors of 1*d.* a-week and upward will be entitled to receive the Parent Society's "Quarterly Paper."

VI. The objects of this Association shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society—to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VII. The whole of the funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society, in aid of its designs.

VIII. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day as shall be fixed by the Committee; when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be read, and an account of its receipts and disbursements presented, duly audited.

THIRD RESOLUTION.—Moved by

Seconded by

That the success which, under the Divine Blessing, has attended the Church Missionary Society in its efforts to make known the Gospel of Christ among the Heathen, is a loud and providential call for increased exertions, for devout thanksgiving to Almighty God, and for continual prayer for a more abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit, to render the means employed successful.

FOURTH RESOLUTION.—Moved by

Seconded by

That the new and enlarged openings for Missionary exertion, in different quarters, demand our best energies to make known the blessed Gospel of Christ to Heathen and Mohammedan Nations.

SERMON,

2 TIMOTHY I. 10.

"WHO HATH ABOLISHED DEATH, AND HATH BROUGHT LIFE AND IMMORTALITY TO LIGHT THROUGH THE GOSPEL."

IT is hardly possible to misunderstand the meaning of the two principal expressions of this passage. The word "immortality" speaks for itself; and, as "life" is put in opposition to "death," we are critically compelled to understand by it, that restoration of a living existence to man of which death had despoiled him. If so, the text advances this claim on behalf of Christianity, that she, and she only, has brought out these two great privileges into light or clearer manifestation.

It were scarcely just, and certainly at variance with the testimony of ancient or modern paganism, to affirm that a future life, and a never-ending life, were utterly unknown to man independently of the light cast on them by revelation. Neither classical allusions, nor philosophic disquisitions, nor researches into the opinions and hopes of the many tribes living without the light of inspiration, nor yet the language of Scripture itself, will justify us in the maintenance of such a proposition. But it is plainly open to us to affirm that those truths which were rather conjectural than proved, and objects rather of hope than of expectation, were by the Gospel brought out into clearness and certainty. Over and around the religion and hints of nature, there hung clouds and shadows so dense that the keenest powers of reason could not penetrate through them, and force their way into a region of clearness. True it is that out of the depths there came from time to time rays of light suggestive of truth; sounds and whispers conveying to men the hints and fragments of great realities; but they served rather to show inquirers the profoundness of their ignorance than to lead to final and satisfactory knowledge. Men were like explorers endeavouring, by the glare of a few torches kindled at its mouth, to discover the mysteries of some deep cavern; each ray which penetrated into the abyss only revealing the deeper darkness lying beyond its range, and bewildering investigation by the distorted and spectral appearances it conjured up. It remained for Christianity, the religion of revelation, to do that which reflection and research could not do—throw its light on mysteries, roll back the clouds which hung over truth, and bring the obscure and conjectural into manifestation through the Gospel.

Now it is this utter inability of mere reason to discover those truths which are of deepest moment to man, and this power of revelation to disclose what reason cannot bring to light, that a modern school of theology denies. According to its assumptions, there is little or nothing bearing on the relation of God to man, or even of man to man, which is not discoverable by the mere power of intuition and reflection. Inspiration it admits: but inspiration is, or involves, the ordinary exercise of the human faculties. Revelation it confesses: but it lies in the outer world of matter, and the inner world of meditation, feeling, and reflection; these being the channels through which man gains his proper conception of God and the relation between Him and man. The Scriptures (to us the very volume of revelation, and without whose disclosures we should despair of knowing any thing as we ought to know) are not, according to this school, that single Book which stands alone in the sublime position of being the one infallible oracle, but simply one book of instruction amongst others, differing not generically from them, invested with no more authority, and consequently, as to its assertions, not justified in claiming credence for things which in other books would be pronounced incredible. And Christianity, which we have been accustomed to regard as exceptionally God's religion—so far from being God's best, last, and fullest communication of Himself, His mind and His will—is but one religion amongst many others, or rather one of the many phases of that Absolute Religion which comes to all men by emotion, by intellect, and by instinct. "Great primal "intuitions," we are told, "there are, which depend on no logical process "of demonstration, but are rather facts of consciousness "given by the instinctive action of human nature itself." And of the truths thus supposed to be discoverable by intuition, or consciousness, or natural power, the three most important are declared to be, the consciousness that there is a God, the consciousness that there is a moral law which we ought to keep, the intuition of the just and right, "and the intuition of the immortal, or the consciousness that the essential element of man never dies."[1]

If all this be so, the question naturally arises, Where lies the necessity for any of those systematic efforts, for any of those ordinances and ministrations, which we are accustomed to think necessary for the introduction and discrimination of truth? If man be thus independent, able to converse with the material world outside, and the spiritual world within; able, out of his emotions and intuitions, to discover God, morals, and immortality, the whole fabric of religion considered as an instrument disappears. It is an instrument utterly unnecessary. Churches, scriptures, sacraments, ordinances, ministrations, missions, may at once be discarded as things of superfluity, perhaps things of impediment to the advance of truth. If the philosopher in times past could think or feel himself into truth, the whole apparatus of Christianity just at that time, when philosophy after its best and most persevering efforts confessed its own impotency, was a well-meant but splendid mistake.[2] If the human mind has this independent power within itself, pastors and congregations, texts and homilies, are out of place. If a man has but to read the heavens and the earth, himself and his fellow men, to attain to "glory, honour, and immortality"; then our missionary solicitudes are weaknesses, and our missionary efforts but idle expenditures of thought and labour. In a word, the world may be left to itself for the discovery and acceptance of truth, for the world itself is revelation, and human faculties are inspiration.

[1] Theodore Parker's Experiences as a Minister, vol. ii. app.
[2] Vide Note A.

Now these are the opinions—so eminently calculated, if they obtain favour, to lead to these conclusions—which we desire at present to examine. We shall make it our first business to demonstrate the utter incompetency of Nature—whether by that word we understand reason, emotion, or intuition—to make those discoveries and other discoveries equally needful for man; and then build upon that a second proposition—the necessity and sufficiency of Revelation.

1. It is surely open to us, on the very threshold of our first inquiry, to question the competency of any man, born in a Christian country, brought up in a Christian land, and familiarized from infancy with the facts of Christianity, to appear as a witness at all in favour of the theory we are discussing. We apprehend that no man, in such a position, is qualified to form a pure or unbiassed opinion on such a subject as that of the power of intuition or reason to reach truth, for the independent power to discover truth and the right to speak as a witness in favour of such a discovery, has been lost by the mere fact of Christian association. For, let us see how the fact stands. From infancy to childhood, from childhood to manhood, such a man has lived in a very atmosphere of truth. The air he has drunk in has been almost loaded with it, the sunlight that has fallen upon him has been almost composed of it. Against sights and sounds, against impressions and communications, against facts and observations, he has never been able to close his eyes or ears, or understanding; nor, in much probability, for a long period of his life, has he ever thought of doing so, or dreamed of setting up within himself a religion purified from every thing derived, however indirectly and unconsciously, from Christianity. The prayers he has breathed at his mother's knee, the hymn he has heard his sister sing, the text written on the wall, the books which lay on his shelves, the conversation he has listened to at the fireside, the newspaper he has scanned, the laws he has seen administered (built on and recognising Christianity), the crimes punished, the virtues rewarded, the funeral service, or the Christian sentiment engraven on the tombstone of the village churchyard—what have they been, one and all, but direct and indirect preachers of Christianity? And against these the man has not, and could not insulate himself. Nay, if in after life, when the determination to trace out an absolute religion independently and alone for himself has gained mastery over his mind, he were to resolve to detach himself from all contaminating or biassing influences, that he might think himself honestly into truth, he has lost, and that for ever, the power of doing so. The deed is done. Christian thoughts and Christian dogmas have entered into his soul, and wrapped themselves closely round his head and his heart. Like Moses he "might flee to the solitudes of Midian," or like many an inquirer after God and many a man covetous of holiness, bury himself in a hermit's cave, immure himself in an anchorite's cell, dwell in the far off wilderness, that he might neither see, nor hear, nor feel, aught to affect the purity of his search, but still the sacrifice comes too late. He cannot de-individualize himself. He cannot divest himself of self; and in the madness of disappointment we might almost fancy him apostrophizing himself—"Whither shall I flee from thy presence?" Doubtless with intentions the most pure, and efforts the most painfully resolute, he might devote himself to the solution of his problems; but still it remains to be seen, how much of the indestructible past mingles with them. Doubtless, in the simplicity or energy of his enthusiasm, he might persuade himself that he was the pure disciple of intuition; but thoughtful men would say that he was the victim of a delusion, nay that, unconsciously, he was doing injustice to that God after whom he was searching, in ignoring and ungratefully rejecting all that God, by disclosures, had in other days taught him. It is well remarked by one of our profoundest thinkers, that "there are many things which we have been brought up in "the belief of from our cradles, and are notions familiar and "as it were natural to us under the Gospel, which we take "for unquestionable truths, and easily demonstrable, without "considering how long we might have been in doubt or "ignorant of them, had revelation been silent."[3] When therefore a Christian man affirms that he can discover for himself the being and the nature of God, the immortality of the soul, and a true and sound morality, we are surely justified in demanding that he must first divest himself of all hints and impressions, dogmas and principles, received in any way from Christianity, before we consent to accept him as a trustworthy witness, testifying out of the resources of his own consciousness.[4]

And this remark, which we think to be true regarding the individual lying under these circumstances, we hold that we are justified in extending to a still wider circle of the disciples of nature. Men, desirous of exalting the powers of reason and relieving themselves from dependence on revelation, point with undisguised triumph to the great intellectual achievements of the ancient philosophers. They tell us of the profound discoveries of Socrates and Plato, and speak of them as if they had almost been the pioneers of Christianity. They exhibit them as specimens of what human intellect can accomplish, when forced to the exertion of its powers, and thrown upon the concomitant and assisting light of intuition. It were open to us to answer that even if all were true, which reason's disciples claim for reason out of these sources, still we should not have had the point proved that reason's religion was a religion for all men. It follows not, that because a philosopher can discover truths, the peasant can be equally successful; that because a man of gigantic intellect, and literary habits, and reflective powers, and enthusiasm of purpose, succeeds after years of deep and painful thought at arriving at certain truths,

therefore all men—the men of moderate ability and undisciplined thought and busy occupation—are competent to take their place beside them. All may receive truth, but all are not competent to discover it. But independently of this, we hold that it fairly admits of question, how much of so-called philosophical discovery is, or may be, traceable to revelation. We apprehend, that if the point were fully investigated, it might be found that, even in the cases of the learned ones of Greece and Rome, reason collected many deep and precious thoughts, not out of her own stores, but from God's communications. The people of Israel, the guardians and students of the ancient Scriptures, were found in every land. Judgments, captivities, oppression, made them often strangers from their own. "His seed shall be in many waters" was the destiny imposed on them, and many a page of history tells us how fully that destiny was accomplished. The day of Pentecost of itself showed the fact, that then the children of Israel were "Parthians and Elamites, Cretes and Arabians, dwellers in Pontus and Asia." Almost every book of their records tells of the extent of their dispersions and migrations; sometimes, as in the case of the ten tribes, to Assyria; sometimes, as in the case of Judah, to Babylon and Shushan, and to the many cities and provinces of the wide-spread empire of Ahasuerus. Princes of might and reputation were familiar with them, their principles, and their Scriptures. Nebuchadnezzar was taught by Daniel to recognise the true God.[5] Belshazzar learned to his ruin that "God is not mocked." Darius and Cyrus could not have come in contact with the sages of Israel, and found themselves recognised in their prophecies, without touching the hem of the garment of inspiration. The visions of Daniel were read by Alexander.[6] One of the highest geographical authorities of ancient times tells us that Jews existed in such numbers at Alexandria—one of the seats of learning and celebrated for its schools of philosophy—that a quarter was formally assigned to them for residence.[7] There Pythagoras and Plato sought for light, and there the Scriptures of truth were conveyed into the tongue of commerce, of literature, and of poetry. Is it extravagant to believe that intercourse there could not have been with such a people as this—so widely scattered, so tenacious of their opinions, so exclusive in their usages, and so proud of their Scriptures,—without somewhat of the knowledge they possessed "going out on them that touched them." Difficult it is for us to believe that some of the poets of Rome and the moralists of Greece, did not borrow pure thoughts and brilliant conceptions amounting almost to predictions—from inspiration higher than that of "their own faculties"; and still more difficult is it to believe that if morality and poetry borrowed from the Old Testament, philosophy, far more inquiring and laborious than either, did not, in her eager quest after the chief good, the nature of God, and the secret of existence, avail itself of hints more suggestive than her own best deductions. If all this be so (and we hold that vast probability sanctions the conjecture) the thoughtful men of the two great empires were led to the little truth they held, not simply by intuition, but (in part at least) by revelation, or those traditions which originated in revelation.

But we wish not to rest contented with this reply, for we think that it admits of proof, when tried by the test of facts, that the discoveries claimed by reason and intuition were never made at all. We may, for sake of clearness, arrange heathenism in three divisions, which we may style Paganism philosophic, Paganism semi-civilized, and Paganism rude and barbarous. And appealing to the writings and condition of them all, we think, that neither with respect to immortality, or the nature and being of God, or a system of sound, pure morality, can the disciples of mere intuition and reason plume themselves on the results of their searches after truth.

On the first of the discoveries claimed—the Immortality of the Soul, it is not necessary long to dwell. For we think that in all fairness it must be granted, that that doctrine has been, to a degree more or less reasonable, apprehended by all men. Every people, civilized or uncivilized, barbarous or uneducated, have arrived at some rude conception of a state of future existence. The Tartarus and Elysium of the classic poets, the dialogues of the dead, the supposed return to earth of the shades of the departed, the Hall of Odin and the orgies of the Scandinavian heroes, the Indian's dream of larger and more beauteous hunting fields, the paradise of Mohammed, and the transmigration of souls into other bodies, all testify to the extent of the belief that the spirit of man does not die. And strange it would be if thought reached any other conclusion. Whether men measured the vastnesss of its capacity, its powers of enjoyment, its clear separability from the body, or the inequalities of mortal condition here, they felt themselves compelled to look to a future; a future not for other races, but one into whose happiness or penalties they themselves would enter.[8] Nevertheless, clear as all this might be to the mind of man in the abstract, it may help to make us grateful for the full light that Revelation has thrown on the subject, to remember how vague and discordant, how unsatisfactory and unsettled were the conceptions at which nature arrived, after pondering over the great problem of immortality. With us, "the spirit returns to Him who gave it." With us, there is a bright expectation of "being with Christ, which is far better;" of "being with our Lord in Paradise;" and with us, above all, there is the sure and certain hope of that which philosophy in its best dreams never considered possible, the re-union of the soul to the raised and indestructible body, the "clothing of the mortal with immortality." In all this, futurity stands before us peopled with separate individual spirits first, and destined to be peopled with bodies sown in weakness and raised in power. Vastly inferior to all this are the speculations of the thoughtful as to the condition of the soul. The best hope of one was the absorption into the Great First Cause;[9] of another, the painful pilgrimage of the soul passing by transmigration into oppressed and inferior existences;[10] of another, the animal enjoyment of a sensual paradise;[11] of another, of being resolved into original elements, and lost, as to individuality and consciousness, in the mysterious and inconceivable thing called matter.[12] Nay, when we move a step further, and pass from the conception of the hope to the grounds on which it rested, we find ourselves, apart from revelation, in the land of vagueness and perplexity. When the master-mind of Greece could give no better reason for his belief in the soul's immortality than an analogical inference; told his disciples that every thing spoke of change—light coming after darkness, day after night, waking after sleeping, life after death; he placed a great and ennobling doctrine on the perilous ground of an illogical conjecture.[13] To be accurate, he should have gone a step further and affirmed the resurrection; for it is the same body that sleeps which wakes. When the most literary of Roman princes and the sternest of Roman patriots professed that there was an end of all things after death, and neither joy nor sorrow to be found beyond the grave;[14] when her first orator, after accepting from Plato the doctrine of the soul's endless duration, yet wavered in his belief so far as to say that "if there were nothing good in death, at least there is no evil;[15] when the poets laughed to scorn the notion of a future, and made the burden of their licentious odes "to eat and drink, and to-morrow die;[16] when Pliny pronounced the idea of a second existence to "be the invention of a childish desire not to come to an end," and Tacitus hoped that beyond the tomb there might be possibly a place for a few distinguished ones;[17] when the popular belief was, that while the plants and flowers passed into their returning spring, for man there remained but "a sleep which no propitious power dispels, nor changing seasons, nor revolving years";[18]—surely it is but idle boast to say that man's reason or mere intuition are guides to right views or harmonious convictions of the immortality of the soul. This we may concede, that in some rude form the doctrine was conceived; but still we must maintain, that it was so disfigured by vain imaginations, so unsupported by conclusive proof, and so placed by philosophic scepticism in such a position of doubt, as to be nearly useless as an article of a creed bringing comfort and elevation to man.

On the second point, the Nature of God, we cannot afford to be equally concessive. It is the decisive assertion of Scripture that "the world by wisdom knows not God," and that, though He may be revealed, He is "past finding out." And we are bold to say, that every examination of the three sections of paganism to which we have adverted, will but prove the accuracy of the inspired declaration.

If we turn first to Philosophic Paganism, and ask it to declare its creed on the most essential and central of all doctrines, the nature and being of a God, we shall find that the oracle responds in terms so ambiguous, and mutterings so indistinct, as to leave us gasping for our answer still. That most should acknowledge that there is Somewhat or Some One supreme, might be fairly expected from the simple fact ever existing and ever cogent, that "the heavens declare the glory of God." Philosophy must have been blinder than the Greenland savage, if it saw not in the wonders of creation the foot-prints of the Supreme. But we require for our comfort, our purity, and our elevation, far more than this, for we need to know not merely that there be a Supreme, but who and what He is. All humankind prays—"I beseech thee show me Thy glory," but no human kind makes out without "the showing, the Almighty to perfection." Assuredly the great thinkers of other days never displayed more fully the meagreness of their philosophy, and the defects of their intuitive consciousness, than when they attempted to expound the Eternal; and as assuredly, never did literary paganism utter a truth more true and more humiliating to vaunted reason, than when Athens erected an altar "To the Unknown God."[19] It stood up among them a prominent rebuke, a withering condemnation, an engraven indictment of the assumption and shallowness of philosophy. It almost seems, that so entirely was the mighty subject out of its range, so absolutely beyond depths to which it could descend, that discrimination and sense were lost in the vain attempt to give utterance to its ideas. "Vain in their imagination, their foolish heart was darkened." When one linked Deity to matter, so as to make Him but the animating soul of the world, the conscious mainspring of a machine;[20] another, purer in his conception, pronounced Him to be "mind unmixed with matter;"[21] and another described Him as the Universe's Soul, from which emanated heroes, demons, and demi-gods;[22] and a fourth conceived Him wrapped up in sublime self-indulgence, gifted with no knowledge, and touched by no care for things below;[23] and a fifth, perplexed by the contradictions with which the world abounds, anticipated Manichæism, or rather made the Supreme as much the effective cause of Evil as of Good;[24] and when the greatest master of them all had the honesty to confess—"I only know this, that I know nothing,"[25] philosophy is bound to confess that the "light that was in her was darkness." Passages there are, no doubt, in the writings of the leaders of thought in other days, of great sublimity, disclosing great yearnings after certainty, uttering sad and plaintive aspirations, hovering round but never rising to full truth. Nevertheless, when we come to realize this Being of their conception, to test His character by its correspondence with our own necessities, and above all to demand a harmony of views on His entire attributes, we find the cold shadow eluding our grasp, and the pretentious structure crumbling at the touch of our convulsive anxiety "like the baseless fabric of a vision." Of the personal character of Deity they can tell us nothing; of His true connection with man, nothing; of His attributes beyond eternity and power, nothing; of the real principles of His administration, nothing. We have asked the men of infallible intuition for bread, and they give us a stone. Nay, we demanded something more sustaining, and, with cruel mockery, they offer us a serpent.

But when we turn from learned conceptions to popular apprehension, it is then we trace the very futility of philosophy. Whatever dreams the men of meditation may have had respecting the Supreme, the real creed of the people was unmistakable. Abstractions degenerated into impure and abominable creations, and temples dedicated to Jupiter the profligate, altars to Venus the sensual, shrines to Mercury the dishonest, and statues to Mars the sanguinary, told out too plainly that philosophy had discovered no god for the masses. Left to their own "intuition," they dragged their own worst lusts out of their own bosoms and placed them on pedestals, and gave themselves a charter for iniquity by "falling down and worshipping them."

If it were thus with Paganism, guided by the great high-priests of reason, and aided by all the light which extensive inquiry and profound reflection threw on the subject, how must it be with that inferior condition of heathenism which, for distinction's sake, we will call Semi-civilized. Instead of traversing a wide region of illustrations, we shall sufficiently prove our point by glancing at the idea of a Supreme Being supplied by the religions of Brahminism and Buddhism. The mystery thrown on the point by the first of these in subtle distinctions and dreamy conceptions, almost defeats the attempt to comprehend who or what the god of Brahminism was. Behind a cloud of deities, patrons of lust, violence, robbery, murder, and we reach a Trinity of subordinates, the Creator, the Preserver, and the Destroyer; and, beyond them, "we grope after, if haply we may find," the supreme abstraction who is supposed to be the apex of the system, too sublime to be conceived, too exalted to be apprehended, and too much wrapped up in profound and unceasing contemplation to be able to condescend to the concerns of human existence. "The God is an "Intelligence, not a Will—Himself a higher Priest, a more glorious "Student, a more perfect Contemplator. You "can scarcely conceive a mandate issuing from such a Being; "all things must flow from Him as light from the sun, or "thought from a musing man." And, as a consequence of such a conception, the man who, like the Brahmin, laboured by entire abstraction of spirit "to arrive at the perception of "the Perfect One, felt that the light which entered his own "heart, that which enabled him to see mysteries, must be the "great expression of the Divine Being. . . . In that character "the initiated disciple is to worship Him: no sacrifice need "be offered to Him, no temples need be raised to Him. "It is the inward and purified intellect which does Him "homage."[26] It were hard to say whether this be Deism, a cold abstraction, or Pantheism—the Deity infused into the abstracted man and virtually worshipped within himself. At all events, it is not the conception of a Being who is the Father as well as Maker of His creatures, the Friend as well as the Master, the Guide and Governor as well as the object of contemplation. Virtually the subordinate deities of Brahminism are the moulders of popular thought, and the suggestors of popular action. The Supreme One is too far removed, too isolated, and too ideal to have any control on principles or conduct. And therefore we wonder not to find that it is as in paganism philosophic, the true divinities of Hindostan are but the personifications of human passions—lust and impurity, fraud and violence, murder and falsehood canonized into gods. Is this all that semi-civilized heathenism can do for its tribes; all that the "intuitive consciousness of the Divine" can do for the perishing? If it be so, the true God must come and declare Himself, for assuredly wisdom and intuition have signally failed to discover Him.

If it be perplexing to comprehend the God of the Brahminic system, it is even more so to form any thing approaching to an intelligible idea of the deity of Buddhism, the religious system which extends over China, Thibet, Siam, and Burmah, accepted by more than 300,000,000 of people. Recoiling from the Polytheism of Hindostan, Buddhism retreats upon a Monotheism, so perfectly abstracted and so awfully unapproachable, as to become at last rather a mysterious cypher than an idea. In it we trace the Triune system, which, strange to say, clings to so many religions, and which we found in the creed of Hindostan—the Intelligent, the Material, and the Mediating Influence which binds mind to the dead formless thing on which it works. For the symbols in the Buddhist temples seem "contrived to express the idea of some active, productive power; "of some passive, merely receptive power; and of something which "is the joint result of both." But separated from its mistiness, stripped of the clouds which affect to conceal that which it is impossible to reveal, Buddhism is a practical Atheism, and would cease to be a positive religion at all, were it not that the abstract intelligence is supposed to be so breathed into the soul of the worshipper, as to constitute a virtual Pantheism. "The one infallible diagnostic of Buddhism, is a belief "in the infinite capacity of the human intellect." It is hardly possible that it should be otherwise, for the religion is that or nothing. "The idea of an absolute and eternal "intelligence is there; but it is hidden, it gradually eva-"porates . . . . The conception of an intelligent soul in "nature is there, but it quickly resolves itself into a recog-"nition of all nature. The idea of deified man is there, but "this loses itself in another, that there is in man, in hu-"manity, a certain divine intelligence, which at different "times, and in different places, manifests itself more or less "completely. The human intellect is first felt to be the "perfect organ of worship; finally its one object."[27] That is, in fact, Atheism saved from its utter cheerlessness, its awful and oppressive nothingness, by an escape into Pantheism. But is this the God with which modern intuition would be satisfied? If so, it must be satisfied with the ignorance and darkness it has produced, the withering of intellect it has led to, the social and literary barrenness it has stamped on some of the fairest tracts of the earth, and the miserable morality which is its offspring. Yet deep thinking men—neither deficient in intellect, in industry, or intuition—have done their best to create its God. Does their ideal approach to the disclosures of revelation?

Now, where philosophy and subtile thought have failed, we dare not expect much from Paganism Barbarous. Where Socrates and Confucius have proved out of their own labours that "the world by wisdom knew not God," the Hottentot or Australian savage is not likely to furnish a different conclusion. The picture of ignorance, debasement, and idolatry, drawn by Paul in the lesson for the evening,[28] is painfully repeated in every report which reaches us from the lands of darkness. Men "professed themselves to be wise and "became fools, and changed the glory of the incorruptible "God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to "birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things." This record is true. To recount the deities of barbarous paganism would be but to hold up to pity and astonishment the monstrous inventions to which untaught men have had recourse, in their deplorable attempts to discover a God. Feeling that there is One, if He could be reached, seen to their imaginations in the lightning, heard in the remonstrating voice of the thunder, felt in the passing breeze, traced in the fluttering leaf, imaged in the ever-moving sun, read in the mystic constellations, appearing in the terrible grandeur of the tempest, stamping with indignant foot upon the ground when trembling under the earthquake's convulsive throbs, shrunk from, as the angel of destruction, when breathing in the pestilence, or throwing the foaming torrent in inundating fury beyond its banks. No wonder that heathenism wordlessly murmurs the inscription "To the Unknown God." Oh, let reason and intuition stand aside, and forbear to embarrass the march of inspiration, when all they have done for savage man is to place upon his altars the monstrous and degrading deities, to which the tribes of the perishing do homage. Let them blush for their own achievements, when they contemplate man, "made in the image of God" grovelling before "birds, and beasts, and creeping things."

[28] Rom. i.

Let them learn modestly to distrust their powers, when they survey the deeds of violence and bloodshed, of wrong and robbery, of obscenity and impurity, of brutality and treachery, of craft and ingratitude, to which their system has led. But let them not dare to attempt, in the face of all the crushing evidence which the condition of Heathenism exhibits, to palm upon an intelligent world the monstrous fallacy that "from the primitive facts of consciousness given "by the power of instinctive intuition men may deduce the "notion of God, of justice, and futurity."

We turn in the last place to the third assertion of the advocates of the absolute religion—that man is able to arrive at an intuitive perception of right and wrong, of good and evil, constituting a Moral Law—an assertion, we are bold to maintain, as utterly baseless as the former. If any thing resembling a pure morality was likely to flow out of sources unconnected with revelation, we might fairly expect it under the guidance of philosophy. For there, there was positively an effort after the good and pure. There, there were axioms designed to lead to a better morality. There, there were rules of discipline, intended to mould the animal man into the softness and virtue of the spiritual. We are not justified in doubting the objects and intentions of those searchers after truth; but we claim those very intentions as constituting the most complete proof of the incapacity of reason to produce a satisfactory morality. If Plato and Seneca had not coveted it, it might have been contended that heathenism had never sought for it, and therefore that her powers had never been evoked. But when the very object of the schools was to improve men, we are justified in claiming the fact as a proof, not that the thing was not attempted, but that the system could not do it. And if the moral system of the philosophers themselves was a failure, we need hardly trouble ourselves to inquire what was that of the uneducated, the undisciplined, and the unreclaimed. What then are the facts which the demand for the moral results of an intuitive perception of right and wrong elicits? These, that philosophy did not apprehend morality, and that her best exponents avowedly did not practise it. When one pronounced revenge to be a duty, and abortion a justifiable necessity;[29] and a second advocated the propriety of the exposure of children lest they should be a burthen to the state;[30] and a third marvelled that men should continue to be unhappy when there were at hand—"the rope, the knife, or the well,"—to terminate their sufferings;[31] and a fourth laid it down as reasonable, that if man could not freely regulate his own life, he might make an end of it[32]—an opinion reduced to practice by Zeno and Cleanthes, Cato and Seneca; and a fifth—the stern Roman censor—scourged his slaves to death, if at variance among themselves, or remiss to the guests of his convivial hour;[33]—surely the intuitive perception of right and wrong in the philosophers will be admitted to have been somewhat indistinct. And still more, when historical notices beyond suspicion reveal to us the permitted licentiousness, the indulged depravity, and the unmentionable crimes in which these men lived—vindicated, not as human weaknesses, but as rational proprieties—we cannot well avoid the inference that the assumptions of the absolute religionists are any thing but borne out by the facts. In truth, the great stoical doctrine of philosophic impassibility, viewed in its full latitude, carried with it the same conclusion. If vice the most extreme and revolting, if acts at which nature shudders, indulgences which would make society a corruption and home a pollution, were necessary for the maintenance of that unruffled calm at which stoicism aimed, morality must bend before philosophy. But why dwell on the directors of public thought, when we have the results themselves as witnesses? The drama of Greece and the poetry of Rome, nay—the architectural remains of antiquity, speaking out after twenty centuries the state of public taste and public practice, sufficiently reveal that crimes, which we could scarce name in whispers, were then regarded as common-place and natural. These be thy morals, these be the fruits of thy system, advocate of the power of reason and consciousness to lead men to the just and right! These be the trophies, and the illustrations of the power of thy religion to reclaim corrupted humanity! So utterly is it otherwise, that we believe that this world of ours was at that period posting on with terrific speed to destruction, and would have fallen into utter putrescence and irrevocable decay, but for the timely intervention of the arresting and elevating force of Christianity.[34]

The subject is a painful one; and yet, in justice to our cause, we are bound to pursue it to the end. We have seen that philosophic paganism could give to the world neither a clear perception nor a sound system of morals. Are we likely to find it in semi-civilized paganism? For answer to our question we shall refer to the same countries to which we have before appealed. Does China, with all its intricate system of government, the intelligence of its population, its ingenious literature, and its advance in art and science, place before us a people, whose "intuition" has discovered the rule of the just and right? If so, our principles are false, for there, suicide is no crime, falsehood and dishonesty are the meritorious virtues of a commercial people, the husband may sell his wife, and the father drown or fling to the dogs his new-born female infant. Statues in their gardens tell their own disgusting tales of the vicious tastes of the people. Scenes are enacted on that reflection of the national state, the stage, "so coarse and indelicate, that foreigners have retired in disgust."[35] Jesuit Missionaries have found the raw material for converts in the 9000 infants collected annually in the police carts from the streets of Pekin, as so much rubbish to be flung into the river. The worst vices of Greece and Rome are repeated there, without hesitation or concealment. An unsurpassed adroitness in fraud has made the Chinese trader an almost universal illustration of the force of his own proverb "Cheating is no crime, if the buyer be simple." Wherever else we have to look for the just and right, as the product of human consciousness, we are clearly not to expect it in the country of Confucius.

Our last resource lies in Hindostan. Where Buddhism has failed, Brahminism may possibly succeed. Alas, the witness utterly refuses to sustain the case. We shall rely on the statements of no Missionary upon this point, for it might, and possibly would be, met by the protest that a man is bound to prove himself useful, even if he be obliged to fabricate excuses for his labours. But such authorities as Lord Clive, Lord Teignmouth, and Lord Glenelg, will be admitted to be beyond suspicion. The first tells, in 1765, "that the inhabitants of this country have no attachment to "any obligation." The second, in 1784, affirms that "to "deceive and overreach is to acquire the character of a wise "man. To lie, steal, and murder, are not crimes to merit "expulsion from society." The last, in his Report, presented to Parliament in 1813, writes—"The Bengalees are "destitute in a wonderful degree of those qualities necessary "to the security and comfort of society. They want truth, "honesty, and good faith to a degree of which European "society furnishes no example. In matters of interest, the "use of lying seems so natural, that it is treated as an excus-"able indulgence; and the practices of cheating, pilfering, "trickery, and imposing, are so common that the Hindoos "regard them as they do natural evils at which it would be "idle to be angry. In Bengal a man of real veracity and "honesty is a great phenomenon." . . . "The people of the "lower provinces are as dastardly as they are unprincipled. "They seek their ends by low artifices, low cunning, in-"trigues, falsehood, servility. Hatred, abuse, slanders, in-"juries prevail to a surprising degree."[36]

These quotations prove, with painful power, that whatever other qualities the Hindoos may have, the "just and right" are not to be found among them. Let us introduce another quotation, in substantiation of another point, that the "good" is as frequently absent as the "just" from their ideas and practice of morals, and as affording an additional proof, if proof were wanting, that just conceptions of God find no more place in their mind, than morality does in their conduct. "The character of the whole multitude of Hindoo "deities is another source of immorality. The most enor-"mous and strange impurities, the most detestable cruelties "and injustices, the most filthy and abominable excess and "indulgence are presented in their histories. . . . . Repre-"sentations, which abandoned licentiousness dared hardly "imagine within the most secret recesses of iniquity, are there "held up in durable materials in places dedicated to reli-"gion. Nay, they are the objects of religious adoration. "The morals of the people are poisoned at the fountains and "altars of religion." [37]

To appeal to the last department of heathenism, the Utterly Barbarous, for an appreciation or practice of the "just and right," would be to ask "grapes from thorns, or "figs from thistles." It is neither in the light or capacities of savages to apprehend, or in their tastes and wishes to practice it. "The corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit." Our wide knowledge of the heathen exonerates us from the necessity of displaying their degradation, their depravity, their vices. It is not to the cannibal and sanguinary New Zealander, or the fierce and vindictive Indian, or the sensual and licentious Madagases, or the brutal and animal Hottentot, or the treacherous and deceitful Malay, or the faithless and revengeful Kaffir,—it is not to them we should look for illustrations of the power of intuitive consciousness to elevate the moral standard. Every notice of travellers, every report from Missionaries, every tale of our seamen, every letter from residents, tell the same sad story of man, like a crumbling ruin, hastening to decay; a few scattered pillars, a mouldering archway, or a dismantled turret, faintly declaring what it once was, and mutely asking the meditative traveller to stay the devastation, and put it to some nobler use. True, the stones may have to be taken down; and the aisles cleansed, and the foundation laid afresh, and the strong masonry—strong even in decay—built into the walls of the temple that is to be. But, when this is done, it will be found that the workmen were not the mere disciples of reason or intuition, but men who knew their Lord through His Bible, and burned with love created by love, to build Him a house for His glory.

Now in this examination of the supposed power of men to discover truth, unaided specially by revelation, we have simply contented ourselves with grappling with the three points put forward. But let it be recollected, that even were such power proved, still man is left infinitely short of that which he requires. Let it be conceded that by consciousness and observation he were able to discover God, futurity, and a sufficient moral law; still other things remain confessedly undiscovered, which relate as fully to his happiness and safety, as those at which he is supposed to have arrived. These discoveries touch not on the questions of the right mode of worship; the way by which, and the principles on which, God can forgive sin; the grounds on which we, confessed offenders, are entitled to approach Him; the process of our sancticafition, the nature of heaven, the resurrection, the judgment. Surely, these are points on which man needs information, and without which information, he would still find himself to be "without God in the world." To what end is the abstract knowledge of God, if I am shut by sin from Him? To what purpose our abstract conviction of a futurity, if I know nothing of its nature, its inhabitants, its features? To what purpose a correct moral code, if I find myself perpetually breaking it, and ignorant how I am to be pardoned for it? To what purpose a law, if I know nothing of some spiritual power, which can make me love it, and, at least, long to keep it? The dark past of sin and omission, of rebellion, lies heavily on my conscience, and I can neither undo it nor atone for it. The solemn future lies heavily on my apprehension, and I know not what it is, or if it be happy, how I shall be qualified to enjoy its happiness. The sense of God near me lies distinctly on my conviction, and yet I know not "how I shall come to His seat." Observation! resting on the outward world of matter, and the inward world of thought, canst thou not glean from these worlds something to satisfy my doubts? Intuition! that tellest man there is a God, canst thou not tell me how He wishes to be worshipped? Shall it be by sacrifice, by oblations, by penance, by sufferings? Shall it be by giving a first-born—"the fruit of the body for the sin of the soul"? Intuition, that tellest me that a pure God hates sin, tell me more—tell me if He has pardoned mine? Intuition! that tellest me that even stoical rest is a blessing, tell me more—tell me how am I to get it? Speak! Alas, the oracle is silent. The prophet wraps his face in a mantle, and I cannot gather even the shadow of an inspiration from his features. The bitter cry is again and again uttered, and "there is neither voice nor answer, nor any that regardeth." Alone I must bear my burden, perplexed by mystery, haunted by apprehensions, baffled in inquiry; "learning, and never "able to come to the knowledge of the truth." Better that thou hadst not spoken at all, than to guide me thus far into the sanctuary, and then leave me in darkness. Better almost to say with the fool—"There is no God," than to stand thus before his curtained shrine waiting for thy expositions and waiting in vain. Stand back, thou mocking deceiver, fertile in promises, barren in fulfilment. Stand back. It may be that in compassion, He, whom I ignorantly worship, will lift the veil; and then shall I know God, not through thy conjectures, but through His own disclosures.

II. Our subject hitherto has been, the inadequacy of intuition and observation to lead men to satisfactory truth. And we have now to pass to the other side of the question, and satisfy ourselves of the Sufficiency of Revelation. Its sufficiency, not simply to dispel our doubts, and assuage our thirst for truth, but to produce, under the action of its Great Author, the Spirit of light and life, those changes in human condition which are the immediate objects of our present assembling.

It is no slight proof of the necessity of revelation, or rather of man's universal belief in the necessity, that lies in these two facts: that the profoundest thinkers admitted that they must remain in darkness without it, and that they who knew human nature best found it necessary to pretend it. It was the confession of Socrates, "that we might "abandon all hopes of amending men's morals for the future, "unless God was pleased to send some person to instruct "us";[38] and in the same strain spake his great disciple Plato, when he announced that "whatever is right and becoming "in the present evil state of the world, can only be so by "the particular interposition of God."[39] And what was the whole system of shrines and oracles, of deities consulted and answers returned, but so many avowals that the knowledge which men craved to have, came not from the learning of the philosopher, the astuteness of the priest, or the meditations of the moralist, but from communications from above. That was Revelation—revelation palmed by crafty men on deluded worshippers; but still, by the very fact of its invention, an acknowledgment of its necessity. For we may reasonably argue from the counterfeit of any thing, to the probable existence of the reality: the shadow implies the substance. And, therefore, when the great legislators of other ages, and the great chiefs of the schools of philosophy, pretended or believed that they had guidance by responses from above, they virtually confessed the inadequacy of reason, and looked for knowledge to some source separate from and independent of themselves. The visions of Zoroaster, the inspirations of Lycurgus and Solon, the enlightenments of Pythagoras, and the consultations of Numa, all confess the fact. Let them have been brilliant imaginations or the belief of enthusiastic or superstitious minds, let them have been the impressions of oracular jugglery on bewildered judgments, or let them have been the grave impostures, by which unprincipled men deluded a credulous people: still the deduction is equally just. If they were themselves deceived, it was in the search after revelation; if they deceived others, it was through the pretence of revelation. What then? Why, that every way, whether in pretence or truth, men acknowledged that they could not do without revelation.

[38] Plato in Apol. Socratis. [39] Plato, Rep., lib. vi.

This, then, which those men, the apostles of intuition and reason, pretended to have, is that which we know we have —God's volume of undoubted inspiration, claiming "Him "for its author, salvation for its end, and truth for its sub-"stance." It is this that with confidence we take into our own hands, when we stand before our people to tell them "all the words of this life"; this, that we consult for ourselves, as the only guide we can trust and the only authority to which we are prepared to submit; this, that we place in the hands of our Missionaries when we send them forth to "stand "between the living and the dead, to shed light on them that "are in darkness, and to direct their feet into the paths of "peace." If it be not in our power to maintain that this Book differs from all other books, as being truth flowing out of the breast of God, we have absolutely nothing certain to teach the heathen. We are messengers without a message, donors without a gift, intruders without a necessity. We are repeating the vain experiment of the Grecian sages, offering to men our own opinions, instead of depositing with them the will, the disclosures, and the promises of God. Wells are we without water, trees whose fruit has withered long since and is withered still, traders in products which seem to the sight fair and luscious, but in reality are Dead-Sea fruits, which mock the eye, and turn to ashes on the lips. This mockery and snare we are not prepared to palm upon those who look to us for help and peace, whether here, or in New Zealand, or Hindostan. We feel that our strength lies in this, that the book whose utterances we repeat is God's, and that, in its promulgation, He has never "left himself without witness." We rely, not on our wisdom or reason, or on the intuitive consciousness of those to whom we speak, but on the honour God will surely put on His own word. And we trust it because it is His word; because it is the instrument for good that our great Master has put in our hand; because it has done great things in times past, and because under our own eye, it is doing great things still.

Now, when we affirm the Bible to be the Word of God, we feel that it would be equally unnecessary and out of place to pause over the great disputed topic of inspiration. We seem not to be bound to any one special theory on the point. Clear it is that certain portions of the sacred volume were dictated by God Himself; certain it is that other portions, such as history recalling the unrecorded and forgotten past, and prophecy sketching out the undiscoverable future, must have proceeded at least from Divine suggestion; possible it is, that in matters which required no dogmatic precision, and wherein human industry was sufficient for the collection and arrangement of the materials,[40] writers were left to their own powers for system, selection and expression; a Divine supervision providing for it, that nothing should pass from the author's pen that was not substantially and virtually Truth. But, making allowance for these theories—all perfectly harmonious with each other—one point must never be surrendered, that the Bible is the Word of God. Abandon that, and we are reduced to the exercise of a "verifying faculty" to determine how much or how little is deserving of confidence. Abandon that, and we constitute ourselves members of a court of expurgation, taking upon us to determine how much and what is admissible into, or removable from, our presumptuous index. Abandon that, and we must speak to our congregations with timid caution, and hesitating distrust; fearful to rest a charge, an admonition, or a comfort on some text to which we scruple to appeal. Abandon that, and we have no right to tell the heathen that this is the Christian's volume of truth, but merely one that somewhere contains it, if only men were daring, or gifted, or inspired enough to lay down the principles on which they are to "refuse the evil and choose the good." For me, it is conclusive and satisfying enough to remember that we have the same Old Testament which Christ studied and which Christ preached, and that that Book has been endorsed once and for ever, by His own sanction, by repeated reference, by frequent quotation, by appeal to its decisions as to the last authority; and that without one syllable of reservation or caution to warn us, that some, but not all of it, was deserving of our credence. That which satisfied the Divine Mind of my Master, I surely need not hesitate to accept. And that to which inspired Apostles appealed, from which they quoted as absolutely conclusive upon arguments used as the foundations of whole epistles, that which they affirmed to be "profitable for doctrine, correction, and instruction," I surely need not scruple to believe. If not, we have neither Christ nor Moses, for if the latter were in error, the former mistook in accrediting him. If that be so, farewell, not only to the Bible, but farewell to Christianity. And if we feel our footsteps firm when standing on the elder volume, we are conscious of no insecurity when resting on the later. The facts of the Gospel challenge contradiction from contemporary experience, for the things narrated "were not done in a corner." Opposite conclusions may have been drawn from those facts; but as for the facts themselves, the enemies of Christ never assailed them but (as in the instance of the Resurrection) to find themelves signally refuted, and to leave the case they questioned strengthened by the defence of the Christian apologists. Epistles, written to Churches jealous of false doctrines, and disposed but too critically to weigh matters of doubtful disputation, were yet by those Churches submissively accepted. Notwithstanding the rigour of the morality they enforced, and the exalted spiritual attainments they insisted on, and the sharp censures they occasionally uttered, they bore upon them such an unmistakable character of inspiration as compelled men to receive them as God's communication to His servants. Surely if those early guardians of the faith—the fastidious Corinthians, the intelligent Romans, and the rebuked Galatians—placed on them the seals of their acceptance, we need not to hesitate to adopt that which they almost instinctively believed.

On this groundwe trust the Bible, and feel that trust strengthened when we remember that our Lord Himself has adopted it, as the great instrument for saving and improving the world. When He uttered one of His last commands—"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," He virtually enjoined the dissemination of the Sacred Volume. For, in very truth, the Bible is the Gospel—the message of God's mercy, through and in Christ, to the perishing. If I look to the early history of the Bible, I see in it the creation and supernatural preservation of a peculiar race, through which the primeval prophecy might be accomplished. If I read the institutions of Moses, the laws of trespass and sacrifice, of priestly offices and ritual services, I am but reading, in types and shadows, the work and office of my Lord. If I turn over the pages of the prophets, I find that they are as enigmatical and inappropriate to me, as the page of Isaiah was to the Ethiopian inquirer, until the key-note of interpretation was sounded. "The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." If I ponder over the books historical, I am reading the broad and undeniable fact of man's universal depravity, the foundation of, and the reason for, the visit of the Lamb of God to this world. If I sit in silent musing, listening to the strains of David, I am but listening to the mournful tale of my Lord's expected sufferings, and the joyous burst of triumphant exultation that tells of His victories and glories. If Christ be not seen in and throughout the Bible, the Bible is "without form and "void, and darkness rests on the face of its depths." Rightly understood and rightly preached, the testimony of the whole Bible is the gospel of the Son of Man, and the Son of God.

If He, then, sending out His missionary servants on the wonderful enterprise of making war upon a world's superstition and a world's sin, and calling on men everywhere to repent and believe on Him—if He relied on this instrument, it would ill become us to distrust it. Apostles did not do so. Whether they preached justification by faith alone, or man's utter ruin, or his chances of acceptance, or the atonement by vicarious sacrifice, or the rest which remaineth, or the title of the Gentiles to God's covenanted mercy, or the fall and restoration of Israel, or the past sufferings and expected glory of the Son of Man,—they took their arguments, their facts, and their hopes from the Scriptures. In other words, they trusted to it, as an instrument, in their attempts to bring sinners to God.

Our confidence in the value and power of the Word of God, strong as it is from these considerations, becomes stronger still, when we recollect, as a matter of history, what that Word has done. Men of scepticism and infidelity, mighty in "sapping sacred creeds with solemn sneers," have nevertheless been compelled by facts to admit that from whatever source it comes, something passed over the world eighteen centuries since, which changed its whole aspect and condition.[41] Men who have laboured to account by natural causes for the spread and success of Christianity, have nevertheless been compelled to acknowledge the fact of that success. We can afford to allow them their speculations in consideration of their testimony. For there is positively nothing, in the whole history of human movements, for a moment comparable to this. History presents no parallel to the marvellous courage, the inconceivable confidence, the untiring perseverance, the self-denying chivalry, which impelled a small band of untaught, uninfluential, and unpatronized men, to wage war upon, and to maintain war against, an entire world. Eloquence they may—some at least—have had; but where has eloquence of itself moved men to change their creeds, and alter the habits and tastes of a whole life? It was not man's eloquence that did it. "Your faith stands not in the wisdom of man, but in the power of God." What men said of Christ, we may venture to say of His Bible—"If this were not of God, it could do nothing." We have heard what the world was in the days of "wisdom cold, and vain philosophy." We know what it has become. And we feel that we are guilty of no extravagance or idle boast, when we affirm, that if Europe be what she is she owes it to Christianity, and Christianity is the material expression of the power of the Scriptures. "The wilderness and the solitary place have been glad of her." The barbarities of so called civilization have ceased. The slavery of Rome and Sparta has passed away. Crimes openly practised then hide their abashed heads now. Vice which walked audaciously in sunshine retreats into darkness. Polygamy does not exist. The female sex, once subjects of degradation, have risen to a position which it amazes the unchristianized Oriental to see. Law is on the side of that which is just and equal, of things honest and of good report; not as once, tolerant at least of wrong and outrage. Institutions of benevolence and charity, of mercy and religion, of consideration and kindness, are a necessary part of the social provisions of every Christian country. The humanity of our gaols, the leniency of our laws, the tenderness of our orphan houses, the comforts of our hospitals, the thousands of establishments for reclaiming the vicious, and instructing the ignorant, and shielding the unprotected, and encouraging industry, and mitigating misery,—they are, one and all, the glorious offsprings of Christianity. Seems it wonderful that it should be so? Let our wonder cease. It were marvellous if it were otherwise when our Book of motives, inducements, laws, and principles, forces upon us the duties which those effects of the Gospel express. Let any one study the precepts of our Lord, the injunctions and apothegms of His apostles, and he will find that all these grand evidences of the worth of Christianity are but the following out of her spirit and behests. "The grace of God brought salvation, "and taught men that denying ungodliness and worldly "lusts, they should live soberly, righteously, and godly." "Whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, "whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any "virtue," men thought of those things. The Book that—made energetic and effective by the might of the Spirit—can do such things, is surely entitled to our best confidence. Wisdom and intuition never attempted, never aspired, to the moral, social, and political changes which the Word of Life confessedly has effected. Shall the experience of the past be lost on us—the failures of philosophy, the degradations of semi-civilization, the atrocities of barbarism, the standing, solid, and undoubted triumphs of Christianity? She has not fulfilled half her mission yet. Let men stand aside from her path, and, if they will not help her, let them not dare to impede her. The blessings she has bestowed are but the "gleanings of the grapes of Ephraim." Her harvest-time has not come. She is on her way to her grand and destined consummation; and woe be to any man who would try to turn us away from grateful trust in that which hath done so much, and lure us back to the repetition of the disastrous experiment of substituting reason for revelation.

We have said, lastly, that if we want to have our confidence in the power of a declared and accepted Gospel still further increased, we may find the grounds in that which inspiration is doing in our own times. We say, in our own times, for if the work done in our mission-fields in the last sixty years is not to be traced to the power of revelation we know not what has produced it. We have sent out our Missionaries, men of no extensive learning or of extraordinary ability, impeded by all the difficulties incidental to an alien climate, a strange language, a reluctant people, and deeply-seated superstitions. We have offered to the heathen no secular inducements. We have preached no sensual paradise. We have promised them no special national favour. We have given them no hopes of peculiar worldly advantages. We have wrought no miracles to electrify and astonish. We have spoken, in our attempts to use their own language, with imperfect idioms and "stammering tongues." We have done nothing but preach the Bible, inculcate the Bible; and we have found it the "power of God to every "one that believed." Armed with this instrument (almost) alone, equipped with no other power, our messengers of the cross have confronted the subtilty of Brahminism, the superstitions of Africa, the sensuality of the Hottentot, the ferocity of the New Zealander, the childish though cherished legends of the South-Sea Islander, the vagrancy and craft of the Indian tribes; and men "have turned from darkness "into light, from the power of Satan unto God." Whole tribes have enrolled themselves under the banners of Christ. Villages of riot and filth, of obscenity and violence, have been transformed into scenes of industry, of order and of peace. Self-supporting churches, with their appliances of schools and hospitals, Missionary and Pastoral-aid Associations have sprung up on the wastes of the darkest heathenism; all proving the power of Christianity not only to reclaim the savage from mere degradation, but to elevate him to the pitch of that intellectual and literary power necessary for the native pastorate among his own countrymen. And we are bold to say, that if the question were asked of our Missionaries in many lands—"By what power or by what "name have you done this?—the answer without one discordant note or one moment's hesitation would be—"If "we be examined of the good deed done to the impotent "man, by what means he is made whole; be it known "unto you all, that by the name of Jesus of Nazareth, "whom God hath raised from the dead, even by Him doth "this man stand here before you whole." . . . "Neither is "there salvation in any other; for there is none other name "under heaven given among men, whereby we must be "saved."

Now we have but a moment's space to carry this thought of the sufficiency of revelation back to the assertion of our text, that "life and immortality have been brought to light by the Gospel;" that is, that great truths which were darkly apprehended—guessed at, rather than established by the religion of nature—have been brought out of twilight, and placed in clearness by the revelations of the Gospel. The whole teaching of our Lord and His Apostles, the motives for devotion even to death pressed upon His people, His resurrection and ascension, the 'tribulation' to which He has doomed His faithful ones, and the promises by which He has sustained them, all go to the same points of Life and Immortality. The Old Testament—the book, not of reason, but revelation—hinted them not obscurely; the New Testament has surrounded them with such an atmosphere of glory, that to doubt them, is to doubt the sunshine at noonday. Every Christian feels the force of the Pauline argument—"If in this life only we have hope, we are of all "men most miserable." Every Christian responds instinctively to the hope that "he has a building of God, a house not "made with hands eternal, in the heavens." Every reasonable man confesses the conclusiveness of the anti-Sadducean argument—"God is not the God of the dead, but of the "living!" Every mourner feels the tears, if not dried, yet arrested by the whisper—"thy brother shall rise again." Every sceptic owns, that unless the whole life of Christ be a fable, Christianity a deception, the endurances and expectations of the early believers but the acts and dreams of dotage, and strong-minded men (the authors of masterly exposition) but weak enthusiasts, life and immortality must be true. Clouds and doubts gathered round the soul of the great Roman, when he drew near to the end of life, robbing him of the hope he at one time held, and shrouding the future in darkness. Could he have seen with the eye of faith, and through the medium of revelation, the great multitude which no man could number, clothed in their robes of white, and waving their palms of triumph, destined to hunger no more, and thirst no more, perhaps the tragedy of his last hour might have closed in a hope of personal immortality.

It has been on these principles, sustained by these hopes, and cheered from time to time with these results, that the Society round whose fortunes we have this evening rallied, has from its earliest days directed its course. Springing into existence at a period when the doctrine prevailed that civilization must ever precede religion, she had sufficient reliance upon the power of truth and the promises of Scripture to believe, that until light from heaven fell on the human soul, civilization in its true meaning there would be none, or at the very least that attempts at civilization would languish, unless sanctified and invigorated by Christianity. And the many disclosures of the condition of heathenism, which the adventures of travellers and the researches of Missionaries have produced, have but proved the soundness of her conviction; while every experiment on darkness, made in reliance on and by means of revelation, has but served to show that God's Word is the world's great regenerator. In the strength of that sacred conviction she means to the last to persevere. If, as an honoured instrument of God in the promotion of His great designs, she falls, she will fall, uttering with her last breath her Master's message of love to the perishing, and grasping the banner of the Cross. "Christ and Him crucified"—the mighty magnet which draws all men unto Him—will be to the last her watchword. If her Missionaries "preach any other gospel," she will pronounce them untrue to their obligations and undeserving of her confidence. If God places great dependencies under the Crown of Britain, she will tell her statesmen, of whatsoever political section they may be, that He has given a mighty trust into England's keeping, not for her own aggrandizement, but for His glory; and that it is alike faithless, impolitic, and perilous, to neglect the opportunity of leading them to Christ. If opinions savouring more of reliance on the Ritual than the Gospel, on Rationalism than Inspiration, mingle with her counsels—opinions which her sainted founders would have regarded with distrust and dismay—she will feel that doubtful hands have touched the ark, and that under such auspices God is not likely to go forth with her armies. For she will remember with loving gratitude "the marvellous things which He did for her in the field of Zoan," her triumphs in Africa and New Zealand, in South India, and among the wandering tribes of America. And if asked to depart from the principles under which these triumphs have been gained, we might almost expect to hear her adopting the reply of the martyr Bishop of Smyrna—"For many years have I served my Lord, and He hath never done me wrong; why should I deny Him now?"

Brethren, let us, the ministers and people of the Lord, cling to that trust for ourselves, and cling to it for the rescue of the Gentiles. Wisdom has strained her powers to the utmost, and has failed. Reason has uttered her voice, and her echoes, fainter and fainter still, have died away into nothing. Intuitive consciousness has discovered neither a true God, a sure immortality, nor a certain morality. The Bible has "brought them all to light through the Gospel." The Word has gone forth and given wisdom and understanding to the simple. The same Word has to go forth again and again, conquering and to conquer; for its, "sound is to go into all the earth, and its words unto the ends of the world." And, gathering our auguries from the past, our hopes from prophecy, our trust from Omnipotence, and our confidence from the invincibility of truth, we may well indulge in the grand visions that rush upon our view. "The "Lord gave the word: great was the company of them that "published it. Kings of armies did flee apace; and she that "tarried at home divided the spoil."

"It is one thing to see that those rules of life, which are beforehand plainly and particularly laid before us, are perfectly agreeable to Reason, and another thing to find out those rules merely by the light of Reason, without their having been otherwise fixed and otherwise made known. . . . Indeed, when our whole duty, with its true motives, is clearly revealed to us, its precepts appear plainly agreeable to Reason, and thus it approves what is good, as it condemns what is evil. Nay, after our duty is thus made known to us, it is easy not only to see its agreement with Reason, but also to begin and deduce its obligations from Reason. But had we been utterly destitute of all revealed light, then, to have discovered our duty in all points, with the true motives of it, merely by the help of Natural Reason, would have been a work of nicety, pain, and labour—like groping for an unknown way, in the obscure twilight."—Dr. Clarke on Natural and Revealed Religion, Prop. vii.

"If nature had produced us such, as that we could clearly discern and well apprehend nature herself, and, taking her for our chief guide, accomplish the course of our life, there would not be any requirement for instruction and teaching. But now, nature has given us only some sparks of reason, which are so soon extinguished by corrupt opinions and bad practices, that the true light of nature nowhere appears."—Cicero, Tus. Quæs., lib. iii.

It would be utterly impossible, without rendering these pages unfit to meet the eye of those who are not too impure to be corrupted and too familiar with crime to be startled, to corroborate the point by details of the fearful immoralities of the Greeks and Romans. Crimes so ingeniously abominable that allusion to them would fail to convey to most minds their nature, were practised by these people, not only without disguise or reserve, but under philosophic sanction. Those who can believe in the power of human nature to purify itself without guidance and help from above, will find their confidence shaken by reference to such works as Tholuck's State of the Heathen World; Döllinger's Jew and Gentile; the Abbe De Migne's Collection in the Acta Sanctorum, article "Revelation Evangelique; and Halyburton's Natural Religion Insufficient. A slight acquaintance with these will show that if "God manifest in the flesh" had not, in the fulness of time, brought upon earth that system to which the world owes its recovery, its knowledge, and its elevation, nothing could have been reserved for it but, like a second enormous Sodom, to have perished in the midst of its abominations.

The Pekin Gazette of 1815 contains a representation from a magistrate, addressed to the Tribunal of Justice, praying that the practice of selling wives may be abolished, as well as that of drowning female infants. M. Hillmer comments on the profligacy of the Chinese as well as the unconcealed proofs that "la vice des Grecs n'eut pas perdu son horreur parmi les Chinois;" and Sir John Barrow records that "in the theatres the most horrible acts are exhibited on the stage: if a murderer is executed, and the culprit is condemned to be flayed alive, the spectators must be favoured with a sight of the operation. "The progress of Christianity has been marked by two glorious and decisive victories: over the learned and luxurious Roman empire, and over the warlike barbarians of Scythia and Germany, who subverted the empire and embraced the religion of the Romans. . . . . Christianity, which opened the gates of heaven to the barbarians, introduced an important change in their moral and political condition. They received at the same time the use of letters, so essential to a religion whose doctrines are contained in a sacred book; and while they studied the divine truths, their minds were essentially enlarged by the distant view of history, of nations, of the arts, and of society. . . . . The emulation of mankind was encouraged by the remembrance of a more perfect state, and the flame of science was secretly kept alive to warm and enlighten the maturer age of the western world. In the most corrupt state of Christianity, the barbarians might learn justice from the Law, and mercy from the Gospel."—Gibbon's History, &c., ch. xxxvii.

REPORT,

THE Committee are thankful to announce that the ordinary income of last year reached 132,501*l.*, which exceeds that of the preceding year by 3461*l.* This increase has been partly due to the larger remittances from Associations. The donations have fallen off by 5320*l.*, but the legacies have been unusually large.

Notwithstanding this increase of income, the hope expressed at the last Anniversary that the contributions of the year would be sufficient, not only to meet the expenses of the year, but to clear off an adverse balance of 2264*l.* has not been realized. On the contrary, the adverse balance for the year now commencing is increased to 3539*l.* This has been occasioned by the increased expenditure abroad. The home expenditure has been reduced. But the increase of prices of the necessaries of life in India, and the extension of the work in several of the Missions—in consequence of the success of the work—have caused the increase of expenditure in the Missions.

GENERAL FUND—Associations, Benefactions, Legacies, &c.	130,619	2	5
Fund for Disabled Missionaries, &c...	1,882	17	1
Total Ordinary Income	£132,501	19	6

The Special Fund for India has received during the year 1745*l.* 18*s.* 7*d.* The income, therefore, from all sources at home has been 134,247*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*, whilst at least 20,000*l.* has been received and expended in the Missions abroad.

EXPENDITURE.

The whole expenditure of the Society has been 145,794*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.*, but of this 12,016*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* has been charged to the Special India Fund as the estimated proportion of disbursements in India, according to the original intention of that Fund (see Annual Report, 1858, p. 212), the ordinary expenditure of the year therefore stands thus:—

GENERAL FUND, payments	129,899	14	5
Disabled Missionaries, &c.	3,877	16	11
Total Ordinary Expenditure	£133,777	11	4

The balance on account of the SPECIAL INDIA FUND at the commencement of the year was 21,021*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.* The receipts of the year have been 1745*l.* 18*s.* 7*d.*, making a total of 22,767*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.*: deducting from this sum the proportion of the Indian expenditure for the present year, as above, viz. 12,016*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*, the balance is reduced to 10,750*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.*, a sum which will be wholly exhausted in the present year, unless a large increase of income be secured to the Society.

The Committee direct the very serious attention of their friends to the financial position of the Society in the prospect of the exhaustion of the Special India Fund. Encouraged by that Fund, an increased number of Missionaries has been sent to India, and new stations have been occupied, so that a large permanent increase of expenditure has been incurred. In all the other Missions of the Society there has also been a considerable increase of expenditure, so that the rate of permanent expenditure at this present time exceeds the present income by more than 10,000*l.* a year.*

To raise an additional 10,000*l.* a year may appear in itself a formidable undertaking; but not, it is hoped, when viewed as the alternative of contracting the healthy growth and expansion of the Missions in India. This matter is earnestly commended to the consideration of friends, especially of those connected with Associations, that the Committee may be spared the painful task of cutting down the foreign expenditure, and that the Church may be spared the humiliation of withdrawing the encouragement given to the Society, under the pressure of the Indian Mutiny, to enlarge its efforts for the evangelization of India.

PATRONAGE.

During the past year the Society has lost by death several

* A more accurate calculation of the expenditure of the Society, since the presentation of this Report, has shown that 13,617*l.* will be required for the present year beyond the income of last year to keep up the present establishments of the Society in its foreign Missions. (See Appendix I.)

of its most valued and attached Vice-Presidents, which called forth the following expression of the feelings of the Committee in a Resolution adopted January 11, 1864:—

The Committee record with affectionate, though melancholy, interest the recent removal by death of five of their Vice-Presidents:—

Admiral Sir H. Hope, K.C.B.;
The Lord Viscount Midleton;
The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of St. Patrick's;
The Very Rev. the Dean of Cork; and
J. P. Plumptre, Esq.

The Dean of St. Patrick's advocated the cause of the Society at an Aniversary Meeting in Exeter Hall with much zeal and effect, and he and the Dean of Cork took the liveliest interest in their local Associations. The three other Vice-Presidents were enabled by their residence in England, and often in this metropolis, to act as members of the Committee, and to attend its meetings: Lord Midleton for the last thirty-four years, Mr. Plumptre for thirty years, and Sir H. Hope for twenty years. Lord Midleton and Mr. Plumptre, as members of the Houses of Parliament, were firm supporters of the principles of the Society in its negotiations with Her Majesty's Government, upon such questions as the effectual suppression of the slave trade, the abolition of the Government connexion with idolatry, Bible education in India, and many other matters affecting the progress of the Gospel.

The Committee cherish the recollection of the sound wisdom, the manifest and constraining love of Christ, and the many graces of the Christian character "which are lovely and of good report," which distinguished these friends of the Society; and they earnestly trust that the Lord will raise up others to maintain in the same spirit and with equal success the distinctive principles of the Society, and to hand them down unimpaired to their successors in the list of Patrons of the Church Missionary Society.

The Lord Bishop of Ely has accepted the office of a Vice-President of the Society.

The following long-tried and zealous friends of the Society have been added to the list of Honorary Life Governors, having rendered very essential services to the Society:—

The Rev. W. Hockin, Secretary of the Exeter Association.
The Rev. W. Knight, Rector of High Ham, late Secretary of the Society.
Major Hector Straith, late Honorary Lay-Secretary of the Society.
Lieut.-Colonel Martin, of the Indian Army.
Lieut.-Colonel Rowlandson, of the Indian Army.
Colonel Reynell Taylor, C.B., Commissioner of the Derajât.

SECRETARYSHIP.

The Rev. C. C. Fenn, M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, having been compelled by the failure of his wife's health in Ceylon to return with her to England, has undertaken, upon the appointment of the Committee, the office of Secretary.

THE ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The average number of Students in the Islington Institution has risen from 42 to 47. The Principal's Annual Report gives a very satisfactory account of the diligence and progress of the Students in their studies, and of their Missionary zeal and perseverance in the schools, cottage lectures, and many other home-Missionary agencies in which they take part.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

The number of children in the Home on the 31st of March 1864 was 68.

At Michaelmas 1863 the Rev. W. G. Barker and Mrs. Barker resigned the Directorship of the Home, after holding it for ten years. The Committee have appointed in their place the Rev. John Rooker, M.A., Incumbent of Trinity Church, Runcorn, and Mrs. Rooker.

The change of the Directors afforded a fitting opportunity of reviewing the past history of the Home, and of inquiring how far it had fulfilled the objects for which it was instituted, namely, as a Home for homeless children, and as a place of sound education. The Visitors undertook this review and inquiry, and embodied the result in a special Report, which has been printed for the use of Subscribers, and will be found in the Appendix.* The result proved very satisfactory in all respects. Even in a financial point of view the Home has not entailed greater expense than the Society incurred when the children of Missionaries were educated at separate establishments. A Missionary spirit has also been kept up in the minds of the children, so that a very large proportion of those who have left the Home have entered the Missionary field. The Visitors conclude their Report in these words:—

The Committee cannot close this review of the Missionaries' Children's Home during the thirteen years of its existence, first under the management of the Rev. S. H. Unwin, and subsequently under the Rev. W. G. Barker, and their admirable wives, without a devout acknowledgment of the goodness of God in granting His blessing to the Institution, in a very signal degree; and the Committee would earnestly entreat on its behalf the continuance of the fervent prayers of the friends of the Society, which they know to be offered up by many hearts both at home and abroad, that the Institution may be defended from the dangers which beset all seminaries of youthful education, that a Divine influence may pervade the whole of the establishment, and that it may prove a spiritual nursery for the training up of pious and useful members of society, and, if it pleases God, of future Missionary labourers in His vineyards abroad.

ORDINATION OF MISSIONARIES.

During the past year nine of the Society's candidates have been admitted to Holy Orders—four by the Archbishop of Canterbury; one by the Bishop of London; two Native Catechists by the Bishop of Madras; one Native Catechist by the Bishop of Colombo; and one Native Catechist by the Bishop of Waiapu.

DEPARTURE OF MISSIONARIES FOR THEIR STATIONS.

The several Missions have been strengthened during the past year by the sending forth of additional labourers, and by the return to their Stations of labourers in recruited health.

West African Mission—The Rev. J. Hamilton, and Mrs. Hamilton, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of October for Sierra Leone, and arrived there on the 10th of November 1863. The Rev. C. H. Brierley, and Mrs. Brierley, the Rev. C. Knödler, and Miss Sass, returning to the Mission, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Adcock, embarked at Liverpool on the 25th of January last, for Sierra Leone, and arrived there on the 11th of February. The Rev. T. Oldham, and Mrs. Oldham, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of February last for the Gambia, and arrived there on the 9th of March.

Yoruba Mission—The Rev. J. A. Maser, and Mrs. Maser, returning to the Mission, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of November 1863, for Lagos, and arrived there on the 22nd of December.

East-Africa Mission—Mr. James Taylor embarked at Southampton, with the Bishop of Mauritius, on the 20th of February last, for the Seychelles, preparatory to his Ordination, and to his joining the East-Africa Mission.

Western-India Mission—The Rev. W. S. Price and Mrs. Price, returning to the Mission, embarked at Southampton on the 12th of November 1863, for Bombay, and arrived there in December.

North-India Mission—The Rev. F. Schurr and Mrs Schurr, returning to the Mission, embarked at Gravesend on the 21st of September 1863, for Calcutta, and arrived there on the 23rd of December. The Rev. William Handcock student from the Islington Institution, embarked at Southampton on the 20th of November, for Calcutta, and the Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick, returning to the Mission, left Marseilles on the 28th of that month for the same place, and arrived there on the 9th of January last. Mr. Albert H. Wright, training Schoolmaster, left Gravesend on the 11th of January last, for Calcutta, and arrived there on the 6th of April.

South-India Mission—The Rev. J. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, the Rev. John Davies Thomas, their eldest son, from the Islington Institution, with Mrs. J. D. Thomas, and the Rev. H. Dixon and Mrs. Dixon, returning to the Mission, embarked at Gravesend on the 11th of September for Madras, and arrived there on the 19th of December 1863. The Rev. Ralph Henry Maddox, student from the Islington Institution, and Mrs Maddox, embarked at Gravesend on the 20th of October 1863, for Madras, and arrived there on the 4th of January last. Messrs. John Thornton and Ebenezer Perrett, training Schoolmasters, left Gravesend on the 11th of January last, for Madras, and arrived there on the 4th of April.

Ceylon Mission—The Rev. John Pickford and Mrs. Pickford, whose services have been transferred from Tinnevelly to the Tamil Cooly Mission, embarked at Gravesend on the 11th of September, for Ceylon, and arrived at Colombo on the 28th of December 1863.

Mauritius Mission—The Rev. P. S. Royston, whose services have been transferred from South India to the Mauritius, embarked at Gravesend on the 2nd of March, for the Mauritius, as Secretary of the Mauritius and Madagascar Missions.

China Mission—The Rev. T. McClatchie, on his return to the Mission, embarked at Gravesend on the 3rd of June 1863, for Shanghae, and arrived there on the 31st of October. The Rev. Jarvis Dawnam Valentine, from the Islington Institution, and Mrs. Valentine, embarked at London on the 9th of December 1863, for Shanghae.

North-West-America Mission—Mr. Robert Phair, Catechist, left Liverpool on the 21st of November 1863, for New York, on his way to Red River, viâ Pembina. The Rev. Robert Reed Arthur Doolan, B.A., Caius College, Cambridge, embarked at Southampton on the 18th of February last, for British Columbia, viâ Panama.

DECEASE OF MISSIONARIES.

The following labourers have been removed by death during the past year—

Western-India Mission—Mrs. Matchett, wife of the Rev. A. Matchett, died at Halesworth, Suffolk, on the 10th of April last.

South-India Mission—The Rev. John Devasagayam, Native, died at Kadatchapuram on the 30th of January last, in the seventy-ninth year of his age, having for forty-nine years laboured in connexion with the Society in South India. Mrs. Edmonds, wife of the Rev. J. Edmonds, died at Truro on the 21st of February last.

China Mission—The Rev. George Smith of Fuh-chau, died at Amoy on the 18th of December 1863, to which place he had gone for the benefit of his health.

New-Zealand Mission—The Rev. Richard Davis died at Waimate on the 28th of May 1863, having laboured in the Mission for nearly forty years.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

West Africa Mission—The Rev. C. Knödler and Mrs. Knödler left Sierra Leone June 21st, 1863, and arrived in London on the 13th of July.

Yoruba Mission—Mr. C. F. Lieb left Lagos on the 10th of May, and arrived in London on the 11th of June 1863.

Niger Mission—The Rev. S. Crowther left Lagos on the 9th of February, and arrived in London on the 12th of March last.

Western-India Mission—The Rev. A. Matchett and Mrs. Matchett left Bombay August 1863, and arrived in London on the 21st of September. The Rev. E. Wynne left Bombay on the 9th of September, and arrived in London on the 9th of October 1863.

North India Mission—The Rev. S. Hasell and Mrs. Hasell, and the Rev. J. A. McCarthy, left Calcutta on the 23rd of February, and arrived in London on the 22nd of June 1863. The Rev. E. L. Puxley left Calcutta August 1863, and arrived in London on the 1st of October.

South-India Mission—The Rev. H. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews left Madras on the 4th of March 1863, and arrived in London on the 29th of May. The Rev. W. J. Edmonds and Mrs. Edmonds, left Madras on the 25th of August, and arrived in London on the 1st of October 1863.

Ceylon Mission—The Rev. C. C. Fenn and Mrs. Fenn left Colombo on the 20th of October, and arrived at Southampton on the 20th of November 1863.

North-West-America Mission—The Rev. E. A. Watkins and Mrs. Watkins, and the Rev. J. P. Gardiner, left York Factory on the 17th of September, and arrived in London on the 10th of October 1863.

NUMBER OF MISSIONARY LABOURERS.

The number of European labourers reported last year has only been increased by one; two ordained Missionaries having been removed by death, and seven having dissolved connection with the Society on account of health and other causes, as well as one unordained and one female teacher. Five ordained, five unordained, and one female teacher, have been sent out during the year, and one unordained Missionary has been taken up abroad. The present number of European labourers in full connexion is as follows—

Ordained European Missionaries....	172
Unordained European labourers....	25
European Female Teachers.....	9	—206
At Home—
Ordained European Missionaries ..	26
Unordained European labourer	1	—27
Total....		233

Showing a decrease of four in the number of ordained European labourers, and an increase of five in the unordained European labourers; making an increase of one in the total of European labourers.

The number of ordained Country-born and Native labourers is seventy-one.

Progress of the Colony and the Native Church of Sierra Leone.

A THIRD year has now passed since the native church in Sierra Leone was thrown mainly upon its own resources for the support of the native ministry, and for the education of the rising generation. The transition was a critical period. The success has been, under God, complete. The voluntary contributions of the people have supplied the stipends of nine native clergymen, at a higher rate than the Society had paid; each of the congregations has contributed largely to the repairs of churches; several have commenced the erection of new stone buildings instead of the wooden churches in which they had been accustomed to worship. Their elementary schools are supported by local funds, partly by fees, partly by subscriptions; and to such an extent has elementary education been carried in the colony of Sierra Leone, that it appears from the Government Reports in the Parliamentary Returns, that, in the year 1860, the population of the Colony was 41,624, of whom 9286 were under education, being between one-fourth and one-fifth of the whole, which is a far larger proportion than is found in any European country, the proportion in England being nearly one-eighth, and in Prussia one-sixth. There is also a Grammar School with 100 pupils, which is not only self-supporting, but which has accumulated a capital of 500*l.* in the course of a few years, for the establishment of scholarships; and there is a self-supporting Female Institution, containing forty-five pupils. In addition to these local objects, the subscriptions to Bible and Missionary Societies have risen to a higher amount than in any previous years. All these contributions are raised, not by large donations from a few prosperous traders, but by the frequent small donations of nearly every family in the colony. The habit was happily introduced, with the first introduction of Christianity, of a weekly payment from every adult Christian convert; and every Christian family now freely gives a penny a week towards the Church Fund, in addition to the support of schools, and of Bible and Missionary Societies.

The Committee are well aware that this statement bespeaks a thriving social condition at variance with the reports often heard, and sometimes read in the books of travellers, of the lazy and squalid inhabitants of Western Africa. But the thrift and diligence of the colonists of Sierra Leone are amply testified by the evidence of commercial returns in the Blue Books, as well as by the reports of Her Majesty's Governors.

His Excellency Governor Blackall having lately gone from this country to assume the government of Sierra Leone, publicly stated, on laying the foundation-stone of a new church, the great gratification it afforded him to see the progress which Christianity had made in the Colony in connexion with the Church Missionary Society and other kindred Societies, and that the substantial help given by the people to church purposes, no less than the rapid progress civilization was making, gave, in his opinion, a satisfactory answer to those who have been inquiring at home—"What have Missionaries done?"

The Committee point to these results with gratitude to God, because the Colony of Sierra Leone has been, from its first establishment, identified with the Church Missionary Society; having sprung into existence through the zeal for God's glory, and the noble philanthropy which animated the fathers of the Church Missionary Society, Wilberforce, Thornton, and Macaulay, as well as having been the first field of its labours.

Missionary Spirit of the Native Church.

There is another and still stronger ground of devout exultation at the prosperity of the native church in Sierra Leone. The Society have laboured to bring that church to maturity, in the hope and expectation that it would prove a fountain of evangelical light to the neighbouring tribes, furnishing to the native evangelists a portion at least of the means of their support. The Committee rejoice to see that the native church is rising year by year to a sense of this high calling. In the Report of the Church Missionary Association for Sierra Leone of the year 1863, the following sentiments expressed by the native honorary Secretary were adopted by a Committee, consisting, for the most part, of native clergymen—

It is the earnest wish of the Parent Society that the Native Church in Sierra Leone, the first self-supporting Church established in connexion with the Society, should prove its vitality by "branching out;" that, possessing the power of self-action, being "self-ministering," and "self-supporting," it might also become, under God, a "self-propagating" Church, diffusing the genuine and ameliorating influence of Christianity amongst the dense masses of heathen tribes around, in the midst of which she is placed as a light that shineth in darkness. Hence, whilst your Commitee thank God for the success which has already been obtained in the Colony, they cannot but point out the "need of more strenuous exertions, of larger sacrifices, and, above all, of more prayer to God" for the due supply, on the part of the Christian public, of men and means for "the regions beyond."

Many families in this city have become wealthy by the importation of produce from the surrounding countries, and the whole colony has subsisted on the fat of those lands. But what in return has been given to them? Your Committee, thank God, are able to report that they have not been altogether neglected.

Society's Labours within the Colony.

The Society still retains four pastoral charges within the Colony, under the superintendence of European Missionaries In order to set the European Missionaries, who still retain these pastoral charges, more free for Missionary work, three native curates have been ordained to these charges (March 15, 1863)—namely, Messrs. James Johnson, George Macaulay, and Daniel Williams—all formerly students at Fourah Bay, and since employed as catechists. These native ministers will also be eligible for native pastorates as they become vacant, or as new ones are formed; whilst the training they are now receiving under the European ministers will be of great service to them in such future ministrations.

Educational Establishments.

The Committee are happy to report that arrangements are made for the re-opening of the Fourah-Bay College. The Committee are still anxiously inquiring for a Principal of sufficient scholastic attainments to elevate and direct the studies of the native clergy. In the mean time a few students will be admitted, to commence their studies under the superintendence of the Rev. James Hamilton as chaplain of the College, and the assistance of the Rev. C. Reichardt as tutor.

The Grammar School has continued to prosper under the charge of the native Principal, the Rev. James Quaker. Each day pupil pays 1*l.* a quarter. The number of pupils has gradually risen each year, and has now reached ninety-six. The education is chiefly commercial, but a class are instructed in Latin and Greek, and a few pious youths are looking forward to employment in the church.

The Female Institution has suffered some loss from the change of superintendence. Miss Bywater, who had charge of it during the year 1862, was compelled to return home for the recruiting of her health. Mrs. Caiger kindly undertook the charge for the greater part of 1863. At the beginning of this year Miss Sass was happily able to return to Africa with an European assistant, Miss Adcock, and it is hoped that the new and spacious building which has been for several years in course of erection will be shortly finished, and the number of pupils greatly enlarged. The number at the close of the year was forty-six.

Missions to the heathen within and beyond the Colony.

The limits of the Colony have lately been extended on the east and south, by the acquisition of large tracts of land in the Quiah and Sherbro countries. The inhabitants in these new acquisitions are heathen and Mohammedan, and speak the Timneh and Sherbro languages. The Committee having set apart the Rev. C. Knödler for the Timneh Mission, he has devoted his time to the study of that language, and to occasional tours into the Timneh country. The southern portion of the Quiah country is extensively occupied by Sierra-Leone people, who use the English tongue. Amongst these, three places have been occupied by English-speaking Catechists, and by the opening of schools, namely, at Ma Dunke, Ma Songo, and at Prince Alfred's Town. The latter will become a large and important town in the Quiah country. The Rev. G. R. Caiger superintends these out-stations, and he thus reports his observations upon the Missionary prospects in British Quiah—

At all these places, both right and left of the road from Waterloo to Prince Alfred's Town, the people were exceedingly anxious, and even impatient to receive teachers. This part of Quiah is greatly under the influence of Songo, a native chief. He told me, when I was at his town, in answer to the question if he would receive and assist Missionaries, that he was waiting for them a long time; that he had given himself and all his people to the Queen, and he hoped to see amongst them some teachers belonging to the Queen's church. I passed one Sunday at Prince Alfred's Town, where a church had just been erected by the European officer, Mr. Herbert, stationed there. It was completed only the day before, so that we consecrated the building by having our usual service. In the morning many were obliged to go away for want of room, and the afternoon service was well attended.

Mr. Knödler made two journeys in the early part of the year 1863, among the Timneh-speaking people beyond the colonies, and visited the two abandoned stations of the Society at Port Lokkoh and Magbeli: of these two places he writes—

In the evening of the same day we arrived at Port Lokkoh, and went, as it is the custom of the country, first to one of the chiefs, who received us kindly, and provided us with a lodging for the night. Our host appeared to be a venerable old man, and is, as I observed on other occasions, highly respected by the people. Though he is a Mohammedan, he made no objection to my daily conducting in his house morning and evening prayers, and, on Sunday, divine service, which was attended by twenty-three Sierra-Leone people and sixteen natives. Also in this town a meeting was called by the chiefs, and the object of my visit explained. The people were glad to see a Missionary, and regretted very much that the Mission school had been broken up. They had not yet given up the hope that Missionaries would again come to them, and had, on this account, not permitted any one to build a house or to bury their dead on the ground which was formerly occupied by the Missionary establishment. This place I visited on the following morning. I found it thickly covered with bush, with here and there a fruit-tree which had been planted by the former Missionaries. I saw, also, the foundation which remained of the former Mission house. As I approached it, a frightened gazelle, which had found a shelter there, made her escape.

Magbeli presented a most dismal aspect, for it had been, a few weeks before, totally destroyed by fire, and forsaken by most of its inhabitants. I found a shelter in a house without a roof, where I slept two nights on a bed made of mud, on which I spread a mat. Our Society's houses there are still standing, but all the doors, windows, &c., which were available, have been carried away by the people. Here also the people regretted that they had no more Missionaries, and attributed much of their late misfortunes to this circumstance. As I descended the Rokelle river, my eye met everywhere the desolation which the late war had brought upon the country. Many towns and villages are totally destroyed, and the people dispersed: they also suffer much from want of food.

On this journey I was especially grieved to see that so many Sierra-Leone traders, who had once made a good profession of their faith, have relapsed into the vices and superstitions of the heathen among whom they live. Satan, the enemy of their souls, has entrapped them in the snares of polygamy and other grievous sins. Oh may the Holy Spirit convince them of their sins, that they may return to their offended God, and live!

The Sherbro Mission is in a less advanced state. A schoolmaster, who acts also as a Catechist, is stationed at Bendo, on the Sherbro River. The school numbers thirty day scholars, and the attendance at public worship on the Lord's-day averages from 100 to 150, natives and strangers. Owing to the absence of the superintending Missionary in Europe, no report has been received.

The Bullom Mission has been conducted for another year by a native catechist, Mr. Henry Boston, who speaks in hopeful terms, especially in reference to the change for the better that is now taking place at Yongro, where he resides, in the observance of the Lord's-day, both by natives and by the Sierra-Leone traders. Mr. Caiger has the general superintendence of this Mission, and after a visit in May 1863, he thus wrote:—

The work in the Bullom is full of encouragement. I spent three or four days with our native agent, Mr. Boston, who is decidedly the right man to occupy that position. I had many opportunities of talking with him on the nature of the work, its difficulties, &c., and it was apparent, from every thing I could see, that he was labouring amongst the people as one who felt the responsibility of having souls committed to his care. His labour would seem to confirm his own statement to me—"I have a large heart for the people." I remained one Sunday to administer the communion, and I confess I was not prepared to see our church so crowded with attentive listeners. The native king was present, who is favourable to our carrying on the work, but continues to practise his heathen ways. At the close of the service twenty-six remained to partake of the communion. Our congregation numbered, I think, 103, gathered, as I afterwards learned, from eight different villages on that coast. Many of them remained for the afternoon service, and then returned. There are many, of course, who still cling to their idols, but that we are able to show such results, after about two years of labour among such a people, is proof sufficient to convince the most sceptical that the word of God, applied by his own Spirit has lost none of its power.

Dahomian Invasion of 1863.

In last year's Report it was stated that Abeokuta was threatened by the savage King of Dahomey, at the head of a large army, and that every Missionary who should be found in it was to be put to death. A note was added to the Report, upon its subsequent publication, to say that the attack had been providentially averted. The facts of the case must, however, be here recorded, to the praise of our prayer-hearing God. The Committee had issued an urgent appeal to friends at home to unite in prayer for the preservation of the work at Abeokuta, and one of the petitions suggested was in these words:—"That Dahomey may be restrained, and compelled to return to his own land, if it may be, without bloodshedding, but yet under such manifest humiliation as may lead to national repentance, and an abandonment of his sanguinary slave-wars." And what were the facts? The Dahomian army approached Abeokuta, and "on the 7th of March the Dahomians were observed, with the use of a telescope, marching near the Ibara wood. The town of Ibara is situated on a hill, enclosed by a wood, bearing nearly due west from Abeokuta, about seven miles distant. Being thus enclosed, the town cannot be seen from Abeokuta, but the wood is a conspicuous object. The people had previously fled to Abeokuta and other places for protection; the Dahomians met there nothing but an empty town." There they remained encamped for sixteen days, during which they occupied themselves in destroying several small towns in their vicinity, and decapitating such of the population as they could lay hold upon.

A letter from the Rev. G. F. Bühler, dated April 6th, thus describes the events—

You will be most anxious to hear the result of the King of Dahomey's expedition against this town. From March 7th, when we saw the Dahomians encamping at a distance of six or seven miles, up to the 23rd, we were day and night in suspense, not knowing whether we should be attacked by day or by night. I scarcely need say that a variety of thoughts crossed our minds. The primitive church was persecuted and scattered, but all was to the furtherance of the Gospel. The Lord might do so with us in Abeokuta. Yet again, when I saw and heard how the Lord had stirred up his church at home to offer up prayers for his infant church in Abeokuta; when I read of the sympathy, the zeal, the continual and earnest prayers everywhere; and when I looked at our Christians, how they simply trusted in that faithful covenant God who never forsook Israel, nor has ever forsaken them; when I further saw the courage and zeal of the heathen to defend their home—in 1851 many ran away; this year all remained, as far as I am aware;—then I could be joyful and confident, because I consider this all the work of the Lord; He wanted to have his own church at Abeokuta redeemed from the merciless Dahomians by the prayers of his saints.

One evening a false alarm was spread that the Dahomians were approaching; it was after nine o'clock. Every fighting-man ran to the wall. But how many secret prayers were offered up at that time the Lord alone knows. That evening I overheard one of the women of my congregation praying with a fervency which touched me almost to tears. I could not help thinking, if only this one prayer were offered up, Jesus would not refuse a gracious hearing. The following is almost the literal translation—"O Lord Jesus, lift up Thine arm; lift up, lift up, O Lord, Lord Jesus our Redeemer, lift up Thine holy arm and deliver us from the cruel Dahomians. O Lord Jesus, remember what they have done to Thy saints in Ishagga, how much innocent blood they shed. O Lord, Lord, deliver us, that we may not fall into their hands: Thou hast sent Thy messengers to us with Thy holy word: we trust in Thee, O Lord our God; do not forsake us. Thou hast delivered Thy people Israel from the hand of Pharaoh, and hast overthrown his army; Thou hast delivered Hezekiah and his people from the hand of Sennacherib, who blasphemed Thy holy name. Do also remember us, O Lord; remember Thy church, remember Thy servants, remember our children. O Lord God, deliver us for Thy dear Son's sake. Amen." Most of these sentences were repeated twice or thrice, as is the case when prayers are offered up in an agony. I sat in a quiet dark place, many hundreds of warriors passing along without observing me, but I overheard several saying aloud, "God will deliver us!"

On the 23rd, the camp was hidden by a heavy mist until after nine o'clock: on its clearing away, objects became visible. The camp appeared as usual, but no one could be seen moving about. After some time a fire was observed to burn beyond the Ibara wood. When near twelve o'clock a fire was seen in the Dahomey camp: at the same time a large number of persons were observed moving about, and one on horseback, dressed in white. It soon became apparent to us that the Dahomians had deserted their camp, that the Egbas had taken possession of it and were burning it down. We were soon after informed that some one had escaped in the night, and brought information to the Egbas that the Dahomians were on their homeward march. It is a subject of great gratification and thankfulness to God that this great invasion has thus terminated. The Dahomians saw Abeokuta, and feared to attack it. The prayers of God's people for this place have prevailed: those who thirsted for our blood have been influenced by a higher power than man's. To God be all the praise!

I consider the retreat of the Dahomians as one of the greatest victories the Church of God has obtained by prayer. "The King of Dahomey has not come into this city, nor has he shot an arrow here, nor has he come before it with shields, nor has he cast a bank against it: by the way that he came, by the same has he returned, and has not entered into this city."

There is great rejoicing among all the people, and many heathen acknowledge that it is the arm of the Lord.

Continuance of Civil War in the Yoruba Country.

Though the calamities of the Dahomian invasion of Abeokuta were thus mercifully averted, another judgment, the scourge of internal war among the Yoruba tribes, still rests upon the land. The misunderstandings also with the British Government at Lagos, to which the last Report referred, have not been altogether repaired: the roads have not been opened; and robbery and kidnapping have put a stop to all social and commercial intercourse; whilst many of the most influential chiefs of Abeokuta have fallen in battle, or by the risks which attend a state of warfare.

The Committee desire very gratefully to record the service and favour conferred upon the cause of Christian civilization by the Commodore of the West-African squadron, Captain A. P. Eardley-Wilmot, C.B., who visited Abeokuta May 8th, in company with the late Captain Mulliner, then Acting-Governor of Lagos.

The letter which these representatives of Her Majesty addressed from Abeokuta to the war-chiefs at the camp of Makun deserves to be recorded as a pattern of the generous spirit in which British authorities can well afford to treat native rulers, who are struggling towards a higher stage of civilization, even though their conduct is in many respects reprehensible. Did this spirit more generally prevail, collisions with the natives would be avoided, and the reproach that British colonization carries war and destruction to the aborigines of any country would be soon removed. The letter is as follows:—

"The Acting-Governor and the Commodore have arrived at Abeokuta on a mission of peace and friendship. They send their compliments and best wishes to the war-chiefs at the camp, and hope they will unite with them in their endeavours to place all things on a proper footing Will the chiefs suggest any plan by which this desirable end can be accomplished? The great wish of the Governor and Commodore is to establish relations of friendship upon a permanent basis. Why should England and Abeokuta be at enmity with each other? The friends of Africa, and Abeokuta in particular, who live in England and in all parts of the world, behold with deep regret the misunderstandings that have arisen between two Governments, which have been bound together by mutual respect and sympathy for so many years past. England would be the friend of Abeokuta, not its enemy. Why then these disagreements, and want of confidence in each other's motives? Let us endeavour, by honesty and goodwill, to reason together on the subject of this misunderstanding, which doubtless can be explained to the satisfaction of all parties. Let us put all mistrust on one side, and, with perfect sincerity of heart and feeling, openly state our grievances, and the means by which they may be remedied. The Governor and Commodore assure the chiefs that they feel a deep interest in their country, and that their great wish is to return to Lagos with the satisfaction of having been instrumental in restoring peace and friendship to this part of Africa."

A change in the administration of the colony interrupted, unhappily, the progress of these negociations.

Enlargement of British Territory at Lagos.

Important political changes have taken place in respect of the colony of Lagos and some neighbouring countries. The town of Porto Novo, on the west of Lagos, has put itself under French protection, and French influence has now the direction of all its affairs. The Governor of Lagos, at the same time, received the towns of Okeodan and Ado, lying inland from Porto Novo towards Abeokuta, under British protection. Thus the British territory has been virtually extended over a large district of the mainland, on the west of Lagos; and so far the basis of the Yoruba Mission upon the coast has been secured and enlarged.

Return of Missionaries to the Mission.

In April the Rev. A. Mann, the Rev. J. Smith, and the Rev. L. Nicholson arrived at Lagos to strengthen the Yoruba Mission, and at the close of the year the Rev. J. A. Maser also rejoined the Mission.

LAGOS.

The Mission at Lagos during the last year has been maintained in comparative strength. The Rev. J. A. Lamb has had charge of the Mission church, and is the Secretary of the Mission. In April he was joined by the Rev. L. Nicholson, formerly at Sierra Leone, but transferred, after his visit to Europe, to this Mission. He took charge of the Breadfruit chapel and congregation. The Rev. W. Morgan, the native minister has charge of the third chapel and congregation in the island of Lagos.

Each of the Missionaries reports an increase in the number of native Christians by the baptism of adult natives. The congregations also contribute liberally to the weekly collections for the schools and Native-Pastorate Fund. In Mr. Lamb's church the weekly contribution to the church fund amounts often to ten shillings.

At the Breadfruit church, soon after Mr. Nicholson's arrival, more than 40*l.* was collected for its enlargement. A day school has also been commenced at this station, which numbers more than 150 scholars, while the Sunday school numbers 210, the greater part being adults, and not a few heathen.

Open-air preaching is also kept up by the Missionaries in places of public resort.

In addition to the collections for churches and schools, there is a Church Missionary Association in Lagos, which produced in the last year 41*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

Education—Grammar School.

The Grammar School is under the charge of a native minister, the Rev. T. B. Macaulay. It numbers about twenty-five pupils, who receive a sound English education, extending to Geography and Euclid. Two pupils, who were also instructed in Latin and Greek, have been transferred to the Society's College at Islington, for the completion of their theological education. The school was examined at the close of the year by the European Missionaries, who report—"The examination showed that the Principal had bestowed much care in the instruction of his youthful charge, and he has every encouragement to go forward in his good work."

BADAGRY.

The Rev. J. Smith took charge of the station of Badagry in October 1863. Mr. Pearce had zealously discharged the duties of a native catechist at this place, as an out-station, for several years, but the chief inhabitants of the place are Popoes, who have almost universally opposed the Gospel. A small congregation assembled for divine worship, and a school of twenty-five children has been kept up. Badagry was the first station in the Yoruba Mission occupied by Messrs. Gollmer, Townsend, and Crowther, in January 1845. But its Christian progress has been very far behind that of all other stations in the Yoruba Mission.

OKEODAN.

The Rev. A. Mann has resided at Okeodan, lately taken under British protection. It is important as a large town, to the west of Lagos, towards Ketu and a part of the country not yet visited by Missionaries, while it has a direct communication with Abeokuta. The entrance upon a new town, especially in the present disturbed state of the country, must be attended with many difficulties, and calls for much prudence and patience on the part of the Missionary. It is too early to speak of results at Okeodan, or even of the permanent occupation of the station.

Out-station, Ota.

During nearly the whole of the past year the native minister of this station, the Rev. James White, has been in Sierra Leone, where he went to receive Priests' orders; but the Bishop of Sierra Leone was suddenly obliged to return to England on account of his health. Mr. White has therefore waited for the Bishop's return to Africa. Ota was for a short time under Mr. Mann, and has since been supplied by native catechists, with the occasional visits of the Missionaries.

ABEOKUTA.

General view of the Mission.

Mr. Townsend makes the following remarks—

"The past year has been one of great trial: the war which is going on, and the political complications arising out of it, cause great uneasiness to be felt: the people generally are indisposed to think or speak about any thing else. Evil-disposed people are induced by it to speak reproachfully of Missionaries and Christianity because of the conduct of some white men against them, and because the blame of the war is cast on the Egbas, whereas, they are only defending their just rights. There are many persons, lovers of the old system, suspicious of all change, who take advantage of present circumstances, and try to stop all progress: they are not able to bring any accusation against any white person dwelling among them, but they insinuate privately that the white people here are sober-minded for a purpose, and that purpose is to obtain such a hold upon the town, as to be enabled to introduce artfully agents of Government to take possession of the country. However foolish such things may appear to Europeans, these suspicions have a powerful hold upon the minds of the natives, and hinder the progress of the Gospel."

Mr. Wood also gives this general view of the state of the town—

To make a few remarks first about the town and country generally. The most notable event is that the Dahomian army came in sight of Abeokuta in March last, and at the end of that period returned to their own country without firing a shot against this place.

After the lapse of nine months the question naturally suggests itself, What are, or appear to be, the results of that deliverance, both upon the Christians and heathen? The Christians regarded it as of the Lord, and it has produced a spirit of joy and praise which with some has continued till this time, and has stirred them up to greater activity, and I think I may say it has led them to a more spiritual life. Of others, I am bound to say that it has left no visible lasting effect for the better.

My observations lead me to the conclusion that religion is making progress in the town, notwithstanding all obstacles, and this is saying much, when it is borne in mind that the people have been at war more than three years, from the demoralizing effects of which they suffer not less than others. It is very difficult to obtain a correct notion of what is done by Missionary labour from figures. This was strongly impressed upon my mind by the journey which Mr. Ashcroft and myself made into the interior some time since. In Iberekodu we felt at once that the people were neither so intelligent, cleanly, or well-behaved; and this feeling was renewed at Gangan, Igana, Oki-efo, Isehin, and Oyo, all which places are considerably behind Abeokuta in many respects. The impression which it left upon my mind is, that the Gospel civilizes where, strictly speaking, it does not Christianize; so that if Missionaries had done nothing more than civilize or introduce the elements of civilization into Abeokuta, and thus raise the mass of the people as much as they have raised the Egbas, and I have no reason to think them naturally higher in point of civilization than the Yorubas, then a great work had been done. I do not mean that a person in Abeokuta would perceive any striking difference: he would rather think things very low, but such a person would see a great difference if he could go into the towns in the interior, and see the state of things there as we saw them.

The Rev. J. Bühler records the following incident as a proof of the gradual progress of the Gospel even beyond the limits of the Mission—

There are many indications of the overruling hand of God in this war. During this present war a young Ijebu trader came occasionally to one of my church-members, where he saw the difference between Christians and heathen. The Christians persuaded the young Ijebu man to learn to read the word of God: he consented, and found the word of God excellent. As soon as he could read he returned home, and taught his brother the art of reading. A third one learned it too. The first of them got ill of small-pox, which prevented him from reading; but his brother read several psalms to him every day, which he told me were a great comfort to him. These three men taught some others, so that seven men can read, and eighteen more are learning it as fast as possible. All this in a town where no Missionary would have been accepted. And now, they tell me, the elders of that town, having seen the conduct of our Christian warriors, are not only no longer enemies of the book-people, but admire them. As soon as the war was over, the men assured me, many in that town would become Christians. Three of these men are here at present to receive more instruction in order to get baptized.

Review of the different Stations in Abeokuta.

Four districts of the town are occupied by Missionary stations under European Missionaries—Ake, by the Rev. H. Townsend, who is ably assisted by Dr. Harrison, the Medical Missionary. Dr. Harrison, in addition to his professional duties, assists in the schools, and Mrs. Harrison teaches a girls' school, in which she has much encouragement. The communicants connected with this station are 313. The collections for religious purposes during the year amounted to 44*l.* Igbein station is under the charge of the Rev. G. F. Bühler: the communicants are 259. The collections have exceeded 20*l.* Ikija is under the charge of the Rev. Buckley Wood. More than 21*l.* was collected for religious and benevolent purposes, of which 5*l.* was sent as a donation to the funds for the relief of the distressed manufacturers in Lancashire. Owu is the most recent and smallest station: there are only 83 adult converts. It was, during the early part of the year, under Mr. Lieb, and afterwards under Mr. Faulkner.

The following is an interesting account of one of the public baptisms of adult converts—

On Monday, the 14th of June, thirty-one adults were received into the church at Ake by baptism, of whom seventeen were men, and fourteen women. Of these, twelve were of Abeokuta, ten natives of Ijaye, two of Aibo, one of Oyo, one of Effon, a country beyond Ibadan, in the interior, two of a town called Abala, beyond Ilorin, one of the Ibomna country, somewhere near the Niger, one of Abaka, and one who had been stolen away at an early age, and had forgotten his country: thus there were twelve of Abeokuta, and nineteen strangers of various countries, who had been driven by distress, or taken as slaves and brought to Abeokuta. God in his own good providence will cause his truth to be known among all nations: He often causes his work to go on by means most unlooked for by men. Aibo refused to receive the messengers of the Gospel; but now, the people having been scattered by war, many have received the truth in Abeokuta. The afflictions the Ijaye people suffered are giving many of them ears to hear, who, in the days of their prosperity, never listened with attention to the word of God preached among them. People from countries beyond the limit reached by Missionaries are forced by the hands of violence and cruelty to come within hearing of the glad tidings of salvation from a greater bondage than that caused by the slavery of man. Thus in Abbeokuta the white man comes in contact with representatives of very many tribes that will be for a long time to come inaccessible to them. The slave-trade brings down people of all the interior tribes, but the check given to the slave-trade on the coast stops the outward flow of slaves: the encouragement given to lawful traffic gives employment to the slaves brought down, and means of self-emancipation; so that, in course of time, and by the help of God, many will return to their fatherland better people than when they left.

Education.

Mr. Bühler, who has charge of the Preparandi class, gives the following account of his labours :—

I am thankful to say the pupils, twenty-five in number, have made progress, as they showed in their last examination, December 22. In this examination all the Missionaries of the Society in Abeokuta took part. Four of my former pupils were employed at the beginning of the year in the Society's service, and two more after the last examination. One of the four was employed as second assistant in my Institution. Of the two who were appointed assistant schoolmasters at Christmas, one is the son of the late Mr. Philip, catechist in our Yoruba Mission, and the other is the son of Mr. Doherty, said to have been crucified in Dahomey last year. I trust both these young men will follow the good example of their fathers. The pupils are divided into two classes: the first is instructed through the medium of English, the second in Yoruba. The first class had Old-Testament Scripture history daily for one hour, one hour's natural philosophy, optics, &c., two hours' geography, and occasionally the Greek Testament.

I have been most faithfully supported by my two native assistants. The senior, who is also a catechist, has been a greater help to me than I can express: he possesses great influence over the pupils and over the congregation. Sincere as a Christian, and devoted to his Master's work, he is always ready to assist and to advise, remonstrating with the pupils when they err in a most effectual manner. As I was carrying on buildings during the greater part of the year, he was very early in the morning on the spot to superintend the labourers, or, when the work was very urgent, he would call out the pupils before daylight, and work with them for two or three hours to save the Society expense, and to spare me trouble. The congregation honour him highly. He visits the sick before or after school: he has done all he could to preserve my health. I thank God for having given me such a disinterested, prudent, and faithful fellow-labourer.

The pupils have, on the whole, conducted themselves, with few exceptions, orderly and as becomes their high calling. Several of them kept up a prayer-meeting once or twice a week after our evening prayers, of which I was not aware for some time: this had a beneficial effect upon the others and upon my boarders. Some of these youths are promising as regards their spiritual life as well as their ability. All of them have been very useful as Sunday-school teachers among my congregation. Occasional quarrels were partly caused by want of accommodation for them; but this will soon change, the new building being nearly ready for them.

Mr. Bühler has a general inspection of the schools of the districts, of which he gives the following report:—

The result of the annual examination in three schools, containing 172 children, is most satisfactory, showing that the schoolmasters have laboured diligently and successfully. The questions in Scripture history extended over the whole Bible history, Old and New Testament, and the answers satisfied entirely. It was most encouraging to see that the children had learned so many important passages of the Bible by heart. There was considerable progress made since my last examination. In reading, English and Yoruba, I am glad to report progress. In writing on paper and on the slates, in dictation and arithmetic, satisfactory progress has been made, to the credit of the masters and the children. In geography and English grammar a promising beginning has been made. In singing I could observe a decided progress.

I trust the number of children in the schools will increase after the present war, and thus the benefit of education be shared by a larger number of the population of this large town.

Oshielle; Out-station.

This station, eight miles east of Abeokuta, is under the charge of the native pastor, the Rev. W. Moore. The number of Christians is reckoned at 140; the communicants are 67: there are two candidates for the Lord's Supper, and 10 candidates for baptism. During the past year nine adults and four children have been baptized.

Public Meeting and Collection for the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Notwithstanding the state of the country, and the drain upon the resources of the people caused by war and the stoppage of trade, it was determined to make a collection for the British and Foreign Bible Society, in return for the great benefit they had conferred upon the native church by the printing and distribution of the Holy Scriptures. A meeting was therefore called in the month of June, in Ake church, which was unexpectedly crowded to excess. Speeches were made in the native language by Europeans and native teachers, and the collection realized the large sum of 20*l.* 10*s.* 11*d.*

IBADAN.

The Committee have to report with deep concern that their Missionaries, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hinderer, and Mr. Roper, are still shut up in Ibadan, debarred from all intercourse with their brethren in other parts of the Mission; and that they have been often reduced to the lowest state of destitution from want of supplies. Various attempts were made, even by the Acting Governor of Lagos, Capt. Glover, to send them relief, but without success. At length Messrs. Wood and Ashcroft made a bold attempt to reach Ibadan through Oyo. They started at the end of July, and, after many perils, reached Oyo. Here they found an American Baptist Missionary, Mr. Reid. They give the following account of their interview with him—

Mr. Reid, of the American Baptist Mission, who is stationed in Oyo, came out to meet us, and was quite overjoyed at seeing us. Poor man! he has been sorely tried for the last three years. The only white faces he has seen during that period were Messrs. Bühler and Lamb for about two hours last Christmas. In order to get food, he has been obliged to sell every thing he had that would bring money. He has parted with his knives, forks, spoons, crockery, &c., and even the sheets off his bed. Many days he has not had more than a halfpenny per day to live upon, and has frequently been so reduced, that he could not see where his next food would come from. If there had been nothing more, it would far, far more than have repaid the trouble and anxiety that we had had in getting to Oyo, only to have brought some relief for Mr. Reid, who is unfeignedly humble and submissive, looking not for his reward in this world.

After staying a few days at Oyo, they received the king's permission to go to Ibadan, but that permission was immediately afterwards revoked, and an angry message sent that they were to leave the town, and return to Abeokuta immediately. They had no alternative, and therefore leaving supplies for their Ibadan friends with Mr. Reid, they retraced their steps, and reached Abeokuta in safety. They had afterwards the satisfaction of hearing that the supplies which they had left at Oyo had been safely conveyed to Ibadan. A few letters have since reached England from Ibadan. It appears that the Missionaries had been sorely tried before the supplies left at Oyo reached them. The following extracts from a journal of Mr. Roper which has reached the Committee are given, that the friends of Missions may know the trials of some of their Missionaries, and the spirit in which they are borne.

Jan. 1863—At the beginning of this month our hearts were full of joy at the prospect of peace being restored to this country; and during more than half the month it hardly seemed possible that peace should fail to be restored; but towards the end of the month all our hopes were broken down: the war cry was revived, and there was every probability that the war would now rage more furiously than before. This was a severe blow for us.

Feb.—It took us some time to persuade ourselves fully that peace was not about to be made; but when once we had made up our minds to it, we had to seek out by some means for what would maintain us until the rainy season was over. I sold every thing I had which any one would buy, and with a few dollars that I got from the Baptist Missionary in Oyo, I managed to get in a few of the most necessary things. After this I saw no other thing that I could do, unless to turn out and plant some food, and also help to cut wood to cook it with. I was reluctant to do this, as I foresaw that it would take up nearly all my time, and leave me neither opportunity nor strength to study. When first I came to Ibadan, and saw that I could not get away again as soon as I wished to do, I determined to lay hold of the leisure time thus afforded me, and turn it to good account in studying Yoruba. I had many advantages here which I could not possibly have had in Abeokuta. I think I have used them to some purpose. Oton will have been the means of giving me a good thing, which will, with God's blessing, be of great use to me in future.

April—With the beginning of this month there also began what was certainly the most trying time that I have spent in this country. But the promise—"As thy day is, so shall thy strength be," was fulfilled. I wonder that I was able to spend so much time doing hard work in the heat of the day, yet I rarely felt even a headache, to say nothing of fever. My greatest grief was, that from week's end to week's end I could scarcely get an hour for study.

But though shut out from one sort of schooling, I was getting another sort. "Tribulation worketh patience, patience experience, experience hope," &c. I felt sure then, as I still do, that this schooling time in Ibadan, hard and bitter though it be in some respects, will yet be of great service to me if I am spared to see through it.

July—This month has been a most trying one. Our difficulties begin to assume a more serious aspect, and to press us down to the very ground sometimes. On July 4th I wrote—"This has been as difficult a week as any we have had to pass through, but for all that, daily wants have been met by daily blessings. We have very much to be thankful for in the midst of our troubles. We do not see, however, that our troubles are even a little bit nearer coming to an end. The clouds are very dark around us, and our minds and hearts are also at times most dark and cheerless, but this never lasts long. I feel more and more assured that God is working out his own plans for this country, and that all will end in great good. Meanwhile, it becomes us to wait with patience and in much prayer, that no blessings may be lost through not being sought after earnestly by us.

Aug.—To-day we had our monthly prayer-meeting at Mr. Hinderer's. After this meeting, which I enjoyed much, we had some talk about our circumstances. There is but little to cheer us. We look and long, and pray for help from our present condition by means of peace being made, but we see no prospect of this. We have, however, much to be thankful for even now. One precious blessing is given to us, viz. health; for notwithstanding that we are so badly off for even common necessaries of life, we are still blessed with good health.

I gladly pass over the few anxious days that elapsed between the time when I wrote the foregoing and August 10th. This was a day of such joy as I should attempt in vain to describe. From the very depth of our sorrow we are again most unexpectedly relieved. "When we least expect his aid He surely will appear." It is so with us. Our dear friends, Messrs. Wood and Ashcroft, have arrived in Oyo with what will supply our wants for a long time to come.

Under such circumstances there can be little opportunity of preaching the Gospel in Ibadan. Mr. Roper thus describes the case:—

Sept.—As we are situated at present in Ibadan, it is impossible to go about our work in the way we could like to do. Even visiting from house to house, excepting among the Christian people, cannot be carried on. Keeping up our regular weekly services, with occasionally visiting the Christians in their houses, is all that we can do.

A few instances are, however, recorded in which the word takes effect upon the hearts of the people. On Whitsunday there was a small company of seven adults to be admitted to baptism. "Contrary to our usual experience (writes Mr. Hinderer) I could hardly bring my mind to hearty thanksgiving for it. I could only think—What are these among so many? And yet if you could only know the thousand ties by which they are bound to their old system you would say—It is only by a miracle that one can be changed."

(Commenced 1857.)

Conducted by Native Teachers, under the superintendence of the Rev. Samuel Crowther, Native Minister.

Visit of the Rev. Samuel Crowther to the stations on the Niger.

THE Rev. S. Crowther, with other labourers, waited for some time at the Nun for the means of transit to the upper stations, when, on Sept. 7th, 1863, the "Investigator" made her appearance on the way to communicate with Dr. Baikie. The commander, Lieutenant Gambier, having been instructed by Commodore Wilmot to give the Missionary brethren a passage, did so in the kindest manner, receiving on board the "Investigator" as many of the brethren as he could possibly accommodate, to his own and his officers' great inconvenience. On Sept. 13th Onitsha was visited.

Gbebe.

On Sept. 16th Gbebe was reached. In the little body of Christians there several deaths had occurred, Mr. T. Joseph, one of the Scripture-readers, with others, in all four, having been thus called away. Two of them were baptized persons—Maria Ayin and Fanny Anihi—both departing this life in the faith of Christ. "These two hopeful deaths of our native converts," observes Mr. Crowther, "made a very great impression on the minds of the heathen population, as being quite different from what they had been accustomed to witness. May these be an earnest of a large ingathering from among the large population of this part of Christ's vineyard!"

On Sunday, October 4th, Mr. Crowther had the privilege of baptizing eight persons, two men and six women, in the presence of about 200 persons, at the morning service.

The Mission work here may now be regarded as having taken root; and various evidences are afforded of the influence which has been acquired over the surrounding heathen, and of the goodwill with which the agents of the Mission are regarded. When the king of Gbebe, Ama Abokka, was on his death-bed, and was giving charge to his head chief about his children, and the government of the town after his death, until a successor should be elected, he did not forget the Society's agents, saying, "Suffer nothing to harm the Oibos: they are my strangers."

When Mr. Joseph died, the heathen natives showed great sympathy, and wished to do honour to his memory as at the death of a great person, by firing off muskets, which was respectfully declined. They then proposed cooking a large quantity of food to be feasted upon in honour of the dead; and when this was objected to, they brought a mat and 400 cowries, so as to bear their share in the expenses; these were accepted, to the gratification of the well-meaning chiefs. "This," observes Mr. Crowther, "will show the feelings of the chiefs and people towards the Society's agents and their work in this remote part of the country."

While Mr. Crowther was at Gbebe, one of the messengers of the great King Massaba, being about to return to his master, Mr. Crowther took him round the Mission premises, and showed him the schoolroom, and then the cotton gins, and the press, and the bales of cotton which are thus prepared. "I asked him," says Mr. Crowther, "to deliver this message to his king, 'that we are Anasara: there, pointing to the schoolroom, we teach the Christian religion; pointing to the cotton gin, I said, this is our gun; and to the clean cotton puffing out of it, that is our powder; and, I said, the cowries which are the proceeds of the operation are the shots which England, the warmest friend of Africa, earnestly desires she should receive largely. The king was to judge from what the messenger has seen of our proceedings here whether the efforts of England were injurious to the prosperity of a nation, or favourable to its peace and welfare."

Gbebe is not only a confluence of waters, but of languages; the Igbira, Nupe, Haussa, Eki, Yagba, Egara, Kakanda, and Ghari, being spoken there. Igbira is the language of the locality, the others being introduced by sojourners from other lands. Thus, in order to usefulness, the resident teachers require to be versed in two or three languages at least; and so we read of a sermon being preached in three distinct languages, first Igbira, then Nupe, and then a third. Hence the great importance of this station, and the necessity that it should be occupied by native Teachers able to translate the Scriptures and make these various tongues vehicles for the propagation of the Gospel.

Efforts are being made by preaching and teaching to give extension to Christian truth amongst the surrounding tribes. Mr. Joseph visited, before his death, his countrymen, the Bassa, at the back of the Iro mountains. They received him favourably, and promised to receive Christian teachers so soon as they should come. Mr. James Thomas has also visited his country-people, the Eki tribe, on the upper part of the right side of the Kwarra. They also received him cordially, and wished to keep him. It was the first time that a countryman of theirs had returned home from the far-famed white-man's country. Some of these people who are resident at Gbebe have given a small piece of ground for the erection of a preaching shed, and have helped by their labour to erect it, where services are held every Lord's-day.

Onitsha.

Mr. Taylor has furnished the Committee with copious journals of the labours of himself and of his three native assistants at Onitsha since his arrival there in September 1862; from which it appears that the Gospel has effectually worked upon the hearts of some of the people, so as to induce them to cast away their idols, and endure domestic persecution for Christ's sake.

Mr. Taylor, upon his arrival, had found several candidates for baptism, who had been prepared by the native catechists; and both he and Mr. Crowther, after examination, judged them sufficiently intelligent and sincere for admission to that sacrament. The first-fruits of the Onitsha native church were therefore gathered into the garner of Christ, when forty-two persons, seventeen being adults, were baptized on the 21st of November 1862. Yet Mr. Taylor was not satisfied with this public profession of the Christian faith: he anxiously sought the fruit of the Spirit in the lives of the converts. His journal contains the following notice of the congregation (1863, Jan. 25):—

I requested Mr. Romaine to read prayers in Ibo, and I preached, from John iii. 14, to a crowded congregation of 106 natives. My congregation is now improving, as well as devout in their worship, yet none seem to cry out, "What must we do to be saved?" It is difficult to know what is the general result of our labours among this people; and yet know that the Gospel has done, and is still doing, great things for Onitsha: its moral influence is everywhere seen and acknowledged; its personal regenerating power is rarely exhibited. May God still shower down his choicest blessings upon this congregation, which is now emerging from the depths of heathenism!

Soon, however, the heart of the faithful minister was cheered by the visits of several under deep concern for the salvation of their souls, and there were also manifest signs of an increasing spirit of devotion among the converts. Mr. Taylor writes:—

March 8—Our early morning prayer is now in a healthy state:

this department is chiefly performed by my able and worthy assistants. If the late Rev. W. A. B. Johnson, of Sierra Leone, could report to the Christian world when, the revival of religion taking its right stand in the hearts of his dear church members, he could hear them praying in the bush, in their houses,—so we have ocular demonstration of the mighty working of the same Spirit in the hearts of this little flock gathered in Central Africa. You will see the natives, any one who happens to be late, if he or she should meet his friends outside the gate, will surely walk into the chapel, and humbly kneel down and engage in prayer to God. How often have mine eyes been pleased to witness the sight.

After a time several of the converts were subjected to domestic persecution for refusing to worship the family idols. A plot was, also, discovered, into which some leading chiefs had entered, to burn the Mission houses and expel the teachers from this town. Upon the matter being laid before the king of Onitsha, he at once acted with energy in denouncing all attempts to injure the Christians; and his hands were further strengthened by a remarkable message sent to him from Idda, a town of great influence about thirty miles higher up the river Niger. The king of Idda had often pleaded for Missionaries for his own town, and now hearing of the plot at Onitsha, he sent a messenger to the king. Mr. Taylor thus writes:—

April 22—The Atta of Idda sent one of his officers here with a message to the king of Onitsha, and to present his compliments to me. What the message was I am unable to conjecture. Thus much had leaked out—"It is a shame that you, as a king, do not know to hold white men in your country: formerly Onitsha never knew what it was to put on clothes: now they have some good friends to clothe them and to do them good; they are instigated by some foolish Abo men to molest them. Take care of white men; they are your best friends."

These circumstances served to encourage the native church, and to bind together its members in closer bonds of sympathy and union. Upon Mr. Crowther's visit, in September 1863, every thing wore an encouraging aspect. It is six years since Mr. Taylor proclaimed the Gospel for the first time at Onitsha. After two years he returned to Sierra Leone, and visited England, and the work was carried on by Christian visitors. The experience of the sixth year has now been described, and the Committee cannot doubt that the good hand of the Lord has been with his servants, and has owned and blessed the labours of Native Teachers, without European Missionaries, to the establishment of a branch of the true church of Christ in the midst of a vast moral wilderness.

"It will cheer the heart of the Parent Committee (writes Mr. Crowther) to hear that fifty-three baptisms of adults and children have been performed at Onitsha, and there are about forty-two names more at present on the list of candidates for baptism, who receive weekly instruction preparatory to being admitted into that holy rite. I had the opportunity of addressing a congregation of about 300 persons at the morning service, from Luke xii. 32."

Akassa.

Akassa is a station of the Society at the mouth of the river Nun. In a Missionary point of view it is not promising. The population is small, and sunk in the lowest superstitions; but it is necessary for the support of the other stations in the Niger, as a general depôt of stores, and for keeping up the communication with the mail packets, which call monthly in the Brass river, distant about twelve miles from Akassa. Mr. Coomber, a native schoolmaster, for some time at Highbury Training College, has resided at Akassa for the last three years, and has laboured zealously among the inhabitants, and has had a few pupils as boarders, but he has met, as yet, with very little encouragement.

Prospects of Christianity in Western Africa—Application for the consecration of a Native Bishop.

In reviewing the prospects of Christianity on the West Coast of Africa, the Committee thankfully record the fact, that through the labours of sixteen Protestant Missionary Societies, native churches are gradually rising up at various points along a coast line of 2000 miles, numbering at least 80,000 converts. One-fourth of this number have been converted and trained up under the teaching of Episcopal Missionaries. The time has therefore arrived when a bishop should be provided to labour amongst these scattered converts, and to introduce amongst them such an organization as may secure their permanency and extension. The mother church at Sierra Leone may well be looked to for supplying such a chief minister. That church is now of fifty years' standing. Twenty years ago its native teachers began to receive ordination from the Bishop of London. Afterwards a resident European bishop was granted to Sierra Leone. Twenty-five native ministers have been ordained; and the successive Bishops of Sierra Leone have borne the most satisfactory testimony to the ability and fidelity with which they discharge their ministerial duties. Thus has the native church gradually risen to the position in which she is prepared and entitled to supply her own chief pastor. The Committee have therefore applied to Her Majesty's Government to give the royal licence for the consecration by the Archbishop of Canterbury of a native bishop for the countries beyond the British possessions on the West Coast of Africa. By the proposed arrangement the native bishop will have an independent jurisdiction, and yet enjoy the benefit of the advice and moral support of a neighbouring European Bishop; and will be able in return to render the bishop help in the visitation of the native church in the distant parts of his diocese. Through these mutual relations, as well as through the continued aid of the Church Missionary Society, a native church may, under God's blessing, be established in Africa, having the advantage of free action, and yet a filial reliance upon the Church of England.

P.S.—Since this Report was presented to the Annual Meeting, His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury has most kindly and zealously urged upon the Government the appointment of the native bishop, and has strongly recommended the Rev. Samuel Crowther as suitable for the office in respect of learning, character, and Missionary experience. Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Earl Russell, cordially responded to the appeal, and the royal licence was granted to the Archbishop of Canterbury to consecrate Mr. Samuel Crowther. The University of Oxford conferred upon him the degree of Doctor in Divinity; and Dr. Crowther was consecrated in Canterbury Cathedral, June 29th, 1864, a bishop of the United Church of England and Ireland.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. John Rebmann (m), 1846.
Mr. James Taylor, 1864; at the Mauritius, pro tem.

ACCOUNTS have been received from Mr. Rebmann to the end of the year 1863. He has spent part of his time at Mombas pursuing his translations, and completing his Dictionary of the Suaheli language. He visits the station, however, from time to time, residing several weeks on each occasion. The progress of the converts is very slow, both in their social and religious condition; and Mr. Rebmann looks forward to the arrival of their liberated countrymen, who have been trained to industrial habits at Bombay, as the most promising means, under God, of arousing the Wanikas to greater activity and more intellectual development. "It is not European Missionaries (he writes) who are wanted in any number in East Africa, but native agents under the influence of active Christianity, as in the West-Africa Mission."

The Committee are thankful to state that they have been enabled this year to send out a second Missionary to East Africa, under a combination of providential circumstances which are full of hope and encouragement. Zanzibar has been brought, during the last year, into regular monthly postal communication with Europe. The letters are transmitted from Aden to the Seychelles, from whence they are conveyed to Zanzibar. The Seychelles are in the Diocese of the Bishop of Mauritius, and that zealous friend of the Society had previously called the attention of the Committee to the fact that many liberated Africans from the East Coast were Christian settlers in those islands, and might furnish native teachers to the Mission. Besides this supply, the Committee had also for several years encouraged the preparation of liberated East Africans in Bombay, and the bishop had already a few such in training at the Mauritius. The opening of a monthly communication between the Mauritius and the Mission station on the East Coast through the Seychelles, at once suggested the placing of the East-African Mission under the superintendence of the Bishop of Mauritius; and the formation of a training school for native teachers at the Mauritius for the supply of East Africa. The bishop being in this country for a few months, the Committee were able to mature their plans in communication with his Lordship. Upon his return to his diocese he kindly took under his charge Mr. Taylor, a student who had completed his studies at Islington, and who would accompany the bishop in a month's visitation of the Seychelles, and then proceed to the Mauritius, and, having received holy orders, join Mr. Rebmann, as it is hoped, with a few selected natives from among those under training for East Africa.

The late successful enterprise into Central Africa by Capt. Speke, and his earnest appeals to the Christian Church to follow up his discoveries by introducing Christian civilization into the discovered countries, afford another providential encouragement to the Committee to enlarge and press forward their East-African Mission, in the conviction that the surest way of securing a Christian settlement in the interior of Africa, is to work from a Christian station upon the coast, stage by stage, towards the interior, as God shall open the way and prosper the undertaking.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

(Commenced at Malta in 1815.)

I. Turkish Mission.—II. Greece.—III. Asia Minor.—IV. Palestine.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

First occupied, 1819; relinquished 1821; re-occupied, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Charles Gottlieb Pfander, D.D. (m), to Persia, 1825; to India, 1839; to Constantinople, 1858.

Rev. Sigismund Wilhelm Koelle, Ph. D. (m), to West Africa, 1847; to Palestine, 1856; to Constantinople, 1862.

Rev. Robert Henry Weakley (m), 1860.

THREE Missionaries, Dr. Pfander, Dr. Koelle, and Mr. Weakley, have continued their labours in Constantinople throughout the last year. In order to make their influence more extensive, they have selected separate localities for their residence. Dr. Pfander retains his house in Pera. Dr. Koelle has taken a house in a Mohammedan suburb, Beshiktash, only ten minutes' walk from the palace where the Sultan usually resides. Mr. Weakley has removed to Scutari, on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, where he is assisted by the native Armenian convert, Mr. Ghazaros. The Mission has been strengthened by the accession of Mr. O'Flaherty, who first went out in the Crimean army, and obtained a knowledge of the Turkish language, and an extensive personal acquaintance with Turks. He has since been acting as a Catechist in Constantinople under the Free Church of Scotland, but has lately been transferred to the Mission of this Society.

General review of the Turkish Mission in Constantinople.

Dr. Pfander writes in his annual letter at the close of the year—

In April I opened a Turkish service on Sunday afternoons in my house, which was regularly attended by a few Turks and some Armenians. Attendance varied from five to fifteen persons. Of the Turks, some are baptized, and others are inquirers. As our new house does not afford sufficient accommodation, I have, since the late fire, transferred the service to our rooms in Constantinople, where it is now held in the morning. Besides the Sunday service, I continue the Bible lessons on Friday: the attendance varies from two to five, and now and then, especially in bad weather, I have had no one. Among the Turks attending these services are two hopeful candidates for baptism.

The policy of the Government has apparently become more settled and more decided in favour of reform and the adoption of European principles. The journey of the Sultan to Egypt and Smyrna has, in this respect, been of great importance. It gave him a decidedly favourable impression of Europeans and European improvements.

No general movement or earnest longing after truth is visible, but the desire for our books is an encouraging fact. It proves that there are many who seek and long for something better than their Korán can give them, and now and then we come also in contact with such characters. Our great difficulty is to get among the people with our message. Openly we cannot preach and teach, and to visit in their houses is accompanied with peculiar obstacles. Our work is as yet only a preparatory one; but it is not therefore the less important, or less hopeful, only we cannot see the fruit, nor mark the hidden growth of the seed sown in these days of small things. It requires the full exercise of our faith not to be discouraged, and to look beyond the present and to realize the blessing promised.

Dr. Koelle remarks on the fact that Missionaries are permitted to reside unmolested in Constantinople, under the toleration now conceded in Turkey.

Considering that we are in Turkey, the political stronghold of the entire Mohammedan world, we have great cause to be thankful for the wonderful change God has wrought. If we remember that formerly foreign ambassadors were liable to be cast into dungeons in the capital of the Sultans, we cannot but marvel that now Christian Missionaries to the Mohammedans are suffered to live here unmolested. Formerly it would have been certain death for a born Mohammedan to embrace Christianity, and now we have here several converts from Mohammedanism who are not only unmolested in their own persons, bnt can even do Missionary work amongst the Mohammedans. This shows that a wonderful change has come over Mohammedan Turkey. Nevertheless, it would be a mistake if it was thought that we have full liberty to preach Christ to the Mohammedans, or that it is generally acknowledged that any Moslem might embrace Christianity if he wished to do so. It seems to me, rather, that the Turkish Government have hitherto abstained from directly interfering with us, not because they approve of our work, or because they wish so far to carry out the principle of religious liberty as to let the Moslems have the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the Protestant religion, in order that they might either accept or reject it; but because they think that, as yet, they can afford to ignore us, or, perhaps more correctly, because they apprehend, that to interfere with us might cause more harm than to let us alone. At all events, some secret cause seems to have been hitherto at work to create obstacles in the way of converted Moslems being registered as Protestant subjects of the Porte, in the manner in which, e. g. Armenians or Greeks who embrace Protestantism are thus registered. The movement in favour of Christianity seems to me to be still quite sporadic and limited. There exists another anti-Mohammedan movement, which I believe to be much more general, especially among the higher class of Turks, viz. that in favour of infidelity, similar to the one found in other parts of Europe. Men of this description outwardly remain Mohammedans, but in reality they are without any religion. Every sincere well-wisher of Turkey ought to pray and labour that, instead of falling a prey to this comfortless infidelity, the Osmanlis might advance from their sombre and petrified Islam, which they find a constant impediment to their advance in European civilization, to the light and life-giving religion of the Gospel, in which they would find the only sufficient power to raise them upon the level of a truly civilized and enlightened nation.

Mr. Weakley gives his own impression of the state of things in these extracts from his annual review—

Scutari has a character of its own for exclusiveness, and I am not aware that another Frank besides myself lives in this large and populous town. I live in an Armenian quarter quite near to the Turks, but although it is the custom of the immediate neighbourhood to call on new-comers, the first visit was paid me only two days ago. There is, nevertheless, reason to hope that, by degrees, a tolerably extensive acquaintance will be formed among the people to whom we are specially sent. Already three or four Turkish gentlemen come to my house freely, two of whom are glad of the opportunity of acquiring the English language, and take pleasure in reading English history. They began to come in June last. Our readings nearly always furnish opportunities for conversing upon a variety of subjects, more particularly upon religion. I have long and very interesting conversations with one gentleman in particular, whose mind has become thoroughly unsettled as to the truth of his own creed, and who, with more or less diligence, is reading the New Testament. There has been a kind of progress in our discussions as difficulties have been removed and facts established; and in the stage which he has now reached, the obstacle to the relinquishment of Islam for Christianity is not a personal, but a national one. "Christianity, as you assert it, touches the very foundations of our Government, and the belief of tens of thousands of its ignorant subjects." I trust that, by God's grace, the difficulty will become a personal one ere long.

Shortly after my location in Scutari, by the request of the Mission, Mr. Ghazaros removed hither, to be under my superintendence, and for my special assistance in the work here. He has been enabled to carry on his work throughout the year with much zeal and almost unhoped-for success. His access to the Turks of all classes has exceeded our warmest anticipations, and constantly new doors are opened to him for the proclamation of the only name whereby we must be saved. A great deal of caution as to the discernment of time and place, together with some aptitude in turning opportunities to account, is especially required by our work, and it is but due to him to say that he possesses these qualifications in an eminent degree.

Mr. Weakley concludes his annual letter with the following hopeful remarks—

As far as my observation goes, the "Mizan" seems to have broken the edge of the controversy wherever it has been read. Intelligent Turks are, in many instances, more disposed to apologize for their prophet and the Korán, than to defend them.

But indeed every thing about us betokens change, and Christianity, we may hope and believe, is providentially present at this time to take advantage of and to hallow it. The ruler of this realm is the great mover and example in the direction of reform and progress, and every step in this path is so much additional weakness and despair for those who propound and wish to enforce the laws of the prophet. The latter do not scruple to express their disappointment, and the apprehension that their rule is waning away, and will soon disappear. From the pulpits in the mosques, and in conversations in public places, it is announced clearly that the latter days have begun their course, when the Korán shall be replaced in its heavenly sanctuary, because of the unbelief of Islam, when the cause of Jesus must again prevail, and when the Dejjal (anti-Christ) shall appear, who will be overthrown by Christ at his second coming. All this opens more widely the door for the Gospel, and perhaps is an indication that the anti-Christian power of Mohammed is being broken without hands. I feel exceedingly encouraged and cheered by the prospect of having some more active evangelistic work to do, and hope that, in my next annual letter, I shall be able to report that a Turkish service has been opened in Scutari, and is prospering.

Greece.

SYRA.

(Mission commenced, 1830.)

The Rev. Mr. Hildner is now in the position of a retired Missionary; but, with Mrs. Hildner, he continues to conduct a large female school, upon scriptural principles, which has been and still is the nursery of many enlightened teachers for other schools in the island of Syra, and in other parts of Greece.

Asia Minor.

SMYRNA.

(Commenced in 1831.)

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. J. T. Wolters (m), to Persia, 1832; to Syra, 1837; to Smyrna, 1842.
Rev. T. F. Wolters, 1860.

The Missionaries Wolters, father and son, have kept up the public services in Greek on the Lord's day in the Mission chapel, and have sought by every means to draw the Turks and lapsed Christians into friendly discussions upon Christian truths. But in their review at the close of the year they write—

In Smyrna the last year has been rather discouraging than otherwise. The Mussulman population, proverbially bigoted, is from various causes strengthened in its exclusiveness. This was manifested upon the occasion of the Sultan's visit last spring, when the enthusiastic reception he met with from the Christian population stood in marked contrast to the cold and indifferent manner in which he was received by the Turks. The efficiency of the Mission has been very much hampered by the want of suitable native agency. A room in a Turkish khan has been taken, and here a few visitors have been received. At Cassaba our agent, Mr. Montesanto, has from time to time had opportunities of bringing the truth before Mohammedans as well as Greeks.

Mr. Wolters (sen.) has prepared for the press three tracts in Turkish, viz. 1. "Summary of Holy Scripture;" 2. "Do you want a friend?" 3. "The two ways and the two ends." He has also carried through the press the second part of "Jowett's Christian Visitor" (comprising the Gospels of Luke and John) in Greek.

In the month of October 1863 Mr. Weakley and Mr. Wolters, jun., made a Missionary tour in Asia Minor, visiting Cassaba and Magnesia. They met with little encouragement. They found the Turks haughty and inaccessible, even beyond their experience in Smyrna and Constantinople. They hope, however, to repeat their journeys from time to time, trusting that, when better known, and when themselves more experienced in the work, they may meet with better success.

JERUSALEM.

The Rev. F. A. Klein, and Dr. Sandreczki have continued their zealous Missionary labours at Jerusalem throughout the year. Mr. Grühler, a European catechist, is stationed at Ramleh.

The Missionaries are not able to report much encouragement either in the Arab congregation in the city, or amongst the Moslem population. The various agencies which are in active operation under the superintendence of the devoted Anglican Bishop, Dr. Gobat, the labours of the Missionaries to the Jews, and of the German deaconesses—all these agencies for good are gradually producing, under God's blessing, a religious movement in the minds of men; and though the workmen themselves do not mark its progress, yet Christian strangers from a distance are able at once to estimate its value and importance. The Rev. F. G. Littlecot, Secretary to the Malta Protestant College, has thus described his visit to Jerusalem on Easter Sunday 1863—

On Good Friday we attended morning service in the church of St. James, on Mount Zion, where the Bishop and the Rev. W. Bailey, Missionary of the Jews' Society, officiated: the latter preached. In the afternoon the Bishop, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Valentiner, Prussian chaplain, conducted the German service. On Easter-day St. James's church was crowded, the Revs. J. Barclay, and W. Bailey, of the Jews' Society, and A. Klein, of the Church Missionary Society, officiating. The Bishop preached a most powerful sermon. Nearly the whole congregation remained to the Lord's Supper. After the English and German residents and visitors had communicated, it was with intense interest that we saw a large number of native converts, in their striking and picturesque attire, come forward to join in the commemoration of our Lord's death. The service had, up to this point, been conducted in English, but now the good Bishop and Mr. Klein, in administering the elements to the converts, used with each one his native language. The simplicity and beauty of the whole was a pleasing contrast to the painful and unholy scenes we had recently witnessed in the church of the Holy Sepulchre. We all felt it to be an earnest of that day, when the tribes of all lands shall sit down at the marriage supper of the Lamb, and a striking confirmation of our long-tried, and joyful belief in the "Communion of Saints."

I had the privilege the same evening, and on the following Lord's-day, of preaching at St. James's. I also attended the Union Prayer-meetings, held every Tuesday and Friday evenings in the Arabic chapel, at which all the Christian members of the Protestant communities attend. They are presided over, alternately, by the various ministers, supported by the others, and by Christian laymen. The attendance is numerous, and the influence good; and I felt, as I gazed on the scene, that I saw now the great secret of the unity and fellowship of the Christian churches and Societies in Jerusalem explained, in this constant acknowledgment of their common brotherhood, and dependence upon God.

Mr. Klein has engaged a native agent to visit the villages within reach of Jerusalem of whose labours he gives the following encouraging report:—

The native catechist accompanied me on my last tour, as I was anxious both to introduce him to the various places and persons I was already acquainted with, as well as to observe his way of dealing with the people, and I am happy to say that what I have seen of his Christian character and his manner of dealing with the natives, during that tour and since, has entirely confirmed the good opinion I had formed of him personally, and of his qualifications for the work of an evangelist chiefly among the less edufi-cated class, the fellahs of this country. He has, since his appointment, been constantly backwards and forwards, visiting the various villages north of Jerusalem, as, Ramallah, Bireh, Tifua, Tayibeh, and Bir Zeit, staying at each of these places several days, as circumstances required. He has met with much opposition and enmity on the part of the slaves of the convents, but also with much encouragement on the part of those who are willing to listen to the reading of God's word and his teaching. Sometimes he meets a party in a peasant's room; another time he has a meeting under the shade of a tree; and lately he had a kind of midnight meeting on the threshing-floors at Tayibeh, where he found a number of fellahs so anxious to listen to his conversation and ask questions, that nearly the whole night was spent in this novel meeting-room in the dark of the night in religious discussion.

The work in some of these villages, especially at Ramallah, appears very promising; but time is required before it can be spoken of with confidence.

NAZARETH.

The Rev. John Zeller has continued to labour at Nazareth, with the assistance of Mr. James Huber, an European catechist. The following graphic account of a visit to Nazareth by an independent witness is given by the Rev. F. G. Littlecot:—

At Nazareth, which we visited twice, we found a most important and prosperous Mission in full activity, under the able superintendence of the Rev. J. Zeller, of the Church Missionary Society, Bishop Gobat's son-in-law. This Mission was commenced by the bishop soon after that at Nablous, and carried on for several years, amid many difficulties. He has now the satisfaction of seeing the seedling he planted growing into a vigorous tree, under the Society to which he has transferred it. At our first visit we attended, on Sunday morning, a native Arabic service, conducted by Mr. Zeller in his school-room. It was crowded with men, who joined in our beautiful Liturgy with a fervour and earnestness I have not seen exceeded in our highly-favoured lands. The lessons were read by natives, and the sermon listened to with profound attention. In the afternoon we accompanied Mr. Zeller to Kaneh, a neighbouring village, where he also has an Arabic service. There we witnessed the baptism of a child of one of the converts. What made the service more interesting to us was, that some of the loving disciples at Nazareth went with us to assist at it.

There is great need of a suitable building for divine service here, it being now held, as I have said, in the school-room—inconvenient and too small for the male worshippers, but totally unsuited for females, who, according to Eastern custom, must be separate from the males; and there is not space to provide them with separate accommodation. The amount required is about 800*l*. Surely this inconsiderable sum could easily be raised, did English Christians know the need. Nazareth is a most important centre for Missionary work. It has the peculiar advantages of being a Christian town (the proportion of Christians is as four to one). No spot in Palestine is better suited to become the centre of a great and growing work than the lowly city chosen by our Lord as the scene of so many years of His pilgrimage on earth; and from Mr. Zeller's knowledge of the language, intimate acquaintance with the habits of the people, and the great respect and affection felt for him by all classes, from the wandering Bedouin of Esdraelon and the Hauran to the mountaineers of Galilee, he is eminently fitted to make the best use of these advantages. Greatly should I rejoice if some of God's people, who have been gifted by him with this world's goods, could be stirred up to do something for this interesting spot.

Mr. Zeller's own account of his work is given in the following extracts from his annual letter:—

Our work amongst Mohammedans, carried on under a sense of the inadequacy of the instrumentality now at work, does not yet prompt us to speak of results obtained, though much, and more than on former occasions, might be said, urging Missionaries here, and Christians at home, to lift up their heads and redouble their efforts.

Meanwhile, however, our labour has not been lost among the nominal Christians. Services have been held regularly, and the word of God preached throughout the year, every Sunday, in Nazareth, Kefer-Kana, Kaneh, and Shef-Amer, by Mr. Huber, Michael Kawar, Seraphim Bontaji, and myself, and many people —Christians, Mohammedans, and Druzes—have had the salvation in Christ clearly and impressively set before them, and have been invited and urged to partake of the same,—who otherwise would have remained in utter darkness about these truths. In each of the forenamed places we have had symptoms of increasing spiritual life, especially at Nazareth, where a number of the younger members of the congregation regularly attend, and at the Bible meetings on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and show a real anxiety to join in private prayer. The first week of the new year was especially observed as a week of prayer, certainly not without rich blessings.

This increase of spiritual life is evidently exercising its influence against the idea that we only want to make proselytes for another sect, instead of for the kingdom of heaven. As amongst such signs of life, I may mention that a member of our community buys Testaments and controversial books from Beyrout, and sells them, even with loss, to the people. Another often encourages us by his great zeal, activity, and readiness for personal sacrifices, whenever any thing can be done for the cause of the Gospel. He, with some others, for some time past, kept a Missionary-box, into which they paid every Saturday fixed contributions. A member of the community in Kaneh has formally made over to the Church Missionary Society a piece of ground in that village, for the purpose of building a schoolhouse, and the native members are exerting themselves to raise the funds for its erection among themselves.

Our schools are continued at Nazareth and Kaneh, and I hope soon to commence schools in Kefer-Kana, Mujedel, and perhaps Abelin, if the inhabitants should be willing to contribute something towards the maintenance of the schoolmasters. The want of sufficiently trained and suitable teachers is the principal drawback, and clearly shows that something ought to be done by the Society to train schoolmasters. The necessity for opening a girls' school has, for years past, been deeply felt by us. At length the Society for promoting Education in the East sent us a teacher, and, with the beginning of the year, we opened a school with about thirty girls, and hope that the blessing of the Lord may further the same, and help us on, in spite of the opposition which is already conspicuous on the part of the French nuns.

In conclusion, I would repeat my former requests, that the Society would send out more Missionaries to labour among the Mohammedans. Mohammedanism has been the greatest bulwark of Satan against the light of the Gospel. Christian Europe has all round, on the south and east, been encircled by Mohammedanism, which has occupied the north of Africa and the west of Asia, and thereby barred for centuries the direct communication by land into the heart of these great continents.

General Remarks.

THE Committee regret to report that two of the Missionaries recently sent to this Presidency have been obliged to return home and to close their connexion with the Society. Mr. Matchett, also, was compelled to return on account of his wife's extreme illness.* The Committee regret that they have not been able as yet to supply fresh Missionaries, though they hope to do so in the course of the present year.

The other Missionaries have all continued to labour in the same fields as described in the last year's Report.

The Committee borrow from the Annual Report of the Bombay Corresponding Committee the following important remarks upon the true estimate of Missionary results:—

If numerical results are looked for—that is to say, a number of baptized converts—then success will be doubted; but if the peculiar habits and customs of the people of India are regarded, and especially the caste system, with its family and clanship ties, then it is not fair, not only to Mission operations, but to the natives of this country, either morally or mentally, to judge of the progress and influence of Christian teaching amongst them by a

* She has since died.

numerical test (which only accounts for the few who are baptized); and hence it must, from what is heard and seen around, be declared that Missions are working successfully. They are conveying a knowledge of Christianity and are bringing a Christian influence to bear upon character, and from both of these the following results are produced, viz. "a loosening of the bands of idolatry and superstition, and a greater preparedness for the full converting power of the Gospel." The Committee, therefore, are by no means discouraged because the number added to the lists of the baptized is small; nay, they would take encouragement from the fact that there is seen in nearly every part not only less reluctance to listen to the message of the Gospel, but a desire to know more of it.

This is to be discovered in a new feature of this year's labour: native tradesmen buy books and tracts of the Missionaries for the purpose of selling again. Surely this is seeking a supply to meet a demand, and is a proof of what Missions are gradually effecting amongst the people. The demand furnishes us with one aspect, the supply with another; both reveal a great change in the mind and in the prejudice and fears of the natives.

The Committee would not trace this wholly to Mission work. They gladly acknowledge the pioneering work of all Government educational effort. Wherever readers are to be found, there the Missionary finds, to a certain extent, prepared ground to work upon, and a double opportunity presented; for not only will his discourse be more eagerly and thoughtfully listened to, but any book he may have to part with will be read.

BOMBAY.

Native Christians in Bombay.

The number of native Christians in Bombay, reckoned in the last Report at 123, has been reduced to eighty by the breaking up of the Orphanage of Mrs. Jerrom, and transfer of many of the Christian girls to Nasik. The Rev. James Wilson, an Eurasian, has the charge of these Christians, whom he assembles each Lord's-day for divine service in two separate congregations, one in Marathi and the other Tamil. Mr. Wilson devotes also much of his time to preaching in places of public resort, in superintending a circle of schools, and in lecturing in the Robert-Money School.

Hindustani Mission.

The Rev. T. G. Deimler devotes his whole labour to a Mission among the Mohammedans. He divides his time between Bombay and Junir, as the weather will not allow of open-door work at Bombay during half the year. The first five months and the last month of each year are spent in Bombay, where Mr. Deimler preaches twice every day in the morning shortly after six o'clock, and in the afternoon at five at several places of public resort. He is never without a few intelligent hearers, and has sometimes large and quiet audiences, comprising some of the respectable classes. He is ably assisted in this work by the native minister, Mr. Wilson. Tracts and books are distributed, and Mr. Deimler bears testimony to the value of Dr. Pfander's works as being "solid and profound, establishing the truth as it is in Jesus against the falsehoods of Islam in a mild and persuasive rather than in a denouncing tone, and showing a thorough acquaintance with the Moslem literature and habits of thought." A few cases have occurred in which the hearers have inquired about the truth, but no cases of an open profession of Christianity. The general and increasing respect, however, shown by the Mohammedans to the Missionary, and the frequent friendly calls which he receives from those who have heard him preach, encourage him to persevere in faith and hope.

Education.

The Robert-Money School.

The Robert-Money School, a large Anglo-Vernacular School, remains under the charge of the Rev. R. Galbraith and native teachers. It contained at the close of the year 349 pupils, of whom 204 were Hindus, 91 Roman Catholics, 23 Jews, 18 Mussulmans, and 13 Christians. At Midsummer the number rose to 400, but fell in consequence of an increase in the fees to 320. From this depression it was gradually rising, and the education was evidently the more valued from the increased price set upon it. Mr. Galbraith writes—"There has been a little more manifest encouragement, and I trust a greater token of our heavenly Father's blessing on the school than when I first came." Mr. Galbraith was encouraged by the unexpected confession of the Christian faith by one of the heathen teachers on his death-bed; from which it appeared that a conviction of the truth had been secretly working in his mind, and in the minds of some of his companions, though they had not the courage to make an open confession of Christ.

Vernacular Schools.

Mr. Wilson superintends eight vernacular schools containing 474 children: nearly the whole number pay a small school fee.

Miss White's vernacular schools are five in number, containing 186 pupils, 157 being girls, and 29 young boys. Many of the parents and other adults, especially those who have been pupils of the school, attend Miss White to receive Bible instruction; and her influence is thus gradually extending in Bombay. The following notice of her labours is given in the "Calcutta Christian Intelligencer," (Feb. 1864,) in the report of the visit of the Metropolitan to Bombay—

The name of Miss White, the superintendent of the Church Missionary Society's girls' school, has become a household word in many Hindu homes. For many years past she has laboured with unflagging zeal and admirable prudence in conducting a circle of girls' schools for the poorer and middle classes of her neighbourhood. Many of the girls now in her schools are the children of mothers who, in former days, were her pupils, and in such families, and even in others, she is able to exert a happy influence in disengaging them in some measure from their foolish and superstitious customs, and bringing Christian truth into contact with a partially enlightened conscience, through that best means of access, a grateful heart. Miss White affords a very pleasing instance of what may be done in this country by a perseverance in well-doing, even when unaided by the advantages of high station or commanding talents, and the accomplishments of education.

On the occasion of the recent Metropolitan visitation, our bishop inspected these schools. The children, to the number of 180, were assembled, and presented a very interesting and gay appearance, decked out as they were in every variety of costume in their gala dresses and jewels. The examination had to be held rather early in the afternoon, the reason assigned for which was the risk of the children being despoiled of their finery were they to be in the streets after dark. They went through sundry infant-school rhymes, and the elder ones displayed their power of reading with facility the Marathi Testament. The bishop then addressed to them, through an interpreter, a few simple and appropriate words. They had been singing a translation of the well-known nursery hymn, "The happy land," which supplied a text to tell them of the way and the guide to its shores of rest. A plentiful feast of oranges, plaintains, and sweetmeats, which their good mistress had provided to do honour to the occasion, pleasantly wound up the proceedings. It is worthy of remark that from the first Miss White set her face against the plan adopted in many of our Missions, of making any payment to the girls attending school. She thought that such a system was unsound, and so she persevered in her more real, though less attractive method, with the good result which we have given.

NASIK.

The Christian village of Sharanpur has been under the care of the Rev. C. W. Isenberg. At the close of the year the charge was transferred to the Rev. W. S. Price, on his return from Europe, as he had first projected and established this Christian settlement. Mr. Isenberg reports--

There has been an increase of communicants since last year as you will see from comparing the present summary with that in my last annual letter. The number was then thirty-seven, whereas it is now fifty. Also the general attendance at the house of God is better than it used to be. Altogether there is undoubtedly a slight improvement in the spiritual condition of our flock, and for this I feel thankful, although I am far from being satisfied with it. We are still in want of some refreshing showers of the Holy Spirit to quicken the seed that is constantly being sown, that it may spring up and bring forth much fruit; and therefore we cordially joined our brethren all over the world in prayer during the first week of this year. Concerning our Institutions—the Orphanage, the Industrial Institution, and the Poor Asylum—I am thankful to say, that, since the last Report was printed, these institutions, as well as the African Asylum, have continued to enjoy the blessing of God.

Itinerating.

The Rev. A. Frost has continued his devoted and self-denying labours in the careful and systematic itineration of a selected district. Some idea may be formed of the extent of the district from the following extract of his annual letter:—

I send with this letter a map, showing at a glance the nature of my work, subjoining a brief explanation. The map is a record of five itinerating tours through a district containing 5331 square miles and 1281 towns and villages, with a population estimated at 705,667. There are only five large towns, of which Nasik, with its population of 22,000, is the largest. The places from which the diverging blue lines radiate to surrounding villages show the succesive encampments, from which, as centres, I visited the neighbourhood, and the red lines indicate the course of my tours. Where these lines terminate I have continued my work from village to village (as indicated by the blue lines) on pony or foot, with a bed or small tent carried by coolies, the country being too mountainous for carts.

Mr. Frost, having been compelled by the state of his health to return for a time to Europe, thus expresses his views of his work in the prospect of his temporary separation from it:—

As regards our general work, I think there is at least a more correct view in these parts of the Christian religion, its nature and claims. It is now no longer the new thing that was regarded with suspicion; erroneous and superstitious errors have been lessened, and it is often felt and admitted to be true, and calculated to make man happy here and hereafter; still there is needed a patient continuance iu the work, and a prayerful waiting upon God. Unfruitful as this part of our Indian Missions has been, still so long as God sustains us in the very presence of heathenism, and enables us in faith and hope to scatter the seed of life, our brethren at home must likewise continue to cast themselves on the promises of God.

I feel constrained to record with great thankfulness the uniform kindness and ready sympathy of the Lord Bishop of Bombay, not only with myself, but with my Missionary brethren, from many of whom I have heard the same grateful feelings expressed. Often in seasons of discouragement, or when feeling the nature of my work rather trying, the thought of his Lordship's kind interest in all I attempted has cheered and sustained me.

Out-station of Yeolah.

An experiment has been made during the last year of stationing two native teachers, the Rev. Appaji Bappaji and Mr. Ruttonji Nowroji, at a large native town, apart from all European help. Mr. Weatherhead visited the place after six months, and gives the following report:—

Yeolah is fifty miles due east from Nasik, and contains about 20,000 inhabitants. The chief occupation appears to be silk-spinning and weaving. Some of these places we visited, and were very kindly and civilly received. The weekly bazaar is very large: camels, bullocks, horses, and frequently elephants, are brought to it for sale. It is the largest I have seen in these parts in my short tours. In the evening, just before leaving, we preached in the bazaar, and almost immediately 500 or 600 people collected around us. There was no actual opposition, but a spirit of levity soon began to make fun of all that was said: the preaching, therefore, did not last long. As a field of labour, I think it has given better promise, which has steadily continued for six months, than I have heard of, or met with, in other parts of the Deccan or Nasik districts. The two native brethren, Messrs. Appaji and Ruttonji, occupied a small room scarcely seven feet square, and, apart from this, had no other accommodation. They were gaining influence amongst the people. The higher castes respected them because of their attainments, and many visited them in their small room. During the whole day there were natives coming and going, and amongst the number several Brahmins. Mr. Mengé spoke to many of them.

Soon after this date the teachers obtained a house from a Mohammedan, and they are able to report some encouragement; but the time is scarcely sufficient to pronounce any opinion upon the success of the plan. "One of the most encouraging parts of this work," writes Mr. Appaji, "is, that on several occasions the people of their own accord invited us to their verandahs, and asked us to speak or read to them about our religion. When any of the hearers were rude or disrespectful to us, the majority at once put them down; so that, on the whole, we have been better received and heard here than at Nasik. The number of our hearers was always more than forty on an average."

MALLIGAUM.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé and the Rev. E. Rogers, with native teachers, have carried on the Mission in Malligaum and the surrounding district of Khandesh without interruption. There is a small but fluctuating native flock of about fifty souls. No addition has been made by baptisms during the last year. Marathi and English services are held in Malligaum every Sunday. An English school, which had been supported by the Mission, has been closed, in consequence of the opening of a rival Government school. The children under instruction in the vernacular schools are 133 in number. A girls' school in the camp bazaar, commenced by the late Mrs. Rogers, has been carried on by Mrs. Mengé, with an average of thirty girls in attendance.

Mr. Mengé writes in his annual letter:—

Our hearers, especially in Malligaum, continue to be numerous and attentive, though none as yet have been bold enough to come out and cast their lot with the despised native Christians. In like manner the people in the neighbouring villages listen respectfully and with apparent seriousness to the preaching of the word of God; but I cannot say that I have met with one serious inquirer during the past year. It is, however, matter for thankfulness that Shunkur Nana, our valuable catechist, who constantly itinerates in the neighbouring villages, has brought the report, some weeks ago, that he believed that there were a few individuals at Wyegaum, and in two or three other villages, who were sincerely desirous of being instructed in Christianity with a view to being baptized.

Shunkur Nana also reported that the above-mentioned inquirers became favourably impressed as regards Christianity, chiefly by the humble, consistent, and Christian conduct of Taunaji, who was baptized last year. Taunaji's business is to bring the revenue collected at Sutmana, a village near Wudneir, to the Mamlutdar (native collector) at Malligaum. He has besides other small offices to perform, both for the benefit of Government and for that of the villagers at Sutmana. The Patel (headman) of that village tried to annoy and persecute him on account of his religion; but Taunaji had grace to overcome evil with good, and Government, I am happy to say, protected him in the exercise of his religious principles. His wife, who has been hitherto much opposed to the Christian faith, is now softened, and wishes to be instructed and baptized, chiefly because she experienced so much forbearance and kind attention on the part of her Christian husband and son in her serious illness.

Mr. Rogers reports a pleasing account of the employment of a native catechist under the superintendence of a zealous Christian officer of the Indian army:—

Dhoolia, about thirty-two miles from Malligaum and the principal civil station in Kandesh, was for seven months the sphere of Krishnaji's labours. He went there in May, and was supported for some time by Major Field and an officer of the 6th Native Infantry. He lived in their compound, and had the advantage of Major Field's valuable counsel and experience. Acting under his instructions, Krishnaji preached twice daily, either in Dhoolia, or in one of the villages near. Every evening he gave an account of his day's labour, and prayer was offered up for a blessing upon his work. For the space of seven months, with only a short interval, the Gospel was preached in every street and lane of Dhoolia, and in all the surrounding villages within a circle of six miles radius. I joined Krishnaji occasionally on the weekly bazaar days, but for the most part he carried on his work alone, and consequently had for a time to bear much ridicule and persecution. Gradually, however, his persecutors learned to respect him, and all, excepting a few Brahmin youths, ceased to give him any annoyance.

In November, as the sixth regiment was about to leave Dhoolia, Krishnaji with much sorrow took final leave of his kind friends, Major Field and Captain and Mrs. James, and joined my encampment. He had received from them great kindness, much encouragement in his work, and, I believe, also much spiritual good. Major Field thus speaks of him in a private note:—

"Krishnaji has gone on as before, and gained the esteem of us all by his quiet consistent conduct and diligence in his work. I trust the day of the Lord, if it is not his will that it should be seen before, will show that the good seed of the Word of Life scattered here during the past seven months has not been in vain, and that souls have been saved by it."

Missionary Tours.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé made a Missionary tour during the cold season amongst a circle of villages, many of which never before had been visited by a Missionary. He makes the following general remarks upon the tour:—

In December 1862, and in January, February, and March, 1863, I visited forty-four villages with the Gospel of peace—some of them more than once. In comparison with former years I found that the people were generally better inclined to listen to the preaching of the Gospel than formerly: there was also more intelligence among the villagers, and the blessed name of Jesus was well known in several villages. We met with people who lived twenty miles from Malligaum, and who had heard the Gospel message from our lips in the bazaar of Malligaum, whither they had gone on business. They had been favourably impressed, and now rejoiced at seeing us again in their own villages. Last year I could not sell a single tract in the villages I had visited. This year we sold tracts to the number of sixty-nine.

Mr. Rogers bears testimony to the readiness of the people to purchase religious tracts in a tour taken by him at the close of the year:—

Since Krishnaji joined me, we have been itinerating in the north-eartern districts of the Collectorate, and we are now turning to the north-western. I have been greatly encouraged by seeing large numbers crowd to hear the word preached, and by the readiness which many have shown to purchase the sacred Scriptures and tracts. Krishnaji has sold all the Bibles, Testaments, and portions of Scripture that we had with us, and many hundreds of tracts. In addition to these, Naryen, our tract colporteur, who has been carrying on his work near to us, has sold during the last two months triple the number usually sold in the same space of time. This shows that some interest is felt in those truths which we preach, and which our books teach. In most instances the books sold by Krishnaji have been disposed of immediately after our preaching. I would not be understood to say that there is any thing like a general desire to embrace Christianity: it is rather (and that on the part of some who formerly were very indifferent) a desire to know what Christianity really is, and what it teaches. Still we may justly hope that the perusal of the sacred Scriptures and religious tracts will, under the teaching of the Holy Spirit, be the means of leading some to a saving knowledge of the truth.

JUNIR.

The Rev. C. F. Schwartz, with two native ministers, the Rev. Daji Pandurang and the Rev. James Bunter, has the charge of this station, which still remains proof against the Christian labours of the Missionaries. Mr. Pandurang has charge of the schools, and Mr. Bunter of a circle of villages; but no signs of hope or encouragement are reported. In September Mr. Schwartz visited the district of Aurungabad.

Mr. Pandurang opened, in June, an Anglo-vernacular school in the heart of the town, at which the scholars pay fees. The number of pupils at the close of the year was fifty.

The Rev. J. G. Deimler reports well of the state of the Hindustani school, which was opened at the invitation of the leading Mohammedan residents in Junir. Mr. Bunter gives daily assistance in this school.

Itinerating.

Mr. Schwartz takes advantage of the season for travelling to make Missionary tours in different directions. In these he has been frequently brought into contact with the Kols, one of the aboriginal hill tribes. He thus mentions their case in his journal:—

Before I take leave of the Kols, I notice a visit in one of their villages: it is Ambooli. I was four days encamped close to the village. The Patel was a very civil man. Some of the villagers remembered having heard me preach on Sundays in the bazaar at Junir. As I was, as usual, going to some other villages in the mornings, and the houses of Ambooli being much scattered, I invited the people to come to my tent in the evenings. This they did for four successive evenings. On each occasion my tent was crammed full of them, of all ages, down to boys of ten or twelve years old. Some fell asleep, but others listened with fixed attention till late at night to what I read and spoke to them of the Scripture. When I left they came up to me to see me off. One said, "We have come to hear another preaching." I replied, "Very well; let my things be off, and then we shall have quiet." My things and servants went off, and I remained with them under the tree, speaking to them of Jesus for nearly an hour, and then I left, with their invitation soon to come again. In Hirdi, another Kol village, I had preaching by moonlight, and the whole of the male population was present, and, at some distance, women also listened from the doorway of their houses. The Missionary himself sometimes wonders to know what may remain of the effect produced after he has left, and often it seems doubtful whether any effect is produced at all: but no, we must not be sceptical: it is the word of God which we preach, and it shall not return void. This is the promise given; and, that I should hold it fast, the Lord permitted me to hear, some time after my visit to that jungly place, a testimony that it was not altogether in vain. After my return from the district, I had a visit from Abdoolah Beg, our Hindustani schoolmaster. In the course of conversation, he asked me whether I had been at Hirdi. I replied I had, wondering why he should ask in particular about that little and obscure hamlet. But he went on, saying that some time ago, he had, in the town, overheard a discourse between a Kol and a Brahmin. The Kol was reproving the Brahmin that they (the Brahmins) never tell them of the true God; but, he affirmed, "The Sahib has been with us, and has told us better things of religion than you have ever done."

AURUNGABAD AND BOOLDANA.

The Rev. A. Davidson has been in charge of this district, with three Scripture readers. The district through which inquirers are scattered extends nearly 100 miles. As the converts are of the lowest class of agriculturists, and liable to great oppression, Mr. Davidson has taken a large tract of land, which he proposes to cultivate as a model farm on which he may train up converts to higher industrial and social habits, who may afterwards return to their villages and support themselves by their small farms. The scheme has the countenance of many Christian friends in India, who have supplied the necessary funds, so that no part of the expense or of the risk will rest with the Society. Mr. Davidson resides at Booldana, at the most northerly part of his district. The Committee hope soon to place another Missionary at Aurungabad or in its neighbourhood.

The Rev. T. K. Weatherhead and the Rev. C. F. Schwartz visited this district in September. Mr. Schwartz reports at the close of the year :—

My observation during the last three months, in which I have travelled in this district more than 300 miles in different directions, is that the desire for Christian instruction is confined to the Mang caste, which is the lowest of the low; yet here it is not universal, but confined to a few families and relationships, to which nearly all our converts belong. These are the leaven which has begun to leaven the whole lump of their own class, and it is to be expected that, by the blessing of God, the movement will extend and work its way from the lowest to the highest of the community. Budnapore is a nucleus of several villages in which Christians live, fifty in all, of whom about one-half are at Budnapore itself. On Sundays they all come in to unite in worship, which is conducted by a native Scripture reader. This is a sphere which a native pastor might fill with great advantage. The little church is, I hope, at present a shining light in the midst of darkness. There is undoubtedly a work of grace, which shows itself in the signs of spiritual life in several individuals."

At another village Mr. Schwartz found ten candidates for baptism, prepared by the native Scripture reader, who came in to Aurungabad and were baptized. Some of these converts, though of the lowest caste, have exhibited much strength of character in their endeavours at self-improvement, and in resisting the temptations to join in idolatry. No schools have as yet been established amongst them, but Mr. Schwartz was surprised to find one man reading the Bible aloud, who, on being asked where he had learned to read, replied, "I have learned it in my field by myself: while my bullocks rested I learned every day a little." The same man said he could not do without prayer; every thing would go wrong. He did not think that once or twice a day was enough, but he prayed whenever his heart was drawn towards God.

SINDH MISSION.

Mr. Matchett's departure from India has left the two stations of Kurrachi and Hydrabad under the charge of the Missionaries, the Rev. J. Sheldon and the Rev. A. Burn respectively.

KURRACHI.

Mr. Sheldon gives in his annual review the following remarkable account of the concourse of different religions and nationalities at Kurrachi—

"The field of our operations in Kurrachi alone is constantly widening. On all sides the town is spreading, while the rapid influx of strangers has raised the population to 70,000. Compared with our great Indian cities this large number is low in the scale; but, at the present rate of increase, another ten years will give us a population of 200,000. With temporal prosperity the religious interests of the three great systems prevalent here seem to have been well attended to. The Mohammedans, with the aid of an European pervert, a man of Danish descent, have restored an old mosque, and built a large and most beautiful new one. The Hindus have been unusually active. Their festivals are more expensively kept up than ever, and their willing support of their religious teachers is but too apparent in the growing number of their fakeers, and the residence of a Maharaj amongst them. The third great section, the Sikhs, who are professedly zealous proselytizers, has greatly increased in numbers. Their chief Gooroo lives in the compound adjoining our Mission, and is visited every Sunday by crowds of our most respectable natives. With all these we mingle, by many we are personally known, and by them we are generally respectfully received. Faith bids us hope well of this influence, and we ought to believe that Christian truth, so faithfully and constantly set before them, cannot be ineffectual. In addition to the above, Parsees form a large and an increasingly influential section of our community. They still remember with bitterness their loss of Merwanjee, and for the present seem lost to our influence. It is very sad to see how their increasing temporal prosperity fills them with worldliness. Their first thoughts are about getting money; their second how to eat, drink, gamble, and be merry, generally, it would seem, in the European style. There are, however, bright exceptions amongst them, benevolent men of large hearts, ready to assist the needy whenever they have opportunity. We have a few Jews and Armenians, who occasionally attend our services at the Mission Chapel. On the right bank of the Tyaree lies the largest suburb of Kurrachi, occupied chiefly by Africans. Its inhabitants are, almost without exception, grossly ignorant; but seem, especially the Africans, open to Christian influence. I think it is most desirable to have a branch school with a resident catechist amongst these people, who now number at least 10,000. In this brief sketch I ought not to omit the pilgrims and traders. During the year, thousands of the former have passed through Kurrachi on their way to a shrine called Hinglaj, the most westernly point of Hinduism. Their halting place is close by the Mission House, under a wide-spreading banyan-tree. Here may be seen Bengalees, Hindustanees, Mahrathees, Madrasees, Guzeratees, and, occasionally, natives of every province of the peninsula, arranged in groups under their sacred tree. Here the Missionary often preaches and distributes tracts. Being known to the Mihmandar (the host of the pilgrims) he is always listened to and respectfully received.

My two assistants have, however, rendered me efficient help. Merwanjee has most earnestly and prayerfully striven to influence the young men of his acquaintance. Our Scripture reader, Suliman, a Jew sent to India from Bokhara by the late Dr. Wolff, and baptized by the Loodiana Missionaries, is a very useful man. He is well acquainted with both the Old and New Testaments, and, in addition to his knowledge of Hebrew, can speak Hindustanee, Persian, and Pushtoo.

The services at the Mission Chapel have been, on the whole, encouraging. The native Christians number only twenty-five, but occasionally both Hindus and Mohammedans, with some Jews and Armenians, attend. For the benefit of our native Christians living near the Mission House I have a daily morning service, with Bible reading, and from this exercise we have all profited.

I now turn to our Mission School. The number on the register is 107, and its influence I believe to be great. Everywhere throughout the province our scholars are to be found. They regard us as their friends, and gladly introduce us to their relatives. That Christian truth has been disseminated by this agency is to say the least. We have abundant testimony that some of our young men have been fully convinced of the truth, and, were it not for family obstacles, would gladly embrace it openly. They seem one with us. They attend our services, make us their friends, and, as one of them has remarked, would, on their deathbeds, like Veida (an old scholar who died last year), confess Christ. Our English readers must not judge too harshly of these young men. In becoming Christians they have to leave all. One of them has a mother, a sister, and a young wife, wholly dependent upon him. Is it easy to leave them? Can we urge him to act rashly? No, we must labour and wait. If they are sincere, God will open a way for them as he has done for Merwanjee. I ought also to add that I have the willing testimony given by our merchants and others to the trustworthy character, and general good conduct of our pupils, and applications for our boys are now in our possession, which we are unable to meet.

In the bazaar a ceaseless aggressive work has been carried on. At the beginning of the year I was discouraged in this part of our labours. I persevered from a sense of duty, making it a rule to go to the bazaar, to one of three preaching-places, every evening. Many a hard battle has been fought, and many a shout raised for Mohammed; but as I sit down and calmly review the whole year, I am more encouraged than I was a year ago. If any can fully sympathize with our pioneer Missionary, Henry Martyn, in all his contests with the Mohammedans, the Sindh Missionaries are the men. Here in Sindh we have Mohammedanism in all its strength, with succours pouring in every year; men of mental power, and great energy of character are needed. I have a young Sindh, a man well versed in Arabic, who can quote the Korán in Arabic as easily as I can speak my Catechism, and is well instructed in Mohammedan literature. He has just returned from a pilgrimage to Mecca, and, as a Hadji, is greatly respected by all Mohammedans. He is dissatified with the Korán, and has come to us to inquire about Christianity. He has been admitted to the class of candidates for baptism. The reading of the Gospel has led him to compare the character of Christ, with that of Mohammed, and he is satisfied that, however well the teacher of Mecca began, he ended an imposter, and was immeasurably inferior to Christ. This man has been just entreated by the Mohammedans to return to his first faith, and afterwards savagely attacked by them and stoned out of the bazaar. But, by God's grace, he still continues firm, and, notwithstanding his great learning, is daily reading the Gospel of "the greatest of all men" with the simple trust of a child. Take him and our Parsee converts, and you would with difficulty, even in England, find two men of their age equal to them in knowledge and real ability.

Our Kurrachi friends have most liberally supported our work. During this year I expect to raise over 3000 rupees. My great want is native helpers; but my constant prayer is to have them raised up in the Mission.

HYDRABAD.

Mr. Burn has forwarded the following report of his work:—

The school has necessarily engaged the greater part of my time and attention. The number of boys has increased steadily, from sixty in the beginning of the year to 110 (on the books) at the present time, and I feel encouraged by the spirit and diligence shown by the boys.

Preaching has been carried on daily in the bazaar by the catechist and Scripture-reader; and during the time that Mr. Matchett was in Kotree the catechist resided there with him, and there was daily preaching there also, and frequently large and attentive congregations.

The Governor-General.

THE Committee have to notice among the providential encouragements of the last year the appointment of Sir J. Lawrence to the Vice-royalty of India—one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, and a zealous supporter of its distinctive principles; and they trust that the friends of the Missionary cause will support him with their prayers for an abundant blessing upon his high official labours, in behalf of the political, moral, and religious welfare of the people of India.

CALCUTTA.

The veteran Missionary, the Rev. T. Sandys, continues his zealous labours, after thirty-three years in India, among the native Christians in Calcutta and the neighbouring villages, and in superintending the work of the native catechists. The Rev. C. Bomwetsch has resided for the last year in Calcutta, and has found access to the higher classes of native society, who are never reached by bazaar and open-air preaching, or by the Christian services of the native congregation. The Rev. J. Vaughan and the Rev. J. Welland have taken their part in the Mission.

The Rev. E. C. Stuart is the Secretary of the Corresponding Committee.

Mr. Vaughan, in his annual letter, takes this general view of the dark as well as the brighter aspect of the work in Calcutta—

In several respects we are in advance of the Mofussil stations. Our people are more independent, and, upon the whole, more liberal. Except it be the free ministration of the ordinances, there scarcely is any other mark of their dependence. Their children they have now for years fed and clothed; they never dream of asking help in this matter; they even pay a monthly schooling fee for their children. Whenever they are asked to contribute to any object, they do so with apparent readiness.

There is also a little band of decided followers of Jesus, about whose piety there can be no doubt. Alas! there are Mofussil stations in which the Missionary laments that he knows not of one living soul. Then, again, there is an increase going on amongst us. Not a year passes in which we do not admit a number of adult converts to the church; but there are Mofussil stations where, for ten or twelve years, not a soul has been brought into the fold. Looking on these features, I sometimes quiet myself, but truly the comfort is very negative. When, on the other hand, I look at the general apathy of our people, at their negligence of the means of grace, and at the gross and immoral lives of some, who I grieve to say have for many years disgraced this Christian compound, then I am cast down. Many are the bitter moments which I spend, and of all days none is so sad as Sunday, for then is the evil brought more prominently before my eyes. The only thing to be regretted is, that these people were ever admitted into the church. There is no doubt that all those who now bring us so much trouble and reproach have either themselves been insincere from their baptism, or they are the children of parents who were so. There is no telling the extent of the evil.

For months back I have allotted three days in the week for the instruction of the readers. Three of them I am taking through a theological course: this embraces the Articles, Evidences, Scripture, and sermons. I oblige them to get up their subjects thoroughly before coming to me. The exercise is, I believe, of great service to them.

For several years back I have been sending out the readers occasionally into the district around Calcutta. Since the two new railways have been opened in the neighbourhood of the Mission station, one day in each week is allotted to such an excursion. Thus the seed is scattered widely. One instance of good has recently come to our knowledge. More than three years ago I sent two of the readers into the villages to the east of Calcutta. They encountered a very decided and somewhat able opponent: he was a man who knew the Shasters thoroughly, and seemed determined to maintain their integrity against all assaults. Several times he engaged the preachers in a spirited controversy. Of course they looked upon him as the least likely of all to be brought to God. But the Lord had laid hold of him: he could not escape. Month after month he pondered in silence. Quietly he possessed himself of a copy of the Scriptures. This he studied diligently; and at length, when three years had passed over, and when he and his opposition were well nigh forgotten, he turned up a simple and earnest believer. He was admitted into the church by baptism, and it is pleasing to know that he is not less zealous in commending the truth to his neighbours, than he was formerly in upholding error.

During the past month I made an excursion down the river as far as Saugor island, preaching at the villages on either bank. It was astonishing how little was known of the truth in that direction. In several places the people seemed hardly to have heard the name of Christ. At one place we were greatly cheered, and I trust lasting fruit will appear; we found a body of respectable natives who listened to the message with singular interest.

Mr. Welland describes the altered temper of the people, as apparent in a short Missionary tour with Mr. Dyson, in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, and gives some interesting facts respecting the work:—

Mr. Dyson again and again remarked the improvement in the manner of the people, which was almost everywhere evinced. He and others of our party had been, at various times, to some of the places we visited, but had never before experienced the same general respect and attention from the people as we now enjoyed. Whether this is to be attributed to the part the Missionaries took in the indigo disputes, or to other causes, may be open to question; but the fact was undeniable, that, with occasional rebuffs, the people listened readily to the Gospel, and often interested us by their questions, or by the evident impression the truth seemed to make on them.

Through the ready liberality of the Corresponding Committee, a suitable chapel was erected in a bazaar during the year, on an excellent site. We generally secure a fair congregation there, and have great reason to be very thankful for such a building. During the day it is open as a book-stall. A catechist in attendance endeavours to draw passers-by into conversation, as well as to dispose of the books and tracts, and has thus often opportunity of speaking for the Good Master, or reading a striking passage to attentive auditors. The kindness of the Calcutta Christian Tract Society, and, through Dr. Kay, of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, has made this attempt more easy. The Tract Society allow us twenty-five per cent commission on sales. The Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge gave us a grant, to which Dr. Kay himself added a further private contribution of books. The time seems to be at hand when such enterprises will become more and more useful. People now pay for books which, in former years, they were unwilling to receive as presents; so that there is reason to hope that bazaar chapels everywhere may become resorts for inquirers after religion, and repositories of tracts and books which elsewhere are never seen by the natives. This, too, would afford a ready way of employing many a native agent whom age or infirmity renders unable for the more arduous duties of itineration or roadside preaching.

Agurpara.

This out-station, of which the chief feature was an Anglo-vernacular school, has been for many years under the charge of the native catechist, Mr. De Rozario, with the occasional visit of a Missionary from Calcutta. During the last year Mr. De Rozario was admitted to holy orders by the Bishop of Calcutta, after twenty-nine years of faithful labour in subordinate offices.

The Anglo-vernacular school at this out-station maintained for many years a high character for efficiency, and for the Christian tone which prevailed throughout the whole system on which it was conducted. All the masters were Christians, and trained under Mr. De Rozario. The school was independent of Government aid or inspection. But within the last four or five years the attendance of the heathen children gradually fell off, or, as soon as they had made some progress, they were transferred to other and rival schools. Mr. De Rozario was ready to relinquish the school altogether; but it was suggested to him that the change was owing to the very altered position of education since the Government had entered so largely into the work of secular education, and since the impulse given by the Calcutta University. This led Mr. De Rozario to review the case afresh, and ultimately to accept a Government grant-in-aid, and to shape his system in accordance with the new spirit which had arisen. The result is given in Mr. De Rozario's own statement:—

A Government grant-in-aid of 60 rupees was received in October 1863 for the Anglo-vernacular school in this station. The school re-opened, after the Dussorah vacation, on the 2nd of November, with only eighty-eight boys on the roll; and notwithstanding the enhanced rate of fees with which the new arrangement commenced, the number increased, by the beginning of the present year, to 182 boys.

Simultaneously with our new plan, a free school, styled the "Agurpara English and Vernacular School," was established next door to us, under the auspices and Secretaryship of the sub-editor of the "Englishman," and supported by a subscription raised for the purpose. But the days are gone by for well-conducted free day-schools; and the encouragement afforded by Government has stimulated the Hindus to open their purses wider, and pay for the education of their children. Hence, boys are migrating fast from other schools to ours. We have now (February 1864) 202 pupils, with an efficient staff of eight teachers. The pupils are divided into an entrance class, preparing for the University examination in December next, a preparatory class for 1865, and six other classes.

The present character of the school is both secular and Missionary. Secular, because the pupils are prepared for secular vocations by means of secular books, and mostly non-christian teachers, from want of native-Christian ones. But this department is also paid for by money not intended for Missionary purposes, such as the Government grant and the schooling fees. It is nevertheless a Missionary school, inasmuch as the Institution is under a Christian Missionary influence: portions of the Bible and other Christian books are publicly taught during the school hours in every class, by Christian teachers; weekly lectures in the vernacular on the doctrines and precepts of Christianity are delivered to the whole school, teachers and pupils; and the school is opened and closed daily with prayer. For this department of labour the Church Missionary Society contributes. It seems to me now that our schools, though once flourishing, began to fall, because old views held us too tenaciously, and prevented us from taking advantage of new providential openings. We called our schools Missionary, whilst we spent Missionary money for a great deal of secular education, without even fees. But an over-ruling Providence has been setting us to rights. We were compelled to introduce the fee-system, and now constrained to receive a Government grant. And what is the result? Things have been brought to their right bearing. Secular education is given with secular money, and Missionary work carried on with money for Missionary purposes, with increased opportunities for benefiting souls.

The care of the Burdwan Mission devolved upon the Rev. Alexander Stern, upon the return home, through ill health, of the Rev. S. Hasell, at the close of 1862. During the last year the Mission was visited by one of those trials which are of the most painful kind to the Missionary, and which would stagger the faith of Missionary friends if they had not that divine word for their refuge, "Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, the Lord knoweth them that are his." Circumstances brought to light the immoral conduct of the most trusted native teacher in the Mission; and it appeared, upon investigation, that, for a long series of years, this man had been pursuing a course at variance with his Christian profession, creating a moral blight upon the congregation, and deceiving the Missionaries. The Committee had long noticed the fact that there was no progress in the Burdwan congregation: the number of communicants appeared to be stationary for ten years: the effort to establish a native church fund failed within a few months after it was set on foot. The cause of these disappointments is now sadly apparent, and should teach us the great hazard of the attempt to form a native church under an European pastorate, in which the Missionary is too often blinded by a crafty catechist, so that he is kept in ignorance, for years together, of facts which are notorious among the native Christians and the surrounding heathen. A native pastorate, supported by the voluntary contributions of the converts, is the only effectual cure of the evil.

Mr. Stern writes his annual letter under great discouragement. He notices the fact that not a single convert has been gained from the town of Burdwan, notwithstanding the constant preaching of the Missionaries; and that the congregation has been made up by the children of the Orphanage, and by those who have joined the Mission as paid agents, and have brought their families from other stations. At the same time Mr. Stern bears testimony that there are at Burdwan a few genuine native Christians, who show forth the fruits of divine teaching.

The Burdwan English school contains nearly 200 pupils, but it has not been in a satisfactory state, and the head master has been changed. An Anglo-vernacular school at Mymaree, sixteen miles from Burdwan on the east, contains 158 pupils, and is reported by Mr. Stern to be prospering.

The chief encouragement which this Mission affords is from itineration in the surrounding district during the cool weather. One or two extracts from Mr. Stern's journal will give a picture of his employments:—

I have here pitched my tent in the bazaar of a populous and respectable village: a mighty banyan-tree stretches its arms far above my little house, and protects it from the rays of the sun in the day, and from the cold at night. The importance of the place you may judge from the fact that there is an English school here containing eighty boys, and a superior vernacular school, both aided by Government, besides two common village schools. There is a bi-weekly market here, and then we had many listeners, who flocked to our preaching under the banyan-tree. All day long, since our arrival, people come to buy books, portions of Holy Scripture, which we never give gratis, but sell at very low prices. When the English school is over, almost all the boys crowd round my tent, and then I catechize them about their religious notions, and relate to them some parts of our Lord's history. The Zemindar of the place, a wealthy Baboo, supports the English and vernacular school with a contribution of 60 rupees per mensem. The same amount he also gets from Government.

Dhanikala, Feb. 1. Two men came from a village of the neighbourhood which two of my native assistants had visited the day before. They begged me to go to their village, as many of the people wished to hear more of our religion. I went, and found about thirty men: all the respectable inhabitants of this small place were assembled and waiting for me. A chair had been held in readiness, and the audience placed themselves on seats round about me, and listened with intense attention to my account, which began with the creation of man, and ended with the ascension of our Lord. Night was setting in, and I promised to come again the following day. The following morning, on my way to this place, I found again a very attentive audience. A Missionary had never visited that village, but an inhabitant had brought two Christian catechisms from Calcutta, and they had been reading these with much interest. This morning I visited a village close to this, containing several thousand inhabitants, but which was never visited by a Missionary. At this place there is an English school, where I am expected this afternoon. The master is entirely blind, and was formerly trained in Dr. Duff's Institution. He desires me to teach his pupils the Scripture during my stay here, and he much regrets that he so rarely sees a Missionary. Only once has he had a visit, and this was from Mr. Neele some years ago.

KISHNAGURH.

The European agency in this Mission has remained as in the last year. The Rev. C. Blumhardt superintends the Sudder station. The Rev. S. Dyson has had charge of the Anglo-vernacular school, and takes part in the surrounding Missionary operations. The Rev. J. G. Lincké has resided at Bollobhpore, and discharged the duties of that as well as Solo station. The Rev. R. P. Greaves has resided at Kapasdanga, and the native minister, the Rev. M. S. Seal, has laboured in the district.

The Missionaries report that all the routine duties of the several stations have been carried on as in former years. But the Mission is now in a transition state. It was stated in the last Report that a system of temporal assistance to the native converts had been continued from the early days of the Christian movement in the district, which had brought into the Christian church many unsound professors of the Christian faith, and that the attempt to break through this system, and to introduce a more healthy self-reliance, and to raise up a spirit of aggressive Christianity among the congregation, had been attended, in the first instance, with many defections, with a diminution in the schools and congregations, and a general spirit of dissatisfaction.

At the close of the year the Rev. F. Schurr returned to the district after a visit to Europe, and carried out with him the latest instructions of the Committee, and their sanction of the reforms which were being introduced. As a part of the new system, Mr. Gmelin removed from Calcutta to establish, in Kishnagurh, a model school and training class for native schoolmasters, and to undertake the inspection of a portion of the village schools. Mr. Dyson resigned to Mr. Gmelin the Anglo-vernacular school, in order that he might devote himself more entirely to the work among the heathen. Mr. Schurr resumed his position at Kapasdanga, and Mr. Greaves was transferred to Burdwan.

Under these new and changing circumstances, the Committee will abstain from presenting any formal report of the labours in the district for the last year, in the full hope that they may be able at the close of another year to present a more encouraging account in the results of the new system.

It is due, however, to the zealous and successful labours of Mr. Dyson in the Anglo-vernacular school to state that, before he resigned the school, four of his boys were sent up to the Calcutta University entrance examination, who all passed, one of them being in the first class, and obtaining a scholarship of the second grade. Mr. Dyson did not resign this educational work through discouragement, but because he thought his labours might be more effectual in other directions. The following is a statement of the work in which he has been hitherto engaged:—Besides the Anglo-vernacular school, he has had, on the Sunday, an English and Bengali sermon at the station. He has also superintended various schools at out-stations, and the work among the heathen connected with them, viz. two large and important schools at Nuddea, eight miles from the station, and a vernacular school at Purbostholeo; an Anglo-vernacular school at Bannanpore, seven miles from the station. During the year the care of the Santipore schools, thirteen miles from the station, devolved upon Mr. Dyson, comprising two aided schools for boys and a heathen girls' school, numbering sixty pupils, all daughters of respectable Baboos. The school is conducted by a Christian and his wife, and application has been made for the opening of a second girls' school in the place. Santipore is an intensely Hindu town. Mr. Dyson also superintends two native Scripture-readers in Kishnagurh, who are exclusively employed in preaching to the heathen, and he has opened a branch Mission at Oorgoolal, eleven miles from Kishnagurh, at a railway station, where a catechist resides, who is wholly employed in preaching and conversing with the heathen. This large amount of Missionary work obliges Mr. Dyson to relinquish the Sunday services and the Anglo-vernacular school at the station.

BHAGULPORE AND THE SANTHAL MISSION.

The Rev. E. L. Puxley has been suddenly compelled to visit England for the recovery of his health. Upon his departure, the Rev. W. T. Storrs removed from Lucknow to superintend the work. In consequence of these changes, the Committee have not yet received any annual report of the station.

II. North-west Provinces.

The North-west Provinces comprise eight principal Districts, viz. Agra (commenced 1813); Meerut (1815); Benares (1817); Gorruckpore (1823); Jaunpore (1831); Kotgurh (1847); Jubbulpore (1854); Lucknow (1858); Azimgurh (1861); Fyzabad (1862).

ALLAHABAD.

The station at Allahabad is under the charge of the Rev. Brocklesby Davis. The large native congregation, numbering 380 souls, is under the charge of the native pastor, the Rev. D. Mohun. He is supported by the advice and assistance of Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis spends three evenings each week in preaching in the bazaar: he also occasionally makes tours in the neighbourhood. A large annual mela is held at Allahabad, which is the resort of multitudes from all parts of India. At this mela Mr. Davis and his catechists preach the Gospel to all classes. It has pleased God to give them one convert, a Mahratha Brahmin from a distant part of India, who, since his baptism, has been increasing in knowledge, and walking consistently with his Christian profession.

There are three boys' schools under the superintendence of Mr. Davis. During the latter part of the year he commenced having the teachers at his house once a week to read the New Testament with them, and to prepare such portions as are to be read in the schools. A public examination of these schools gave great satisfaction to several gentlemen, members of the civil service, who took part in it. Mrs. Davis has commenced a small girls' school for Mohammedan girls in the city.

The native pastor, in the annual report of his labours, states:—

It is gratifying to report this year that our native Christians have advanced a step. They have subscribed (a few excepted) regularly to the pastoral fund, to their school, and also towards a native doctor. Another step which our people have made is a collection for sending the news of a Saviour to their perishing countrymen in the villages round about Allahabad. The Lord bless this feeble effort of his people, and give them a due sense that the evangelization of India depends upon the children of the soil.

JUBBULPORE.

The Rev. E. Champion has charge of this station. There are about fifty native Christians, of whose conduct the Missionary speaks with much satisfaction. Mr. Champion makes frequent Missionary excursions into the neighbourhood, visiting many Gond villages. Of the Gonds, as an aboriginal hill tribe, the Missionary entertains the highest hopes of success if a Missionary can be assigned to this department who will acquire their language and devote himself to their instruction. A Missionary has already been set apart for this work.

Education.

The Anglo-vernacular school numbered at the last reported examination 240 boys. It has the advantage of two well-qualified native Christian teachers; and the Bible instruction is carried on with much spirit, and appears greatly to interest the pupils. A second Anglo-vernacular school was opened in the course of the last year in the Sudder bazaar, which soon numbered 130 pupils. "I am glad to direct attention, (writes Mr. Champion,) to the names of various native gentlemen and Mahajans of Jubbulpore as subscribers to our funds. This evinces their appreciation of the education imparted in our schools and their conviction of their high character and stability."

Mr. Champion has employed one of his native Christians as a Bible colporteur amidst the surrounding villages. The Agra Bible Society furnishes the stipend. The number of copies of parts of the Scriptures sold has been encouraging.

BENARES.

The Rev. Messrs. Smith, Leupolt, Erhardt, Fuchs, and Hooper have laboured at this station. During the latter half-year Mr. Smith was absent in Cashmire. Miss Hooper is at the head of a female training school; and Messrs. Treusch and Weber are the superintendants of the training and normal schools respectively.

Native Church.

The number of native Christians has somewhat increased by the baptism of children, and by the arrival of native Christians from other parts. The number at the close of 1862 was 347 : at the close of 1863 it was 373. The congregation at Sigra is under the pastoral charge of Mr. Leupolt, who reports that the conduct of the Christians has been consistent with their profession, and that they have contributed liberally to their Native Association for the relief of the sick, as well as to a Native Missionary Association for supporting a native Scripture reader for the villages surrounding Sigra.

The congregation in the city under the pastoral charge of Mr. Smith has been transferred in his absence to the care of Mr. Hooper, who reports—

This congregation, the members of that which, by God's mercy, is to form that of our city Church when built, has been under the Rev. W. Smith for very many years; but since he went to Cashmire at the beginning of this year it has been temporarily under my charge. It consists of the catechists who live in the city (as most of them do), their families, and others whom they may persuade to come. At first we had service, as before, at Mrs. Smith's school in Kudai ki Chauki; but as that became unsafe at the beginning of the rains, we removed to a large room in Jay Narain's College. This is more inconvenient for one of the catechists, viz. Samuel, but on the whole it is more central, and has the special advantage of attracting more boys who attend Jay Narain's weekly. Some of the first Persian College class, whom Baboo T. Luther instructs, regularly come; and sometimes the number of non-Christian attendants (recognised by their remaining sitting throughout the service) almost equals that of the Christians. It is very convenient to have a Christian service like this to which we can tell any inquirer or professed inquirer who may come to us to go, and where any one who may take a fancy can go freely, without exciting the suspicion which his going to Sigra would be sure to raise. I have regularly held two services a week in this place, one on Sunday afternoon which all attend of whom I have made mention; the other on Thursday afternoon, which only the catechists themselves attend. On Sundays I have been going through an exposition of the daily prayers in the Prayer book, explaining their meaning, showing their conformity with Scripture, insisting on the state of mind in which we should use the different clauses, &c., and pressing home the truths therein contained. I have now just finished the Lord's Prayer, in the exposition of which I have taken three months. Ofcourse, on Easter Sunday, Sunday after Ascension, Whitsunday, Trinity Sunday, and any saints' day which comes on Sunday, I have spoken on the subject which the day has called us to notice. On Thursdays, likewise, I have had the Epistle to the Hebrews in hand, explaining it and enforcing it practically, verse by verse. This also has of course been interrupted on such days as Ascension-day, &c. My reason for thus, as a rule, instructing this congregation regularly in the same subjects, is, besides that it accords more with my own mental character, that I think it to be just what the catechists need.

Mr. Leupolt reports of the small congregations at Gharwa and Gotiband:—

The congregation at Gharwa has not increased in numbers, but rather decreased. We have had no conversions from without, and no young men from here have expressed a desire to become agriculturists. One of the members died in the course of the year. Until we have a resident catechist or reader at Gharwa we shall not make much progress.

Ramaya-baba, with his wife and family, lives at Gotiband. As he found last year he could not do the work of a catechist, he refused taking any pay. My expectations of him have not been realized, but he may yet become a useful instrument in the Lord's hand. He himself has been greatly disappointed in his disciples, but all this is no doubt good for him. He will now, I hear, comply with our wish, and come and settle among us for a time.

Education.

The Training Institution has now been brought into full operation. It was opened March 1862, and the first two years were necessarily spent in gradually collecting pupils, and carrying them through a preparatory course of study. Mr. Leupolt superintends the whole. Mr. Treusch is at the head of the training department, and Mr. Weber has charge of the model school, and of the preparatory class of students. Miss Hooper has charge of the female pupils; but as female education is far behind the education provided for the other sex, the position of a schooolmistress is as yet hardly recognised in India, and her task is very difficult. Three out of eight pupils married within the year, and two others are engaged to be married. Miss Hooper, however, is not discouraged, but perseveres with admirable zeal and ability. Of the male department Mr. Treusch reports—

As the present normal school has only been in existence for two years, I have not much to say of its past history. Every new enterprise is more or less beset with difficulties. We, too, have had our dark as well as bright side of the picture; but I must here thankfully acknowledge that the latter has far exceeded the former; so that, in reviewing the past, there is much cause for thankfulness, and in looking to the future there is every thing to inspire hope, while our present motto is "Forward!"

Mr. Leupolt reports:—

Our success has been beyond our expectation. Mr. Murdoch was here, and acknowledged the same. We start for the new year with forty-eight pupils—thirty young men and eighteen young women—including the preparatory class. Among the number are some very good young men. One is leaving the press at Allahabad at a salary of Rs. 20, to join us. But this success brings us into new difficulties. Where are all these young men to live? We have no students' houses. Mr. Treusch is admirably adapted for the work. Miss Hooper is a lady of much ability, hardworking and persevering, but on her pupils there is no dependence. Good pupils make good wives, but unless they marry teachers they are lost to the work.

Jay Narain's College. Of this Institution Mr. Erhardt, the acting Principal, reports:—

The number of scholars at the college and free school is much the same as last year—392 on the roll. The only difference observable is, that the three first quarters of the year have been marked by a very numerous attendance, so much, that if we had not been so heavily visited by cholera for several months, our average attendance would have been larger than in any of the former years. It is also gratifying to see that our scholars from the ages of between fifteen to twenty-five are steadily increasing. This is doubtless owing to the raised standard of English education, and to the appreciation of the same on the part of the students.

The first year of our affiliation to the Calcutta University has now passed away. Those of our friends who looked upon this step as dangerous may wish to hear how we have liked the change. If this new connexion should ever impair the religious character of the Institution, the sooner it be relinquished the better. The step has secured to us advantages we never had before. On account of the higher standard of education, the students stay longer under our influence, get a clearer insight into the Christian religion, and, as they get maturer in age, they become more independent of their friends and families.

Mr. Hooper reports:—

My connexion with this college during the past year has been limited to the entrance English class and the Sanskrit class in the college. My Sanskrit class at Jay Narain's remain the most bigoted Hindus, and the most opposed to true knowledge and progress, in the whole school. I have this year read the Gospel of Luke with them, and have endeavoured, at all good opportunities, to apply it both to their consciences, and to their belief in Hinduism, but as yet apparently with no effect. I should mention, however, that there is one lad of the class, who professes a sincere desire to become a Christian; but as yet he has very little knowledge, nor does he show great sincerity by diligence in attending the means of grace.

A branch school at Kashipura contains 64 boys. The orphan schools, and infants' schools contain 145 children, and the city girls' schools 150.

Testimony of an experienced Punjab Missionary to the work at Benares.

The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick, upon his journey through India, in January of this year, thus records his impressions on passing through Benares:—

The great changes which have passed upon India in the interval between my first and second visits are very striking. English influence seems to obtain very considerably, and that unimpressedness which we used to think unalterable in the natives has yielded manifestly. They have come much nearer to us in thought and habit, and are now in great numbers speaking our language, and following to some extent our social customs.

At Benares I was thankful to find the same three senior Missionaries as in 1851, still vigorous and zealous. The Mission seemed to me to have gained greatly by the assistance of the Misses Gabbett, and by the establishment of the training schools. The self-denying devotedness of those three ladies, who live in the midst of the heathen, and support their school with great liberality, gratified me very much. I examined their boys' school (using the Hindi language as most familiar at Benares), and was rather surprised with the promptness and intelligence of their answers. The internal arrangements of the school seemed to me very judicious, and, altogether, I look hopefully for results.

Preaching to the Heathen.

All the Missionaries have taken part in the work of preaching to the heathen in the city or in the surrounding districts. Mr. Leupolt reports:—

The Gospel is telling upon the people in various ways. At present our preaching is real preaching: we have scarcely any arguing whatever. Old Hindustan is not inclined to argue, except we meet a Pundit from the villages, who has come here on pilgrimage; and young Hindustan is ashamed to speak of his creed. They either say, "We have no creed—only customs;" which is true; or they speak on religion in such a way that it is not difficult to see whence they obtained their knowledge. They put a piece of new cloth on an old garment, and if you ask them where they obtained the new cloth from, they will reply, smiling, "Well, it is written somewhere—where we cannot tell; and if it be not thus written, then it should be so." The railroad and electric telegraph add their quota in demolishing the old stupendous structure of Hinduism. Convinced in their own hearts that caste is a human invention, as we have told them again and again, they allow no longer caste to interfere with their comforts. They eat on the railroad, and drink water wherever they can obtain it; a thing they would not and could not have done twenty-five years ago. It is no longer the astrologer who defines the time when they are to start on a journey: the Railway Company fixes the time, and the bell points out the lucky moment for starting. Japhet, on returning from the city the other day, came to me with a beaming countenance, saying, "I had no idea of the large amount of Gospel knowledge which the people possess. If I had not known that the people with whom I conversed were Hindus, every one present might have been taken for a Christian."

In the villages Gospel knowledge spreads likewise. We see the evidence thereof every day. The people have heard of Christ, and they no longer scoff at the mention of his name. They feel that there is something in Christianity—an invisible power, which they cannot define.

The few inquirers I have are apparently sincere; but whether they will ever be baptized I cannot say. They look around them, among the Europeans, for spiritual Christianity—for people who live up to their privileges and knowledge; and they see so little of this. The Essays and Reviews are read by them; also Colenso, though the latter will apparently do less harm. It is sad that, after our adversaries here find that their own peculiar weapons are useless in meeting us, Christian England should furnish them with new arms to oppose the cause of truth.

Mr. Hooper makes the following remarks in the course of his report upon his part in this work:—

I have had some blessed opportunities, which I would by no means have lost, of preaching Jesus to eager and apparently deeply-interested listeners; but, in general, people have exhibited indifference or even aversion to the Gospel. I never stay parleying with one whom I see to be merely cavilling: I either keep silence and wait till he has done, or send him away by some remark which shames him before the people. But independently of cavillers, the people in general seem as if they knew all which one can tell them of the Gospel in the street (which is, of course, the mere outline), and as if they had heard enough of it. On this account, street preaching seems so unsatisfactory; I always feel (and my experience at school tends to confirm the feeling) that, could I get any of those persons alone who are scornfully turning away, and reason with them quietly, and explain to them the Gospel more profoundly, I might awaken their interest. But I know not how much of this apparent want of success may be owing to my ignorance of the language, and God alone knows how much it may be owing to want of purity of motive and strength of faith.

Out-stations.

Chunar.

The native-Christian congregation at this place numbers about 70 souls: 11 men are old pensioners, 22 are married women, and 24 widows. They are under the care of a native Minister, the Rev. D. Soloman, who reports discouragingly of them. He has a school of 109 boys, which he has been obliged to teach himself, having been unable to obtain a schoolmaster, which has interfered both with his pastoral and his evangelistic work. The Rev. J. Fuchs visits the station regularly, and reports that the congregation is steadily decreasing by deaths and removals, while no new members are added to it.

Juanpore.

Juanpore has had no resident Missionary during the last year. The only Missionary agency is an Anglo-vernacular school, under the charge of a Christian Bengali schoolmaster, who, though a good man, is very imperfectly acquainted with the Hindustani language. Mr. Hooper spends three days a month at Juanpore, superintending the school, and preaching on the Sunday to the European residents, as they have no other clergyman to visit them. The church was built many years ago by the residents, and made over to the Society. There is not a single Christian connected with the station.

AZIMGURH.

The Rev. Albert Lockwood is at this station, and superintends a large Anglo-vernacular school. The annual report has not yet been received.

GORRUCKPORE.

Gorruckpore has been under the charge of the Rev. H Stern for the year 1863. It consists of two branches. There is a native congregation, numbering 154 souls, an Anglo-vernacular and other schools in the town of Gorruckpore, and a Christian agricultural village at Basharatpore, numbering 162 souls, about two miles distant. Mr. Stern is assisted by several native teachers, but as there is no native pastor for either congregation, Mr. Stern holds the native services at Gorruckpore regularly, and at Basharatpore occasionally. The contributions of the Christians have exceeded 42*l.* during the year. Preaching to the heathen in the town of Gorruckpore is daily carried on by native catechists, and during the cold season Mr. Stern made a short tour into the neighbouring districts. The Anglo-vernacular school numbers 223 boys, and two interesting cases of conversion—the one a Mussulman and the other a Hindu youth—are reported this year as the fruit of the evangelistic influence of this school.

The annual report of the Rev. H. Stern gives the following interesting account of the success of the Christian colony of Basharatpore:—

Basharatpore, as a Christian colony, deserves some particular notice. This settlement has decidedly made some progress. Its outward aspect is, to a great extent, satisfactory. The native-Christian cultivators pay their house-rent and ground-rents regularly, and many of them are in a prosperous condition. The arrangements made some three years ago, in alloting to cultivators a certain number of fields, and putting one uniform rate of rent on each portion, has answered admirably. Each has bestirred himself to make his portion of the land yield as much as possible.

The income of Basharatpore from all sources, i.e. ground and house-rent, sale of fruit-trees, &c., amounted, during last year, to Rs. 1114, of which Rs. 400 are paid to Government, and the rest is used for the church and school establishments, for repairs and building cottages, for wells, and for general improvements of the village, &c. All that the Society expends on Basharatpore is the maintenance of Patras, the resident catechist, who, besides the school, has the general management of the village. Basharatpore has its own Punchayat, or village court, which hears and decides occasional disputes, and from which there is appeal to the Missionary. The Basharatpore grant is a most valuable piece of property, and is becoming more so every year. It is of immense use for settling native-Christian cultivators, and for making it the foundation of an independent pastorate and school establishment. Not many years will pass before Basharatpore will have its own native pastor. He should be supported from the land revenue.

I am also happy to report that the church at Basharatpore, called the "Church in the Wilderness," will soon be re-opened for divine service. Since the late mutiny it has been lying waste, and it has been a reproach among the Gentiles. It has been now repaired and enlarged, and by Christmas it is hoped the native Christians of Basharatpore, who have been hitherto accommodated for divine service in the spacious Mission-house, will again assemble in the same building in which many of them received baptism, and thus the last mark of the mutiny will have been removed from this Mission.

LUCKNOW.

The Rev. Messrs. Mengé, Reuther, W. T. Storrs, and T. Storrs, have laboured at this station during the past year. In the course of it, however, Mr. W. T. Storrs was removed to the charge of the Santal Mission; and his brother, Mr. T. Storrs, took the charge of the native-Christian church, numbering more than 100 souls, and the schools. Messrs. Mengé and Reuther are wholly devoted to the work among the heathen and Mohammedan population. Mr. W. T. Storrs, after five years' residence in Lucknow, takes the following review of the progress of the Mission:—

I recollect so well the morning we entered Lucknow, after an anxious night, passing through the watch-fires of our soldiers, and hearing Beni Madhu's guns firing in the distance. What a heap of ruins the city seemed! such awful desolation! It was as if there had been a terrible earthquake; nothing on every side but fallen or falling houses, that had been blown up by our engineers, or destroyed in the seige; and all the walls so full of bullet holes, that the idea of small-pox, which entered my mind as a doctor, might well have occurred to others. And now what a change! The part of the city that was then most ruinous and desolate is now most beautiful—old palaces restored, new beauties sprung up, a bright green turf over the levelled ruins. Would that the moral condition of the city were as much changed! When the Munshi who taught me in Benares was one day speaking of Lucknow, he said (rigid Mohammedan as he was), that if God should rain fire and brimstone on it, as he did on Sodom, it would only be a fitting punishment for the wickedness of the people. Even the people themselves often, when at first we began to preach, acknowledged that the terrible desolation of their city was evidently the hand of God punishing them for their awful abominations. Even, since I have been here, I have been told by natives that they had always heard of Lucknow as the most wicked place in India. Lucknow is still bad enough, but still it must be much better than it was. Of course I cannot be foolish enough to assert that much of this is owing to Missionary work. The wealth of the people has gone; the court of the King, a perfect nest of villany, has been removed; there has been a most vigorous administration initiated by Sir R. Montgomery, and carried on by his successor. Yet I do honestly believe that the faithful labours of my brethren have not been without some effect in helping to produce the very different appearance of the state of things as regards morals. When I think of the faithful, persevering, daily teaching of my brethren—Mengé, Ball, and Reuther—the crowds of quiet listeners that evening after evening crowded around our preaching-places—I am sure that only the great day will reveal the result of these five years. At first the city was comparatively deserted; some of the bazaars were almost empty; one, which is now so crowded that often in the evening you might almost walk on the people's heads, had then scarcely an inhabitant; yet, even then, wherever there were people there were ready listeners. But at first the people were cowed: they had been so severely punished they dared not answer or argue with us. Gradually the novelty of the preaching wore off; the fear of us as Englishmen passed away; but the number of listeners scarcely decreased at all. There began to be more discussion: some few annoying noisy disputants sprung up, who returned continually to the charge, asking the same questions evening after evening, with the same bold, self-confident air, as if they had received no answer. This died out: patient, quiet answers, gentle reasoning, silenced these men. One or two of them became the very best listeners; And for the last year and a half or two years there has been a different phase. People began to look forward to our coming; knowing the day that we generally visited a certain place, on a certain day; and in one place, there were, and are, I doubt not, still, two or three quiet reasonable men, who were reading the Old Testament very carefully, and every week had some questions to ask, and some objections to put forward, about what they had read. In the villages of Oude, in whatever direction I went, there was always the same encouragement. My experience was always of the same hopeful character. The absence of bigotry, the kindly feeling towards us—several times the unfeigned hospitality—the simplicity of character—the evident impression made for a time on the feelings by the story of Christ's love—always made prayer very sweet, and very full of hope that God would reveal Himself to these people. As to the native church in Lucknow, which was specially in my charge, I cannot but feel there is much cause of gratitude to God. I never dare write much in our local report about the people, because they always saw it and read it, being printed in Lucknow, and much praise or blame would have been equally bad for them. Now I can speak more freely. The number of adults was small, and most of them came from other places; and though I cannot say that there was that spirituality among the people I would have liked to have seen, yet there was not only the root of Christianity, but much of the fruit. Often they distressed me very much: many times I could not sleep at night, from grief and anxiety about them; but still I often felt very happy among them. They could not have been more regular in their attendance on the means of grace; they gave very liberally of their substance to the Lord; indeed, I may say, there was a holy ambition among them as to giving; and though often there was a want of charity in their way of speaking of one another, and little jealousies arose, yet there were very few quarrels among them. I am sure that many—even many Missionaries—do not appreciate our native Christians: they have their faults, and we have ours: theirs are very glaring to us, and ours are to them. No one can know native Christians who does not mix with them familiarly in their homes, treating them, as far as possible, as equals, and not as if we were a superior race. Although the church at Lucknow is too small yet to hope to have a native pastor, yet the people have already begun a fund for the support of one when the time has come for one to be appointed. I shall never forget my happy days in ministering to the people at Lucknow: the people loved me as I loved them.

The school seemed to be prospering when the introduction of a mihtar (sweeper) boy, as at Agra, dissolved eighty into seven. The school never entirely recovered this blow, and was only beginning really to prosper shortly before I left. Yet, though the number of boys was small, among the elder ones there was a most excellent spirit: at no lesson were there such eager faces, such sometimes painful interest, as at the Bible lesson. I say painful, because it was evident they all knew where their convictions ought to lead them. Since I left I believe the school has considerably increased under my brother, and I feel it will do so more and more.

Mr. Mengé gives the following interesting account of his department of labour—

We have been enabled to preach, except when illness prevented us, to large and attentive congregations of Mohammedans and Hindus, and have become acquainted with several new Moulvies and Pundits. I introduced Mr. Stuart, when here on a visit, to the officiating high-priest, and some other learned Mohammedans; and when the Conference took place, I introduced Messrs. Leupolt and Fuchs to a good number of Moulvies and other Mohammedans, and for several hours we conversed on portions of the sacred Scripture, and I preached with Mr. Leupolt in the bazaar, although I was scarcely well enough to do so. A few days ago Mr. Reuther and myself were invited to meet a number of well-read Mohammedans, in the house of the son of the old high-priest. There were about thirty present, and among them I recognised several old acquaintances, and an old Arab with whom I had previously conversed in the bazaar. The features now presented to the Missionaries regarding the Mohammedan mind are peculiar. We are generally received by the Mohammedans with courtesy, and very often with cordiality. Several invite us to their houses, and numbers come together, who, in a good-tempered way, converse with us on portions of the sacred Scripture, and visit us in our houses. But they try to discover in the sacred Scriptures not the natural sense which they convey, but they distort them either to prove the truth of Mohammed's mission, or they try to point out apparent contradictions, from which they wish to argue that the Old and New Testaments now in our hands are neither authentic nor genuine. One learned Moulvie asks me to peruse a book, written by another Moulvie, who is now dead, but who, in a very subtle way, has quoted the opinions of Origen, Chrysostom, Jerome, and other ancient fathers of holy writ, as well as those of Henry, Scott, Luther, the German neologists, and Roman-Catholic writers who wrote against Protestants, and vice versâ. He has also quoted the Samaritan Pentateuch, and points out the passages in which this differs from the Hebrew text; also the Septuagint, and in what it differs from the English version, &c. This man also takes up Dr. Pfander's tracts, and tries to do away with the force of all the evidences of Christianity so clearly stated in them, by using the weapons of infidelity, and injudicious critics among us. One of the greatest difficulties the Missionary has to contend with is the utter want of logic among Mohammedans. They are in this respect good disciples of Bishop Colenso; e.g. will you believe it that the officiating high-priest fancies that the New Jerusalem, as described in the Apocalypse, was intended to designate the Kaaba? and that the angel who showed the sacred city to St. John was Mohammed? However, I greatly rejoice that the Bible is now being read and studied by a good many among the learned natives of this city, and that opportunities are often given me to confess the Saviour before them, and to explain to them the prophecies and promises which have reference to Him, and the Church of Christ on earth; and who knows whether the Lord will not soon in mercy enlighten their understandings, and give them faith to believe in Christ as the Saviour of the world?

In a subsequent communication, Mr. Mengé thus refers to the inquiry so often made—What are the results of Missions?—

We are often asked, How many Mohammedans and Hindus have you baptized? We might answer in the words of St. Paul, We are not sent to baptize, but to preach the Gospel; but as this question generally involves in the inquirer an erroneous estimate of the work of Missions in the Upper Provinces of India in the present day, I will offer a few remarks on the subject of Missions; and, as one who for nearly a quarter of a century has given his best time to this great work, and who is personally acquainted with most of the Missions in Bengal and in the North-Western Provinces, his experience ought to be considered of some value. I believe then, and am fully persuaded, that a very great and highly important work has been and is being carried on by Missionaries, and that great progress has been made during the time I have been engaged in the work. I do not so much refer to the number of baptized natives, although even in this respect we have much reason to thank God for the first-fruits He has vouchsafed to his servants; but I refer to the different position the Christian religion now occupies in the thoughts of thousands, yea, of tens of thousands of natives, from what it did twenty years ago, and, as regards Lucknow and Oude, five years ago. Prejudices against Missionaries and the Christian religion, as the religion of Englishmen, are fast losing their hold on their minds. The word of God is more read, and, in some measure, understood by numbers, and the word of God is its own interpreter. The intercourse between Missionaries and natives generally is more cordial. The more intelligent among them see plainly that politics, as such, have nothing to do with the Christian religion; and that it cannot be propagated by the sword, or by fraud, but, on the contrary, that truth, love, humility, justice, and holiness, are inculcated as a sine quâ non by the Gospel of Christ.

Mr. Reuther also draws the following contrast between the position of the Missionary in India twenty years ago and at the present time:—

When I compare the state of this country now with what it was twenty years ago, I cannot help exclaiming, What hath God wrought! When I first arrived in Hindostan, Missionary work was far from being interesting. The proud Brahmin at Benares looked upon the Missionary with something like disgust. When we addressed him he would keep aloof, from fear of being defiled by our very nearness. When we gave him a tract we had to put it on the ground, and from the ground he would take it up, it being sanctified by touching the earth. In his house we had to take care lest his cooking vessels should be defiled by our clothes coming in contact with them. In the bazaar he was noisy, and opposed the Missionary in a most determined manner. There is scarcely an old Missionary in the country who has not been insulted by his hearers in days gone by. I was one day standing at a ghât below the minarets at Benares, and addressed a number of Maratha Brahmins. The place is called by some the devil's foot, and I do believe the devil was not far that morning. The worshippers were most fierce: they began to tease me in every way possible. Some threw water on me, others wanted to push me into the Ganges. Some were of opinion that I was too unclean a being to be sent into the holy river Ganges, and it was perhaps owing to this opinion that they let me escape, not by water, but by land. One day I was brick-batted in another place of sacred Benares, and reached my home wounded and bleeding. Were the Hindus in those days troublesome, then the Mohammedans were even more so. At Ghazeepore they used to follow in the bazaar from street to street, abusing and blaspheming. Alluding to the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, they would say, "This man is a cannibal: he drinks the blood and eats the flesh of his prophets: he is a pig-eater and a wine-bibber, and not fit to be listened to."

Now this state of things is essentially passed away. The Missionary is respected and welcomed as a friend wherever he goes. A charpoy is brought, a blanket spread, food and pân is offered, and many say, "This day my house has been sanctified by your visit." For hours they listen to the story of man's salvation by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The story of his atonement and death for them touches their hearts: they have nothing like it in their own religious systems. They admire this doctrine, and Christ becomes precious to them: they desire to know more about Him. Many say, "We shall soon become Christians." Others desire us to remain with them, and to teach them the Lord's way to heaven. Many wish to have books, in order to read these things at home. One man, the other day, came late in the evening to hear something of that story of the love of God to sinners which he had not had time to hear in the day. Others have come several miles across country for books and information. The force of Scripture is being felt in the country. The large amount of light that has been spread by education comes in to assist.

AGRA.

The Rev. Messrs. Schneider, Shackell, and Däuble, have continued their labours through another year at this station. The Rev. J. Barton removed in the early part of the year to Umritsur, and was succeeded in the charge of St. John's college by the Rev. C. E. Vines. Mr. Steller, an European catechist, has joined this station from Kotghur.

The Native Church.

The congregation of native Christians attending St. John's church number about 150 adults. They are under the pastoral charge of Mr. Schneider, who writes:—

There has been an increase in the numerical strength of the congregation, but I find it difficult to speak with certainty of the spiritual improvement and the beneficial influence which the in-individual members of the congregation exercise on the heathen and Mussulman population around them. How do I wish and strive, that every one of my dear flock may be a shining and burning light in the thick darkness which surrounds us! I can rejoice and be thankful, if I have not to mention offences and gross sins! but this cannot content me: I wish to see every one a living member of the body of Christ, zealous to advance the Saviour's kingdom and glory by a humble and faithful and prayerful walk and conversation among their heathen countrymen. It cannot be denied that the unchristian conduct of many who bear the name of Christ is the greatest stumbling-block to the heathen, and one of the chief hindrances to the spread of Christianity among the people.

The Bible meetings of the catechists and teachers on Saturdays have been continued. After the Acts of the Apostles had been finished, they agreed among themselves to read Genesis. We have come in this book as far as the 33rd chapter. I am assured that these meetings have not proved unprofitable.

It is nearly half a century since a Christian church was first established at Agra under the fostering care of a Corrie, and under the powerful preaching of a native minister, Abdool Messeeh. Agra has since had also the advantage of some of the ablest Missionaries in India, and, of late years, of a large educational establishment. The slow and feeble progress of the native church at Agra, under such advantages, exhibits a remarkable proof, that our hopes must be built upon the general progress of the work rather than upon any present and local successes.

At Secundra there is a native church, comprising from thirty to forty adults, and the children of the Orphanages. This congregation is under the charge of Mr. Däuble, who speaks favourably on the whole of their Christian conduct.

Education.—St. John's College.

The Rev. C. E. Vines furnishes the following report:—

Our progress in the college has been steady, and though we have not been able to recover the high numbers we had on the rolls in 1862, yet there has been an increase of about fifty in the average monthly attendance. We have been able to procure a larger number of pupils for the Calcutta University Examinations than on previous occasions. Three have gone in for the first Examination in Arts, and seven for the Entrance Examination. The first three, and five of the latter, have passed. A Christian Bengalee, educated in the Agra (Government) college, has been added to our educational staff. After his coming, I was encouraged by the number of our Christian masters, who understand English, to commence a monthly prayer-meeting. It was my hope in this way to unite us more together, and to remind each one of the sacred character of the work, and the source from whence he should seek the necessary talents to do it well. The great question Christians will ask, and rightly, is, What evangelistic work is the College doing? Is it doing any? Yes, it certainly is; but not work which can be at present gauged by conversions. It is leavening a large mass with Christian principles. Numbers of our old pupils would be Christians, if they were supported by the example of others in their own station of life. The interviews I have had in private with those at present in the college, and with old pupils of it, show, when every allowance is made for the desire to say what pleases, that the knowledge of the truth is producing its effect.

There are three vernacular schools in Agra, containing about 100 children, and the Orphanages at Secundra.

The Orphanages at Secundra.

The Orphanages contained, at the end of the year, 125 boys and 163 girls. They are under the superintendence of the Rev. C. G. Däuble and Mrs. Däuble, with the assistance of Miss Ellwanger, from Benares. The boys are trained up to industrial employments, such as weaving, tailoring, and carpentry; but the chief industrial employment is that of a printing press, which, in addition to such work as can be obtained from the public, issues a religious periodical, called the Secundra Messenger, the monthly circulation of which has risen to 1200 copies.

Remarks on Missionary education by Mr. Kempson, the Director of Public Instruction for the North-west Provinces.

Early in the present year an annual examination of St. John's College took place, and a distribution of prizes. The visitors included almost all the civilians who were at the station, together with the Brigadier and several officers from the cantonments. The chair was taken by Mr. Kempson, the Director of Public Instruction for the North-west Provinces, who, after distributing the prizes, thus addressed the meeting:—

It is with diffidence that I have consented to take the chair on this occasion, when there are so many on whom the honour would have fallen more appropriately. Yet while, as a Government servant, I do not regret the opportunity of expressing my sympathy with the educational labours of Missionary bodies, as a Christian man I am glad to wish them well publicly. They do not, indeed, need the praise of man, or the applause of passing generations, but they do value sympathy felt for them in their exertions, and that by a fellow-worker in a path which leads to the same great end, and one who, with them, looks forward to the day when, side by side with a more prosperous internal condition, a healthier inner mind shall grow into maturity, and the heathen heart turn gratefully to the true God, whom it now ignorantly worships. If such sympathy is welcome, as I trust it is, I am glad of the chance which has given me the power of expressing it. It is unnecessary to dwell on the scholastic progress effected during the past year in St. John's college. The results have been succinctly stated by the Principal. I have great pleasure in congratulating him and his staff on the success which has been achieved, which is the more satisfactory as the institution has lately tided over a critical period of its history; and I congratulate Mr. Barton, the late Principal, that the policy then adopted has been so far proved to have been sound and seasonable. I believe that now-a-days people are less afraid of education. Though there may be some who dislike it, and others who disbelieve in it, yet men generally are less puzzled by the difficulty of reconciling the secular and spiritual interests of humanity, and recognise the fact that it is with the heart, not the head, that man believeth unto righteousness. It is my hope that matters in this respect may still improve, and that the Grant-in-aid system, which is under gradual development, may be more perfectly adapted by degrees to meet emergencies. There are, at any rate, fewer objectors to the cause of education, fewer of those icebergs which have floated down into a warm latitude, and which exercise a chilling influence in their neighbourhood, though destined gradually to melt away under the sun of national progress and prosperity. I may add my experience that the people are becoming the better and happier for education. There is to the close observer a less apparent neglect of social and moral duties, and a greater regard for physical comforts; and I congratulate the friends of education present here to-day that the signs of the times are healthy. In conclusion, I would ask them to remember the words of the good Prince Albert, spoken some fifteen years ago:—"I conceive it to be the duty of every educated person closely to watch and study the time in which he lives, and, as far as in him lies, to add his humble mite of individual exertion to further the accomplishment of what he believes Providence to have ordained."

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Schneider reports:—

Morning and evening the glad tidings of the Saviour of the world were proclaimed in the city of Agra, its suburbs, and neighbouring villages. Four or five times in the week I accompanied the catechists to the different preaching-places. In January I was out in tents for two weeks, visiting a number of villages, and the whole of November was spent in attending the melas at Goberdhan and Batesur. We meet in the city with less encouragement than in the melas and villages, where the people make generally less objections, and are not so much prejudiced against our religion.

Mr. Shackell has continued to devote himself to preaching to the heathen in Agra and at several out-stations. In Agra the work among the Mehtars, or sweepers, of which an account has been given in former reports, has not advanced, and Mr. Shackell candidly owns that he was too ready to admit to baptism some of the early inquirers, who have since proved a hindrance to the work, though none have renounced Christianity.

Out-stations.

Muttra.

Mr. Shackell reports :—

Muttra I have continued to visit occasionally during the year: there are now a considerable number of Christians connected with us there. Most of them came originally from Agra: these include the Tahsildar of Kosy, who was head catechist at Secundra before the mutiny, the Bakhshi of Bindrabun, three chief constables in the police, the chuprassie in the Mission school, and Madho Ram, catechist and teacher. There is also the head master of the Mission school, a Bengali. These, with their families, amount to twenty-eight in all. The remainder of the Christians, sixteen in number, belong to the cantonments, have all been baptized while residing there during the last two years, and were all from the mehtar caste; I am thankful to say that they are decidedly superior, both in conduct and attainments, to the generality of the converts from the same people in Agra. Nearly all the adults can read more or less, and nearly all seem active in instructing those around them. They are members of six families. Three men were baptized this year, and two of the wives. I do not like to quit this subject without noticing the activity of the first convert, Saffri, now in Mission employ at Muttra: his influence has been the chief human instrumentality in bringing nearly all these into the fold.

The English school at Muttra has also been under my charge since Mr. Barton left Agra. Before making it over to me, he arranged for the transference of Madho Ram, already mentioned, from the Mission college at Agra to Muttra; but he was forced to leave three times successively by attacks of illness. In consequence, however, of his great wish to return to Muttra, he removed there again in October; and very glad I am to have his assistance, as he holds a more regular service for the Chistians, besides acting as a catechist, and helping in the school.

Allygurh.

Allygurh has been adopted as an out-station, in the hope that an European Missionary may soon be stationed at it. In the mean time Mr. Steller will reside there, and carry on the evangelistic work, for which he is well qualified by his zeal and proficiency in the language. Mr. Shackell writes:—

I have generally a congregation of from ten to fifteen at the Urdu services in this place, including members of East-Indian families: they have determined to commence subscriptions for a Mission church fund from the beginning of next year, this resolution proceeding entirely from themselves, and being in no way prompted by me. I have also, on my visits, held service on Sundays for the numerous English-speaking inhabitants, there being no resident clergyman in the place.

Hatras.

Hatras was first occupied as an out-station with a view to an apparent movement among the sweepers; but this did not prove satisfactory, and a catechist has now been placed there, who addresses the people generally. Mr. Shackell and Mr. Steller visit the place from time to time.

MEERUT.

The work at Meerut, and in its very interesting out-stations, has continued under the sole charge of the Rev. T. Hœrnle. The Committee have only been able to strengthen his hands by sending him a training schoolmaster, though the need of a second Missionary is very pressing. Mr. Hœrnle has, however, three very efficient native helpers, namely, Mr. Sandys, a convert from Moulmein, trained in the Society's College in Islington, who is the head master of the English school, and the native misisters, Tulsi Paul and J. Jacob, who are located at out-stations. In the review of the events of the year, Mr. Hœrnle records the great mortality which has prevailed, eleven adults and several children having died out of a Christian community under 700. He also laments the want of an aggressive spirit among the native Christians, for bringing their countrymen to Christ. Yet at the Sudder station he is able to report that the Christians, numbering in all less than 200, of the poorest classes, have made monthly contributions towards the maintenance of the church, for preaching to the heathen, and for Bible and Tract Societies, amounting in all to 29*l.* The Anglo-vernacular school contains 138 boys. A small girls' school is in the charge of Miss Hœrnle.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Hœrnle reports :—

Preaching to the heathen has been steadily attended to throughout the year. All members of the Missionary staff have taken a share in it, yet so that in the hot season our preaching efforts are directed more to the city and the bazaars of the cantonments, and in the cold weather more to itinerating in the district, and visiting melas. In November as many of us as could be spared went to the great annual fair at Gurhmukteser, where preaching the Gospel and distribution of Scriptures and tracts were kept up for several days in succession. Our audiences were always numerous, and often very interesting.

The Rev. W. Rebsch, who is stationed at Kotghur, as soon as the snow suspended his labours among the Himalayas, removed into the plains, and spent several weeks in preaching the Gospel in the city of Bulundshahar, and the surrounding villages.

Mr. Hœrnle gives a lively picture of the state of mind into which many natives are brought, and which may well call forth the earnest sympathy and prayers of the church at home.

There has been no lack of so-called inquirers in the course of the year at the Sudder as well as the out-stations; but it is often not easy to find out their motives. Generally speaking they belong to one of three classes. The first and most numerous is that of the carnal-minded, who mix up Christianity with their hopes of worldly gain. They would be glad to become Christians, if thereby they could obtain an easy life and good supply of the dainties of Egypt. Less numerous are those who, longing for something better than either Hinduism or Islam can give them, are serious in their inquiries, and hope to obtain rest for their troubled souls through faith in Christ. Besides these, there is a class of inquirers—and it is perhaps more numerous than is supposed—who belong to the more thoughtful and educated circles of native society. They have nothing to gain of the things of this world, but much to lose by embracing Christianity; they are intelligently persuaded of the folly of idolatry and insufficiency of Islamism; they have perceived the superiority of the Christian truth, and, to a certain degree, appreciated the purity of its morals; they feel and acknowledge that they can obtain salvation only through Christ; yet they will not go a step further, and embrace the truth by an open confession. Unwilling to make the sacrifice which this would involve, they persuade themselves that this is unnecessary, and that it is enough to believe in Christ in their hearts, and worship him silently. We know at this time of three or four such men. An old acquaintance of the Missionary, a Mohammedan of a neighbouring town, writes beautiful letters, full of devotion to Christ; he reads the word of God, and enjoys its precepts; he asks the Missionary, on his occasional visits, to have prayer with and for him, and he kneels down worshipping God in Christ his only Son. A Hindu of superior education, and with a perfect knowledge of English, is in the habit of reading the New Testament with the Missionary in his room, kneeling devoutly down at each time in prayer for God's blessing upon the word to be read and explained. His remarks show his appreciation of, and faith in, the Gospel message. Another Hindu asked a few weeks ago for a copy of our Prayer-book. "Why? You are a Hindu. What will you do with this book?" "Oh no, I am a Christian in my heart: I have forsaken my false gods, and given up the superstition and folly of idolatry: I believe in God, and worship Him in the manner of this book." All these men have good situations under Government, and a sure and sufficient income. It cannot be the hope of filthy lucre that makes them gather round the fountain of God's word. Yet they stop short. They do not go a step further, and openly confess their silent conviction. Perhaps it is want of moral courage, or the fear of man, or a morbid belief that it is unnecessary to enter the fold of the good Shepherd, thinking they can follow him outside, without placing themselves under his banner. But they can have no peace of mind so long as they remain in such an undecided state of mind, nor taste the lovingkindness of Christ. We can only pray that they may have grace to fight the good fight manfully, and overcome all obstacles from within and without.

Other inquirers have decided for Christ. The number of adult baptisms at the Sudder and out-stations has been thirty-one, few, if compared with that of last year, which was forty-four. Yet we have no reason to despond, but rather to take courage, and be thankful for this measure of visible success. More will be given, if we pray more, and labour on with a single eye to his glory.

Out-Stations.

The peculiar interest of the Meerut Mission consists in its flourishing out-stations. Mr. Hœrnle thus writes:—

We have reason to rejoice at the progress of our evangelistic work. Two new outposts have been taken up—at Pilkua, a large village eighteen miles south of Meerut, and at Hapur, an important town on the great trunk road, between Bulundshahar and this city. A chain of out-stations running from Meerut to Agra, with a lateral branch to Ikla, has thus been nearly completed. Whilst the Missionaries of Agra have extended their operations northward as far as Aligurh, ours have been pushed on southward to Hapur and Bulundshahar. One link only is missing, namely, the town of Kurja, between the latter city and Aligurh. When this is supplied, our evangelists, on their preaching excursions, may now and then shake hands on the boundaries of their respective districts. There is abundance of evangelistic work on every side; the harvest in many places white, but labourers are few. May it please the Lord of the harvest soon to give us a greater supply of active and faithful native helpers!

Maliyana and Kunker Khera.

These two villages, about five miles apart, are under the pastoral charge of the native minister, the Rev. Jacob Joseph. They contain 130 Christians. The native Christians, being for the most part agricultural labourers, have to encounter many difficulties in obtaining a livelihood. They can obtain no employment in their own villages, and are beholden to a friendly Zemindar at a distance of five miles, so that the men are obliged to stay in their fields during the week, coming into Kunker Khera for the Sunday. The native minister labours amongst them to the entire satisfaction of Mr. Hœrnle, though he himself speaks discouragingly of his own labours. The Archdeacon of Calcutta visited the village, on his visitation in the early part of the year, and has transmitted the following account:—

Kunker Khera, one of the Christian villages which have sprung up near Meerut in consequence of the mutiny, was visited the same day. It is one mile and a half off, and is under the care of the native pastor the Rev. Jacob Joseph, lately ordained by the bishop to the pastoral charge of this place. As you walk up the main street of the Christian village, the pretty little church is before you, the pastor's house and Christians' houses on the right, and other Christians' houses and the schoolroom on the left. The school, which has about forty boys and girls, the children of Christian cultivators, was examined, and such of the congregation as could be brought together at so short a notice by the sound of the bell, met in the church, and the archdeacon addressed them, making use of their minister as his interpreter. He left the place greatly gratified, and thankful that good fruit has sprung out of such terrible events.

Ikla.

Mr. Hœrnle writes:—

Ilka, twenty-eight miles south of Meerut, is in a hopeful state of progress, owing, under God's blessing, to the active and judicious management of the catechist in charge. The families located here comprise fifty-four souls, all engaged in agriculture. They have not yet attained such an independent position as we desire and labour to see; but a marked advance towards it has been made, inasmuch as they have learnt to understand that its acquisition depends on a two-fold consideration, the blessing of God and their own exertion; that while they have to look to Him for the first, the other must not be neglected. The catechist and his wife, who are like parents among their children, give them a good testimony in this respect, and are full of hope. Divine worship is performed on Sundays in their temporary chapel, and prayer, with reading and practical exposition of the Scriptures, held by the catechist every evening when the work is over.

Being as yet unable to pay subscriptions to their church in cash, the Ikla Christians have set an example which might be imitated with advantage by their brethren at the other out-stations. They have appropriated a piece of land to the church. This they till by turns, each family taking a share in the labour. The produce is sold, and the money, after paying the rent and the cost of seed, made over to the church as their contribution towards its support. The amount thus realized last year was Rs. 16.

Mr. Hœrnle was accompanied in some of his visits to the out-stations by Mrs. Hœrnle. The eye and pen of a lady often furnish graphic sketches of the nature of Mission work which serve to deepen our interest. Mrs. Hœrnle writes respecting a visit to Ikla:—

Notwithstanding their great poverty, it is quite a comfort to compare the vast difference between their decent and cleanly habits in dress and housekeeping, with those of their Guzer neighbours, which we had ample opportunity one evening to witness, when my daughter and I visited some of the Guzer women in their secluded dwellings. Every thing there, even the expression of their faces, (though many of the Guzer women struck me as having peculiarly fine features,) would speak of the power of darkness amongst them; whereas our poor Christian women, illiterate and untrained as they are, give one the happy impression of having been freed from the power of Satan.

We had put up in the temporary mud house, which serves for their church, and has a little apartment into which, on Sunday, all our things could be removed, to have the large room available for divine service. This was a very solemn occasion, and altogether a most blessed Sabbath to us and our little flock. The Lord's Supper was, for the first time, administered in Ikla. One of the men had partaken of the holy sacrament in Meerut, but the other members received it for the first time. Our number was twenty-nine. In the course of the same service Mr. Hœrnle baptized six persons—three adults, a little boy, and two babes. It was one of my happiest days, and I do hope the blessing we all realized on that day may neither be forgotten nor neglected by any of us.

Bulundshahar.

Mr. Hœrnle writes:—

Bulundshahar, the city so-called, itself is smaller than Meerut; but it derives importance from being the station of the civilians, to whose administration the district is committed. During our visits in the early part of the year we enjoyed the kind hospitality of Mr. College, the joint magistrate and collector, who, with his lady, since Mr. Lowe's death, took a great interest in the little Mission, strengthening our catechists in their work by advice as well as occasional help. But before the close of the year this friend and supporter was removed by death. The superintendence has now, we are thankful to say, been temporarily undertaken by Mr. R. Currie, of the civil service. Other disappointments have occurred. The senior catechist has, upon the whole, given satisfaction. Through his instrumentality, and the help of our friends, we have been enabled to maintain the work another year, the Lord vouchsafing a hopeful earnest of success. In February the first fruit was gathered in—a Hindu woman, who was baptized on Mr. J. Skinner's estate at Belaspore. In August two young men, a Mohammedan and a Hindu, entered the fold of Christ's church. They were baptized at Bulundshahar. One month afterwards a woman of the same place was baptized at Meerut, along with her two children, a girl of thirteen, and a boy of fifteen, who we hope will eventually return to his native place as an evangelist. The number of native Christians at this branch Mission is sixteen, including the catechists and their families.

Martindale, in the Dehra Doon.

The interesting native-Christian community settled on the estates of Major Rind in the Dehra Doon, is under the pastoral care of a native minister. Mr. Hœrnle has visited it more than once during the last year, and writes respecting it:—

"Martindale, situated in a beautiful spot of the Western Doon, where the river Jumna issues from the Himalayan mountains, is advancing in interest and stability. The following is an abridged translation of the last report drawn up in Hindustanee by the native pastor, the Rev. Tulsi Paul:—"The Christians in my charge are living in four little villages near their temporary church and school and my own house. Altogether there are now about 100 adults and 92 children who constitute my flock. I have divine service with them twice every Sunday, catechize their children, and visit them in their houses, giving them advice, and ministering to the sick, for whom I am supplied with medicine by Mrs. Rind, who is very kind to me and them. The daily work in each village is closed by prayer, in which all that possibly can unite. As I cannot be present in all these meetings, I have appointed a pious member of each village to conduct them, and alternately I visit them myself. I have much reason to thank the Lord for the measure of encouragement vouchsafed on my feeble ministrations to these Christian brethren, whom I love much. They are poor but meek in heart, and conduct themselves more and more as is becoming Christ's disciples. I trust they will be a shining light in darkness. They have begun in right earnest to exert themselves for their own stability: they regularly attend on the means of grace, and are diligent in the improvement of their fields, and God is pleased to grant them his blessing. I am in great hopes for their spiritual and temporal well-being."

Mr. Hœrnle adds:—

I have just visited the colony, and have the pleasure of corroborating all that the good pastor states in the foregoing report. On the Sabbath I administered the Lord's Supper to no less than ninety-eight communicants, ninety-four of whom were native Christians.

It is not, however, only the testimony of the Missionary on which this report of the success of the Gospel rests. Mr. Williams, of the civil service, the Commissioner of the District, states, in a quotation from his report in the Friend of India—"I have not, during my service in India, seen such an interesting sight as the congregation of about 200 native Christians in their temporary church under their native minister. The appearance of the younger members of it was very encouraging: such clean, well-dressed, intelligent-looking specimens of the youths of both sexes of their class I have never seen collected together. The little villages were surrounded by a fine sheet of cultivation. The state of the little community is in every way most promising." And a writer in Allen's Indian Mail states—"The little Christian colony in the Dehra Doon, if we are to credit the accounts of it in the Indian newspapers, is a genuine success, a real triumph of the Missionary cause." The Government of India has also sanctioned grants for the erection of a church, and for the salary of a schoolmaster. Mr. Hœrnle writes:—

The new church, the cost of which Government has liberally sanctioned, will now soon be built. Major Rind showed us the design which had been furnished by the Commissioner of the Meerut division, and certainly a very handsome edifice it will be when ready. It is calculated for 300 seats, has a fine spire, and is so arranged that it can be enlarged, whenever that may be necessary. It will prove an ornament not only to the Christian colony, but for that whole region of the Doon, where tea-plantations are progressing with rapid strides, drawing of necessity a steady increase of population in their van. Among these the lofty spire of the church will be a significant sign, pointing, as it were, far above the heights of famous Himalaya towards Him from whom our salvation cometh.

Bareilly.

Mr. Hœrnle reports:—

This congregation is known at Bareilly by the appellation of Qawiganj (Cowieganj), after the name of its re-founder and benefactor, the Rev. W. G. Cowie, chaplain, under whose care it remained till October, when that gentleman left the station, to the regret of all the members of his native flock, who loved him as a father. And certainly they are greatly indebted to his kind exertion for the benefits they enjoy. They have now another kind friend and minister in the Rev. T. H. Burn, Mr. Cowie's successor, who, on his arrival, at once signified his wish to take the same warm interest in their spiritual and temporal growth as Mr. Cowie had unceasingly shown. His superior knowledge of the Hindustanee language will greatly facilitate his doing so.

The present number of Christians is ninety-six, including children: twenty-three are communicants. A catechist, Joseph Angelo, is at their head, reading prayers with them, and teaching the children in school.

This community differs in its character from those referred to in the preceding pages. While, for instance, Martindale and Ikla are purely agricultural, tilling the ground for their subsistence, all the men of the Bareilly village, and some of the women, are servants, either in private employ, or in Government cutcherries, as choukidars, chuprasees, ayas, &c. One or two have more responsible situations, and consequently better wages. Upon the whole they are well off. We are anxiously watching the progress of these Christian communities to see which will answer best, the peasants or the servants. The latter will probably have an easier life and readier support; but the situation of the former will perhaps be more genial for the growth of faith, piety, and good example, to the heathen.

Hapur and Pilkua.

Mr. Hœrnle writes:—

Two new out-posts were occupied in the course of the year—Pilkua in May, and Hapur in December. The object in view was twofold. We were desirous of extending our labours in the district generally by multiplying the number of little centres of light in its heathen darkness, and especially of filling up missing links, as it were, in a Missionary chain stretching from Meerut to Agra.

FYZABAD.

The Rev. J. W. Ball entered upon this new station at the close of 1863. After a year's labours he thus writes:—

Every year I remain in India I am the more thankful that my first—I may say boyish—impression of Missionary work was, that it is a world-wide proclamation of a new code by which it is God's purpose soon to judge the nations. This persuasion, blessed be God, has never left me. Therefore it is I can now write to you with a very cheerful heart, to tell you, that while there has not yet been a single baptism in this Mission, and not even one sincere inquirer—in a word, not a symptom of what men call "success," yet the glorious Gospel of the grace of God has been proclaimed daily in the bazaars of this Mohammedan city, and frequently at Ajuddhiya, the great seat of Ram's worship; and during the last two months the villages and larger towns have been visited, and thousands who never before heard the herald's cry "Believe and live," have now listened to it for the first time, either as a "savour of life unto life, or of death unto death." While itinerating in the district with my dear wife, I have had many proofs that the preaching in the bazaars of this city has acted as a proclamation, for almost everywhere we went, even at distances of thirty or forty miles, I met natives who had heard me preaching in Fyzabad.

III. The Punjab.

The Punjab Mission comprises five principal Stations—Umritsur, commenced 1852; Kangra, 1854; Peshawur, 1855; Mooltan, 1856; Derejât, 1861; Cashmir, 1863.

Changes in the Punjab Mission.

The changes in the staff of labourers which have taken place in the Punjab Mission during the year 1863 are, the addition of Mr. Barton in the middle of the year, to the Umritsur Mission, and of Mr. Handcock to the Peshawur Mission at the close of the year. The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick returned to the Punjab, after a residence in Europe, at the beginning of the present year.

UMRITSUR.

A small native-Christian church has been collected at Umritsur comprising about 120 souls. Eight adults were baptized last year. The congregation is composed of the most heterogeneous materials: some were formerly Mussulmans, of whom one especially is independent, intelligent, and respectable: others were Sikhs of the highest class, whose Christianity partakes of the quietness and friendliness of Nanak; another is a Rajput, of a haughty and proud race. Several families are of the lowest or sweeper caste, together with a few Bengalees and Madras Eurasians. Nothing but the power of the Gospel could unite together such discordant materials. The new church answers well in respect of situation. Two Sunday services and a prayer-meeting on Wednesdays are held weekly, at all of which numbers of heathen and Mussulmans continue to attend. The attendance of the heathen in this church is especially noticed by the Bishop of Calcutta in his late charge, in his remarks upon the various means of carrying on Missionary work. The Bishop says:—"We may bring Christian worship directly before the natives, both in English and in their own languages, by building churches, not in Mission compounds, but in the midst of great cities, as has been done at Umritsur, where a considerable number of heathen habitually attend our service, as will, I trust, through the munificence of a pious benefactor, be done in one of the suburbs of Calcutta; as I earnestly hope to see done speedily at Delhi; and as ought to be done no less speedily at Benares, if our friends in England and India would listen to the thoughtful advice of one of the oldest and most experienced, and the most devoted of Missionaries.*

A further use of the church is thus described by the Missionaries:—

An open-air chapel has been made by arranging our church seats outside, with a chair for the preacher, and a carpet in the centre. This became an attraction to many who came again and again. The first occupant of this open-air chapel has since been baptized. He was a Bengali, and, passing by with two or three friends, we invited him to sit down, and we reasoned together regarding the creation of the world.

* His Lordship's allusion is to the Society's Missionary, the Rev. William Smith, who is collecting subscriptions for a church in Benares, the living foundation of which has been laid in a small congregation of native Christians in a city in which he has preached Christ for thirty-five years.

Education.

The Anglo-vernacular School at Umritsur was under the charge of Mr. Brown during the first part of the year; afterwards of Mr. Barton; and subsequently of Mr. Wathen.

The Boys' and Girls' Orphanage Schools are under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Keene, with the assistance of Miss Jerrom, from Bombay. The report notices some encouraging proofs of the Christian influences which pervade the establishments.

The Lady (Henry) Lawrence Memorial Girls' School was established by public subscription, and placed under the care of this Society. Mrs. Keene reports an improvement of late, both as regards the number of scholars and their regular attendance, though the number does not much exceed thirty. Mrs. Keene has kindly furnished the following account:—

The building in which the school is held is admirably adapted for the purpose. It was property forfeited to Government, and kindly given to the Mission, on the stipulation that it should be devoted to the use of the Lady Lawrence school. It is large, and stands in a retired situation. During the past year it has been repaired and greatly improved. Separated from the principal building by a high wall and a doorway are several small tenements: these have been put in good order, and are let at a low rent to respectable families where there are daughters who will come to school. As an instance of the good that may be effected in this way, we may mention that one of the lodgers, who has two girls at the school, asked the teacher, who lives in the building with her husband, one of the catechists, to lend him her Testament. After having read some of it, he said he liked the book so much that he wished he might keep it, which he was permitted to do, and he now frequently reads it aloud to his fellow-lodgers. In another part of the building a very respectable family resides. Three members of it read in the school: one is the young wife of a man in the police, and another is her sister-in-law, the widow of a Subahdar who was hanged in the mutiny on suspicion of being concerned in the outbreak at Sealkote. She is still young, and is a most interesting person, very intelligent, and most anxious to learn. Her progress has been very rapid.

I may mention that I visit the school three times a week, when able to do so, and look upon it with great interest as forming a means of getting at the women as well as children of the place. And here I must mention one result of the allusion to the benefits of female education made at the Educational Durbar at Lahore, by Sir Robert Montgomery. Shortly after that took place a Sikh munshi in Umritsur came to my husband, and stated that his wife could read well in Gurmukhi, and would undertake, if we gave her a monthly salary, to teach other women, and that some twelve or thirteen were ready to read at once with her. His proposal was agreed to, his wife was engaged in connexion with the Lady Lawrence Memorial Fund, Gurmukhi Primers were given to her, and, at the husband's request, I visit at his house.

A School an important branch of direct Mission work.

While Mr. Brown had charge of the Umritsur school, he introduced the practice recommended by the Punjab Conference, of holding a Bible class for an hour before school, every other morning, with all the non-Christian as well as Christian teachers. This exercise, together with the daily Bible exposition to the whole school, presents, in Mr. Brown's judgment, one of the best opportunities of true Missionary work. Mr. Brown has himself no taste or special aptitude for education, and therefore only undertook the work whilst no other Missionary was available. Under such circumstances the following remarks of Mr. Brown have great force :—

To those who feel called to, and have a taste for, school work, the daily catechetical exposition of Scripture affords a noble field for action. It would be almost impossible to obtain either so large or so attentive a congregation in the bazaar as the school presents. To any of my brethren engaged in school work who have not attempted the plan, I would venture to recommend its immediate adoption. There is indeed a magnificent field, opening wider and further every day, in this land, for educational operations. Dr. Duff leads the van: are there none in our Universities embued with a like spirit, and ready to bend themselves to a like purpose with all the energy, and all the heroism, and all the self-sacrifice of this devoted servant of the cross?

I would urge upon the Society the paramount importance of providing well-trained European schoolmasters of sterling piety and devotion, and possessing a thoroughly Missionary spirit, mind, purpose, and will. Let the subject be brought before the students of our training colleges more frequently.

Preaching to the heathen.

Besides the regular preaching in the city, Messrs. Keene and Brown have made extensive tours in different directions, chiefly among the Sikhs, accompanied occasionally by native teachers. The Missionaries unite in stating as encouraging facts :—

The desire of the people for knowledge of every kind—their eagerness for English education, and their willingness to part with their money, both for the Christian Scripture and Christian tracts, as well as for books of a secular character. It is true they are only beginning to buy religious books; still this turning of the tide is a cause for thankfulness. The willingness of the people to listen. Their readiness to weigh the claims and try the merits of the Christian religion, and, in many instances, the desire of not a few for Christian baptism. Wherever we turn our eye, we are struck, and forced to exclaim, The harvest is truly great. We can only say that it remains for the church of Christ in England, and in this country, to take unto herself the whole armour of God, and, being strong in the Lord and in the power of his might, to follow the Captain of her salvation into the thick of the fight, being assured that victory, sooner or later, will be the result.

Out-station of Narrowal.

The out-station of Narrowal has been under the charge of the Rev. J. M. Brown, since Mr. Bruce left for the Derajât. Mr. Brown frequently visits it, and spends a few days or weeks at a time in a bungalow lately erected, which serves also as a church. The congregation on a Sunday often consists of twelve or fifteen Christians, and twice as many heathen. A school is in a flourishing condition, having 116 boys. The aged Paulus, who commenced the Christian congregation, has preached in the neighbouring villages, as far as his increasing bodily infirmities have allowed.

General view of the Umritsur Mission, by a Missionary, on his return after a few years' absence.

The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick, who first commenced the Mission at Umritsur in 1852 has returned, after a visit to England, to his old station, and writes :—

"Some of the alterations which have been made in the conduct of the Mission seems to me prejudicial; such for instance as the encouraging the Christians to live out of the city, and very near the Mission houses; but I overlook even this and other things, to mention that which is more gratifying and encouraging. The native congregation is as good as any I have seen, though not so large as some in Hindustan, and several of the members are men of superior education and address, and in good circumstances. Their contributions ought to be larger than they have been. The chapel is not in the best place, but yet very nearly the best which could have been chosen; and it is interesting to see the heathen sitting in numbers during the service, and others in greater numbers crowding the open doors. The services are very very well conducted, and the singing is really correct and musical.

The Lady-Lawrence school seems to succeed very well, and yet it has been always conducted by a native woman, one of the early converts, who, when she came here, did not know her letters, but now can read well in four languages. She has forty-five scholars, and has won their confidence and affection. Then there is the branch Mission at Narrowal, a town of 8000 inhabitants: it is conducted by another of our early converts (Paulus), the headman of the place, and who is assisted by his two elder sons, who have been led by him to the truth. I visited their place last week, and was really astonished when I saw 120 scholars arranged in perfect order, and found, upon examination, that they had been most thoroughly instructed in the word of God, and in secular knowledge. Mr. Leighton was the first to plant Paulus in his proper place, and Mr. Bruce followed up this beginning with wisdom and energy, and both these brethren and Mrs. Leighton are very dear to him and his family. The school has been visited by the Government Inspector and Deputy Commissioners, and they have both recorded their opinion of its high state of efficiency. I should now like to see our efforts extended in the same direction, and Mr. Brown's itinerancy connected with schools and catechist preachers in large villages of the same neighbourhood.

But there are points of general interest not confined to this Mission. There is (1) a remarkable beginning of female education. The movement is only twelve months old, and now (as Sir Robert Montgomery told us a few evenings since) there are more girls than boys under instruction in the cities of Lahore and Umritsur. They number, by official report, 4000; and though the education may, in general, be very imperfect, and devoid of true religion, yet it seems very encouraging that the natives have at length admitted the duty of educating their daughters, and the movement has become popular amongst them. They are, in these two places, subscribing an aggregate of nearly £50 per mensem towards this object. And then (2) I find a very striking improvement in the temper and bearing of the people. Our friends at home need not listen to any rumours of disaffection amongst the Sikhs or Punjabees of the plains. I have seen and heard enough to satisfy every reasonable person that the Punjab is smiling with contentment and prosperity. A few days since a very respectable and well-informed Sikh, whom I have known for twelve years (but who does not know a word of English), told me that his nation are now so impressed with the wisdom, power, and justice of the English, that it is a common saying amongst them, that God has imparted a sixteenth portion of Himself to them.

KANGRA.

The Rev. J. N. Merk has laboured for another year as the solitary Missionary at this station. He reports no events of special interest. The schools have increased in numbers, and the progress of the children has been satisfactory. Much of Mr. Merk's time has been spent in itinerating in the district, especially among the coolies in the tea plantations. A church in a public thoroughfare, for the use of the native Christians is, in course of erection, which Mr. Merk hopes will serve to bring the Christians more prominently before the notice of their heathen countrymen.

The Archdeacon's Visitation.

Archdeacon Pratt has furnished the following note of his visit to Kangra:—

At Kangra, the Rev. J. N. Merk, of the Church Missionary Society, resides. It is the head-quarters of the Society's Hindu Mission of the Punjab. Kangra and Jowala Mooki, not far off, are places of resort for pilgrims, and the whole neighbourhood is held very sacred. Mr. Merk has a capital boys' school of ninety native boys, which the archdeacon visited. He was very much pleased with what he heard from them, and thinks that t he school must have a good influence upon the neighbourhood. Mrs. Merk has a school of about thirty girls: two or three are married women. It is a great step in advance to get them to come at all. The Hindus of this valley are tenacious of their caste. Many of them are descendants of the high-caste Rajpoot family, which for so many ages ruled at Kangra, and even the poorest of the descendants keep up the proud feelings of their ancestors as well as they can. Mr. Merk and his catechists preach in the native town every day, and also visit the various melas, which appear to be numerous. He is erecting a Mission preaching chapel in a well-frequented thoroughfare, which will be very useful.

KOTGHUR.

This Mission is supported by an endowment left by will for that purpose, by the late Mr. Gorton. The Rev. W. Rebsch has been the resident Missionary throughout the year. The native Christians are only nine adults and six children: all the adults work for their own support. Mr. Rebsch attends the large melas at Rampore, which are held two or three times a year: there is also an encampment of Muzbee Sikhs near the station, which he has occasionally visited. There are boys' and girls' schools, containing a few children each. Mr. Rebsch has, during the last year, introduced an excellent plan, which deserves to be noticed. He writes:—

Since the last six months I have engaged three of the first class boys to collect, in three different villages near Kotgurh, children to teach them to read, and promised them each five rupees a month for not less than twelve boys. This plan has succeeded well. They had, in some weeks, above fifteen each. All these children come on Sunday to our morning service, with their teachers, after which I examine them in what they have learned during the week. About twenty of them are able already to read the Gospel. We hope by this means to make a number of children and young men of the surrounding places acquainted with the word of God, and the way to worship Him.

Upon the general prospects of the Mission Mr. Rebsch observes :—

I feel there are great drawbacks in this Mission, which arise partly from the situation, partly from the climate, and frequent absences and changes of Missionaries formerly labouring here: still there is reason to be thankful, and encouragement enough to proceed onwards. There are not a few people scattered about in these secluded places of the hills who have heard of a Saviour who died for them. Above 300 children have become acquainted in our schools with the precious doctrines of Christianity, and attended the services of our church. Some of them are now young men and women. They have learned to read, possess books, and more knowledge than thousands of their fellow-countrymen. We cannot believe that all this will be in vain, although the fruit of our labours may not appear so strikingly as one could wish.

PESHAWUR.

The difficult and important station of Peshawur has but feebly advanced towards the efficiency of its staff of labourers, which it enjoyed before the hand of death struck down its chief supports. For a short time in the early part of the year Mr. Clarke resided here; for a few weeks, also, Mr. Brown from Umritsur. Mr. Wade joined the Mission early in 1863, and took charge of all the Mission schools, though his time and labour were all demanded for the study of the languages. Mr. Handcock did not arrive till the beginning of the present year. The Committee of the Peshawur Church Missionary Association have published a report of the labours at the station during the last four years, from which the following important extracts are taken :—

It is a cause for great thankfulness, that, during the nine years in which preaching has been carried on at Peshawur, no injury has been permitted to happen to any preacher in this stronghold of Mohammedanism. Once, and once only, was one of our number, Mr. Tuting, attacked when preaching by a fanatical Mohammedan, a sepoy in the Guide Corps; but the assassin's hand was arrested by a stander by, and he was preserved from harm. We remember the forebodings of many worldly and irreligious men, who had not faith, when this Mission was commenced in 1854, who saw nothing but danger and disaster, not only to the Missionary, but to the English power generally, in the offer of the word of God to the proud and fiery Afghan; and we remember, too, the lofty and thrilling words of faith of our Christian President, then Major Herbert Edwardes, who beforehand told us that "the Gospel of peace would bear its own fruit, and justify its name; that even experience taught us not to fear; that we might be quite sure that we were much safer if we did our duty than if we neglected it; and that He who brought us here with his own right hand would shield and bless us, if, in reliance upon Him, we tried to do his will." It is in the spirit of thankful acknowledgment, and not in any way of boasting, that after nine years' experience we can point to God's faithfulness, encouraging his church to send everywhere her Missionaries, wherever He gives them an open door; even though, as in the case of Peshawur, it be on distant and even perilous enterprises. When all India was convulsed by a general mutiny, and every eye was turned towards Peshawur, as the very key-stone of our North-Indian power, another proof was given of how God can preserve and bless his own people, who seek to do his will, and trust to Him.

Since the commencement of the Mission twenty-one adult men, nine women, and nineteen children have been baptized, independently of the Muzbee Christians of the 32nd N. I. We will not discuss the question whether the admission of forty-nine persons into the visible church of Christ is worth more or less than the large sum of money which, in nine years, has been spent on the Peshawur Mission. It will be a matter of joy to those who believe that the salvation of one soul is of more value than the whole world, to hear that in many, nay, even in most of these cases, sufficient proofs have been given to enable us to express a humble hope that they have really become children of God, and inheritors of the kingdom of heaven. But we would look on these forty-nine baptized persons not so much with reference to themselves, but rather as we would contemplate the first few ripe grapes before the vintage appears, or the few first yellow ears of corn that here and there colour the broad field of unripe wheat, and tell of the coming harvest. They have some value indeed of themselves; but they are very precious as earnests of the harvest.

In connection with other honoured names that will be treasured as household words in this Mission, as long as it exists, the name of Colonel Martin will ever hold a permanent place as one of the founders of the Peshawur Mission, who gave not only princely and unostentatious gifts, but who gave himself; and, after more than thirty years of service in the Indian army, became a Lay Missionary at Peshawur. This Mission owes to his zealous labours the fact, almost unique in Indian Missions, that from its very commencement all local expenses of the Mission have been met from local resources. The Peshawur City school and our City chapel are the monuments he has left behind, together with the thankful remembrance on the part of every Missionary, that, as long as he was here, no secular concerns of any kind were allowed to interfere with his spiritual duties. But are there no more Colonel Martins in India? In almost every station the Missionaries are daily, hourly, drawn aside from the word of God and prayer, by correspondence, accounts, buildings, the care of widows and orphans, by every native Christian in debt, in distress, or out of occupation. Will not some lay servants of God take off this load from every Missionary's heart and mind, that Missionaries may not always be interrupted by serving tables? We ask the Church in India for a lay Missionary for Peshawur, a successor to Colonel Martin.

DERAJÂT.

The Rev. Robert Bruce and the Rev. John Cooper have laboured throughout the year 1863 in the Derajât Mission. The station in the Mission is Dehra Ismail Khan, where there is a Mission-house and school; but the labours of the Missionaries extend throughout a wide district by tours amongst the many tribes which inhabit the valley and adjacent highlands. There are forty-seven native Christians scattered throughout the district, the fruit of other Missions, who have removed into these parts.

Mr. Bruce directs his chief attention to Affghans, with some of whom he has acquired very considerabie influence, so as to be a frequent guest in their tents, and allowed to hold free discussions with them upon the claims of Mohammed or Christ.

Mr. Cooper reports in his annual letter respecting one of the tribes inhabiting this district—

On November 9th I again left Dehra Ismail Khan for the purpose of making a tour amongst the Beloochees, who occupy the whole of the southern portion of the Derajât. They are a wild, warlike people, but much inferior in their outward appearance to the Pathans. Like the latter, they are Mussulmans, but I think not half so bigoted. Whilst the chief characteristic of the Affghan is bigotry, I think that of the Beloochee is apathy and indifference. The former has his zeal stirred up by the preaching of the Gospel: the latter listens with apparent unconcern. I have not met with one instance of opposition from them; but this may be caused by the novelty of the thing. No Missionary has ever been amongst them before, and they seem as if they did not know what to make of me. When the Gospel is more fully preached among them, no doubt Satan will stir them up. Taken as a whole, they are a very ignorant people. Very few can read. In places where a Government school has been established, few think it worth while to send their children, and of those few, four-fifths are Hindus, and not Beloochees. I have been informed by persons who have long resided in the district that they are very friendly to the English, and very accessible.

MULTAN.

The Rev. George Yeates and the Rev. H. S. Paterson have resided at this station during the last year. Mr. Patterson's time is chiefly devoted to the acquisition of the language. Mr.

Yeates has made several Missionary tours, and has visited neighbouring melas, and the resorts of pilgrims. His annual report exhibits hopefulness for the future, though no striking events have occurred.

CASHMERE.

Cashmere may now be added to the Missions of the Society. The appeal from Christian friends in the Punjab on behalf of this Mission was recorded in the last Report. As soon as a favourable reply was received from the Parent Committee, the British Christians in the Punjab felt themselves constrained to an immediate effort, and they accordingly invited one of our most experienced Missionaries in North India, the Rev. W. Smith, of Benares, whose health required a change, to spend in Cashmere the summer of 1863. He reached Shrinagur on May the 16th. He was joined by the Rev. R. Clark, from Peshawur, in the latter end of August, and they laboured together until the middle of October, when, having fulfilled his engagement, Mr. Smith left for Benares. Compassionating the condition of the people, and feeling the importance of continued labour, Mr. Clark wished, if possible, to remain throughout the winter. To the execution of this project there existed, however, a very serious difficulty, an order having been issued, in 1854, by the Governor-General, Lord Dalhousie, at the request of the then Maharajah, Goolab Singh, forbidding European visitors to remain in Cashmere during the winter. Under these circumstances, Mr. Clark addressed a letter to the Earl of Elgin, to ask that the restriction might not be enforced by his own government against a Missionary. The Secretary of the Lieut.-Governor wrote in reply—"I am directed to say that the Government will not insist on your leaving the country, although no officers in the service of Government are allowed to remain there after the departure of the political officer deputed for the season as the Government representative. The Lieut.-Governor, however, understands that you agree to depart at once, should the Maharajah require you to do so. At the same time, I am to state, that if you remain in the valley it must be entirely at your own risk."

This answer, however, did not arrive soon enough to relieve Mr. Clark of the difficulty in which he found himself. The month of November had arrived. Inquirers had come to him; but strong opposition had manifested itself, and they had been imprisoned. All this might have been lived down; but to remain in the absence of an express permission from his own Government appeared to be inexpedient. The Cashmere Committee, also, having reconsidered the subject under the new light thrown upon it, recommended his return to Peshawur for the winter season. Accordingly, Mr. Clark, on November 16th, left Shrinagur, and returned to Peshawur. With the opening of the road in the present spring Mr. Clark proposes to return to Cashmere, with his wife and children.

Mr. Smith thus sums up his experience during his residence in Cashmere—

"Notwithstanding these and other difficulties, which it would be tedious to enumerate, God has graciously helped me, and those with me, to proclaim 'the glorious Gospel.' I have been well supplied with associates in the work. Suleiman is a Cashmeree by birth, and speaks the language like a native, while to Maulavi Yahia and his nephew Abdul Jawad (Kandahar men) Persian is as their mother tongue, so that I have been well off, as far as language is concerned. I have gone daily among the people, and sometimes twice a day. We have visited various towns and villages of the country too, such as Islamabad, Shahabad, Virnag Achibal, Mathan, Bij Bahar, Pampur, Manus Bal, Bapam Rishi, &c. &c. The people generally heard with attention, and showed much less prejudice than the people in the city. In the city, too, a change for the better seemed to come over the people from about the middle of July, so that for the last two or three months we have had comparatively very little disturbance or interruption in our work, while the word has been listened to, often by large numbers, with quietness and attention, We have also two or three individuals in the character of inquirers and candidates for baptism. But it is yet too early to state any thing decidedly regarding them."

Mr. Smith discusses at length the important question whether the Society should enter upon a new Mission while so many of the old Missions are "painfully weak;" but yet his conclusion is, that in this case the providential leadings are so clearly marked, "that a permanent Mission ought by all means to be attempted."

MADRAS AND SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

I. Madras, commenced, 1814; II. Travancore and Cochin, 1816; III. Tinnevelly, 1817; IV. Telugu Mission, 1841.

THE Committee are happy to report that some addition has been made to the staff of labourers in South India during the last year. Two Missionaries, and two training masters have been sent out. Two experienced Missionaries have returned to India in recruited strength, after a visit to England; while one Missionary has been sent home on sick certificate.

Statistics of the South-India Mission.

By the statistics at the close of 1863, it appears that the number of persons under the Christian instruction of the Society in South India is 43,396, which is less than that of last year by about 400. But the diminution is wholly in the class of the unbaptized: the number of baptized converts has been increased by 500, and the number of communicants by more than 200: the work, therefore, is advancing in the most important respects. Another mark of progress is manifested by the increased contributions of the native converts to religious and charitable objects. These amounted during the year 1863 to 1612*l.* The previous year they were only 1470*l.*

Testimony of Dr. Gell, Bishop of Madras to the reality of the Missionary work in South India.

The Primary Charge of the Bishop of Madras was delivered at St. George's Cathedral on April 23rd, 1863. A large portion of it is occupied with a review of the work that is being carried on by the various Missionary Societies in the diocese. The Bishop says:—"My first thoughts turn to what I believe to be the chief purpose for which God has subjected India to England, and sent us all hither, viz. that we might make known from north to south the glorious message of salvation which God has made known to us, and that through us many souls might be led to Christ, be brought into his fold on earth, and sit down with Him at his table in his heavenly kingdom. We cannot have this subject too much on our hearts and in our prayers." "Since my first arrival in Madras on November 25, 1861, I have held three Ordinations, in which eleven persons have been ordained Deacons, and fourteen Priests. Of the former, eight were natives; of the latter, also eight. Here I may also mention that the total number of persons whom I have confirmed within the same period has been 4808, of whom 4219 are natives. . . I have already visited a considerable portion of the diocese, and am exceedingly thankful for very much of all that I have seen and heard. . . The work amongst the heathen of Travancore is full of interest and encouragement: the number of baptisms in one year has been 734: I also confirmed there 1020 native Christians. . . The sight of Tinnevelly scatters to the winds almost all that has been written to disparage Mission work. The Christian will seek to preach the Gospel to the heathen, though he sees no success; because his beloved Master, whose word with him is every thing, has said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." But unmistakably in Tinnevelly the word of God, preached by devoted men, has not returned to Him void, but has accomplished much. Not all the results are there that everybody says ought to be there. But there are many saved and sanctified souls there, not perfectly sanctified, but wonderfully different from the soul of an idolater: there are men spending themselves for the Gospel; there are native Pastors, tried and efficient; there are Catechists bent on winning souls for Christ; there are aged Christians waiting for their call to go and be with Christ; there are many intelligent children learning God's word and the spirit of the Gospel; there are many congregations in which the heartiness of the people, and the preaching of their minister, would put to shame many an English Church; there are external signs of something new and something better than the old heathenism in the cleanliness and order of the Christian villages; and there is an acknowledged superiority in the intelligence and civilization of the population which must influence for good the heathen around. The endowment of native pastors is a subject of great importance to the native church. And the great efforts which have already been made in Tinnevelly among the native Christians for supplying the means of supporting their own spiritual teachers is very encouraging. So also is the effort which has been made at Cochin to raise a fund for the endowment of a native pastorate in that city. I regard also with great satisfaction the efforts on a very humble scale of the very poor slaves in Travancore, who, out of their deep poverty, pay some of their poor fellow-slaves for reading to them and instructing them. . . As regards the great question of Government education, and the use of the Bible in all our schools, . . what seems to be a matter for regret in the position which the Government has taken is this: their leading principle has the appearance of being the protection of heathenism, not the encouragement of Christianity. It excludes the Bible with exceptions, instead of including it with exceptions. It says, You shall not have the Bible unless you want and ask for it, and then not in school hours; instead of saying, You shall have the Bible, unless you refuse it. . . The Government, whose chief glory is that it is a Christian Government, does best when it remembers that Christian truth is its foundation, Christian love its great principle of action, the establishment of the kingdom of Christ among all its subjects its ultimate and far highest object."

Government aid to Missionary Education.

The Corresponding Committee at Madras thus allude to the subject of Missionary education:—

The cause of Missionary education has occupied a good deal of attention during the past year, and we fully trust that the present year will witness an enlarged efficiency given to our whole school system. We are expending no less than the annual sum of 86,000 rupees on native education in this Presidency and it is but right, that the most careful scrutiny should be exercised upon its outlay, and the most efficient direction be given to it. The home Government have recommended to the local Government the granting of liberal and enlarged pecuniary aid to Missionary education, and we have therefore full hope of bringing much more enlarged funds to this great work. Only we must be careful of never losing sight of the great principle, that this work of education is, after all, only subsidiary to the great work of the conversion of souls to Jesus Christ.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. William Gray, M.A. (m), joined in India 1858, Secretary.
Rev. John Bilderbeck (m), East Indian.
Rev. Henry Harley (m), 1836, Tanjore: on leave.
Rev. Harding Dixon (m), 1855.
Rev. Henry Bartlett, 1862; Superintendent of the Hindustani Mission.
Mr. George Walker (m), 1855, Master of the Harris School.

The Rev. W. Gray is Secretary of the Corresponding Commitee. The Rev. J. Bilderbeck, assisted by the Rev. Vedhamanikkam Sandhosham, continues his labours in Black Town and Royapuram, or, as it is called, the Northern district. The Rev. H. Dixon takes for the preseut the English services of Trinity chapel, with charge of the schools of the Southern district of Madras, the Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan being in temporary charge of the pastoral and evangelistic work of it. The Missionary to the Mohammedans, the Rev. H. Bartlett, is at present pursuing the study of Hindustani in Arcot, and Mr. Walker is in charge of the Harris school for Mohammedans in Triplicane. Miss J. J. Hogg and Miss M. Schaffter are respectively in charge of the Central girls' school in Black Town and the girls' boarding school.

The number under Christian instruction in the Madras Mission has been increased during the year from 656 to 852. Mr. Bilderbeck, however, remarks:—

It is important to observe that the influence of the Church Mission in this neighbourhood is not to be measured by the statistics here given. These figures only show the number of those who avowedly connect themselves with it, but there are many more whose sympathies are with it, and who willingly rally round its cause when occasions occur, and even avail themselves of its ministrations, as opportunities offer. In order, therefore, properly to estimate this influence, regard also must be had to the general attendance on the means of grace, and to other marks of life and progress.

Among such signs of progress, Mr. Bilderbeck thus describes the state of the native congregations:—

The attendance and demeanour, particularly at the Sabbath morning service in the Church Mission chapel, has been very gratifying. Here the number has doubled, and on sacramental Sundays more than doubled. It has been no unusual thing to see a well-attended church joining in prayers, as far as man can judge, with fervent devotion, listening to the word with eager attention, and maintaining an order and propriety throughout, that would do honour to any well-regulated church in a Christian land. A choir also has been formed to assist in public worship; and the praises of God are sung with a taste and effect never known before. Even the Sunday afternoon service has materially improved compared with what it was. At both services, the presence of several strangers has often been observed, who have come once and again to unite their prayers and praises with customary worshippers; and it is pleasing to witness the interest with which all sit under the sound of the Gospel. In fact, the improvement is so great, that friends, occasionally visiting the place, have been struck with the change, and led to rejoice in the manifest indications of a growing church. The Sunday service at the Tinnevelly Settlement has maintained its average standard, without sensible increase or material falling off, although occasionally even there the attendance has been very good, and the attention very marked. The same may be said with respect to the week-day service. But this in Black Town, has been considerably more encouraging, with a greater increase of outside hearers than formerly; and profitable conversations with many of them have ensued afterwards at the door. Wherever or whenever held, every service has had its particular feature of interest and importance, some affording more scope to address the heathen, and some to build up Christians; but whether the auditors are chiefly composed of the one class or of the other, the same truth is exhibited which, under the testimony of the Holy Spirit, is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." For it is determined "not to make known any thing among them save Christ and Him crucified." It is this which, when clearly and prayerfully opened out, serves in all assemblies to awaken the conscience and to touch the heart of the stranger or of the professor. It is thus "he is convinced of all, he is judged of all, and the secrets of his heart are made manifest, and so, falling down on his face, he will worship God, and report that God is among such of a truth!"

Hindustanee Mission.

The Harris school has continued to prosper. The pupils have increased from 80 to nearly 100. The Corresponding Committee state—"The Harris School has never yet been in a more prosperous state than at present."

II. Tinnevelly.

The Mission is divided into 15 districts, viz. 1, 2. Palamcotta and Alvarneri; 3, 4, 5, 6. Mengnanapuram, Asirvadapuram, Satthankullam, Pragasapuram; 7. Kadachapuram; 8. Suviseshapuram; 9. Dohnavur; 10. Paneivilei; 11. Pannikulam; 12. Nallur; 13. Surandei; 14. North Tinnevelly Itineracy; 15. Sivagasi.

The Committee have to record the loss by death of two valuable native clergymen of Tinnevelly. The well-known and venerable Rev. John Devasagayam, aged 79, was called into his Master's presence in a ripe and honoured old age. He was the first native in South India admitted to the ministry in our church. For fifty-four years he had laboured in the service of the Society, and within a few hours of his departure he was carried into the church to bear a last testimony to the preciousness of Jesus. Within a month of this event, the Rev. Paramanandham Simeon was called away at the age of forty-three. "He was a man thoroughly right-minded and in earnest. He had no showy qualities, and knew but little English; but he was an admirable native pastor, a sound preacher, and a good working man among the heathen." While we mourn the loss of such agents, we are thankful for the proof which their consistent lives and peaceful deaths have afforded us that the ascended Saviour has given to the native church of South India pastors and evangelists according to his word of promise.

At the close of the year there were 13 European Missionaries and 13 native ministers, together with 235 native catechists and readers, ministering among the 33,400 native converts and the surrounding heathen. Such an agency, with such a basis of operations in a native-Christian church may perhaps raise high expectations in some minds of immediate and glorious results. But those who have carefully watched the dispensations of grace, under which modern Missionary operations are carried on, will have learnt to moderate such expectations. The advance of the Gospel is at present slow, though steadily progressive. Heathenism has still a tremendous power over the minds of its votaries. That power withholds multitudes, who have been convinced of the falsity of heathenism and of the truth of Christianity, from an open profession of their faith. The journals of the Missionaries in Tinnevelly still exhibit the same alternations of hope and of disappointment in respect of their inquirers and converts which are witnessed in fields less advanced. The work among the heathen is essentially of the same character everywhere.

The Committee cannot attempt to give in detail the labours in each of the fifteen districts in Tinnevelly. In addition to general results, they can only select from some of their most experienced Missionaries a few leading features of the work.

"It is now about twenty-nine years since I first came to the work in this district. With reference to the Society, I may truly say that my feelings regarding them have not suffered from time, but have rather been strengthened. I love their principles; I love their connection; I love their work, for I believe it is the Lord's own work, carried on in accordance with his will.

With regard to the work itself, I believe I may in truth report progress—real and substantial progress. Our numbers have, within this year, in my particular district, been increased by only sixty-two; but, considering the sifting which cholera made in the beginning of the year among our less-confirmed professors in the outlying villages, this is not so small an increase as it appears to be. The total number of Christians in this district is now 1514, and the number of communicants has, within the year, increased from 259 to 314. But the point which is to be regarded as of greater importance than numbers, viz. the character of professing Christians, is such as to encourage us in the belief that the power of the Spirit is felt in many a heart, as his fruit is manifest in many a life. Among the higher classes, too, the Gospel is quietly working its way. Of these, three have openly made profession of Christ, and given up home and all that is dear to them, and several others may be said to be not far from the kingdom of God. Little do friends at a distance realize the conflict and agony through which a man of the higher classes has to pass when he comes to the determination of confessing, "I am a Christian." One young man, twenty-five years of age, and married, who for a long while had been in the habit of reading the Scriptures, and joining in religious exercises with our converts in their private houses, came to me at last, and expressed his determination to become a Christian. As his relatives were well aware of his intention, I encouraged him to do so, and invited him, with another young man who had expressed the same wish, to meet the Metropolitan, who was then with us, and receive from him words of counsel and encouragement. He came, and seemed in real earnest; and when he left he made arrangements with the other converts to join them on a certain evening, and openly profess the Gospel. He came, but from the time he laid down at night till very early next morning he had no sleep, and the agony of mind, as he thought of his relatives at home, and especially his wife and sister, produced such a tremor and cold perspiration that those who were with him thought it better that he should go home again till he gained more strength and grace for the step he was about to take. One of the Christians accompanied him to his home, and, as he bade him good bye, the poor youth lamented his condition in words like these—"Alas, what a weak creature I am! When I go to remain with you, my mind is distracted with thoughts of home and the loved ones there, and what sorrows they are suffering on my account. And then, when I come home, my heart goes back to you all, thinking of and envying your happy condition as a Christian brotherhood, and wishing to be with you enjoying your prayers and Christian company. Oh, how I am tossed about! I am unhappy here at home, thinking of my soul, and I am unhappy when away, thinking of my home. Oh, when will these worldly attractions lose their power over me, and I have strength to act as I ought in this great matter of my salvation?" and the poor youth wept. I am more and more satisfied that the plan of requiring young men to make a decided profession of their views at home, before they join the church, is the right course. It may to some seem strange why a young man may not become a Christian, and still remain in his own home. The fact is, that his own relatives will not allow it. They compel his departure, unless they are prepared to bear the ignominy of excommunication by their own caste people.

The Committee will be glad to learn that among the congregations generally the duty of supplying the expenses of their own teachers is cheerfully acknowledged, and efforts are made that way of a very encouraging character. For the year before us they have contributed 800 rupees towards the pay of their catechists and schoolmasters, besides 121 rupees towards itinerating operations.

In our schools there has been a very fair advance. The number of children in attendance in 1862 was 382; this year it was 482.

I would here mention, though I would not attach more importance to the fact than it is worth, that I have intances constantly occurring of the kind, and respectful feeling of the upper classes of Hindus towards me. On new-year's day above eighty native gentlemen, many of them in Government employ, and some of them trustees of the great heathen temples in the neighbourhood, called on me in companies of from three to ten at a time, during the day, and seemed, as a matter of course, to expect that I should give them good advice, and express my best wishes for their prosperity in the coming year. I endeavour on such occasions to say a word in kindness in reference to the great object of life, and the only way of salvation and happiness through Jesus Christ, and I cannot but hope that what is thus said is not easily forgotten. A further mark of their goodwill is the fact that thirty-five rupees were contributed by Brahmins to our Mission fund this year.

In another communication Mr. Sargent gives the following view of the state of the heathen mind in Tinnevelly:—

It would be expected that, with the many appliances now so long at work in this province, in the large number of schools—the 50,000 Christians dispersed through the length and breadth of the land—the constant efforts of the itinerant party—and the influence exercised from so many Missionary stations as centres of Christian light and example, a large majority of the heathen must be tolerably well informed as to the leading principles of Christianity. Their minds just now are a good deal exercised by the very prevalent rumour and expectation of the advent of a great personage born in the far North, who is to rule the whole country and expel the present Government, and restore Hinduism to its ancient supremacy. As a period near at hand between 1866 and 1867 is fixed upon precisely as the era of his advent, the failure of the oracle, will, I think, produce a re-action in the popular mind, and lead to results in favour of Christianity in a degree hitherto unknown. Another fact which I think must tend that way likewise, is, that the Government are bonâ fide giving up all connection with idol temples, and leaving them to the management of Committees of native gentlemen. So little confidence have these people generally in one another, that some time ago, when a Trustee was required for the large Pagoda in the fort of Palamcotta, a Parsee merchant was elected to the office by petition of a large number of the inhabitants. It has often been an argument boastfully urged against us, "If all that you Missionaries state against idolatry be true, how is it that Government, who are people of your own religion, support our worship?" No explanation on our part ever seemed to satisfy them. The measures now adopted will practically settle this difficulty. Though late in the day, it is a step in the right direction. The time is, I believe, pregnant with interesting and great events. May He, in whose hands are the issues of all things, over-rule them to the good of the nation and the glory of his own ever-blessed name!

An illustration of the friendly feelings of the heathen, even of Brahmins, towards Missionaries, is given in a letter of Mr. Sargent's, June 9th, 1863:—

About a fortnight ago I went for the first time to a village in which we have a few Christians, and as I was returning home after prayers with them, some of the Brahmins of the place met me on the way to pay their respects. After a few words of compliment on each side, and a reference to the errand upon which I had come to their village, I passed on. My native catechist staid behind to have a Missionary meeting with the congregation, when, strange to tell, the Brahmins, hearing the Christians were subscribing for Mission purposes, came forward, and desired that they might be allowed to give a donation likewise, and actually collected twenty-seven rupees among themselves, and sent them home. When asked by our teacher, how it was that they, being Hindus and Brahmins, wished to contribute in this manner, they replied, that when they saw the trouble we took to come among them, and to give an education to the people, there could be no charity so becoming as that to which they now contributed; and the head Brahmin said to our Christians, "If you will give the Mission ten rupees a year, I will do so too." The least that can be said in reference to this fact is, that these Brahmins are kindly disposed towards us. Oh that the grace of God might reach their hearts, and give them to receive the unsearchable riches of Christ!

The Rev. J. T. Tucker also takes a review of the results which have attended his labours:—

In 1844 I entered upon the charge of the Pannikullam and Panneivilei districts. At that date there were in the Pannikullam district 400 native Christians, and in the Panneivilei district 800 native Christians. In 1853 I delivered over the Pannikullam district to Mr. Whitchurch, with about 1500 Christians, and now there are 2800 in the Panneivilei district. By these statistics it will be seen that, during my residence in India, I have received from heathenism and Romanism 3100 souls. Heathen in various parts of the district have been persuaded to destroy upwards of forty devil-temples and all the idols in them. I have been permitted, at different times, to establish sixty schools for the instruction of Christian, heathen, or Mohammedan children. I have built sixty-six churches, of various dimensions, during my residence in India. I have thus given the Committee the statistics of my success (outwardly), because so much has been written lately in newspapers about the want of Mission success.

The North Tinnevelly itinerating district having been nearly covered by the labours of Mr. Meadows and his associated native ministers, the itinerating Missionaries have felt themselves at liberty to devote their labours occasionally to some of the districts in the south. Mr. Fenn thus alludes to this circumstance in his annual letter, in which, also, he marks a new and encouraging feature of the work:

The way in which we began to visit the districts was this. Mr. Honiss, of Dohnavur, who came to our tents last January, begged us in return to come and help him in the populous northern portion of his field; and when we were once there, Mr. Sargent and Mr. Clark pressed us to come on to their districts, parts of which are equally populous with, and are contiguous to, the northern part of Dohnavur. Both Macdonald and I feel very thankful for these invitations. We shall cease urging our yearly cry, "Send us to the regions beyond," if we can feel that occasional visits to other districts of Tinnevelly will be acceptable to our brethren, and will help them and their native agents in the evangelizing part of the work. And North Tinnevelly will still have even more preaching than it had five years ago, for the congregations have doubled since 1860, and many of the catechists watching over small bodies of inquirers here and there are very effective evangelists; and our brother Meadows has so portioned out the whole of his district that there are few heathen villages which his congregational agents do not reach. One interesting feature of the temporary work we have had in the south has been the far greater readiness we find on the part of the heathen to buy tracts and Scriptures. Indeed, our sales during the year have been perhaps the most encouraging feature of our work. In the previous three years they had gradually risen from 28 to 250 and 780. Last year they swelled up to 6090, of which rather more than half were sold in Dohnavur, Palamcottah, and Nullur districts, although it was only for four months that a part of our force was there, while from North Tinnevelly we were only wholly absent for one month. In one way, however, the sales in North Tinnevelly encourage us almost as much, I mean by contrast with what we had sold there in the previous years: they were nearly 2800, i. e. nearly four times as many as then. Of the 6090 sales, 920 were Scripture portions. The rest were, for the most part, small children's stories, but all containing more or less of the Gospel.

The Rev. R. R. Meadows in his report of the Sivagasi district, bears the following testimony to the Christian character of the catechists and inferior agents:—

The catechists as a body do their duty thoroughly well. They have a great deal to do, and where there is a conscientious fear of God, as well as the love of Christ constraining them, a great amount of work is done; and besides their own peculiar flocks, thousands of heathen are constantly feeling their influence. They have much to endure both from the heathen and the partially instructed inquirers, as well as from the weakness of real brethren. Theirs is a work needing much patience and firmness; patience in instructing dull and senseless inquirers; and firmness in resisting the constantly recurring attempts of such persons to draw them into too great a concern for their temporal affairs One is not surprised that persons whose only motive, in the majority of cases, for becoming inquirers, is temporal advantage, should feel vexed and irritated with a catechist, who steadily refuses being entangled in their law-suits. One can feel, therefore, for those catechists who partially yield to the pressure; but one can also admire those few whom no evil surmises, no unkind and taunting speeches, can turn from their purpose of being the spiritual instructors, not the temporal leaders of their people.

It is not to be expected, that in a body of thirty-five agents all should be alike spiritual, or diligent in their work, or loving to their fellow-labourers, or kind and sympathizing to their flocks, or careful to see their households a source of light and a subject of Christian example to the people. But taking them as a body, I have every reason to be thankful to have such fellow-labourers to work with. The fault, which is more or less the fault of all, is that of not urging their wives to, or rather a disinclination to let them, act towards the women of their flock as the wife of a pastor in England, as the wife of a Missionary in India, does as a matter of course.

Results of the Revival in 1860.

Mr. Meadows furnished the following interesting review of the results of the revival in Tinnevelly two or three years ago:—

Having noticed in the Christian Observer some statements to the effect that Christian people in England have not found their expectations in reference to the revival in Ireland and England fully realized, I deem it right to bring before you the present state of those congregations of this district which were affected by the special influences of the Holy Spirit at the period referred to.

The places in this district where God was graciously pleased to give His Holy Spirit in a remarkable way, are Vageikulam, Pudhur, Melapatti, Pattakulam, Rajapaliam, and Pottalpatti.

I have watched these congregations very closely ever since, and have made particular inquiries of the native pastors and the catechists in charge.

I trust that my first statements will not discourage, but will rather tend to inspire confidence in reference to my statements which will follow.

1. Of Pattakulam, a very small congregation of only thirty-six souls, where some bright instances of revival took place, I am deeply sorry to be obliged to say that there is now scarcely any traces of the revival left behind. The catechist reports, what my own observation fully confirms, that the most remarkable Christian there, who mourned some days for her sin, who gave up her jewels to the Lord, who was very zealous in speaking to all, has become the very opposite of this fair beginning. Only one, in fact, of the revival converts remains a consistent Christian. I have also to lament the falling away in Rajapaliam of four of the converts. Of these, Sargunan, who, from a heathen, became an earnest Christian, and was baptized and received to the Lord's table, has, if he has not wholly apostatized, become only an occasional attendant on the means of grace.

With these few exceptions, I am most thankful to the God of all grace—who upholds as well as revives, who will finish the work He has begun—to be able to say that time has proved the reality of the revival; that the converts are adorning their profession, the baptized have become communicants, the communicants have been growing in grace and knowledge. A few days ago I went through, with the catechist of Melapatti (himself a revived and still consistent Christian), and with the native pastor of Vageikulam, every name of those who had been quickened in these two congregations in the memorable year 1860. I may almost say that not one in either of these congregations has gone back. With the least possible exception, every individual of those who were then thought to be subjects of spiritual influence is still considered such. It was singular and satisfactory to notice, also, that the character of each person, as I had noted it down in my book four years ago, was reproduced in many cases to the very words, in the description furnished me by the native pastor. It was refreshing to hear of one, that "he is the head and soul of a congregation;" of another, that "he is not a bit gone back, but improving;" of a third, that "he is a star, the best;" we hear that so and so "was much improved, very good;" that another "had overcome her bad temper;" that another was "an excellent woman," and so on. I am aware that the evening reading class is not attended by so many adults as it used to be. Yet in both the places under consideration it still goes on briskly. It is true, also, that there is not the same excitement, nor even the same hungering and thirsting after frequent services. But there certainly is in Vageikulam, if not in Melapatti, a deepening of knowledge, and an onward progress in divine life. The congregation at Pudhur, a distinct fruit of the revival, and numbering more than sixty-one persons, is going on most satisfactorily. It is served from Vageikulam, but is under the daily care of a somewhat dull, but undoubtedly Christian, schoolmaster. For the number of persons in his village, he has the best school in the district. He was one of the Vageikulam awakened Christians.

Outward manifestations, such as bodily agitation, have, as one would expect to hear, ceased. I think, therefore, that we cannot but thank God for his favour to us in 1860, and the continuation of it now. I wish our faith were stronger and more expectant, and that we could pray more earnestly for the same blessed influence of the Spirit to be poured down upon other congregations.

Education.

The Preparandi Institution for training native catechists is under the charge of the Rev. E. Sargent. The number of students at the end of the year was forty-eight. During the year twelve have been sent out into the Mission. The examination at the close of the year, in which nearly all the Missionaries took part, was, on the whole, very satisfactory.

The Training Institution for Native Schoolmasters is under the charge of the Rev. J. Spratt, who has furnished the following general view of the results of the Institution, which has a special value at a time when the subject of education in India is undergoing discussion, and when new encouragements are given for its advancement.

I think that our organization is more perfect than it has ever been before. Our chief difficulty has been to secure a good and constant supply of village children for our model and practising schools. Mr. Sargent has kindly made over to us a school he had in the Fort. Here we have an average attendance of seventy children, and this gives ample scope for exercising our students in the principles they learn at the normal school.

This school is now efficiently worked by one of our own trained men, and I am glad to say that the students who visit this school for the purpose of observation and inspection are struck with and appreciate the system pursued. I think the system which we have adopted in consequence of the distance of our practising school from the institution has worked well. Two of the junior teachers in the normal school, who are themselves well-trained men, attend in town at the school one day in each week, to direct and report upon the students practising. The head native teacher (who is a superior man) and I visit the school in alternate weeks. A careful register is kept of the "teaching" of each student, and this gives me the opportunity not only of talking to each student, who has been reported on, but also of directing the attention of the whole body of the students, to the deficiencies that are likely to occur in their teaching. I am glad to add, it often gives me the opportunity of pointing out excellencies worthy of notice.

In the normal school itself all the teachers continue to work cheerfully and effectively. I endeavour to make each teacher feel his responsibility in reference to the character of his pupils. Each begins and ends his daily work in prayer with his own class, and each has, on the Sunday, the opportunity of special religious intercourse with them.

I impose upon myself the general superintendence of all connected with the Institution. Besides daily morning prayers with the students, which I regard as the most important part of the day's work, I undertake the special Scripture instruction of the two first classes, the partial sacred Scripture instruction of the other classes, and the general instruction of all the students in the theory of education. In the instruction, both in the theory and practice of teaching, I am ably assisted by all my native teachers. It is very gratifying to listen to the notes of criticism which they write when two of the senior students have given a lesson before the gallery.

As regards the professional objects sought to be accomplished by the institution, we have secured a fair share of success—that is, as regards the qualifications of the students to be teachers and conductors of schools. But the success of the institution is to be judged of not by these results alone. We shall have attained our end only very imperfectly if our students do not leave us better men, and if they do not improve the character of the village schools. A measure of success has attended our efforts in both these respects also, but much more remains to be accomplished in these two latter, than in the former. A large proportion of the students regularly attend at the Lord's Supper, but there is not sufficient reason for believing that the number of the communicants represents the number who are seriously concerned about spiritual things. Still the fact that so many do regularly attend has a certain value.

I am thankful that many of our students exhibit an improved outward character. I have been gratified by the testimony borne by visitors (civil and military) to our playground, to the proper behaviour of many of the students. I have received equally gratifying testimony from some of our Missionary friends. Yet notwithstanding so much to encourage hopes, I often feel very mistrustful. Sometimes, when our hopes are at the highest, then comes to light a state of feeling and conduct among the students which threatens to dash all to the ground.

I wish we could say that the schools of the district had, to any very large extent, felt the influence of the Training Institution. A goodly number of those who have passed through our Institution are now at work in the village schools, and no doubt a certain kind and degree of improvement has taken place, an advance has been made on the old system of things. But we cannot infer, from the number of masters in charge of schools, the extent to which our training system has been introduced. In the villages the school buildings are small, the supply of books and apparatus is most defective, the attendance of the children is small and irregular. The parents are reluctant to send their children to school, and there is a small warfare continually kept up by the master on one side and the parents and children on the other. This is a true picture of things. Is it therefore matter of wonder if the master's zeal dwindles, and he loses interest in his school; and of course, with the loss of zeal and interest, the efficiency of the school soon sinks. An improved school inspection might lend important help; but the principal cause is the reluctance of the people to send their children to school. Every device has, I believe, been tried to correct this feeling on the part of the parents, but hitherto no very successful device has been hit upon, nor do I believe that we shall, in the present state of our people, discover any one that shall make them anxious for the education of their children. We must look for this improved and high tone of feeling only after the lapse of years, when we shall, through the partial success of present school efforts, have produced a more generally educated Christian church.

The Sarah-Tucker Female Training Institution is under the charge of Miss Richards, who gives the following report at the close of the year:—

Our numbers at present consist of thirty boarders, of whom ten are clergy daughters, and twenty students; and of sixty-six day scholars, of whom forty-one are Protestant Christians, fourteen Romanists, and 11 heathen. Mr. Schaffter, of Suviseshapuram, thought it advisable to send in, by groups of about six, the schoolmistresses at present employed by him, in preference to the most suitable girls from his boarding school. These women remain here about six months, and afterwards return to their former schools. Whether this plan will succeed or not remains to be proved. To me it seems a very excellent one, for though some of these women have forgotten much of what they learned years ago in the boarding schools, yet their characters are formed, and if they have any desire to learn they can easily be put in a way to regain their lost knowledge.

I am going to remove the present mistress of the practising schools to the students' class-room as teacher of arithmetic, history, and "common things," whilst the munshi's attention will be confined to Scripture history, Tamil grammar, reading, and composition. A teacher from Mr. Spratt's will attend to the geography, and a drawing-master from the same institution will instruct the students twice a week in writing and drawing, principally mapping. I occupy myself by taking a general superintendence of the whole, giving all the lessons on the doctrine of the Holy Scriptures, and on the theory of education, spending what time I have to spend in the practising schools.

I really believe that our work this half-year has not been in vain, and that, although not nearly as much as I could have wished has been accomplished, yet, considering all the drawbacks with which we have had to contend, we have done as much as could reasonably be expected, and what has been done has, I think, been done thoroughly.

Besides day schools, the Missionaries have generally boarding schools for boys, and their wives, in many cases, boarding schools for girls. The Rev. J. Dibb gives the following account of the boarding school under his charge:—

Though the object of this institution is a truly "charitable" one, it is not, and was never meant to be, what is commonly understood by a "charity school." The boys are provided gratis with food, clothing, and instruction; but it is all done solely with the view of training them for service in the Mission; and it is felt to be a dishonourable transaction if any boy who has received the benefits of the institution fails to discharge his obligation. Such being the design of this school, no boy is admitted into it merely to be supported. Nor is any admitted who has not other available means of support. We look out for the best, and quickest, and most respectable children we can find amongst our people, and after coming to an understanding with their parents as to the terms on which their children are received, we take them in hand, train them until they are fifteen or sixteen years old, then send them to the Theological Institution at Palamcotta to be trained as catechists, or to the Training Institution to be qualified as schoolmasters. Very admirably do both these institutions work; and very greatly do they contribute to the rising efficiency of our Mission agents.

The Rev. J. Sargent makes the following reference to his wife's school:—

Mrs. Sargent's boarding school continues to give much encouragement, not only by what we daily see before us in the school, but also by what we hear of the consistent character and useful life of many who have left and entered on the world. We cannot too highly estimate the influence which female education has had in bringing about the results which are visible around us. I am persuaded that every Missionary's wife in her boarding school is exercising an influence for mighty good, which the great day will declare. Having in a former report described the Sunday Bible classes, and the meetings for the mothers' class, I need not enlarge on these subjects again.

III. Travancore and Cochin.

The Mission comprises nine districts: 1. Allepie, 1816; 2. Cottayam, 1817; 3. Cochin, 1817; 4. Mavelicara, 1839; 5. Trichur, 1842; 6. Pallam, 1845; 7. Tiruwella, 1849; 8. Kunnankullam, 1854; 9. Mundakáyam, 1855.

During the last year there were six European Missionaries and nine native ministers labouring in the Travancore district among the 8000 converts and the surrounding heathen Syrians and Romanists. Three new European Missionaries were on the spot studying the language. About fifty native catechists and readers are employed in the Mission. The remarks which have been made in the case of Tinnevelly apply to Travancore, in respect of the slow but steady progress of the Gospel. The senior Missionary, Mr. Peet, was suddenly laid aside by illness in the early part of the present year, and the Committee have not therefore received his annual report; and no account has been received from Mr. Baker, jun. The Committee is only able, therefore, to give from external testimony a sketch of the progress of the Mission during the year under review.

At the commencement of the present year the Mission was visited by the Rev. W. Gray, the Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, who thus gives the result of his personal observations and inquiries:—

I am very thankful for all that I saw and heard, and hope that my visit has not been altogether without effect. I will only express my conviction that the Society is engaged in a great work in Travancore, and that there is every ground for encouragement to go on vigorously. The Bishop of Calcutta preached for the Society on last Sunday evening in the Fort church. His text was 1 Tim. iv. 8.; and he designed to show that, even taking a low view of what had been done by Missions and Missionaries for the people, in the way of intellectual advancement, material prosperity, &c., Missions had a great claim for support upon all who professed to have the welfare of the people of India at heart. This, indeed, was a low view of what Missions had done, their great work being that of leading the heathen to the knowledge of the only one true Saviour. He illustrated his remarks by what he had just come from seeing in Tinnevelly and Travancore. It was evident that what has been done towards the raising of the people in the social scale in these two fields of Missions had made a deep impression on his lordship's mind.

The following notices have been published of the visit of the Metropolitan to Travancore:—

The Bishop of Calcutta, during the course of his metropolitan visitation, reached the capital of the native kingdom, Trevandrum, and was immediately visited, at the house of the British Resident, by the Dewan Madhava Rao, to whose enlightened administration much of the prosperity of Travancore is owing. In the evening the bishop proceeded to visit the Maharajah at his palace.

The visit of the bishop was returned on Monday morning by the Maharajah, and the first prince of Travancore. The latter gentleman, being fond of reading, and well acquainted with Sanskrit, conversed with much good sense on the subject of the Sanskrit Professorship at Oxford.

A visit to the Maharajah's school was interesting; the more so, that by his express desire the Bible is freely taught in this school to all the upper classes. Certainly it does seem strange that that should be done by a Hindu prince which is not ventured to be done by the Christian Government of India.

The bishop and his party next proceeded to visit the Church Missionary stations. The first reached was Allepie, where there is a native congregation under the pastoral charge of an ordained Syrian, the Rev. Oomen Mamen. May it become like the lighthouse which the Maharajah has erected at this sea-port, the lamps of which are on the newest and most approved model, so that the light is visible for twenty-eight miles.

Cottayam was next reached, a place beautiful with vegetation, as rich and tropical as that of Ceylon. Here are two colleges, one of the Church Missionary Society, the other of the Syrian church; the first flourishing and full of pupils, the latter deserted. Besides the college, there is the Cambridge Nicholson Training Institution, where future schoolmasters are trained through the medium of the Malayalim language, by the Syrian clergyman, the Rev. George Matthan.

While the bishop was at Cottayam, some of the slaves, amongst whom Christianity has been making such progress, walked from a considerable distance to hear him preach. They afterwards visited him, and showed by their answers to his questions that they fully understood him. These were, until recently, the most degraded of the population of Travancore; but they have been emancipated by their Government, and Christianity, having been introduced amongst them, is freeing them from the bonds of sin. Yet even thus, so despised are they by the upper castes, that a Brahmin official, who came to announce the approach of these slave visitors to the bishop, retreated from them with horror to a distance at least of twenty yards. The improvement, however, which Christianity is accomplishing in their character is becoming so increasingly manifest to the heathen around, that their heathen employers urge them to send their children to the Missionary schools because they learn there to become honest, useful, and good servants.

May the Gospel spread amongst the wooded hills of Travancore, and make glad the heart of the wild Araan and the degraded slave, until the proud Brahmin, the haughty Nair, and the prejudiced Syrian, in the changes which they witness, be compelled to acknowledge the Gospel to be "the power of God to salvation!"

The following interesting account of one of the branch stations of the Mission has appeared in the Madras Church Missionary Record:—

We had the pleasure of spending a Lord's-day a few months ago at Kodowalania, a branch of the Mavelikara Mission, of which Mr. Kuruwella, the native pastor, is in charge. Rarely have we seen in this heathen land a more lovely sight than that presented to our eyes as we sat in the church porch and watched the large and respectable congregation slowly winding their way, in family groups, from the surrounding valleys up the hill on which their church is built. This is the flock which Mr. Kuruwella tends. The character of the surrounding scenery and the respectable appearance of the people, reminded us most forcibly of an English Sabbath at home, and the remembrance was both cheering and affecting. The full service of our church was performed with much solemnity: several women returned thanks for mercies vouchsafed, and a Chogan convert was admitted before the congregation to Christian baptism. Such is some of the Lord's work in Travancore.

The following extracts are from the annual report of Mr. Kuruwella :—

The standing number, which is nearly 319 souls, has not swollen by fresh accessions from the Syrians or heathen. In almost every house occupied by our people, and which I am in the habit of occasionally visiting, they have the whole Bible or portions of it and other religious books for their own private and family use: the voice of prayer and praise daily ascending from around the family altar of Christians to the eternal Father of heaven, rejoices and enlivens the heart of one who is interested in it, and presents a striking contrast to what is constantly taking place in the abodes of heathen, whose children are taught from their infancy to reiterate the names of their deities in ignorance of who or what they are.

It is now nearly eight years since meetings for social prayer and the reading of the Scriptures were organized and set to work both among the male and female portions of the community; and the system is carried on with unabated interest and diligence: I may say that it has become an established practice; and I find by experience that much good results from this union for instruction and prayer. The sum of money raised by the people last year, notwithstanding the failure of several crops and other disadvantages, amounted to eighty-four rupees, exclusive of the income of the church. In the course of the last year I introduced the sacramental meeting, which will help the communicants to spend some time in self-examination and prayer before they come to celebrate the dying tokens of our Redeemer's love.

Upon the death of the Rev. J. Hawksworth the Cambridge Nicholson Training Institution was placed under the temporary charge of the native minister, the Rev. G. Matthan, but the Rev. J. M. Speechly, M.A., was about to assume the Principalship at the commencement of this year.

That the non-arrival of the reports of the Missionaries in this district does not indicate the absence of matters of interest may be shown by a brief sentence in a letter from Mr. Baker to Mr. Gray :—

Since you left Travancore I have baptized 256 souls, Palayries, Paraans, and the higher caste of Chogans, in the Pallam district and Olesha, all well prepared and placed under instruction by Mr. Hawksworth and Mr. Andrews, and connected with us some two years past.

COCHIN.

In the city of Cochin there is a native congregation, comprising more than 400 converts, under the charge of a native minister, the Rev. G. Curean. The chaplain, the Rev. W. Collins, gives his aid and superintendence to the Mission, and reports very favourably of its progress. Mr. Curean, in his annual report, states :—

In the course of the year I had the pleasure of making several Missionary excursions through the vast extent of the district, excepting the extreme eastern part of it, distributing books and tracts.

In the number of the congregations there has been a steady and moderate increase during the past year, as might be seen by a reference to the statistics of the past and previous years. Fourteen souls were added from heathenism, whilst the rest were from Romanism. Although I cannot report of the whole of the members as walking worthy of the religion they have professed, yet I can with safety say that many of them do so. There has been a little more energy and light manifested in the management of prayer-meetings, and in their contributions for the church fund. A slight decrease has been observed in attendance on the means of grace, which is wholly accounted for by the want of decent clothing, on account of the dearness of cloth this year, which few persons in their position are able to afford.

The slave converts, who form a small part of this congregation, have been increased, so as to form a separate congregation of themselves. They have no permanent settlement here, and hence they are scattered and unsettled. A benevolent gentleman, who has lands at his disposal at Palifort, about sixteen miles distant, has kindly proposed to give them all work and ground for a settlement, with a promise of erecting a prayer-house for them at his own expense: the place is no other than the fort of Cranganore, of great historical notoriety. I hope and wish they may succeed.

IV. Telugu Mission.

The Mission comprises three stations, viz. 1. Masulipatam, 1841; 2. Ellore, 1854; 3. Bezwara, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Robert Turlington Noble, B.A., 1841.
Rev. John Edmund Sharkey (m) } Educated in India.
Rev. Thomas Young Darling (m) }
Rev. Charles Tanner (m), 1857.
Rev. Frederick William Nassau Alexander, B.A., 1857.
Rev. Walter John Edmonds, 1860: at home.
Rev. William Ellington (m), 1860.
Rev. John Sharp, M.A., 1861.
Mr. Francis Goodall, 1856, Trained Schoolmaster.
Mr. John Thornton, 1864, Training Master.

The only change of European labourers in the Telugu Mission has been the return home of the Rev. W. J. Edmonds, on account of his own and his wife's failure of health. Seven European Missionaries have laboured in the Mission, three of whom are attached to the English school at Masulipatam, which, under its veteran Principal, the Rev. R. T. Noble, maintains its high character; though subject to a severe trial during the last year, by having the building in which it was held taken from it, and opened as a rival school under the auspices of a high native official. Some check was given to the school by this event, but the numbers had risen to 288 at the close of the year.

The Mission to the heathen in Masulipatam and its neighbourhood is actively and zealously prosecuted by the Rev. J. E. Sharkey.

At ELLORE the Rev. F. W. N. Alexander superintends an English school, has charge of a small native congregation, and spends much time in visiting surrounding villages.

At BEZWARA the Rev. T. Y. Darling and the Rev. W. Ellington have resided. Mr. Darling has devoted himself to itinerating among the surrounding villages, where he has met with much encouragement, especially at the out-station of Rajhapoor.

In January the Bishop of Madras visited this Mission, and has furnished the following interesting notice of his observations:—

"On my way from Secunderabad to Masulipatam, in the last week in January, I saw Rajhapoor and Bezwara. The former lies two miles off the road, and I confirmed there forty-eight natives. The small and humble-looking school church, capable of holding about 100, was quite full, and there were several outside. At Bezwara seventeen were confirmed. They looked as intelligent, and answered full as well as in the south.

I can assure you that all the good men and women, and all the money you can send to the Telugu Mission, will be no more than it wants. All the schools are like healthy children that want feeding. Mr. Sharkey, of Masulipatam, told me that his wife could take many more girls into her boarding school if they had the means, and an excellent school it seems to be. In Mr. Noble's school it was most interesting to hear him ask his pupils first-class questions in the Gospels, principally on doctrine evidences. His pupils seem to have imbibed, in some measure, his serious spirit, even those who are still heathen.

The ordination was an occasion full of joy and interest to me. Mr. Noble preached a very faithful and solemn sermon on "Unto me who am less," &c. Parts of the service were in Telugu. The number of communicants was large—above 100; and of these the greater part were natives. I trust that much fruit will be gathered hereafter to the glory of God, the result of that day's ordinance.

Mr. Alexander writes, (Feb. 10.):—

I am just now on my way back to Ellore with our dear Bishop. He has kindly consented to come round our way and see some of our work. His visit has been a great refreshment and pleasure to us all. Truly God has shown us great things, whereof we rejoice. In the whole Telugu districts there were ninety-eight natives confirmed to thirty-eight the last time, and, besides, we have the ordination of two of our native brethren. This makes us all very glad and thankful. Ratnam has come out with me for a few days, to attend a great native festival, and to begin his ministry in Ellore.

KOÏ MISSION.

The Rev. J. Edmonds, now in England on sick certificate, has furnished the following touching report of the Mission:—

The past year has been one of great trial to this Mission, and to the little European community at Dumbagudem. The interest taken in the natives by many of the residents gave to the station the character of a Missionary party, so that the changes which have taken place during the year have all more or less affected the work. Early in the year failing health deprived the Mission of the presence and assistance of the wife of the chief Engineer, who had taken a useful part in the teaching of the native women. Two months later, the wife of the medical officer in charge of the works was taken away, in sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life. Our native brother, Razu, was next prostrated by severe and dangerous illness; but he was spared, lest there should be sorrow upon sorrow.

In June Mr. Edmonds was obliged to leave, to take Mrs. Edmonds to the coast for a temporary change. They were not to return to Dumbagudem. An immediate departure to Europe was ordered, and, a few months after, Mrs. Edmonds died. The sowing has emphatically been in tears.

At the beginning of the year our native brother Razu was accepted by the Society as an agent. His previous conduct had commended him to the confidence and affection of the Mission party, and had won for him the respect of the natives. He was now received as a fellow-labourer with great joy by Mr. Edmonds, and continued to prove himself an earnest helper and a valuable adviser.

At this time two tours—one on the left bank and the other on the right bank of the river—were undertaken: the result was the same in both cases. The Koïs were found to be easily accessible and ready to hear. It seemed to the Missionary that they needed "line upon line, line upon line," a little at a time, and that little often repeated. Their intellectual powers are low, and they do not dispute the Christian doctrines, but simply ask the question as to why they should leave the way of their fathers. Owing to the departure of Mr. Edmonds, these tours have not been followed up.

An interesting experiment is, however, being made in a Koï village near Dumbagudem. Razu has induced the people to consent to build a school and a schoolhouse on very easy terms. Meanwhile, some sixteen boys are in regular attendance, and have already learned the Creed, Lord's Prayer, and Ten Commandments, and also are able to read and write words of two, three, and four syllables. They have been examined by Captain Haig, Dr. Houston, and Mr. Alexander, and all agree that they have made good progress. This is quite a new thing amongst Koïs, and Mr. Alexander writes that he regards it as a great opening. The Brahmins at Badrachellem have opposed this, but the Deputy Commissioner, on being applied to by Captain Haig, sent an order that they were not to be molested. The native schoolmaster at Dumbagudem, Gangayya, has shown true Christian zeal and self-denial in going out there at once, and taking up his abode in a place which Mr. Alexander calls "a wretched hole."

There are at present no Christian Koïs: the native church is composed entirely of converts from among those Telugu people who have been attracted to the upper Godavery by the prospect of employment on the works, or of those who, being Christians already, have come there for the same reason. Of these, some are extremely unsatisfactory, and need much tenderness and forbearance, and, if possible, sharpness also: others are brethren indeed, and the Missionary can thank God upon every remembrance of them.

Since Mr. Edmonds' departure they have been left to the care of Razu, superintended by Captain Haig and other friends. In a letter to Mr. Edmonds, Captain Haig says, "The Mission would have fallen to pieces without Razu: he looks after the Christians with a truly fatherly care."

The station had the benefit of a visit from Mr. Alexander in November, and will again, God willing, have been visited by him in April. He found several inquirers, but none sufficiently instructed to be admitted to baptism.

The residents have been most liberal. A local Committee manages the finance of the Mission without aid from the Society, and have offered to pay the whole expenses of a second Missionary for two years, if one can be found. Who will come forward and share the sorrowful sowing in the assurance of a joyful reaping?

General view of the progress and success of Protestant Christian Missions in India.

The general aspect of Christian Missions in India is that of a slow progress in the number of native converts, but of clear indications of a movement in the native mind, and of an approaching era, when the hopes of the church will be more abundantly fulfilled. This is the experience of all the thirty-two Missionary Societies now labouring for the evangelization of India. There is a remarkable uniformity in their measure of success, though each Society adopts its own modes of operation. It seems as if the Lord were preparing for the advance of His kingdom, not only by direct Missionary agency, but also by various concurring providences, and by such indirect means as to place the Missionary agency, on which the church is too apt to rest its confidence, in a more subordinate position than we should fondly assign to it.

The foregoing Report affords many illustrations of the truth of this statement: but, for its further confirmation, the Committee will, as a conclusion of their Report of the Indian Missions, record a few signal facts of a more general character.

1. The Committee would notice the breaking down of ancient prejudices, in the advance of female education. For a whole generation of Missionary labour, female schools were confined to orphans and outcasts. Then in Calcutta, and among the Parsees of Bombay, some few of the better classes consented to attend schools; but of late years female education has been largely extended, and zenanas have been opened to the female Christian instructor. In the Punjab, during the last year, Sir Robert Montgomery, at a great assembly of nobles, boldly proposed the introduction of female education into the upper ranks of native society, and received a response unexpectedly favourable; and though but a few months have elapsed, a large increase of female schools has taken place in that province, by the spontaneous efforts of the native gentry. How greatly will the prospects of native Christianity be improved, when there shall be an awakening of the female mind in India to its proper position and influence in society, from which it has hitherto been excluded; and when, instead of a converted youth being assailed by the frantic reproaches of a mother and female relatives, he shall rather find countenance and guidance in his search for truth from his now enlightened female relatives!

2. Another signal instance of the breaking down of ancient prejudice has been manifested during the last year, in a famous trial in the Civil Court of Bombay, when an educated but heathen native, having lashed with severe satire from the press the intense immorality of the Maharajah, or high-priest, of his own sect, and an action for libel having taken place, an acquittal was obtained upon the plea of the truthfulness of the statement. How powerfully this event must tell upon the prospects of Christianity, may be judged of by the fact, that a large and influential meeting was held at Bombay, to congratulate the bold writer upon his acquittal; and at this meeting some of the most respected Missionaries attended, to join with the educated but unconverted natives in celebrating their triumph over caste prejudices of 3000 years' standing.

3. The Committee notice with gratitude to God the effectual severance of the last link between a Christian Government and the support of idol temples, the Government having made over to the priests and their votaries the management of temple property. This righteous law has led to a manifestation of the rottenness of idolatry, for the Hindus were so afraid lest those who should be entrusted with temple funds, whether priest or layman, should appropriate them to their own private use, that a public meeting was held at Madras to petition the Government to suspend its edict, lest the whole fabric of idolatry should come to nothing.

4. Another important benefit to the cause of Christianity in India, in connection with Government, is their largely increased liberality, both as regards the terms and the amount of the Grants-in-aid to Mission and other independent schools. Hitherto the acceptance of the Grants-in-aid has been hampered with so many stipulations that the expense of the school was often increased beyond the amount of the grant. The consequence was that very few grants, and those of comparatively small amount, were accepted by Missionary Societies. The accession of Sir Charles Trevelyan to office opened the way to a more liberal policy, and a deputation from your Committee waited on Sir Charles Wood, who expressed his willingness to enlarge the Government grants to the fullest extent to which Missionary Societies were able to carry out the effective education of the natives; and he addressed a despatch to the Governor-General to sanction a more liberal scale of grants, and to free the conductors of schools from many of the restrictions under which they had laboured. In the view of these facilities, the Bishop of Calcutta, in his recent charge, thus speaks:—"There is, I rejoice to say, reason to hope that in this important undertaking—vernacular education—Church and State, Missionary Societies and Government, will soon be working together in harmonious alliance, through a liberal extension of Grants-in-aid." It is the hope of the Committee that their Missionary schools may, by the operation of Government aid, be made more efficient, and may be multiplied in number without drawing more largely from Missionary funds.

5. The Committee desire to draw special notice to the fact that this liberal external aid to their educational department has come at a crisis, when more than ever it is necessary that the religious element should be mingled with the rapid advance of secular education. Hitherto Missionary education and Government education have advanced together, so that the educated heathen boys have had a bond of sympathy with the Christian boys, and heathen schools have in a measure prepared their pupils for Christian influence. A native inspector of Government schools in the Benares division, himself not a Christian, has lately written these memorable words:—"Missionaries bear testimony that my schools are preparing the way for them. The boys have commenced purchasing religious books from them: a taste for reading has been created. It now remains for Missionaries to make them of a better religion. Thousands and thousands of boys in villages can now read and write, and our progress is greater every day." All these benefits would be lost if Missionary education should fall into the back ground; whereas the prospects are bright if only the Christian church rise to the occasion, and, by an improvement of its schools, and by a Christian literature, and by zealous Missionaries, impart a Christian leaven to that great movement of the native mind, which education, social improvement, railways, and other scientific applications, are all helping forwards.

6. The Committee must also further notice some faint indications of the rise of a public sentiment among the Hindus in favour of a national reception of Christianity, which as streaks of light show in a dark world the approaching day-dawn. Thus a talented Hindu writer has, during the last year, published a pamphlet entitled Our Wants; or, a Suggestion of Remedies for the Removal of the Moral, Social, Intellectual, and Physical Evils of Bengal, in which he laments these evils, and traces them to the fact "that boys are taught to learn the higher branches of literature and science, but are not instructed in any book of morals;" and he avows his desire, though himself a heathen, that "The precepts of Jesus" should at once be made a class-book in the Government schools. So, on the other side of India, upon the late visitation of the Metropolitan of India in Bombay, a public address was presented to him by the non-Christian young men of the city, thanking him for his zeal for the social progress of their country; and a native non-Christian newspaper, in commenting upon this event, makes use of these remarkable works—"This paper has repeatedly admitted the necessity of some outpour of new religious life on India. We have also shown the possible advantages which will accrue if the stir take the form of a national conversion to Christianity."

In a late communication Sir Herbert Edwardes alludes such enlightened views as have been manifest of late, and asks in his glowing language:—"Where have they got the light?—From the feeble tapers which your Society and others have kept flickering alive, in scattered Mission homes, for sixty years, amid darkness and discouragements and scorn. Missions in India have begun to tell. God grant that we may see their triumph in our day."

CEYLON MISSION.

(Commenced 1817.)

Division of Mission—I. Colombo. II. Baddagama. III. Kandy. IV. Jaffna.

I. Colombo.

Cotta commenced, 1822; Colombo, 1852.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Christopher Cyprian Fenn, M.A., (m) 1851: at home.
Rev. Edward Thomas Higgens (m) 1851.
Rev. Robert Burchell Tonge, B.A. (m), 1860.
Rev. William Edward Rowlands, B.A. (m), 1861.
Rev. Josiah Herbert Clowes (m), 1861.

Colombo District.

In the early part of the year 1863 the Church Mission chapel, and the Colombo district were under the charge of the Rev. C. C. Fenn. In October he was compelled by his wife's health, to return with her to England. The Rev. W. E. Rowlands and the Rev. J. H. Clowes, upon this change, removed to Colombo to divide the work between them, the former taking the Tamil, and the latter the Singhalese divisions of the work.

COTTA DISTRICT.

The Rev. E. T. Higgens has been in charge of the Cotta district, which comprises a country of about twelve miles by six, with about 10,000 inhabitants: nearly two-thirds are avowed Buddhists. Of the remaining one-third, about a fifth only attend Christian worship: though baptized, they are Buddhists at heart, and secretly practise Buddhist rites. Thus, out of 2700 nominal Christians, only 514 are on the lists of the Mission. The labours of the Missionary are directed to the whole of the population. The district is divided into eight sub-districts, in one of which a native pastor labours, and in each of the others a catechist or reader resides. Divine service is held in each sub-district, aud there are thirty-six schools, containiug 1070 children. During the last year there have been seven adult baptisms; and at a confirmation held by the Bishop of Colombo, twenty-five young people were presented, who had been carefully prepared. Mr. Higgens thus writes:—

The late Buddhist controversy has been of very great service in the work which I am now endeavouring to carry out at Cotta. Before that commenced it was next to impossible for a Missionary to know who were and who were not secretly Buddhists. The notion that to deny Buddhism outwardly was no disgrace as long as faith in it was secretly retained, had become chronic among the people, and consequently no man, unless he had possessed discernment of spirit such as was vouchsafed in the early times of the Gospel, could help being deceived. The late controversy, however, has stirred the minds of the people, and, to a very great extent, broken down the old notion, and opened their eyes to the fact, that there is a great distinction between Christianity and Buddhism, and that they cannot profess one without actually denying the other. Although, therefore, there may be still great danger that many will practice the old deceit, in order to obtain Christian rites (marriage and infant baptism), yet native public opinion is turning against it, and therefore the difficulty of distinguishing between false profession and real will gradually become less; and

I earnestly trust that grace will be given to myself and my native helpers to improve this advantage aright, that, while labouring to cast out the tares, we may not root up any of the wheat.

In order to draw out and strengthen whatever sincerity does exist among our Christian people, and to give them an interest in the growth and progress of the Gospel work among themselves, I am endeavouring to establish a system of church meetings in each district, in which matters connected with the congregation are discussed, and information given, which may tend to interest and instruct them in the management of their own affairs. One of the first subjects brought forward was the introduction of weekly collections during divine service on Sundays, the proceeds of which are divided into three equal portions, and devoted, one to the support (in part) of the catechist of the district; a second to the repair of churches and schoolrooms; and the remaining portion to the relief of the poor connected with the congregation. The collections are but small at present, but they show signs of increase; and I trust that when the habit of giving is formed these collections will prove the nucleus of future self-support, as the meetings out of which they have arisen are intended to be of self-government.

There is, I am thankful to say, a gradual improvement in nearly all the schools, both in scholars and in teachers. It is chiefly due to the exertions of Mr. Coles, who, since the date of his leaving the Cotta Institution in May last, has devoted his time to the instruction and improvement of the schoolmasters and mistresses of the district vernacular schools; and although the time is too short to develope any striking improvement, yet the benefit of his exertions are plainly visible, and lead us to look forward to a far better state of things in our day schools, when, in the course of two or three years, they begin to be supplied with well-trained teachers from our new Institution, about to be opened at Baddagama.

Mr. Higgens concludes his annual report with the following wise, faithful, and cautions observation:—

I cannot, as I before stated, venture, with only eight months' experience of the district, to give any decided opinion as to the state of the native Christians. The more I know of Singhalese people, the more difficult it seems to me to speak positively as to their spiritual state. Their whole habit of thought and feeling is so widely different from ours, that we are, I fear, continually in great danger of forming incorrect judgments respecting them. There is indeed much to depress, and one sometimes feels quite cast down, but still there are indications of real attachment to the truth, which show occasionally that the Lord's work has not been in vain. Though my faith, therefore, is often sorely tried (far more so than I have ever found it before), yet I still cling to the hope that there are some who fear the Lord, and call upon His name, and earnestly pray that He who has promised not to break the bruised reed, or quench the smoking flax, will graciously look upon them, and cause their numbers to increase, and their faith to grow, until they become as lights shining in the darkness, living witnesses of his truth to the heathen world around.

Talangama District.

The district of Talangama, adjoining that of Cotta, is under the charge of the native minister, the Rev. C. Jayesinha, assisted by catechists and schoolmasters. The number of preaching-houses is thirteen, at which divine service is held on the Lord's-day, besides the station church at Talangama. The list of native Christians who attend divine worship numbers 670, with 113 communicants. At the station church "the members of the congregation are improved both in number and knowledge when compared with the results of last year, and many of them give satisfaction by their good behaviour and their family prayers in their own houses." Eighteen adults have been baptized during the last year. There are 23 schools, and about 800 children of both sexes.

Education.

The Cotta Institution has been, during the year 1863, under the charge of the Rev. R. B. Tonge, who commenced his work under the great disadvantage of being deprived of two European assistant teachers, who had been for some time in the school. Mr. Tonge has also thought it desirable to reduce the number of day-scholars to those who reside with their parents. These changes, with others which have been introduced, have reduced the number of pupils. At the close of the year there were forty boarders and sixty day-scholars.

II. Baddagama.

Baddagama, commenced, 1819; Bentotte, 1861.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. George Parsons (m) 1849.
Mr. Stephen Coles (m) 1860.

At the close of last year Mr. Coles removed from Cotta to Baddagama, to open the new training institution for native teachers.

The number of adult native Christians in the Baddagama district amounts to 144, of whom about 50 are communicants. They have raised for religious and benevolent purposes about 50*l*. "The schools," writes Mr. Parsons, "are encouraging or not according as we have trained or untrained teachers."

Mr. Parsons labours among the heathen, and superintends several outposts. He writes:—

At Bentotte great hatred to the purity and truth of the Gospel prevails; but the few Christians who are there maintain a consistency of Christian conduct. At Balapity Modara I have had the pleasure of completing the church, and opening it for divine service. This circumstance appears to have given a healthy impetus to our work at that station. An encouraging opening has lately presented itself at Dodanduwa. The village is one of the most powerful strongholds of Buddhism in the Southern Province. Through the efforts of a Government schoolmaster, formerly educated by the Church Missionary Society, a silent and gradual work has been carried on, resulting in the conversion of five or six men and women. These are standing firm amidst much persecution and annoyance from their heathen neighbours and relatives.

Training of Native Agents.

Mr. Parsons writes respecting this department of labour:—

During the year I have had on an average twelve young men in the Preparandi Institution, and a few others who were being trained as school teachers. To these I have given daily constant attention, as being an important branch of Missionary work, affecting the welfare of the whole of the Singhalese Mission. This work has been most pleasant, and seems full of promise. The young men are all, I believe, pious and prayerful, energetic and diligent, submissive and cheerful. At the Missionary conference just held at this station the senior class was examined in a variety of Biblical, theological, and controversial subjects, giving great satisfaction to the Missionaries who examined them. Five students received their appointment as probationary catechists.

Teaching and training such young men in the vernacular was an untried experiment two years ago, apparently beset with some difficulties, yet holding out some encouragement to those whose aim it was to raise up an inexpensive and efficient native ministry.

At this early stage it would be imprudent to speak confidently, but I would draw attention to the fact, that so far from the men disliking the plan of a vernacular education, they appear to like it. Several of the young men have some knowledge of the English language; yet, with the exception of now and then reading an English book in private, or referring to the Commentary which does not exist in Singhalese, they confine themselves to study in their own language. All their lessons are prepared in Singhalese, all communications with myself, and all intercourse among themselves, are through the medium of Singhalese. I consider this a point of vital importance to the success of the Institution, and that the success gained without rules to enforce it is very gratifying. It is advantageous not only for making these catechists content with their positions and salaries, without seeking more lucrative situations, which a knowledge of English would fit them for, but because, as I think, it enables them to express themselves more clearly and with more force when addressing others in their native tongue. One great difficulty, however, attends at present this mode of training the men. I allude to the want of suitable class books. So much has to be done by oral teaching or by manuscript (i. e. lessons prepared in Singhalese which are not yet in print), that the process is slow, and the labour great.

III. Kandy.

Kandy commenced, 1818; Tamil Cooly Mission, 1855; Itinerating Mission in Kandian Districts, 1853.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. William Oakley (m), 1835.
Rev. John Pickford (m), to South India, 1852; to Ceylon, 1863.
Rev. John Ireland Jones, B.A., 1857.

Mr. Oakley has continued to superintend the Mission in the town of Kandy, and in some adjacent villages. In the early part of the year Mr. Rowlands was in charge of the Tamil Cooly Mission; at the close Mr. Pickford arrived, having been transferred from the South-Indian Mission, and Mr. Rowlands returned to Colombo. The Kandian itinerant Mission was, in the early part of the year, conducted by Mr. Clowes, till his removal to Colombo. In March Mr. Jones returned from Colombo to this Mission.

The Town of Kandy.

Mr. Oakley reports:—

The regular congregations (at Trinity church, Kandy, at Gatembe chapel, at Katakelle chapel, as well as at the village of Ratmiwala), remain much the same from year to year, nor is there much variety in the usual number of attendants at the different places of Christian worship, or in the number of communicants. A confirmation was held in March 1863, at which 32 persons were presented to the bishop. There are 7 schools, containing in all 225 boys and 59 girls, which are mainly supported by local funds. At the commencement of the present year an appeal was made to the friends of the Society, European and native, at this station, to raise funds for the employment of two Scripture readers, who have been at work throughout the year, wholly supported by local funds. The contributions of the native Christians have amounted to 128*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

THE TAMIL COOLY MISSION.

Upon the removal of Mr. Hobbs from this Mission in October 1862, it was placed under the care of the Rev. W. E. Rowlands. The Annual Report is published by the local Committee, which collects funds for the Mission in April. The last report states—"Though Mr. Rowlands' Missionary experience has been short, the Committee feel persuaded that this work has not in any way been suffered to decline, but, on the contrary, it has been maintained in full vigour."

In October 1863 the Rev. J. Pickford arrived in Ceylon, and took charge of this Mission, Mr. Rowlands removing to Colombo.

ITINERATING BRANCH OF THE KANDIAN DISTRICT.

For several years the Rev. E. Higgens itinerated throughout the Kandian district in the central province, comprising an area of about 5000 square miles, and 270,000 inhabitants, removing with his wife from one central village to another, until he had passed over the whole district in about two years. Through the failure of health he was compelled, at the close of 1862, to remove to the plains, and therefore undertook the charge of the Cotta district. The Rev. J. H. Clowes removed to this district in the early part of 1863, and, residing at Kandy, has made Missionary excursions from thence to different parts of the district with his catechists.

The Rev. J. I. Jones rejoined the Kandian itinerating branch in March 1863, upon his resigning the Cotta Institution, and resided about nine miles from Kandy, on the Matelle road. In that neighbourhood he met with little encouragement, through the bigotry of the Buddhists; and being compelled to give up his residence, he removed, in July, to Kornegalle, which had been occupied for a time by a native pastor, the Rev. C. Livera, whose health has compelled him to remove to a lower district, and who is now stationed in the Cotta district. Kornegalle has been gradually formed into a station since 1853: several English families reside there, and a church has been built. Mr. Jones gives a Singhalese sermon on the Sunday morning, and an English sermon in the evening. During the week he itinerates in different directions, assisted by a catechist, Lewis Ratnayaka, "formerly a Buddhist priest, but now both earnest and efficient as a preacher of the Gospel" They have, in this neighbourhood, been blessed with some success. Mr. Jones writes:—

One circumstance seems well worthy of notice. The knowledge of Christianity, and the interest in it which exists in and near Kornegalle, seems to result not so directly from Missionary effort as from the exertions of a man, baptized, by my request, by Mr. Oakley, six years since. He was a Buddhist priest, a man of considerable learning and intelligence, and though he has occasionally given cause of anxiety since, and seemed at one time to have entirely fallen, he seems to have brought his intelligence and influence to bear very forcibly on the Buddhists around him. He is now, I believe, living consistently, and is constant in his endeavours to instruct others. God has used him as an instrument to others: I trust that He may now work in him to his own salvation.

At the close of the year Mr. Jones reports more particularly of this work:—

I have been now labouring for nearly six months in the neighbourhood of Kornegalle, with but little interruption, and with, I am thankful to say, a good deal of encouragement and hope. On Sunday, the 20th December, I was privileged to receive into the church of Christ, by baptism, thirteen adult Kandians. The circumstances attending their being brought to a knowledge of the truth are, to my mind, even more interestng than the fact of their baptism, as they afford an instance of that for which all Missionaries should long and pray, namely, the leaven working towards leavening the whole lump.

Mr. Jones then refers to a visit he paid to Kornegalle in 1857, when he met with the Buddhist priest already referred to, "who had thrown off his robes, and was reading the Bible with apparent desire of learning the truth." This person, after due instruction, was baptized by the name of John Edward Hunapola. At the solicitation of this convert, Mr. Jones, the next year, 1858, visited the village of Talampitiya, seven miles from Kornegalle, and by means of interpreters, as he did not then know the language perfectly, he addressed the people, and distributed tracts and a few Testaments. Once afterwards the village was visited by a Missionary, and one man appeared in earnest to embrace the truth. Hunapola, however, had frequently gone to the village, and laboured to bring the people to a knowledge of the truth. Upon Mr. Jones's arrival this year at Kornegalle, he visited the village, and found that many had been stirred up to seek the truth. A catechist was placed amongst them, who soon furnished the Missionary with thirty-five names of inquirers at Talampitya, and thirteen more at an adjoining village, all the fruit of the voluntary labours of the first convert and the two visits paid by the Missionaries. Twelve of the most advanced converts were baptized on the occasion already mentioned. Another interesting individual was a young Buddhist priest, who had been stirred up by Hunapola to throw off his robes, and resign income from a temple, to study the Scriptures. He was enabled to forsake all and follow Christ. Talampitiya is a low-caste village, and the converts are poor, but they have willingly engaged to contribute towards the support of a native teacher, and will be organized as a native church.

In another letter Mr. Jones states:—

I have lately paid an occasional visit to Kaigalle, a small town twenty miles distant, and held service in Singhalese and English. There are at Kaigalle several candidates for baptism, Mr. Sharpe, the Government agent, having regularly, when not absent from the place, held a service and Bible class, and laid before the young men who composed the latter the truths of Christianity, and the need of dedicating themselves to Christ.

One cannot too much admire the interest which this gentleman, who is a member of our Dublin University Prayer Union, takes in the natives generally, and the unremitting efforts he makes for their good. At the same time sad experience teaches the need of great caution in the reception and baptism of those among the Singhalese, who, under the teaching of any one occupying a high position under Government, express their desire to become Christians.

IV. Jaffna District.

Nellore commenced, 1818; Chundicully, 1842; Copay, 1847.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Robert Pargiter (m), 1843.
Rev. Charles Chapman M'Arthur (m), 1858.
Rev. Henry Dixon Buswell (m), 1862.

The presence of three Missionaries has, during the last year, provided for the tripartite division of the work, for which the Mission houses and churches in the district are designed, Mr. Pargiter taking Chundicully, Mr. M'Arthur, Nellore, and Mr. Buswell, Copay.

An event of great interest was the visitation of the Bishop of Colombo to Jaffna in September 1863. The Rev. R. Pargiter gives the following account of the visit, and of the ordination of the native teacher, Mr. John Hensman:—

The bishop examined our native candidate for orders, and expressed himself much satisfied with him, and of his fitness for the ministry; and as we had already received the sanction of the Committee for his ordination, the following morning was appointed for this service, which took place in the beautiful and elegant new church at Chundicully. This being the first native ordained in connection with our Jaffna Mission, the church, as might be expected, was filled to overflowing. All the Missionaries and the chaplain took part in the service, the Bishop preaching the sermon, which was characterized by a beautiful simplicity and pure evangelical doctrine, and delivered with much earnestness of manner. It was in every sense a Missionary sermon, calculated to do much good. The text was John i. 41, 42. The service was one long to be remembered, but we hope soon to be repeated, as we are thankful to say other candidates are under instruction for the ministry.

The number of candidates confirmed at the three stations was seventy-eight. All of these had been under a course of training and Christian instruction for some time, and we were much pleased with the solemnity of manner which marked their conduct. The candidates on the estates, some twenty in number, in connection with the Chundicully Station, were not able to be present, being from twenty to thirty miles distant, and the time for notice being too short to enable them to make the necessary arrangements for coming in.

On Wednesday morning, at my request, the Bishop kindly consented to address the Tamil congregation at Chundicully: all the catechists and schoolmasters of the Mission were present, and the service, though short, was calculated to leave an impression of much good behind. This closed, in our Mission, the Bishop's labours. He expressed himself as much pleased with his visit, and it would have been impossible for us to have met with more kindness, cordiality, sympathy, and assistance in our work, than we met with from his lordship. He has left that goodwill behind him which will ensure him a still more cordial welcome at his next visit, which he promises shall be some time during the coming year. I cannot refrain from quoting his lordship's words, as they will perhaps tend in some degree to remove the impression which appears to exist as to the want of success in our Jaffna Mission. His lordship says, "I cannot leave Jaffna without expressing to you what I feel, viz. that I have seen more to encourage me in the work of Missions here than in any part of my diocese."

In a subsequent communication, Mr. Pargiter thus writes of the new and promising department of labour among the coolies on cocoa-nut plantations:—

Much more attention has been paid this year to the estates at the east of the district. Two catechists have been located there, who have regularly visited the different estates, and preached to the coolies. I have several times visited them, and taken services both in English and Tamil. Eleven adults have been baptized and five children; and at the last Communion Service held there, I had the happiness of administering the Sacrament to twenty-four members of the church. The indications of success are very encouraging, and I trust the coming year may be as successful as as the past, and much more abundant.

In conclusion, reviewing the whole Mission, I would say that there is hope for the future. It is not so much the change of individual opinion, as it is the change of public thought on matters of religion which we deem so full of hope. The leaven is at work disturbing the original principles of society, and in every direction there seems to be an awakening—an inquiry—a preparation. It is not a time of sorrow, but of gladness. The past calls for thankfulness: it has been rich in blessings. The present calls for thankfulness: it is rich in preparation. The future calls for thankfulness as it opens before us. It recalls those great promises that our gracious God has given to cheer us in our work. While, then, we look at the present in the light of the past, and at the future in the light of the promises, we thank God and take courage.

Mr. McArthur gives the following report of his work at Chundicully:—

Since my return from England the whole work at the station has been remodelled, and every agent is now made responsible for his work within certain circumscribed limits, instead of wandering here and there and everywhere in search of work. Formerlly all the agents lived in the Mission compound, but now they have been located each within his own sphere of labour, and entrusted with definite duties and responsibilities. My plan is to appoint a catechist, schoolmaster, and schoolmistress, and a Bible woman to each village, where the population is not under two thousand souls, which is as much as they may be reasonably expected to attend to with any degree of success. Though two large villages are still unsupplied, except by occasional visits, yet the interest felt by each and all in the work as now arranged is much greater than I have ever known it before. Every catechist, reader, schoolmaster, mistress, and Bible woman knows what he or she has to do, and each is held responsible for his or her own work.

It may be interesting to state that one of these Bible women is supported by the native church. This is done partly by a weekly collection made at the church door, and partly by the produce of cocoanut trees, dedicated by the native Christians to that special object. Every Christian householder at the station has set apart a tree, the produce of which is sold once a month for the support of the "Bible woman."

Mrs. McArthur has an interesting Bible class and prayer-meeting with the Christian females. This, with the care of the boarding school and the girls' day school, gives her abundant employment.

We have now nine regular Sunday services, conducted by the catechists, readers, and myself. All preach from the same texts, which are always fixed upon beforehand. This enables me to give them some hints and suggestions as to the mode of treating the subject. It secures uniformity of teaching and a general range of subjects, and prevents idleness by obliging every man to get up and prepare once a week a sermon on a certain given text. I sometimes get them to read their sermons, that I may know what they are made of, and in order to keep them up to their duties. The number of Christians is 130, of whom 52 are communicants. Ten adults and three children have been baptized during the year; but several more will, I trust, be admitted into the church on Christmas-day.

In a subsequent communication, Mr. McArthur thus reports the baptisms on Christmas-day 1863 :—

"Christmas day was a day of joy and gladness at Nellore. At nine o'clock all the Christians belonging to the station were assembled in the church. After the morning service and sermon, it was my happy privilege to baptize thirty individuals, and to administer the Lord's Supper to sixty-four communicants. Of those baptized some were young, but the majority were men and women in the prime of life, and there was more than one grey head amongst them. All the adults had passed through the usual probation, and they were all able to give a reason of the hope that was in them. What made the day more interesting was the fact that there were converts from all the villages connected with the station, some of them of good caste and influence, and others there were from the lowest dregs of society.

Eight or nine of them were from a village where there is more of a spirit of inquiry than I have met with elsewhere. The catechist tells me that his whole time is taken up with answering objections and teaching classes. I have a Bible woman at work in this village, and I attribute a good deal of the stir in the place to her Christian endeavours amongst the females. The whole of the Dhobey caste in the village are under instruction, and are prepared to join us, but for the threats of their friends."

Mr. McArthur makes the following important remarks upon the character of the converts at this Mission:—

In estimating the value of Jaffna statistics in general, it ought to be taken into consideration that most of our converts are educated men and women, who, by their education, are fitted to fill situations of usefulness, offering higher emoluments than can be met with within the limited bounds of the province. Our educational system has, more than any thing I know, dispersed our most hopeful converts, and scattered them over the length and breadth of this island, Madras, and South India, where they are employed in courts and cutcheries (as clerks, proctors and interpreters), in customs, banks, coffee estates, and Government schools. I do not think this is to be so much regretted as some zealous friends of Missions would have us believe. Many of these so employed maintain a consistent Christian character: they support their aged parents, and, from time to time, send subscriptions towards the support of those Missions by which they were educated. What persecution did for the early church, our educational system has done for us, in scattering abroad our converts, and in making our holy religion more widely known than it otherwise would have been. One of our young men from this station, employed on a coffee estate, has a regular service with the coolies under him every Sunday, and has, I believe, done much more in promoting the cause of Christ than if he had been a paid agent of the Society.

Mr. Buswell has furnished the following report of the Copay station :—

At the commencement of the year, I was privileged to join the Mission. I was at first particularly struck with the native helpers. I was agreeably surprised to find so much depth of spirituality, so much earnestness manifested in their work, together with so much efficiency. The little experience I have since had has only tended to confirm my first impressions. If I were asked whether I thought our catechists were inferior to our Scripture readers in England, I think I should say they were decidedly equal, if not superior. Soon after I arrived, a few Bible classes were formed amongst the heathen, chiefly amongst the lower classes of the people. These classes have been conducted chiefly by Mr. Hensman. It has pleased God to own his word, and from these classes we had the privilege of baptizing six adults and some of their children in November last. There are still other candidates and inquirers who are instructed two or three times in each week, by Mr. Hensman, who, under God, was the means of bringing the others to a saving knowledge of the truth. Those who were baptized, are, we firmly believe, not Christians in name only, but are living members of Christ: they have evidenced their sincerity by not yielding to the opposition to which they have been subject, and, better than that, they are seeking to bring others to a partaking of the like precious faith.

On the 1st of August last we re-opened the Copay Tamil Institution. Our rules for admission being somewhat stringent, we are obliged to reject many candidates. Six only were accepted. Some of them are very promising youths. We hope in a few weeks to take in another class. We earnestly pray for God's blessing and favour upon this institution, that it may be indeed a nursery for the Jaffna church. It is gratifying to know, that amongst the younger agents of the Society in Jaffna, some of the very best are those who were trained in the Institution under the care of Mr. Bren.

In September we were privileged to enjoy the brief visit of the Bishop of Colombo. I think the reason was a truly blessed one for all our churches; but without being led away by my prejudices in favour of Copay, I think I may safely say that Copay was more interested in his Lordship's visit than any of the other stations. The Lord has honoured us by giving us the first ordained native pastor in Jaffna, in connection with the Church Missionary Society, and my earnest prayer is that the Lord will raise up more men like our dear brother. In years and experience he is old enough to be my father. I have learnt many a lesson from him, and, I hope, shall learn many more. As he is the pastor of the native church, it leaves me, I am thankful to say, at liberty to do direct Missionary work. The bishop confirmed twenty-two candidates at Copay.

MAURITIUS MISSION.

(Commenced in 1856.)

Division of the Mission: 1. Tamil-speaking Coolies; 2. Bengali or Hindustani-speaking Coolies.

Rev. Stephen Hobbs (m), to South India, 1839; to Mauritius, 1856.
Rev. Paul Ansorgé (m), to Bengal, 1845; to Mauritius, 1857.
Rev. Peter Sorenson Royston, M.A. (m), to South India, 1855; to Mauritius, 1864, Secretary of the Mission.

For Madagascar.

Rev. Thomas Campbell, 1863.
Rev. Herbert Maundrell, 1863.

THE Mauritius Mission was originally commenced with a view only to the evangelization of the coolies from India who flock to the plantations. But it has pleased God to open out far wider and more important prospects for the future. Its connection with East Africa has been gradually developed, first by the liberation in the Mauritius of slaves captured by British cruisers; secondly, by the discovery of large numbers of East Africans in the island of Mauritius, and of still larger numbers in the Seychelles, many of whom have received Christianity, and may furnish teachers to their countrymen, as the colony of Sierra Leone, on the west coast, is now doing for the distant Missions of Yoruba and the Niger; thirdly, by the institution of a monthly postal communication between the Seychelles and Zanzibar. All these circumstances point out the Mauritius as the basis of Missionary operations on the east coast of Africa. The Committee have already, as reported in the East-Africa Mission, sent out a Missionary to strengthen that Mission, who will receive holy orders from the Bishop of Mauritius, and proceed to the Mission station at Mombas, with the valuable acquisition of a few selected East-African native teachers.

Another wide opening for Missionary influence is the connection of the Mauritius with the island of Madagascar, and the very interesting work commenced by the labours of the London Missionary Society, and in which this Society has been invited to take part.

Under these prospects of a wide and increasing connexion between the Mauritius and other Missions of the Society, the Committee have appointed the Rev. P. S. Royston, whose health would not allow of his return to Madras, to act as Secretary of the Missions at the Mauritius. His Secretariat duties will not at first be very onerous, and therefore he has accepted, with the consent of the Committee, the situation of an island chaplain, kindly offered to him by the bishop, which provides him with a house and church, conveniently situated both with reference to the Missionary stations of the Society in the island, and to the capital, Port Louis. Mr. Royston will be still regarded as one of the Missionaries of the Society, though, while chaplain, his salary will be partly paid by the island revenues, and he will have the power of returning to the simple duties of a Missionary whenever the sphere is sufficiently large to occupy his whole time.

The Bishop of Mauritius has, during the latter part of the year 1863, been in England, and has given the Committee the benefit of frequent conferences upon the affairs of the Mission and the prospects opening before it.

The Mauritius Church Missionary Association, in their Report, announce that the annual subscriptions have amounted to 86*l.*, but they add:—

In the reports of former years the observation has been made that the subscription-list does not fully represent the extent to which the Society is indebted to the Christian liberality of its local friends. The remark applies with greater force than usual to the list above given, since, in addition to the continued patronage afforded to the ordinary operations of the Mission, it has been favoured during the past year with special contributions towards the building of a church for the Bengalee and Hindustanee converts. The exertions of the Rev. P. Ansorgé in collecting funds for that object have been crowned with success, the subscriptions entrusted to him amounting to nearly 400*l.*, besides materials gratuitously supplied by P. A. Wiche, Esq., to the value of about 300*l.*, a donation of 250*l.* from the venerable Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, and the customary grant from the Colonial Treasury. This great object, so long desired, is therefore at length about to be attained, as the work was begun as soon as the collections approached the amount required.

The same Report gives a condensed view of the operations of the year, combining together the Tamil and the Bengalee work in one statement as follows:—

The congregations for whose benefit the church is intended still assemble on Sundays at the immigration dépôt. The attendance continues steady, new converts having joined during the year to supply the place of those who have returned to their country, and of a few who have been removed by death. The present number of communicants is thirty-four, and the total of all ages borne on the returns 407, including such of the orphans at the asylum as have been baptized, and the Calcutta Christians residing at different establishments in the country, who attend the services with as much regularity as the distance they have respectively to travel will permit. Towards the close of the year Mr. Ansorgé was visited with a long and serious illness, which, however, caused no suspension of the services, the catechist, C. Kushalee, having undertaken both the Bengalee in the forenoon and the Hindustanee in the afternoon.

Regular Sunday services have been held in the hospital and prison at Port Louis by the Missionary and catechist, who there address attentive audiences, varying from 100 to 200 persons. When itinerating about the island, the Missionaries also visit and preach in the district prisons, but these visits cannot be kept up with any regularity, nor repeated so frequently as could be desired.

The total number of Indians baptized in the course of the year is 64. This number includes a very interesting company of 21 Coringas—14 males and 7 females, Telugus, who had been under Christian instruction for some time in their own country, and had come away rather suddenly when just prepared for baptism by the Rev. F. W. N. Alexander, our Missionary at Ellore, South India. After their arrival in the Mauritius they searched for some one to guide them in the faith they had embraced, there being no Missionary acquainted with their language. At length they were discovered by an earnest Tamil Christian who speaks Telugu but imperfectly, by whom their case was made known to Mr. Hobbs. They appeared to be very well acquainted with the main points of Christian truth, and very earnest in their wish for admission into the Christian church. "After visiting them," writes Mr. Hobbs, "I fixed at once a day for their baptism, as I could see no object in deferring it, having no one capable of continuing their preparation. I have since corresponded with Mr. Alexander about them, with the view of imparting the pleasing intelligence to the Missionary who has been the means of their conversion from heathenism 'that the sower and the reaper may rejoice together.'"

Mr. Hobbs adds another interesting occurrence:—

A fact told me lately by my catechist, Guanamuthi, somewhat surprised me, and may, I trust, be looked upon as a very favourable indication of the disposition of the people resulting from our united labours amongst them. He had been requested by his friends in Tinnevelly to endeavour to raise subscriptions in aid of a church to be built somewhere in the northern part of the province. His attempts to gather contributions from the native Christians at Port Louis had not been very successful, as they have their local objects of charity to support to the utmost of their power; but several of our heathen neighbours, as soon as he mentioned the matter to them, readily and liberally offered to contribute, and he has now collected the sum of eighty rupees almost entirely from the heathen cottagers.

The local Association Report takes the following review of the educational department of the Mission:—

The educational efforts of the Society, aided by the liberality of Government, have been successfully sustained throughout the year. The Orphan Asylum has prospered in all its branches of instruction, a number of youths being now ready to leave as apprentices, and satisfactory reports having been received of those who were sent out in the same manner a year ago. A few also, qualified as teachers, are ready for employment in the schools department. The Asylum contains at present 245 children. The girls are all trained in useful needlework, and the boys divided into seven classes, each pursuing a different trade, that of stone-cutting and masonry having been recently added to the rest. Their progress in learning both English and their respective vernaculars is most favourable; and their conduct, with few exceptions, has been all that could be wished, affording good reason for believing that the religious instruction imparted to them is not fruitless. The other schools are in much the same state both as to numbers and efficiency as when last reported.

Madagascar Mission.

Two Missionaries, as announced in the last Annual Report as set apart for Madagascar, sailed, in April 1863, for the Mauritius, the Rev. Thomas Campbell and the Rev. Herbert Maundrell. Immediately upon their arrival in the Mauritius they sought out the Malagasy who were in the island, and found them to be in considerable numbers, and a few of them converts. They made, by their aid, good progress in the language, and were soon able to collect the Malagasy people together for Bible reading and prayer. The Bishop of Mauritius, since his return to the island, has given an encouraging report of these two Missionaries. He says—"Their residence here has been well employed, in preparation for their work. They are well reported of on all sides, and I am much pleased at the manner in which they have made opportunities for Malagasy Missionary work here. The Malagasy are delighted with their intelligible conversation, and one of the best of the native Christians is very anxious to go with them."

Information has been acquired from captains of ships respecting Vohimare, the spot on the east coast of Madagascar where it is contemplated making a commencement of Church Missionary effort. "The testimony of all concur," says the Bishop, "with my own impressions gathered from previous inquirers, as to the favourable conditions under which Missionary work may be enterprised there."

Rev. Jarvis Downam Valentine (m), 1863.
Mr. John Fryer, joined in the Mission, 1863.

THE Committee have to deplore the early death of their very zealous Missionary, the Rev. George Smith, at Fuh-chau. They have been able to strengthen the Mission by sending out one new Missionary, and by receiving into full connection Mr. John Fryer, a training master from Highbury, who joined, a few years ago, St. Paul's College, Hong Kong, which he resigned in order to devote himself to more direct Missionary work.

The Rev. T. McClatchie, who commenced the Mission in China twenty years ago, and, after labouring at Shanghae for ten years, was compelled to return home, has now, after another interval of ten years, returned to his work in China.

Review of the Mission by the Bishop of Victoria.

The Bishop of Victoria, in his annual letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, thus describes the position of the Mission:—

In the early prospect of my leaving China for England, I have arranged for the Rev. Thomas Stringer, M.A., late of Brazennose College, Oxford, and now a Missionary of the Church Missionary Society at Hong Kong, to occupy in my stead the warden's portion of the building, and to exercise a general control over the college.

Our Missionary services in the college chapel are sustained, and the attendance of Chinese has increased. Our native catechist resident in the college, Lo Sam-yuen, was ordained by me a deacon in St. John's Cathedral, on December 21st last, amid a numerous assemblage of Chinese worshippers, the Ordination service being conducted altogether in their own tongue.

On Easter-day last I was also privileged to ordain a native deacon, Dzaw Tsang-lae, in the British Consular church at Shanghae, in the prssence of several Chinese Christians, thirty-four of whom partook of the holy communion on the occasion.

Two Chinese deacons ordained, and sixty Chinese converts confirmed by me (here and at Ningpo), have been among the more cheering events of the past year 1863. The formal opening of the new diocesan native female school-building, the liquidation of the whole cost of its erection (above eight thousand dollars), and the admission of thirty Chinese girls, are also among the encouragements which deserve my grateful mention.

On Christmas day, out of a total of seventy-five communicants in our cathedral, one-third consisted of native Christians. The newly-ordained Chinese deacon officiated in his surplice, with the other clergy, in administering the elements.

I am thankful to be able to report to your Grace, that the past year 1863 has been, both in an educational and a Missionary point of view, one of marked and decisive progress; and that, while the outward machinery has been extended, I trust that the more important spiritual results have been equally perceptible.

HONG KONG.

The Rev. Thos. Stringer has resided at Hong Kong during the last year, studying the language, and employing himself in such Missionary labours as he was able to undertake. He writes in his annual letter:—

"Through the great mercy of our God upon us, there appears to me to have been a steady progress throughout the year; outwardly, in additions to our church by baptism and confirmation; and inwardly also, I trust and believe, in the growth of many of us in grace and spiritual attainments. The year began with the confirmation of eighteen Chinese, (seven of them being pupils of St. Paul's college) in the cathedral, on the 25th of January, and ended with the confirmation of eight more on the 13th of December.

Another remarkable feature of the year is the admission of our well-tried catechist Lo to deacons' orders: this has hitherto filled the church with joy, as we have not yet seen any thing to cause us to regret what has been done: in every way the contrary. He preaches fluently and well, and, I earnestly trust, from heartfelt convictions. He seems a very acceptable pastor to his native brethren, and there are distinct signs, I think, of his being recognised in the true light as such.

Our usual service in St. Paul's college chapel has been conducted regularly every Sunday evening, the prayers being read chiefly by myself, and the catechist (now ordained) preaching. The chapel is now generally quite full of the pupils of the college, friends, and inquirers. The service is a deeply interesting one to me.

The service at the great jail of Victoria has also been regularly conducted at 10 A.M. every Sunday morning: this also is a deeply interesting service to me, though, in some measure, a melancholy one, as I look on an audience of from 100 to 200, bound in double chains—chains of iron and those of superstition.

I have also at intervals visited the villages on the island, one of which is of considerable size, including a large boat population. I am always accompanied, on these expeditions, by the Rev. Lo Sam-yuen, without whom, at present, my ministrations would be very imperfect: he is quite a prop to our Mission.

FUH-CHAU.

In the early part of 1863 the Rev. G. Smith, and the Rev. J. Wolfe were diligently employed in the work of the Mission; but in October it pleased God to remove Mr. Smith by death. The history of this station has been marked from the first by the frequent interruption of Missionary labour, through the death or return home of the Missionaries. Yet the work has not been without évident tokens of the Lord's presence and blessing. In a communication in the early part of the year (April 23rd, 1863), Mr. Smith thus described the prospects of the Mission:—

Our work is not without some signs of encouragement. We commenced a boys' day school at the beginning of the Chinese new year, which has proved very successful. More boys offered themselves than we could take, though they have no inducement for coming, except the instruction they receive. The school is under my constant inspection, being on the same premises as our Mission chapel, and the teacher is one of our converts. We find the school useful, not merely as a means of conveying Christian instruction to the young, but also as bringing us into friendly intercourse with their parents and friends, and inducing them to attend our services. We are greatly, very greatly indebted to our friends here for enabling us to purchase an excellent place we we have got, in the very heart and centre of the city, for carrying on our work; especially to one gentleman, who gave 1000 dollars in aid of the purchase of the premises.

With regard to the work to which these things are merely accessory, we have at present four candidates for baptism—two men and two women—whom we hope to admit to that holy ordinance on Whit Sunday.

Our services are well attended, and we are approaching to something of the quiet and order of a Christian congregation. Our preaching is, generally speaking, to attentive listeners; and in many cases, by their motions of assent, and by their remarks and questions, you may see that they are attending to the things spoken. The seed is being widely sown, and is even now springing up here and there. May the heavenly influence of the Holy Spirit cause it ere long to yield an abundant harvest!

At a later date (Nov. 4.) Mr. Wolfe thus describes the state of the Mission, shortly after the death of Mr. Smith:—

This Mission at present is in a most hopeful and interesting condition; never, certainly, was it in half so hopeful a state. Dear Smith's labours were abundantly blessed, and his death was made a blessing to us all. There are now thirteen members in connection with our church here. There are five candidates for baptism, two of whom are lads, the son of one of the adult candidates, and members of our day-school.

We have now two native evangelists, two students, and one colporteur. The native evangelists are good, faithful men. One of them especially is considered by every one here as a most excellent Christian man, and very intelligent.

We have two fine positions in the city, where the native helpers preach every day to hundreds. I receive each day all who come to inquire, and the evangelists are occupied three hours each day in hearing and answering inquirers. There was never known in this city such an interest for the Gospel as there is now excited, and doors open to invite us in on every side. The merchants here have lately given another 2000 dollars to help to build a nice church in the very heart of the city. The walls of this church are raised, and I hope to be able to cover it in in a month, and fit it up for services, though I cannot hope to complete it with my present funds.

Just before Brother Smith was taken ill he had a deputation from the country, to send a teacher to a village about seventy miles off. I am very anxious to follow up this, but I cannot possibly leave the city just now, I have so much on my hands. The work here gives a loud and clear call to the Committee to send immediate help, which I hope you will answer by sending at least one man at present, and, soon after that, one or two more. It is the impression of everybody here that it is much better to strengthen this interesting place than to open other fields just yet.

Mr. Wolfe made a Missionary excursion into the interior, to the distance of 350 miles, of which he gives the following account:—

In some future communication I hope to send you an account of the cities and villages in the north of this province, their teeming population, and the glorious opportunities of spreading the glad tidings of salvation amongst them. We were the first foreigners the natives had ever seen, and the kindness and civility which they showed us 340 miles from Fuh-chau, was very remarkable and pleasant to us. I was enabled to give away a number of Bibles to men of high position, and other tracts to rulers and people. We slept frequently in Government hotels, where were lodged numbers of Mandarins, who took a lively interest in the message of salvation, and in the books which I gave them. I spoke to them through an interpreter, one of themselves, who was a native of Fuh-chau. We remained up till one o'clock in the morning, and they would have remained till morning if I had not often been too tired by my own very tiresome day's journey. Now I am only pleading for Fuh-chau, though up the province there are great opportunities for preaching the Gospel. Let Fuh-chau be made a dépôt, from which shall go forth the precious seed of eternal life, north to the very city of Pu Siâng. Pu Siâng is on the borders of Che Kiang, and here we found thousands of Fuh-chau men, who crowded around us, and to them I preached the blessed message of a Saviour's love. This is about 350 miles from Fuh-chau. There is a constant trade between this city and Fuh-chau, in fact with all the great cities on the banks of the river.

NINGPO.

The Ningpo Mission has been visited during the year 1863 with varied and heavy trials. At its commencement, one out of its three Missionaries, the Rev. S. Fleming, after only three years' residence in the country, broke down in health, and was compelled to return to England. Hence the work, which in a previous year had been divided among four brethren, rested upon two only, the brothers Moule. Shortly afterwards the whole Missionary community was afflicted by the sudden death, through an accident, of Dr. Parker, the Missionary of the American Board of Missions, whose professional skill and Christian wisdom had proved for many years of great assistance to the Missionary body. The year has also been one of much sickness among the Europeans, and several of the American Mission have been cut off by death, or compelled to return home. Among the natives, also, there was an unusual mortality. Out of about 150 native Christians, eighteen deaths occurred, and some of the most promising of the young men were included. The health of both the Missionaries was enfeebled, and they were obliged to seek the restoration of strength by sea voyages. In addition to these outward afflictions, there have been bitter causes of disappointment and regret from within. The awful devastation of the rebel invasion of Ningpo during the year 1862 appears to have broken the spirits of the people, and to have reduced them to extreme poverty, while not a few have been tempted to share in the pillage of their neighbours' property. Even some of the native Christians at an out-station were implicated in this charge. The exercise of Christian discipline under such circumstances became a delicate and hard task. One of the senior native teachers, whose name has been mentioned with great satisfaction in former Annual Reports, Mr. Bao, became dissatisfied with the Missionaries as too lenient, then took offence, and withdrew, with his family, from the Christians, and from all connexion with the Mission.

Under all these depressions the Missionaries have been signally sustained, and though the time they could devote to each department of labour was necessarily abridged, yet the Mission has been sustained, and fifteen adult converts have been added to the church by baptism. The whole number of native Christians remains about 150, and the communicants 71.

On the 4th of June the Bishop visited Ningpo, and confirmed thirty-three native Christians. The Missionaries write:—

It was a very interesting time: the previous personal intercourse with, and the public catechizing of the candidates, as well as the actual administration of the solemn rite, seemed all to do good amongst our people. Alas! three of the confirmed have been called away already by the Lord. I trust it is well with them. At the Lord's Supper, after the confirmation, some of those confirmed communicated for the first time.

In order to economize their labours, the European Missionaries have introduced a plan for the improvement of the Lord's-day, which appears to have answered well. During the Sabbath afternoon the native converts meet at five central places for reading together the Scriptures, and offering up the Litany or other prayers, under leaders appointed by the Missionary. At such meetings the heathen friends and relatives are more easily induced to attend than at the formal services of the church.

OUT-STATIONS.

Sanpoh.

During the first half-year of 1863 the state of affairs in the district of Sanpoh was in confusion through the devastations of the rebels and frequent alarms of their return. Mr. G. Moule at length visited the district, and reinstated their catechist. There was much to sadden the Missionary, not only in respect of the sufferings which the people had endured, but also from the disorganization of the congregation. He had to exercise much wisdom and firmness with respect to the observance of the Lord's-day.

The planting of the paddy-fields, from the scarcity of labour and the shortness of the time allowed for preparing the ground, required labour on the Lord's-day, and those of the converts who were labourers were compelled to work by the heathen, or to be deprived of all employment for the future: even those who possessed land of their own were dependent upon labourers who could often come on no other day. Great part of one Sabbath-day was therefore spent in the study of those passages of Scripture which prove the divine obligation of the Christian Sabbath, and in meeting various objections and excuses. The authority of God's word appeared at the time to satisfy their minds. This out-station, between thirty and forty miles from Ningpo, requires, the Missionaries think, more frequent visits than they have been able to afford.

Tsong-gyiao.

"Tsong-gyiao has been (write the Missionaries) the brightest spot during the year in our work. The catechist, with his wife, has gone on steadily and conscientiously in caring for and instructing the little flock, and occasionally adding to its number. Seven in all have been admitted to baptism during the year. There are now eleven communicants. They make a weekly collection, which, though of course of small amount, is, we believe, readily and willingly paid."

PEKIN.

It was stated in the last Report that Mr. Burdon was residing at Pekin, as a teacher of English to ten or twelve young native men selected by the Chinese Government to be trained up as Government interpreters. His character as a Missionary was fully known and recognised by the Chinese Government, and he had the opportunity of preaching to the Chinese patients at the hospital. At length Mr. Burdon took the important step of purchasing a house, which had belonged to a Russian Archimandrite. In May the Rev. W. K. Collins joined him, and soon afterwards Mr. Fryer, from St. Paul's college, Hong Kong. The Missionaries of other Societies have also obtained residences in Pekin, so that the capital of China may now be said to be opened to Protestant Missions. Mr. Burdon has commenced a boarding school of ten boys, from ten to fifteen years' old, the sons of literary men. He has also a service every Sunday afternoon in Chinese, which is attended by the pupils, and by some of their parents. He trusts in this way to win the confidence of some respectable and influential members of society, with a view to their instruction in Christianity. As yet the way is not open for the public preaching of the Gospel in Pekin.

The Rev. T. M'Clatchie, who left England for China in May, was detained for a month at Shanghai, and afterwards, on his way to Pekin, suffered shipwreck, so that he did not arrive at Pekin till the close of the year. His arrival will, it is hoped, prove an immediate accession of strength to the Mission.

NEW-ZEALAND MISSION.

European Missionaries first arrived in New South Wales, 1810; proceeded to New Zealand, 1814: Mission confined to the Northern Island.

DIVISION OF THE MISSION.

I. Northern District, comprising the Diocese of New Zealand.

II. Eastern District, comprising the Diocese of Waiapu.

III. Western District, comprising the Diocese of Wellington.

Review of the political state of New Zealand.

THE Committee enter upon the review of the New-Zealand Mission with deep sorrow, and they would speak upon the subject with much caution. On the one hand they would not say a syllable to justify rebellion against the Queen's authority, or the plotting against the lives of the settlers; but, on the other hand, they cannot allow a whole nation to be charged with the crimes of a small minority, or shrink from pointing out the influence which Christianity has undoubtedly exercised over the minds of even the belligerent natives. The task of reporting the history of the native church seems to touch very nearly the credit of that work of God, which has so often in former years called forth praise and thanksgiving at our anniversary meetings. The Committee is entitled to be heard upon this subject, on the ground of the intimate knowledge they possess of the whole case from the communications of the Missionaries, and because they tendered advice in the year 1861 to Her Majesty's Government, which, had it been adopted, might, humanly speaking, have averted the final catastrophe. They then urged upon Her Majesty's Government a careful investigation of the claim of the local Government to the notorious block of land at Waitara, of which the Government had taken possession by military force. The investigation which Her Majesty's Government then declined to make, was made, after a lapse of two years and a half, by Sir George Grey, in person, when it appeared that the local Government had not only wrongly interfered by military force in a civil question, but that they had no valid title to the land, and had not even paid the price said to have been stipulated for it. Hence Sir George Grey, with that high sense of honour by which his whole public career has been signalized, determined to relinquish the disputed block at Waitara. But it was too late. The irritation had been allowed to rankle. It would have been an act of grace, if done when first urged upon the Government; it was regarded as an act of weakness when at last conceded.

Unhappily, moreover, before the land at Waitara was given up, our troops were employed to dislodge the natives from some land which they had seized and retained as a compensation for Waitara. This was regarded as a renewal of the hostilities which had been suspended upon Sir George Grey's arrival, and led to the lamentable slaughter by the natives of a military escort in May 1863. A few days afterwards Waitara was restored to the natives, but blood had begun to flow. A panic ensued at Auckland. The next step in this unhappy business was a proclamation ordering all the natives living near Auckland to sign an oath of allegiance and lay down their arms, or to go beyond the English boundary. They chose the latter alternative; yet a very few days after their departure beyond the prescribed boundary, the British troops were ordered to pass that boundary, and to attack the Waikato tribes. This act is justified by the local Government upon the ground that the Waikatos were meditating an attack upon Auckland. As the evidence of this plot has not been published, the Committee will pronounce no opinion upon it; but to the natives it appeared in the light of a determination to exterminate their race, and under this conviction they have continued the contest.

The Committee have entered into this narrative of facts, not to throw all the blame upon the local authorities; far otherwise. They do not even attempt to strike any balance. They only draw this one conclusion. If, upon the commencement of the war, under such acts of seeming injustice and oppression, the whole of the Maori race did not rise in arms to attack the settlers wherever they were undefended, nothing but a strong sense of law and justice, such as Christianity alone can supply, kept them quiet. In a hundred localities remote from Auckland they had the lives of unprotected settlers in their hands, but no murders have been committed beyond the boundaries of the war, which comprise a comparatively small district on the south of Auckland, and even those murders are attributed to the desperadoes who follow every army; whilst in the districts further south, and throughout all the east coast, and all to the north of Auckland, the natives have been quiet; agitated and uneasy, but living like Christians, and not like heathen.

And not only have the hostilities been confined within geographical limits, but the Committee have sufficient evidence that a very small proportion of the native population has been engaged in the war. Archdeacon Hadfield writes:—"I do not believe, and I state it advisedly, that one tenth part of the adult male population has ever been hostile to the Government." A member of the colonial legislature stated, in his place in the local Parliament, that 10,000 British troops were engaged in crushing a portion of the native population, who did not nearly equal that number, women and children included.

The Committee have also to notice, that even the parties engaged in actual conflict have borne themselves throughout their hostilities as warriors civilized by Christianity, and not as savages. A scene recorded by many eye-witnesses is a sufficient proof of this. When the strong position of Rangiriri was taken by storm, the moment the natives hoisted a white flag the British soldiers leaped from the parapet amongst them, shook hands with them, and gently tended their wounded; and even General Cameron, before he insisted upon their laying down their arms, complimented them upon the gallantry with which they had borne them. Who can believe that such a scene would have occurred, when the blood of both parties was up, if there had not been a bearing on the part of the natives becoming that of Christian warriors? The Committee must also quote an account given by one of their Missionaries of the spirit in which a war-party left his district to join the insurgents:—"The Taupo natives have at length joined the war. They have all along inclined to peace; and now, according to their own view of the matter, they go into it as a political necessity: they fully believe it is to save their country. In assembling to go to the war there has been no manifestation of their former usages. Not a single war-dance has taken place that I am aware of. The quiet, unexcited way in which they have gone to this war is altogether unlike anything I have before seen among them. Some of our Protestant natives came to me to have prayers before starting, and it has been requested of myself and the native teachers who remain here that we will continue our Sunday-evening prayer-meeting to pray for peace; while they of their own accord have promised to meet together at the same timefor the same purpose. Every little party that has gone has appointed one of their number to take morning and evening prayers. I have endeavoured to impress upon them the desirableness of trying to bring about an early meeting of all the leading chiefs of the island and the Governor; and thus, if possible, to settle matters quietly; but, in case they fight, to act honourably, and pray to God that they may not be tempted to go back to any of their former savage ways."

The Committee must now give a brief review of the Mission stations and the conduct of the Missionaries under these trying times.

The Rev. R. Burrows, the Secretary of the Mission, writes, September 22nd:—

In looking back we have this to remind us that "we have not laboured in vain;" our most consistent and useful native teachers and members of the church have been removed from among us—thus taken away from the evil to come. All your old Missionaries in the country have had to part with their best teachers and converts, many of whom have been called away, leaving us to mourn their loss, but cheered with the assurance that our loss has been their eternal gain. If then we had no hope for the future, "a remnant has been saved:" our Mission has not been a failure, as some have raised the cry lately, because a comparatively small minority of the Maori race have been led on by their own ambition, excited and kept alive, it is to be feared, by men of another nation, to rebel against lawful authority.

The present, however, is a time for deep humiliation and earnest prayer: our infant church is in the dust; the enemy is triumphing, but the Lord reigneth, and He knoweth them that are his.

Kaitaia is at the northernmost extremity of the Northern Island of New Zealand, and therefore the furthest removed from the seat of war. It has long been occupied by the Rev. Joseph Matthews and the Rev. W. G. Puckey. They write in their annual report of their station:—

As it was last year, so it has been this—the ruling feature among the natives being peace, and a steady attention to their several duties. Various attempts, by letter and other means, have been employed by southern natives to unsettle the minds of our people, and to excite them to evil; but our chiefs met and resolved to be as firm as ever in the cause of peace and goodwill towards all. They act upon this principle, that Government, from the very first, have done them all good, and they hope for good still. The greatest of all benefits to them—the introduction of the Gospel, and the prospect of a continuation of spiritual privileges—being too highly prized to be squandered by joining in what they designate as "an exceedingly foolish work."

During the year we have met with very encouraging circumstances: thirty adults have been admitted into the visible church of Christ. Some of these give bright hopes of a real work of grace: we hope well of all. The Lord's Supper has been administered to 340 people in March. There were interesting gatherings for confirmation, and his Lordship the Bishop admitted eighty to that solemn rite. We believe that the Bishop's visitations are attended with much good.

Our teachers afford us much help, and, moreover, render their services gratuitously. They are generally humble-minded, and always anxious to receive fresh instructions, "to have" as they say, "a little of the rust rubbed off the gun, and also to have it newly primed." The teachers and monitors in connection with us amount to forty, and the people honour these servants of God, and esteem the work of a teacher the work of a chief and gentleman.

The report records the death of a noted chief, John Heke, the leader of the first war with the settlers, of whom the Missionaries write:—

One of the departed chiefs was John Heke. The 51st Psalm, and those in the Burial Service, were great favourites of his. He frequently shed tears over them, saying to his friends, "These Psalms answer (literally "fit") my case so well; therefore I like to read them."

Archdeacon Kissling, notwithstanding the severe attacks of illness by which his strength has been prostrated, remains at his post at Auckland, and, with the assistance of Mr. Chapman, instructs the theological students. He writes, at the close of the year:—

During the course of the year which is now closing upon us I had seven theological students under instruction, in which my dear friend, Sir W. Martin, has most kindly and assiduously assisted; and I beg here to record my best thanks to him for the able service which he has gratuitously rendered to the cause of the Mission. During the last fifteen months the students have had a full explanation of all the Psalms, which both they and their teacher greatly enjoyed. I regret that I have to report a reduction in the number of the students, principally in consequence of the fresh outbreak of war in New Zealand: three of them, who had given a fair prospect of usefulness in the native ministry, to which they were about to be added, have yielded to the influence of their relatives, requesting them to return to their respective places of abode.

The Waikato District.

Archdeacon Maunsell gives the following account of the commencement of hostilities in his district, July 1863:—

I indulged strong hopes when I wrote to you (May 23, 1863), that, amidst the tumults of war begun and war anticipated, we should continue to enjoy peace, as I hoped then that Waikato would not take part in the quarrel. I am sorry to report that I have been disappointed in my expectations. The first serious intimation that I had of evil coming was a letter from our chief, who is keeping guard with our troops at an out-post, telling me that signs looked threatening: this was on July 8th. On July 10th he paid a visit up the river to a large pa, where a number of armed Maoris had assembled: they told him that they were decided on war. He returned on Saturday, the 11th, and shortly after he left a hostile party followed him, and, going up by a creek from the river, got into a forest on a mountain in the rear of our troops. On Saturday evening (11th) I received a proclamation of the Governor directing the Maoris of Manukau, in the neighbourhood of Auckland, to take the oath of allegiance, and deliver up their arms, or leave. Not having heard the report of our chief Waata on his return, this sudden and severe measure caused me great anxiety for the peace of my district; and next morning I started for the Mauku, where I had service with the intensely-excited settlers and soldiers, and prayed with the Maori people there. That morning the boundary line, the Mangatawhiri creek, was crossed by the troops, who forthwith occupied some commanding high ground, Koheroa, south of that creek, and on the right bank of the Waikato. . . . I went next day, by the Governor's request, with the native minister, to a party of Manukau natives migrating in compliance with the Governor's proclamation, with a view to induce them to agree to his condition, and to explain his reasons; but they would yield nothing. In the evening of next day we heard of an old man and his boy having been murdered within their huts where we had been sleeping. This party were immediately ordered to be arrested, but, by some mistake, only a leading chief and a few men and women were secured. We have since heard that the murder was perpetrated by another party. On the following Friday the Maoris, about 150, attacked our forces, who were in large force on the Koheroa, and were defeated with a loss of nineteen killed. This was a signal to their party in ambush on the mountain, and they soon after fired from the trees on an escort, and killed five of our men. Thus the war has begun.

After the Government troops had invaded the Waikato district, three stations of the Society were gradually absorbed in the seat of war, viz. Archdeacon Maunsell's station at Waikato Heads; Mr. Ashwell's station at Taupiri, higher up the river; and Mr. Morgan's station at Otawhao. The Governor, Sir G. Grey, considerately sent a steamer to bring away Archdeacon Maunsell and his family as soon as the fighting parties had reached his station, but the archdeacon did not think it right to leave. The friendly natives were anxious for him to stay, and he had Bible classes and prayer-meetings with them every night. At length the sudden irruption of one of the most lawless and ferocious of the belligerent tribes attacked a small European settlement, supposed to furnish the British troops with food, and murdered the magistrate, Mr. Armitage, a tried and faithful friend of the Mission. The archdeacon and his family were obliged to escape for their lives, and for many days and nights to shelter themselves under the trees, or the ruins of deserted houses. The archdeacon was attacked with severe illness and slow fever, but after some days he was able to write:—

Through the great goodness of God I soon rallied, quite contrary to my expectations, and with the aid of two of my men I have got under a roof, and am able to shut out a certain amount of the wind and rain. Mrs. Maunsell is with me. If it had not been for her help, I should have fared much worse. Our pretty station, only three-quarters of a mile from us, we dare not sleep in. The Ngatimaniapotos are murderers, and declare that they will show no mercy to any one. My own people have been most faithful and kind. Their conduct towards the enemy was most firm and judicious, and we have all felt secure under their protection. Their chief is Waata Kukutai, a very noble-minded young man. I felt that it was most important that the loyal party should have a rallying-point, and that, as my people wished me to remain, it was my duty, particularly in such a crisis, to stop with them. My school is broken up, but I have good work here. I have prayers with them in the morning, and catechize them in the Scriptures, and had also a well-attended Scripture class yesterday evening. I am nearly re-established in health, and hope soon to be as strong as ever. To God be the glory of my mercies of late. I feel that I am utterly unworthy of them; but, at the same time, rejoice that I can do or suffer any thing for a master so indulgent, and who has done and suffered so much for me.

At the close of the year the Archdeacon writes:—

At present there is much to make us anxious. Multitudes of men, counted by thousands, gathered from the diggings and streets of Melbourne and Otago, poured in upon every part of this district, townships being formed. Of the Maoris, some refugees in the swamps and upon the mountains, some in fortifications fighting with our troops, whilst of the "friendly Maoris" many are engaged in making roads, fetching timber, &c., at large wages, and their neighbours having left to join the rebels, they, in some cases, seem to wish to keep them away, in order that they may get their lands. Under these circumstances you will scarcely wonder to hear that I go back to resume my labours with a feeling of anxiety and depression. But I feel much encouragement in the thought that God's children, however few, will be enabled to persevere; and that, as some would render Isaiah vi. 13, "In it shall be a tenth, and it shall recover, and serve for pasture: as the elm and as the oak, when they cast their leaves, have their sap in them, so an holy seed shall be the sap thereof." We have passed through many seasons of discouragement, perhaps none more full of anxiety than this. But if there is much to depress, so do we feel the precious words of the Bible to be full of hope.

The stations of Messrs. Ashwell and Morgan were situated in the scenes of the hottest conflicts, and very few natives remained at the first, while the latter, Otawhao, was wholly deserted. The Missionaries were therefore able to devote much of their time to visiting and ministering to the combatants of both races, and to attending upon their wounded. To this work the zealous Bishop of New Zealend nobly devoted himself, being generally in the front, and enduring the most formidable hardship in his pious benevolent labours. The following is a specimen of the communications which have been received. The Rev. B. Y. Ashwell writes (Feb. 1, 1864), from his station of Taupiri:—

The natives on this station—men, women, and children, are from fifteen to twenty, and at the distance of half a mile from Taupiri there are about seventeen. The congregation at the chapel on the station numbers thirty-four natives. Down the river nearly opposite Rangiriri about 100 natives, men, women, and children, are allowed to reside within the British lines. Hela Seth Tarawhiti, my faithful native deacon, was rejoiced to see me at Taupiri. He has had grace to act most judiciously at this trying season, and has won the good opinion of the General, without losing the confidence of the natives. He has displayed the meekness of wisdom. I trust I do feel thankful that God has given me such a faithful fellow-labourer for more than twenty years. Our bishop and dear brother Maunsell have done much for natives and soldiers during this trying season: the latter had just returned to his station at Kohanga, the week before I left Auckland. My family are still in Auckland. We all feel deeply anxious as to the result of the battle.

The hostile natives, in passing this station to Koheroa and Rangiriri, did not attempt to take any of my property. I found the house and station just as I left it. The Commodore and General expressed their surprise and pleasure that nothing had been plundered, and the Commodore gave strict orders to the sailors that the station must remain untouched. It is now the head-quarters of the "Pioneer" steamer, and the Commodore's tent is pitched in the field before my house.

The District of the Thames.

The station of the Rev. T. Lanfear is in a disturbed district which borders upon the Waikato tribes. A man-of-war, with a detachment of soldiers, was sent to his immediate neighbourhood, and redoubts were built, connected with the military operations for opening up the Waikato country. Mr. Lanfear had been invited by the Bishop of New Zealand to remove his family to Auckland in the month of August; but he returned to his station after a few weeks, where he found that no injury had been done to his property, or to that of the settlers who had fled and left their homes unprotected. Mr. Lanfear spent the rest of the year in moving about the district, ministering alike to the natives, and to the British encampments, and on board the man-of-war, and often becoming the medium of communication between the contending parties, being equally trusted on both sides. He writes:—

You will be sorry to observe the great falling off in the number of those who have been baptized and who have communicated. The evil which had long been gathering has at length burst forth. To the all-absorbing interest of the war is in a great measure due the apparent decline of religion among the natives, though doubtless other causes have helped with this.

The Taupo District.

The Taupo district is one of the most interior stations of the Society, to the east of the Waikato, where the Rev. T. Grace is stationed. In a letter, September 3, he writes:—

The Taupo natives have at length joined the war. They have all along inclined to peace, and now, according to their own view of the matter, they go into the war as a political necessity: they fully believe it is to save their country. Three weeks ago I attended a great meeting previous to their starting for the war, when, in reply to some of my remarks to dissuade them from going, an old chief got up, and, dragging into the circle a long crooked branch of a tree, and then giving me a stick into my hand, asked me to stand at one end of it, while he went to the other end. "Now," said he, "strike your end." I did so, and he cried out, "See, the whole branch trembles with your blow, even to this end." He then added, "The branch is one, and the island is one. You struck it at one end, and the whole of it shook. The Governor has struck a blow at the Ia, and the whole island has felt it: the Maori people are one." This was said and done by a friendly old chief, a Queenite. I do not remember to have met with a nicer old native since I came to the land. He came here to "tangi" for Te Heuheu, and does not belong to Taupo. I name the matter now, as it illustrates the state of mind amongst the natives generally, be they Kingites or Queenites.

Eastern District.

Six stations have been occupied in this district in the following chronological order—1. Tauranga, 1835; 2. Maketu, 1835; 3. Rotorua, 1835; 4. Turanga, 1840; 5. East Cape, 1842; 6. Wairoa, 1844.

General view of the District.

The Bishop of Waiapu, in his annual letter at the close of the year, takes the following comprehensive view of the state of his diocese:—

In the winter month of January last year there was held at Turanga the second meeting of the Diocesan Synod. There were present most of our few clergy, and there was a large body of native synodsmen, including some from the most distant parts of the diocese. The prospect was encouraging. The good which was in progress in one part was likely to be communicated, and all separated to their respective localities, under the hope that on the following year, when the Synod was to be held at Tauranga, there would be much to report of the progress of good.

In the early part of April there was another meeting held at Turanga, for the purpose of opening a new church, and a large gathering was made on the occasion, partly to celebrate the event itself, and partly with an object of bringing together as many natives as possible of the distant tribes, in order that they might consult for the common welfare of the native race. Many natives were present who had espoused the cause of the "Maori king," and there was reason to apprehend that the people generally might be drawn into an adherence to a cause which is, in the nature of things, popular. But all was over-ruled for good. A large majority was opposed to the Maori king, and declared for a neutral course, and the Waikato party was much disconcerted.

In the month of May the news reached us of the renewal of hostilities at Taranaki, and shortly afterwards it became necessary for the Government to take active measures against the natives of Waikato. The effect was soon felt in our own neighbourhood. A party at Waiapu, which had been long disaffected, determined to go to Waikato to take part in the war, and this gave a more decided character to the king party at Waiapu, leading to much bitterness of feeling between them and the Government natives. Great injury has been done to the cause of religion. Much of the old nature, which it was hoped had been uprooted, has been put forth, and the careless and the lukewarm are glad of a pretext to withdraw from the restraints which they had felt to be irksome. In the Bay of Plenty the Romanists have tried to make a harvest out of these evils. The priests have stated, without reserve, that they do not belong to the English nation, and that if the natives will embrace the Romish faith the Emperor of the French will take them under his protection. We do not hear, however, that this device has met with any success.

While the natives generally, on this part of the coast, hold fast to their determination to keep on good terms with the Government, yet it is evident there is a strong feeling of sympathy on behalf of their countrymen, who have now reduced themselves to great difficulties. There is a feverish excitement among them, and an anxious inquiry what is to be the end of these things. The effect is shown in some measure by a diminution in the number of communicants in every part of the archdeaconry of Waiapu.

To us personally the natives behave with uniform kindness, and on one occasion, when a few troublesome young men were trying to extort payment for the fuel and other necessaries which are required for the school, the body of the people stood up in our behalf, and insisted that this proceeding should be abandoned, on the ground that we are a part of themselves.

Our schools are a source of much comfort to us, and in them we see the germ of improvement and of life, for those parts of the country which are at a distance from us, as well as of those which are near. One of our students was admitted to deacons' orders in October, and is settled at Tokomaru. Our two clergymen at Waiapu continue to labour with diligence, but they are much tried by the wayward disposition of many of their people. The Rev. Tamihana Huata, at Wairoa, is also a worthy man, and he has now the advantage of having his old teacher, the Rev. J. Hamlin, to advise and direct him. Mr. Hamlin was able to re-occupy his station in May last, after a long absence on account of sickness. We cannot yet form an opinion as to the result of this war upon the native people. Great changes will take place in the whole of the Waikato district, in Taranaki, and in Tauranga, extending in a smaller degree to other parts of the country. We are sure that there are many sincere Christians among those who have been led away by the force of circumstances to take a wrong course. We believe God, who has blessed us hitherto, will not suffer the native church to come to naught, but that the searching trial to which we are now subjected is permitted for a good purpose, and that, in answer to the prayers of his people, it will be followed by a large amount of blessing.

Tauranga.

Archdeacon Brown, in his annual letter, thus reviews the events of the year:—

In my annual letter of December last I noticed the languor in spiritual matters which pervaded the natives in this district, and pointed out the sources of their most unfavourable state. Each succeeding month only added to our anxiety and fears; and though, in the usual routine of duties, such as attending afternoon school, instructing candidates for baptism and the Lord's Supper, preaching the Gospel, and visiting natives in distant parts of this archdeaconary, we were occasionally cheered with the assurance that our labour was not in vain in the Lord, yet the form of godliness without its power was continually causing our hands to hang down, and our knees to wax feeble. Then wars and rumours of wars assailed us; and at the close of July, in consequence of a warning letter sent to me by William Thompson, it was considered desirable to disband our schools, and to remove our families to Auckland. This done, I returned to Tauranga, in order to preserve, if possible, the property on the station, and embrace any opportunity which might present itself of preaching (whether they would hear or whether they would forbear) to those who were tempted to join in the Waikato rebellion. The future may cause anxiety, but not despair: it was in troublous times that the walls of Jerusalem were built, and the church in New Zealand is passing through a severe ordeal, a trial which will detect much chaff, but which will yet leave wheat to be gathered into the heavenly garner, amidst the hosannahs of the church triumphant. I have to record the death, in November, of good old Matthew, who, for more than twenty years, adorned the Gospel he professed. He has often cheered me in seasons of darkness by some apposite text of Scripture, leading my thoughts from surrounding gloom to the certainty of our Saviour's triumph over every enemy. Matthew was one of the last of that noble band of old native teachers who have been richly blessed in advancing the kingdom of our Saviour in this country.

Soon after this annual letter was sent a large body of British troops were sent from Auckland to occupy Tauranga: they encamped on the Mission ground. The hostile natives constructed a pa at a short distance from the station, hence called the gate pa; and this became eventually the scene of one of the most bloody and disastrous conflicts with the Maories which the British troops have encountered.

The Rev. C. L. Volkner is stationed at Opotiki on the East Cape. He was able to write, at the close of the year:—

In my annual report of 1862 I was able to state that a marked change for the better had taken place amongst the people here. They have now had a year's trial, and I am thankful to say they have gone on steadily in their new course. In their conduct and habits in daily life an improvement is seen by those who have long known them. Not a single instance of drunkenness or tattooing has occurred during the past year. This is more than I dared hope for at its beginning. The opening of the year found them in a quarrel about land, which unsettled them much: with the consent of both parties, this has been dropped, though at one time I feared bloodshed could not be avoided.

The natives here have worked hard all the year to get the timber sawn for their new church, and to raise money to pay the carpenters for erecting it. It will cost more than 600*l.* The last instalment of 150*l.* they have paid. At the outpost the natives have also exerted themselves to build churches and houses for the minister. Some have been finished. The village schools I have set up are attended by seventy-two scholars: several have learned to read and write. The weekly classes of the teachers have been more regularly and numerously attended this year. The people have eagerly bought the word of God, and, on the whole, have attended service better, in spite of the disadvantage of not having a church. To be able thus to write at the present unsettled time gives us double cause for thankfulness.

After this letter was sent, in the early part of the present year, 1864, a sudden change took place among the people. Deputies from Waikato, joined by the native Romanists of the district, infused suspicions into the minds of the peaceable natives, and, upon a sudden impulse, several hundred went off at once to the war.

Mr Hamlin has returned to Wairoa on the east coast, at the southernmost extremity of the Eastern District. In his journal he writes, at the close of the year:—

The natives, though many of them have been to the war from this station, have injured no white man, either in his person or in his property, though many of us have left our property unprotected. I was lately at a native settlement where they began to ask me about the Rangiriri battle. I told them what I knew, and, in answer to some further questions from one of their number, recommended submission to the Queen as the best course for them to take. The old chief who sat by my side listening, asked if I had nothing better than that to tell them, because, if I had not, I had better say nothing. This is the only thing like a rough speech addressed to myself since the war begun. I replied that I had been asked for what I had said, and there the conversation ended.

Western District.

The district was first occupied by Archdeacon Hadfield in 1839. It now comprises five stations: 1. Wanganui, 1840; 2. Otaki, 1842; 3. Heretaunga, 1844; 4. Papawai (Palliser Bay), 1856; 5. Pipiriki, on the Wanganui river, 1856.

Mr. James Booth (m), 1852, Schoolmaster.

In the diocese of Wellington there is a greater variety in the disposition of the people. Those who border upon the disturbed districts, chiefly in the Wanganui district, joined the insurgents; but these form a small proportion of the whole district: the rest remained quiet, and a large portion have even shown the most friendly disposition towards the settlers.

Archdeacon Hadfield writes from Otaki, Nov. 1863:—

We have again fallen upon evil times. If you remember the opinions I have expressed during the last three years you will gather that I am not taken by surprise. . . You will have learnt that the view I took of the Waitara affair has now been officially confirmed by a proclamation, affirming that no purchase was ever made by Governor Browne. But, as I predicted, the consequence of the original evil deed has been almost universal destruction of confidence in the Government. The war was renewed at Taranaki in May, by the Government attempting to recover land in the occupation of the natives before Waitara was surrendered. It has commenced at Auckland through various complications connected with Taranaki. These are mentioned in the proclamation; but though the suppression of the King movement is not avowed in the proclamation, this is regarded by many natives as its cause. If this view of the war should extend, the limits of the war will extend. If, on the other hand, the war should be regarded only as an effort on the part of the Government to punish overt acts, it may still be possible to preserve peace in the island generally. . . Dr. Featherston, the Superintendent of the province, very considerately paid us a visit last week, and his candid statement of the real position of things, showing that there really was no ground of quarrel between these people and the Government, has done much to allay alarm, if not altogether to restore confidence. . . My work proceeds as usual. Nothing is said to lead me to suppose that there is any falling off from the church. On the contrary, the Bible is accepted as the rule: several natives have asked me to point out what passages in the New Testament authorize war; and how a Christian country justifies its warlike tendencies —how its preference of race—how its arrogance, its pride. The Bishop has kindly promised to pay us a visit next week. I ought, perhaps, to say, that any inference against the reality of religion among these people drawn from the present war is inadmissible: there are everywhere those on whom religion produces no effect. The causes which have led to the war were pointed out by me seven or eight years ago. One effect of these troubles is to lead us more and more to trust the all-wise God of love.

At a later date, Jan. 6, 1864, the archdeacon writes:—

Nothing has occurred to interrupt my work. On the Sunday before last 100 communicants attended the Lord's Table. The congregation, both morning and evening, was as attentive as ever. On New-year's day a wedding cake from the Prince of Wales, having found its way to Otaki, through the Bishop of Wellington, Tamehana Te Rauparaha entertained a large party of natives, in which the most loyal expressions towards the Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales contrasted strangely with the proceedings at a distant part of the island.

Our Missionary at Wanganui, the Rev. R. Taylor, thus describes the state of the Maori mind in his vicinity, in a letter dated November 4, 1863:—

Much allowance must be made for the natives. We have certainly not treated them as we ought. We have not given them the rights and privileges of British subjects, according to our covenant, but we have regarded them as an inferior race, and endeavoured to deal with them as such, though professing to view them as our equals. We have granted them no political rights. Even their highest chiefs have no seat in our councils; and though many of them are highly intelligent, and possessing great influence, still they have no voice in making those laws which they are yet expected to obey. By a large portion of the community they are called 'black niggers and vermin,' even to their face, and told they have no right to their own country. Can we wonder, then, at their fear of being exterminated, and at their doubting the sincerity of our wish for their welfare? They see our countrymen coming by thousands, and every effort being made to dispossess them of their country, in order to furnish the new comers with new homes. It is this fear which has driven them to take up arms. They were attached to us, many still are, and it is not too late to make them be so again; but they must be treated differently from what they have been. I have ventured these remarks in order to account for the otherwise anomalous state of the natives at the present time; for I am persuaded that it is only a deep-seated grievance that could call forth such a combination of tribes which never previously existed, except to listen to the Gospel.

I am happy to say we are still enjoying the blessings of peace, and I trust we shall continue to do so. I have recently been paying a visit up the Wanganui, and I could not help thinking that a reaction had set in. I heard nothing about the King, Queen, and Governor; but so many questions were put to me about different passages in Scripture which puzzled them, that it quite rejoiced me, and made me think old times were coming back again, and their first love was being resuscitated. I had a pressing invitation to spend the Christmas with them, which I have engaged to do. The natives said that the Romish priest had begun a new custom, which was, of making his followers bring the baskets of seed-potatoes into the church to be blessed, to render them productive, and hinder their being drawn up by the sun. Each man stood behind his basket whilst the priest said mass: he then lifted up each basket before the image of the Virgin to receive her blessing. I told them this was no new custom in that apostate church: that at Rome they brought their horses, asses, and cows, to have mass said over them.

Whatever may be the backsliding of the many, there still remain the few who serve the Lord. The other day I was taking some medicine to a sick man, and I overheard him praying with his wife. I therefore stood and listened without his being aware. He prayed most earnestly for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon them, saying, "As the wind rushes over the mountains, so might the Holy Spirit rush into their hearts, as it did at Pentecost." Indeed, I trust better things are coming again, and that the work once owned of the Lord will be owned again. I feel assured the Lord will overrule all for good to this land and people.

The Rev. W. Ronaldson, who occupies a station east of Wellington, writes, September 22, 1863:—

The excitement amongst the natives seems gradually subsiding, and would, I doubt not, altogether cease, but for a few rebellious spirits amongst them, who seem to long for an outbreak, and are inclined to use almost any means to accomplish it. I trust, however, they may be restrained, and peace still be granted to us in this part of the island."

In the review of all these circumstances, the Committee do not hesitate to represent the present state of New Zealand as eminently illustrative of the power of divine grace over a people lately savage cannibals; and they earnestly commend the New-Zealand race, and the New-Zealand church, and the New-Zealand settlers, and the whole case, to Him who sitteth above the water-floods, and stilleth the madness of the people, and remaineth a King for ever.

The disturbed state of New Zealand has greatly affected the number of communicants this year.

NORTH-WEST-AMERICA MISSION.

The Mission is divided into eight districts, namely: 1. Red-River district, 1823; 2. Fairford or Manitoba district, 1842; 3. Cumberland district, 1840; 4. English-River district, 1850 (first at Lac la Ronge); 5. James-Bay district, 1851; 6. York Factory district, 1854; 7. Fort Simpson, on the coast of the Pacific, 1857; 8. Mackenzie River, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Ven. Archdeacon W. Cockran (m), 1825.
Rev. William Mason, 1840, joined the Society 1854.
Rev. Abraham Cowley (m), 1841.
Ven. Archdeacon James Hunter, M A. (m), 1844.
Rev. John Horden (m), 1851.
Rev. Edwin Arthur Watkins (m), 1852: at home.
Rev. William West Kirkby (m), 1852.
Rev. William Stagg (m), 1853.
Rev. Henry George (m), 1854.
Rev. Joseph Phelps Gardiner (m), 1857: at home.
Rev. Thomas Thistlethwaite Smith, (m), 1859.
Rev. Robert Phair, 1863.
Rev. Robert Reed Arthur Doolan, B.A., 1864.
Mr. William Duncan, 1856.
Mr. Robert Cunningham, 1862.

Review of the state of the Mission by the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

THE Bishop of Rupert's Land has favoured the Committee with the following full report of the Mission:—

Were I in the habit of writing to the Society an annual letter, the period to be selected for the purpose would be immediately after the receipt of the packet which brings us intelligence from all those both north and west of us. It arrived last week, only one day later than the previous winter, so punctual and methodical are all their arrangements. I had a letter from Mr. Horden by mail the day before, so that on Monday I had tidings from 1200 miles to the east, and on Tuesday from the Youcon, more than 3000 miles to the north-west — Moose and the Youcon, the two extremest points, brought together in one view: indeed, intelligence from all the out-stations in two days. I have no hesitation in stating that the accounts from the distant parts are, on the whole, more favourable than any I ever yet received at one time.

The work at the Youcon is advancing nobly. Mr. MacDonald has succeded in gaining the confidence and affection of the natives. The best proof is, that the Roman-Catholic priest has retired from the spot, not having been able to make a single convert. I cannot but feel that Mr. MacDonald is in his right place, and that God has carried him thither for a special work. He seems to manifest a readiness in acquiring the language of the tribes, and already converses and communicates with them with some fluency. He has too, I find from a private letter, a very good interpreter, so that the truth does not suffer by passing through a French medium. He has much influence over the Indians, who are at present most eager to receive the message of salvation. It is at this time the bright and cheering spot in our Mission field. In going out at first, Mr. MacDonald had only volunteered for the period of three years; but finding that a blessing is resting on his labours, he expresses unwillingness to retire from the contest. Indeed it is very apparent that the spirit of the Lord is at work there, and very wrong would it be to abandon the ground gained. Mr. Kirkby bears the most honourable testimony to the success of his fellow-labourer, so do the officers of the Honourable Hudson's-Bay Company's service. I shall therefore write to Mr. MacDonald by the Summer Brigade, expressing the earnest hope that he may yet give other three years to this most interesting and encouraging sphere. "There are," writes the officer in charge to me, "about 8000 of as fine a race of people as any in North America: what a great inducement for any man to devote his life and labours to! what a prospect to look forward to! what a legacy to leave to his children, his country, his kindred, to be the regenerator of 8000 heathen; to raise them out of the darkness of superstition and barbarism, to the glorious light of the Gospel of Christ! Such a thing is worth dying for." I am sure the Committee will regard the work on the Youcon, and the amount of blessing already vouchsafed, with no little pleasure. In the mean time Mr. MacDonald will press on, and endeavour to plant the standard of the cross throughout the district. He purposes, during the summer, to see some of the Esquimaux to the north, and towards the Arctic Circle, who had expressed a desire to meet him.

Mr. Kirkby, at head quarters, Fort Simpson, is quietly gaining ground, but he has greater opposition to contend with. He has been cheered by a most happy death-bed of a young European, of which he sends the full particulars in his letter to the Society. Very remarkable was the manner in which God had brought the young man in question to a knowledge of his true state—the sight of a native brigade resting on the Sabbath, and praying each night to God, having been blessed to his conversion. It is a most encouraging instance of the effect of good example. I hope that the Committee will, in due time, set apart one of their best men, with good power of acquiring languages, for Fort Simpson, a married man, to superintend the whole district; but this in two years. Another, to move to the most distant point, and gather in the harvest which presents itself, I should prefer at once.

Of the older stations, Mr. J. A. Mackay writes favourably of Christ Church, Cumberland. He has made a good commencement of ministerial work, standing, for the first time, alone. He had, he writes me, eighty-three at the Lord's table at Christmas; and since that, on a visit to Cumberland House, sixty miles off, he had twenty-three communicants. I am sure that the Committee will be pleased with his journal, which is to the point, and gives abundant proof of work.

Father and son, of like name and like mind, are heartily engaged at the Nepowewin. Mr. Budd (senior) can now be spared more frequently, and he has paid two visits to Fort Carlton. His son is certainly stronger, and seems to like his sphere, conducting a small school during the week, and taking the morning service on the Sunday.

But I dare not recapitulate further, or dwell on the work station by station.

Let me only add that Moose goes on as ever—a work complete in itself, well. appointed in its parts, and much blessed by God. The two large parishes here, St. Andrew's and the Indian Settlement, are indeed faithfully worked, yet there are hindrances which prevent the growth and spirituality for which we all pray. Oh for the spirit of the living God in richer effusion to rule the tongue, the heart, and the life!

Mr. Phair will, I hope, be admitted to deacons' orders on Good Friday; he will then go out at once to his duty, to take charge of Fort Alexander and Islington, and also to pay occasional visits to Lac Seul. In other words, he will connect us in an uninterrupted, unbroken chain with Moose, taking himself the oversight of the three named spots; Mr. Vincent then stepping in and visiting (as he easily can do, and has already done) Osnaburgh and Martin's Fall, from Albany, leaving Mr. Horden to labour chiefly eastward, from Moose to Fort George, and Great and Little Whale River. Along this line, so sketched, all the Indians may hear the message of the Gospel: may it only be accompanied with the life-giving powers of the Spirit!

After this general view of the Mission the Committee will only notice a few points of special interest in the communications they have received from each of the eight districts, into which the Mission is divided.

I. Red-River District.

The Ven. Archdeacon Hunter is the Secretary of the Mission, and has charge of St. Andrew's church and Parish on the Red River, with its 1300 Christians of various races. The communicants number 275. The charge contains a large number of Indians, to whom the archdeacon ministers in the Cree language. He thus notices the success of the Church Missionary Association:—

March 16—Met the Committee of St. Andrew's Auxiliary of the Church Missionary Society, to make up the accounts for the past year. The sum raised was much larger than we all expected, being 64*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* The Rev. J. Mackay will draw up the Report, &c., to read at the public meeting to-morrow evening. For the first year the Auxiliary has done well. The harvest was not good, and cash has not been very abundant among the people. Another year, should God prosper the labours of the Committee, no doubt 100*l.* will be raised in this parish to sustain a native Missionary.

The INDIAN SETTLEMENT has an importance of its own, as the first attempt to induce the Indians to settle down to an agricultural life, and as a proof that when they do so settle, they increase in population, and advance in civilized life. The Rev. A. Cowley is in charge of the station, with the assistance of the Rev. H. Cockran, a native minister, who resides at the out-station of Mapleton.

Mr. Cowley gives the following report of his station:—

I enjoy my work thoroughly, and if it was not a duty to write and tell you what it is, how it is done, and the results, I would gladly work on and say nothing. We have not a little to thank God for. Our congregations are good. The people are excellent church-goers, and attentive worshippers in the house of God. The communicants are numerous and devout. It is no uncommon thing to see the tears rolling from the eyes of one and another at the time of celebrating the Lord's Supper; nor do I think, as a rule, private and family devotions are neglected. Prayer in the house of God is preceded and followed by prayer at home. But in the midst of goodness we have much that is not good, and we grieve for and are distressed by the conduct of many. Still, in those who are stedfast we do rejoice, and trust we shall have more and more reason to rejoice.

Our Sunday school is a source of great pleasure and delight. Its numbers keep up remarkably well, and many of our youth have been confirmed by the Bishop, and a few admitted to the table of the Lord. The week-day lectures are tolerably well attended in winter, but in summer are discontinued by reason of the hurry and bustle of the very short season in which so much has to be done. The day schools are, I trust, flourishing, and from them we hope for good in future.

The out-stations are perhaps as promising as at any previous time. I have just made the tour of them all, and am thankful for what I have seen and heard. At Scanterbury I baptized the remaining two of one of the chief families there—the father and a son—by name Richard and Robert Raven. The chief, too, is getting anxious to be baptized: he left me a message nearly to that effect, but he was from home when I was there. At Lansdowne the Indians have remained firmly with us, I believe, against the seductive influence of a priest of Rome. Those who have been baptized do well, and their numbers are likely soon to be considerably increased by additions from amongst their heathen friends and relatives, several of whom bowed the knee with us in prayer to God. Islington is doing well. The native catechist has been very diligent and laborious during the past year. I hear good of him from independent sources, and I found all, as far as I could judge, in beautiful working order, for which I would thank God heartily.

My whole experience leads me to say that the work of the Lord is decidedly progressing in the land, and though our success is not all that we could wish and do pray for, yet it is such as we can rejoice in and take courage from. To the Lord be the praise!

Archdeacon Cockran at LA PRAIRIE, and the Rev. H. George at WESTBOURNE, are pursuing their useful and patient labours in forming centres of evangelistic labours for extending the Mission to the west.

II. MANITOBA DISTRICT.

The Rev. William Stagg has superintended this Mission for ten years. At its commencement it was one of the least promising, as being among a tribe of Indians less accessible than the Crees to the Missionary; but, by patient perseverance, a native church has been gathered together. The number of baptisms in the ten years has been 290, but a considerable number of the heathen, though not baptized, have ceased to join in pagan ceremonies, and unite with the Christians in worship whenever the opportunity offers. The Indians who have settled at FAIRFORD subsist chiefly by the fish they take and store up for winter use. Crops are very uncertain. The fur-bearing animals are every year becoming more scarce. Hence the Indians live in extreme poverty, and Mr. Stagg despairs of their being able to contribute any thing for the support of their own ministers.

At the out-station of Touchwood Hills there is a neat Christian village springing up, and a beginning has been made at Manitoba and at Fort Pelly. At the latter place the native catechist Luke Caldwell has been stationed. As he is a native of that neighbourhood, his residence among his countrymen has been cordially welcomed. Mr. Stagg bears high testimony to the Christian zeal and consistency of Charles Pratt, at Touchwood Hills. The Rev. J. Settee continues his zealous labours as an evangelist.

III. CUMBERLAND DISTRICT.

The Rev. E. A. Watkins was in charge of this district at the commencement of the year; but before its close he was compelled to return home through the failure of his wife's health, and the native minister, the Rev. J. A. Mackay, was appointed to the charge.

The following extract is taken from Mr. Watkins' report:—

The commencement of the year now under review was signalized by a visit from His Excellency Governor Dallas, who had then been recently appointed in the room of the late Sir G. Simpson. He was on a tour of inspection through the western part of the country, and called here en route. As it was Saturday evening when he arrived, he kindly consented to remain till the afternoon of the following day. He attended morning service in our church, and afterwards joined with the Indians in partaking of the Lord's Supper. His Excellency took a lively interest in inspecting the cottages and farms of the settlers, and made numerous inquiries respecting the progress of my work, and the temporal prospects of my people. I trust his influence may be beneficially exerted on behalf of the Missions in the country over which he is now placed as chief Governor.

The various services, school teaching classes, &c., for the benefit of the Indians have been carried on just as usual, with a very fair average attendance; and though no remarkable success has attended my labours, I trust that the work of the Lord is becoming more permanently established in our midst. For the building up of the church I trust the publication of the sacred Scriptures in the syllabic character will be very useful. The New Testaments are in use, and are, I hope, much prized by some of the Indians.

During the past year I have taken four Missionary journeys, namely, to Moose Lake in August and January, and to Cumberland House in December and March. At the former post I saw much intoxication amongst the Indians, and had very little ground for hoping that much good is likely to be accomplished amongst a people so completely given np to sensuality, vice, and superstition. I was told repeatedly by the Indians themselves that they did not want to change their religion; that they would not send their children to be taught, even if I placed a schoolmaster amongst them. Still I found two or three individuals who listened attentively to the message of redeeming love, which I declared while sitting in their tents, and these afforded me some little encouragement amidst much that was disheartening.

Mr. Mackay writes, at the close of the year:—

In looking back upon the past, I feel that there is, after all, much cause for thankfulness. Sometimes it is a little discouraging to see such slow improvement in the habits and condition of our Christian Indians, but we can never feel discouraged when we compare them with the heathen around, and remember that such they themselves once were. Much, very much, yet remains to be done, but a great work has already been effected, and to God be all the glory. The present season of scarcity, which is so great a trial at the moment, will, I trust, tend to make our people more mindful of the future, and assist our endeavours to make them more provident for the time to come.

Nepowewin.

The Rev. Henry Budd, father and son, have charge of the out-station of Nepowewin. Mr. Budd, sen., writes:—

I have been appointed to labour at the Nepowewin and Carlton, but more especially at the latter place. Carlton is expected to become a very important place very soon, from its position. It is the central post for universal communication, (being in a line from Red River to the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific), both by the overland route across the plains, and by water communication with steamers. The Committee are therefore desirous that such an important post should be pre-occupied, before the Roman Catholics come and take it up. I have all along, whenever I was able, gone up to visit the people of Carlton, with the view of baptizing the children, and marrying the people there; and now I am more than ever desired to do my utmost for Carlton, and endeavour to get a footing at that place. Of my two visits, since November, to Carlton, and round about the neighbouring posts, as Isbister's Settlement, and Fort Thompson, I am very thankful to be able to report favourably. Everywhere I found the people very willing to receive instruction, and, by their regular attendance on the means of grace, I thought they were very glad to have the opportunity. And everywhere I met with the same cry, "Oh that there were a school at Carlton for our children, for they are growing up in heathen ignorance."

At Carlton itself I find about forty children, who might be instructed in the Christian religion; a goodly number certainly to commence school with, and others would soon come in from the neighbouring families of Indians always tenting about that establishment. This has led to a desire of establishing a school and a place of worship among them; but here a difficulty arises to get the necessary material with which to build the school, timber for building is so scarce, and therefore exceedingly difficult to get to the spot. I have, therefore, been under the necessity of requesting the Hudson's-Bay Company to sell me one of their ordinary-sized buildings within the Fort, which we could soon convert into a school. This, I believe, is the only practicable step that can be taken in our present circumstances; and by which means alone we could hope to commence teaching the young, and holding regular divine service with the adults, so soon as our circumstances permitted.

IV. English-river District.

The Rev. T. T. Smith is the Missionary in charge of this district, which was established with a special view to the Chipewyan Indians, of whom, as yet, few have been brought into the fold of Christ. Mr. Smith writes at the close of the year:—

The past year has been one of difficulty with regard to secular matters. During the summer, fires raged in the woods through the whole country, frightening the animals, and cutting off for a time our means of sustenance. The drought of the past season spoiled the crops. The church is now floored, and the seats made. The doors and door-frames have also been put in, and some lining done. Much remains yet to complete the interior. Although the secular matters of the station have not been as prosperous as one could wish, the true work of the Gospel, I trust, has advanced. The excitement of a new thing is passing away, and a growth in grace commencing. There is a greater interest in spiritual things shown, and mutual assistance and counsel more frequently rendered. I feel able now to speak of higher matters of the Christian life, which meet with intelligent attention. In my intercourse with the people I find evidence of a greater desire to carry into practice truths which they hear. The true leaven is among the old people, and it is active in diffusing itself. There is a great deal of work for it to do. One of my oldest Indians has been camping down the English River out of this district, among heathen. He brings a very cheering and modest account of his endeavours to lead them to inquire after the word of life. He starts to-morrow with the letters.

V. Mackenzie-river District.

Of the Mackenzie-River district, the preliminary statement of the Bishop contains a full report. The case, however, referred to by the Bishop, of the conversion of an European through the reflex action of the Mission deserves a fuller recital, which Mr. Kirkby gives in the following narrative:—

Death has taken a dear Christian friend from our midst, whom we loved as a brother. He was a tradesman in the Company's service, and, by his holy conduct and winning manner, gained the esteem of all. He was a child of God, and by his active efforts, no less than by his holy example, helped me much in my work here. His conversion was as interesting as remarkable. He came to the country a few years ago, a careless, thoughtless character, quite regardless of the interests of his soul. From York Factory he was sent up to Norway House in a boat manned by Christian Indians belonging to the latter place, and during this journey of about twenty days, the example of those poor

Indians was blessed by God to his highest good. The first thing he noticed was their daily habit of morning and evening devotion; next their kindness and forbearance towards himself; and then their devout observance of the Lord's day. Other boats might go on, but not their's. By them the day was devoted to holy rest and worship; so that, before reaching Norway House, he said he was filled with distress of mind to think that he, who had just come from a land of Gospel light and Christian privileges, should be so careless about his soul, and forgetful of his Saviour, whilst these poor Indians, whom he expected to know nothing of these things, were so diligent and prayerful. And so great did that distress become, that one evening, while the Indians were at their devotions, he plunged into the woods at some distance off, and, for the first time in his life, with earnest prayers and tears besought God's pardoning mercy and forgiving love.

Mr. Kirkby thus describes his Missionary tours:—

When I accompanied my dear children as far as Portage la Loche, on their way to England, the little I could do for my blessed master along the way I did. At Fort Resolution we remained four days waiting for boats detained on the lake, and during that time I had many opportunities of speaking to the Indians of the place, who were all there. Cadieu, the interpreter, has been there for a year and a half now, and he has not laboured in vain. The priests are most bitter against him, one week anathematizing him, and another trying all means to win him over, but to no purpose: he stands firm, and, being in the Company's service as well as our own, they can do him no harm.

At Portage la Loche I saw a good many of the Isle à la Crosse Indians, and had much interesting conversation, and a few services with them. They listened very willingly to all I said, and expressed sorrow that I was not remaining longer there.

With the Indians of the Brigades, too, I trust my journey was the means of doing good. Of these there were nearly a hundred, drawn from all parts of the district. The journey occupied about two months, and as we travelled together during a greater part of that time, they daily saw and heard our devotions, as those who belonged to me knelt by the river-side, on the shores of the lake, or in the drifting boats, to worship the Lord our God.

As the Bishop of Rupert's Land has already intimated, Mr. Kirkby has peculiar difficulties to contend with at Fort Simpson. The district was strongly occupied by the Romanists before the arrival of Protestant Missionaries: a Bishop, seven priests, and two lay brothers form the staff of their Mission. They have another advantage in a thorough command of the language, whilst Mr. Kirkby is only acquainted with the Cree, and is therefore obliged to communicate with the Indians of Mackenzie River through an interpreter. Hence he earnestly pleads for the sending of a younger Missionary, competent to acquire the language, "either to aid or release him." Mr. Kirkby thus concludes his annual letter:—

From myself I am glad to turn to my dear brother at the Youcon, of whom I can write in terms of unqualified praise. He is really doing nobly, and I trust that God's blessing is resting upon his labours. I have heard from him twice, and his letters are of the most cheerful and encouraging kind. During the winter he made three visits to the Indians on snow-shoes, and on the last occasion remained forty days, teaching and instructing them in the things of God, and he says the more he taught them, so much the more did they desire instruction. In the spring he visited the Indians at La Pierre's House. In the summer he anticipated an active season at the Youcon, when all the Indians would be at the Fort. He had also received tidings that many, who had never been since the Fort had been established, were to come to hear the words of eternal life; and in the autumn he purposed coming as far as Peel's River, the Indians there having a great desire to see him. He is therefore in labours abundant. The priest who accompanied him to the Youcon last fall remained there all the winter, but, failing to make a single convert, returned to Good Hope in the spring, and has left, I hope, my dear brother in uninterrupted possession. It is certainly one of the most interesting and promising Missions in the country. What is so delightful is, that neither at La Pierre's House nor at the Youcon is there an opposing Indian, a circumstance almost unprecedented. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel to God for having led me to visit that place, and for having so opportunely sent help to carry on the good work so auspiciously begun. Had we delayed another year, humanly speaking, that fine race of Indians would have been lost to us, just as I fear we have lost here, by allowing the Romanists to be so much in advance of us.

VI. York Factory.

The Rev. W. Mason gives the following account of the work at York Factory, of which he has charge:—

The Christian Indians continue to hold fast their profession of the faith as it is in Jesus, and, I trust, are growing in grace and Christian knowledge. They are very diligent in reading God's holy word in their own tongue, and from that living stream doubtless derive comfort and support in time of need. We look forward to the time when more decided tokens shall be granted us from heaven in the increased piety, zeal, faith, and love of our converts, when God shall pour out his Holy Spirit from on high, prompting them to make efforts to bring others of their own countrymen into the fold of Christ. At present we have not been able to do much towards furthering the principle of native agency, yet I trust, under the guidance of the Spirit, we are on the right track, although our first effort has been a failure. I am trying the plan of training the most devoted and pious young men, by calling upon them to exercise their talents by praying in public; and when they become better acquainted with the truths of God's word, I shall call upon them to make short addresses to the congregation, and encourage them to continue those addresses on every favourable opportunity when on their journey and their hunting-grounds every Sabbath-day. My two daughters have carried on the Indian day school. They commenced with twenty-five boys and twenty-nine girls.

The journals of Mr. Mason afford evidence that the Gospel exercises a real influence over the minds of the Indians, and that the Cree Bible is greatly prized and intelligently read by them:—

Dec. 22, 1863—John Morris (an Indian) called this morning, with whom I had a long conversation. He is one of the most pious of our Christian Indians at York, has read the New Testament through twice, and part of the Old since last autumn, and says he derives great comfort from God's holy word. Some parts he does not understand; but he is very happy to find that he understands now a great deal more than he formerly did. He is a man who prays for the enlightening influence of the Holy Spirit. I cannot believe that he will thus seek and not find "the pearl of great price."

Dec. 23, 1863—To-day I saw nearly all the Indians who had arrived (a party from their hunting-grounds), and I only heard of one breaking his total abstinence pledge, and that was on a journey. I sincerely hope they may be enabled, by the grace of God, to withstand the temptation of this festive season. Strong drink is the ruin of the natives of Hudson's Bay. I rejoice that onlyhalf the quantity of rum is to be given away this year.

FORT CHURCHILL.

During the early part of the year the Rev. J. P. Gardiner resided at Churchill. Under the date July 28 he writes:—

You will, I know, expect me to give some account of the number of Indians and Esquimaux connected with this station, but it is difficult to give any thing like a correct statement. There are about eighty Chipewyans (men) connected with this Fort, the greater part of whom are married; but more than half of these never bring their wives and children when they come in, and some of them only visit the Fort once in three or four years. I hope, however, now that I am residing here they will come more regularly. During the past year I have seen about 100, including women and children, some of whom visited the Fort both in the fall of last year and this spring. Several of them manifested much earnestness in their desire for religious instruction, and two or three have lately given some hopeful signs of their hearts being touched by divine grace, but their deep ignorance and imperfect perception of the truths of the Gospel call for much patient perseverance and earnest prayer. My interpreter sometimes addresses them himself. I allow him to do this in order that he may become accustomed to speak on religious subjects, and that the Indians may respect his teaching.

I should rejoice to have a more cheering account to give respecting the Esquimaux. More than 100 of these interesting people have been to the Fort this year, which is a larger number than has come in any preceding year, but I fear I have done little in the way of instructing them. I have, I feel, gained their affection and confidence, which is something; but my heart almost bleeds when I think, that though I have seen so many of them I have not been able, except in the most broken manner possible, to speak to them of God their Father and Jesus their Saviour. Forty-two Chipewyans and six Esquimaux have been baptized.

VII. James'-Bay District.

The Rev. J. Horden has continued his zealous and systematic labours at this station. He writes:—

The communication I have to make to the Committee this year differs very essentially from that made last year. That was a year of aggression on the strongholds of Satan; this, one of consolidation: that took me to distant stations, to scenes wilder and more wintry than those to be met with here. Then I had intercourse with those of a language I understood not; now I have interchanged words with those only whose language is familiar to me. My remaining at home was not altogether optional on my part, much of the summer being actually consumed in waiting for the arrival of the Governor of the country, to arrange with His Excellency matters connected with the Mission. A Governor has not visited Moose since I came to reside here. I consequently hoped that His Excellency's visit would conduce greatly to our benefit.

Our English-speaking community show signs of great improvement, and I find my influence with them greater than at any former period. I have been fully occupied this winter, and have added to my usual labours an adult class for the unmarried male servants of the Company twice a week.

Out-stations.

The Esquimaux of Whale River, a people the first-fruits of which only have been brought into the Christian church, although unvisited, have occupied much of my thoughts, and for them frequently has the prayer ascended that those baptized may grow in spirituality, and be bright shining lights amid the surrounding darkness. I receive good accounts from that quarter, and learn that the interpreter is indefatigable in his endeavours to instruct his countrymen, assembling them every Sunday to hear the word of God, and to teach them, as far as he can, to read in their own tongue of the wonderful works of God.

As I could not go to Rupert's House myself, and knew that the Indians there fully expected me, I sent thither our old chief, Oolekitchish, and his wife, as substitutes, and very anxious I felt during their absence as to the reception they would receive. But my joy was great, on their return, to hear what God had wrought by their means. They had seen a very large number of Indians, many from the posts in the interior of the country, and by almost all they had been received, as I should myself have been, as the bearers of good tidings. The old man said, "As I looked around and saw the numbers congregated together my heart misgave me, for I thought, How can I speak to so numerous a people? But I looked up to God, and He helped me, and I then felt no trepidation whatever in performing my mission. The Indians were glad to see me, and our church was always full; and should you wish to send me there another year, I shall be very glad to go." On the first Sunday after his return I made him address the Moose congregation, which he did most effectively. He first of all spoke of his experience at Rupert's House, of the attention paid to him, and of the apparent blessing which God had vouchsafed. He then exhorted all his hearers to look well to their ways, and to see that they were not outdone in the Christian course by those who enjoyed less advantages, and had been more lately bidden to the marriage supper. I could not but thank God and take courage at hearing one who, a few years since, was a stranger to the commonwealth of Israel, now declaring what God had done for his soul, and assuring his hearers that they too, if they tried it, would find how gracious the Lord is.

The out-station of Albany has continued under the charge of the Rev. William Vincent, a country-born minister. In the early part of the year Mr. Vincent visited the Red River to receive priests' orders from the Bishop. As the journey of 1100 miles was performed, for the most part, on foot, more than six months were consumed in going and returning home. The last months of the year were spent in the erection of a new church by his own labour and the assistance of a brother, and by the necessity of laying up a stock of provisions by the chase and by fishing. His journal mingles the accounts of these manual labours and his diligent instruction of the Indians preparatory to his first administration of the Lord's Supper, together with many proofs of earnest desire to fulfil the ministry he has received of the Lord.

VIII. The Shores of the North Pacific.

The Mission upon the shores of the North Pacific was commenced when the district was a part of the Hudson's-Bay Company's Territories, and when it was thought that a communication would be opened to it through those territories from the Red River across the Rocky Mountains. But the Society's stations have been altogether separate from the Rupert's-Land Mission and diocese. Though the Indians are of the same original races as those to the east of the Rocky Mountains, yet their circumstances, and the nature of the soil and climate, are very different, and Missionary operations among them assume a very different character. As British Columbia has now also become a separate colony and Bishop's see, the Mission naturally becomes a separate and independent Mission, and will be so treated in subsequent Reports. The success of the Mission, and the bold and extensive secular measures adopted by Mr. Duncan, have induced the Committee to send out during the last year an European layman, Mr. Cunningham, and subsequently an ordained Missionary, the Rev. R. R A. Doolan, B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, to assist Mr. Duncan.

The last Report stated that Mr. Duncan had removed a large portion of the Indians from Fort Simpson to a new locality. He thus explains his reasons for the removal, and his mode of carrying it into effect. Writing from Metlakahtla, May 6, 1863, he says:—

Since my last letter, dated April 1862, events have happened around me of a very solemn character. In that letter I gave you an account of my plan for shortly removing the Mission premises from Fort Simpson, and the commencing of a new Indian village about fifteen or twenty miles south of that place. On the 12th May 1862 I began taking down the large temporary school. Three days later the materials of that building were rafted and on their way to the new site. Many difficulties rose up in my way, and became more appalling as I advanced; yet, proceed I must, for I felt it to be the next proper step in managing the Mission. Now I look back I can see that it was God's time for us to go—his hour for displaying his mercy and judgment before this people. . . . . By God's mercy we have now been carried through another and an eventful year. The Lord has sustained his work, and given marked evidence of his presence and blessing. Above one-fourth of the Tsimsheans from Fort Simpson, a few from Tongass, Nishkah, Keethrathtla, and Keetsahlass Indians (which tribes occupy a circle of about seventy miles round Fort Simpson), have been gathered out from the heathen, and have gone through much labour, trial, and persecution, to come on the Lord's side. About 400 to 600 souls attend divine service on Sundays, and are being governed by Christian and civilized laws. About seventy adults and twenty children are already baptized, or are only waiting for a minister to come and baptize them. About 100 children are attending the day school, and 100 adults the evening school. About forty of the young men have formed themselves into two classes, and meet for prayer and exhorting each other. The instruments of the medicine-men, which have spell-bound their nation for ages, have found their way into my house, and are most willingly and cheerfully given up. Customs which form the very foundation of Indian government have been given up, because they have an evil tendency. Feasts are now characterized by order and goodwill, and begin and end with the offering of thanks to the Giver of all good. Thus the surrounding tribes have now a model village before them, acting as a powerful witness for the truth of the Gospel, shaming and correcting, yet still captivating them; for in it they see those good tidings which they and their forefathers have sought and laboured for in vain, viz. peace, security, order, honesty, and progress.

Mr. Duncan has also forwarded to the Committee a letter which he had written to James Douglas, Esq., Governor of Vancouver's Island and British Columbia, who had given 50*l.* towards the settlement of the Indians in their new colony. From this letter further particulars are extracted:—

The Tsimshean Indians, who have lately removed from Fort Simpson under my superintendence, and settled here, are very anxious to tender your Excellency their warmest thanks for the liberal and timely aid which you have rendered them in building their new village. . . . . In obedience to your Excellency's kind wish, I will proceed to lay before you a few particulars respecting our new Indian Mission settlement. Your Excellency is aware of the dreadful plague of the small-pox, with which it pleased Almighty God to visit the Indians of this coast last year, and by which many thousands of them were swept away. It was on the 15th May last year—or two days before the sad intelligence of the outbreak of that fatal disease reached us—that we made our first move to our new settlement; and very providentially indeed it was for us that all those who had intended joining me arrived before the plague began to spread at Fort Simpson; for while I reckon not fewer than 500, or one-fifth of the Tsimsheans at Fort Simpson, to have fallen, I have gratefully to acknowledge God's sparing mercy to us as a village. We had only five fatal cases amongst those who originally left Fort Simpson with me, and three of these deaths were caused by attending to sick relatives who came to us after taking the disease. Yet so fearful was the amount of deaths and desolation on every side of us till about the end of September, that the Indians had but little spirit left for building, or even for the gathering of necessary food for the winter. In addition to the great amount of labour and trouble attendant upon moving and building new houses, we have had to encounter great opposition from many of the Indians at Fort Simpson, who, in spite of the great warnings they have had, continue still to be steeped in drunkenness and heathenism. Nor has the conflict been one wholly outward, if, indeed, mainly so; for to many who have joined me, the surrendering their national and heathen customs performed over the sick—ceasing to give away, tear up, or receive blankets, &c., for display—dropping precipitately their demoniacal rites, which have hitherto and for ages filled up their time and engrossed all their care during the months of winter—laying aside gambling—and ceasing to paint their faces—had been like cutting off the right hand and plucking out the right eye. Yet I am thankful to tell you that these sacrifices have been made; and had your Excellency heard the speeches made by the chiefs and some of the principal men at our Christmas-evening meeting, alluding to these and other matters, you would, I am sure, have rejoiced. . . . . I find the Indians very obedient, aud comparatively easy to manage, since I allow no intoxicating drink to come into our village. Though we are continually hearing of the drunken festivals of the surrounding tribes, I am happy to tell you that Metlakahtla has not yet witnessed a case of drunkenness since we have settled here—a period of ten months. Still, not all with me are true men. Some few, on their visits to Fort Simpson, have fallen; and two, whose cases were clearly proved, and admitted of no extenuation, I have banished from our midst. On Sabbath-days labour is laid aside, a solemn quiet presides, and the best clothing is in use. Scarcely a soul remains away from divine service, excepting the sick and their nurses. Evening family devotions are common to almost every house, and, better than all, I have a hope that many have experienced a real change of heart. To God be all the praise and glory!

In July 1863 the Bishop of Columbia visited the Mission, and entered very warmly into Mr. Duncan's plans, and gave him the benefit of his advice, sanction, and encouragement. As no clergyman had been at the station since Mr. Tugwell's departure, the Bishop kindly entered upon the work of a Missionary, by assisting in the examination of candidates for baptism, about seventy of whom were afterwards baptized by his lordship and his chaplain. Mr. Cunningham, who had arrived a few weeks before, thus describes his own feelings upon the occasion:—"It was almost as much as I could bear to witness many of these savages, who had never been subdued till they heard the name of Jesus, coming like children, and professing their faith in Christ alone for salvation."

The following independent testimony to the success of Mr. Duncan's undertaking is borne by a local newspaper, published at Victoria, Vancouver's Island, Feb. 29, 1864, the Daily British Colonist:—

The Missionary schooner "Carolena," Captain Patterson, arrived on Saturday from the Church Missionary settlement at Metlakahtla, British Columbia. The "Carolena" brings as freight a full cargo, consisting of fish-oil, furs, Indian food, cypress-plants, &c., prepared by Indians at the settlement. Mr. Cunningham has favoured us with the following interesting description of affairs at the settlement. "Mr. Duncan was in good health when the schooner left, and every thing going on prosperously. Mr. Duncan is endeavouring by degrees to vest the entire ownership of the vessel and profits of trade in his people. Hitherto the profits derived from his own share have been devoted to the interests of the Mission.

"Mr. Duncan has been working hard to ascertain what his people's inclination and abilities are, so as to class their occupation, and has in a great measure succeeded. He has now a number at work, making shingles, building a new Mission-house, road-making, hunters, sawyers, &c. He has also taught them to make clogs for themselves, which are much prized. Those who break the laws are tried for the offence, and, if found guilty, are sentenced to labour on public works. The settlement is assuming quite an imposing aspect. There are at present eight substantial houses in the course of construction, and many are inquiring for sites. The constables, eighteen in number (who are volunteers, and desire no pay), do their duty admirably, without fear, favour, or prejudice, and are held in awe by transgressors.

"It was truly encouraging," Mr. Cunningham states, "to witness the many earnest entreaties made by the people of the village, on his leaving, to urge their friends in Victoria to flee from the snares and vices which lead them astray here, and to return to their homes. He is the bearer of several letters written by themselves in English, and couched in fervent language, beseeching relatives to return there, and thus save both body and soul, which they say must be inevitably and irretrievably lost by their residing here."

"On new-year's day, after a devotional meeting, there was a business meeting, attended by the whole settlement, when Mr. Duncan and Mr. Cunningham announced the expenditure of the last year's taxes, and read the village rules and regulations. An outline was also furnished of the proposed expenditure for the current year, which met with general approval. The estimates included the cost of two new market-houses, which are to be used as lodging-houses for neighbouring tribes when visiting the settlement. Also sums for clearing a tract of ground for a park and play-grounds, and for making new roads. Immediately after the meeting the tax of 2.50 dollars (or a blanket) for adults, and 1.50 dollars (or one shirt) for boys, was paid. Some feeble old men, who could hardly walk, came tottering along with their blankets, anxious to become good citizens, but were exempted from the levy. A number of new citizens were enrolled."

The Committee regard with very deep interest the undertaking of Mr. Duncan. They fully concur in his views of the necessity of an immediate removal of the Indians from the temptations of Fort Simpson. They believe that Mr. Duncan has acted with great wisdom and practical ability in all his secular arrangements. They rejoice that Mr. Duncan, in all his letters, evidently keeps in view the spiritual part of his work as the essential element of success, and that for which alone he is content to involve himself in so much labour, anxiety, and responsibility. If the settlement of Metlakahtla is the nurse, feeder, and directress of a sustained aggressive movement upon surrounding and distant heathenism, all will be well. The danger to be guarded against is one which the long experience of the Moravian Missions emphatically witnesses against, namely, that such an industrial settlement should become absorbed in its temporal prosperity, and gradually lose the stamp of the church of Thessalonica—"From you sounded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith to Godward is spread abroad." (1 Thess. i. 8.)

CONCLUSION.

THE foregoing Report shows that the Lord's work has taken root in many lands; and that in some it has grown to such maturity that the converts are able to combine together into native churches, and to support their own ministrations. Such triumphs of the Gospel have been achieved through the blessing of God's Holy Spirit upon the labours of this Society. "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy, and for thy truth's sake. Wherefore should the heathen say, Where is now their God?"

But yet the Committee must remind their friends that even the Missions in which such successes have been granted are not wholly independent of the Society's resources. Those native churches still need the assistance of the advanced Christianity of European churches. They need it for the higher departments of theological and biblical training. They have as yet no vernacular Christian literature to which we at home are so much indebted for religious instruction. Let it be borne in mind, moreover, that within the districts occupied by the most successful Missions, as in Tinnevelly, the heathen largely outnumber the converts, so that there is continual Missionary expansion, and expanding Missions are expensive Missions. We need, therefore, increased efforts if we are to keep the ground already gained, and if we are to fill our bosoms with the sheaves of the field in which we stand. We must remind this Meeting of the fact stated in the commencement of this Report, that for the last few years we have been drawing 10,000*l.* a-year from the Special Indian Fund, which cannot last two years longer. So urgent is the need of increased funds if the work of the Society is only to be properly sustained in the Mission fields already occupied! But what provision shall be made for the regions beyond? Are they to be left destitute of the feet of Him that bringeth good tidings? Are the millions in India who have been hitherto untouched by Missionary efforts to be overlooked? Is Central Africa to be abandoned, after a Missionary basis has been established upon the coast, and by its aid a highway has been opened to the regions beyond by enterprising travellers? Are 300 millions of Chinese to be left uninstructed? Are Affghanistan and Central Asia to be looked upon from the heights of Peshawur without any attempt to penetrate their recesses? The Church Missionary Society would become unfaithful to its traditions, and unworthy of the position in which God has placed it, if it should fold its arms, and rest in the oasis it has formed, while a boundless desert, equally capable of cultivation, lies waste around it. It would also be soon outstripped by the zeal of other churches, and lose the honourable position in the advancing army of Christ, which, by right of privileges and resources, belongs to the United Church of England and Ireland. Never let it be forgotten; yea, rather let it be remembered with praise and gratitude to God, that we have many helpers in this holy enterprise. Other Christian denominations in Great Britain, besides our church, together with the churches in Continental Europe and in America, are multiplying their Missionaries every year. If we estimate the number of Missionaries employed by all Protestant Societies, they will be found to amount to 1800, of whom scarcely 300 belong to our church. A few years ago there were but six or eight Missionary Societies, labouring for the evangelization of India. In 1851, there were twenty-one; in 1861, there were thirty-three. Your Committee cordially rejoice in this increase. But they would, as the Apostle speaks, "provoke to emulation."

The Committee very earnestly submit these considerations to their friends, and especially to their clerical friends, throughout the country. They regard the present anniversary as a critical and solemn season. They would again quote the words of the great Apostle of the Gentiles. We "speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love. For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ."

APPENDIX I.

(See p. 42.)

APPEAL FROM THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO THEIR FRIENDS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society, after its Anniversaries in the month of May in each year, direct their most careful attention to the probable expenditure in the Missions, before the closing of the financial year on the 31st of March following; and they compare this expenditure with the probable income during the same period.

The expenditure of each year is calculated upon estimates received from each Mission. These estimates are grounded upon returns made by every individual Missionary of the cost of his station, which returns are carefully scrutinized by the Corresponding Committees on the spot, before they are transmitted home. Upon their arrival at home the estimates are again subjected to a rigid examination, and retrenchments are made in them, so far as appears practicable, without giving up any branches of the work in hand.

The calculation of the estimates always gives rise to much anxious forethought; but in the present year the comparison of the estimates with the probable income exhibits so startling a result, as to compel the Committee to lay the statement at once before their friends and supporters.

The estimate of the necessary expenditure of the Society for the current year, ending March 31st, 1865, stands thus:—

Amount of estimates for the Missions abroad .	£122,574
Estimate for the Home expenditure for the preparation of Missionaries, for widows and orphans, for publications and management,	£24,544
Total . .	£147,118

To meet this expenditure, if no special effort be made, a larger income cannot be anticipated than that of last year, which was itself rather above the average, viz. 133,501*l.* This would leave an excess of expenditure above the income of no less a sum than 13,617*l.*

The great increase in the estimates of expenditure has been caused partly by the enlargement of the Missions, chiefly of those in India, and partly by the necessary increase of expenditure in all prosperous Missions. The rapid rise, also, of the prices of all the necessaries of life in India and Ceylon, of late years, has necessitated some increase in salaries in those countries. The Home expenditure has been but little augmented, and, in some chief particulars, it has been reduced.

The Society was pledged to an enlargement of its Indian Missions, by its acceptance of special contributions for India after the mutiny in 1857. This Special Fund was raised, in the first instance, for repairing the losses of the Missions, occasioned by the destruction of Mission property; and, after the suppression of the mutiny, was increased, with the view of extending the Indian Missions, as a thankoffering to Almighty God for the preservation of India to the Crown of Great Britain. In conformity with the design of this Special Fund, which has amounted in all to 73,470*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*, new stations have been occupied, especially Allahabad, Lucknow, the Derajât, the Godavery, and Aurungabad, and additional Missionaries have been sent out, so that the increase of expenditure in the Indian Missions has been 12,000*l.* per annum, comparing the average of the last three years with the average of the three years before the mutiny.

In other fields of labour, also, the Committee have felt compelled to take advantage of providential and inviting openings,—namely, the Niger, Mauritius, Constantinople, and Madagascar: and there has been a healthy expansion of the Africa and China Missions, and of the North-West America Mission on the shores of the Pacific. By these Missionary successes the Society's expenditure has been increased.

Every effort has been made, by a scrutiny of the expenditure, to discover what could be spared without impairing the efficiency of the Missions. The salaries of the Missionaries have been adjusted with a rigid regard to economy, as far as is consistent with health. The expenditure on Education has been frequently brought under discussion, with a view to restrict education to that which has a direct Missionary influence; the building of Churches has been wholly thrown upon local funds; the support of Native Teachers has been incessantly and urgently pressed upon the native converts. In Sierra Leone the support of Schools, and of Native Pastors, has been thus transferred from the Society to the Native Church, to the extent of at least 1500*l.* a-year. In South India the contributions of Native Christians amount to 1612*l.* annually: whilst the civil and military officers of Government in India, and other Europeans on the spot, who witness the work of the Society, contribute no less a sum annually than 16,000*l.* towards sustaining that work. But notwithstanding all these aids and measures, the expenditure has outrun the income to the extent already stated.

Hitherto the balance between income and expenditure has been maintained by the aid of the Special Fund for India. But unless a large increase of the annual income be at once secured, this Fund will be wholly exhausted before the close of the current year, and the Committee will be then compelled to resort to the most painful alternative of abandoning some of the Stations in their prosperous Missions. This is an alternative not to be contemplated: the supporters of the Society will never allow the curtailment of operations, which the Lord has encouraged the Society to enter upon by His providential dispensations, and to which He has granted an evident blessing.

As the increase which is needed is an annual increase, the Associations must be chiefly looked to for an annual supply. The annual income must be increased by one tenth. If each Association would send up, before the 31st March 1865, an additional Five Pounds, beyond their last year's contributions, the sum immediately required would be raised. But in order to secure a permanent increase of ten per cent., and thus to sustain the healthy expansion of prosperous Missions, the Committee would earnestly urge upon the friends of the Society a fresh canvass of their respective districts. The fact is constantly brought to light that many parties are willing to give, if the work of the Society is set before them, and the application is made. The laity and female collectors can most effectually organize and carry out a fresh canvass. To such agency the Society has ever been deeply indebted.

There is only one effectual and immediate check to expenditure in the hands of the Committee, namely, to abstain from sending out new Missionaries. This is a sad resource, which nothing can justify but the apprehension of such serious financial embarassments as would compromise the character of the Society; yet the Committee have already felt compelled to adopt this course. At their late meeting, the Principal of the Islington College reported that eleven students had passed through their theological course of instruction, and could be thoroughly recommended as candidates for Holy Orders at an Ordination to be held on the 25th July. They did not dare to present the whole number for Ordination: they selected four to occupy Stations at which the need was most pressing, and they are holding back seven students, fully prepared for Missionary work, until they can judge, by the response to this appeal, how far there is a prospect of a provision for their future support. They feel that they would not be justified in acting upon the presumption that funds will be forthcoming. They are bound to "occupy" diligently and faithfully with the talents committed to them, but not to aim at "occupying" with more talents than the Lord in His wisdom has been pleased to dispense to them.

The fact having been thus made known that men are prepared to go out as Missionaries, the responsibility of holding them back is laid upon the great body of the members of the Society. The friends of Missions have prayed the Lord of the harvest to send forth labourers, and labourers are provided to their hand. An appeal is now made to those to whom the Lord has given the silver and the gold, or the ability to influence such as possess these gifts, in the confident hope that they will recognise the Lord's claim upon their best exertions to supply "that which is least" for the carrying on of the Missionary enterprise, so that the Society may be effectually relieved from all financial restrictions, and go forward in the work to which the Lord has evidently called its faithful Missionaries.

P.S.—Since the appeal for increased funds was adopted by the Committee on July 11th, notice has been received of the prospect of an early payment of a considerable legacy, and also that a second large legacy has been left to the Society, though the time of the payment is uncertain. This very seasonable and providential help does not, however, make the appeal for a permanent increase of the annual income of the Society less urgent.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

REPORT OF THE VISITORS, JUNE 1863.

THE resignation of the office of Director of the Missionaries' Children's Home by the Rev. W. G. Barker, who has ably discharged its duties for ten years, has appeared to the Visiting Committee to afford a fitting opportunity for reviewing the past history of the Institution, and for inquiring how far it has fulfilled the purposes for which it was established, and whether it is desirable to make any changes in the system on which it has been hitherto conducted.

I. The Origin and Need of such an Institution.

In the Jubilee year of the Society a special fund was collected for certain specified objects. One of those objects was thus described in a resolution passed by the Committee, May 22, 1848:—

"The providing of a Boarding School, as a Home, for the maintenance and education of the children of those Missionaries who are devoting their time and strength to Mission work abroad."

In a subsequent address of the Committee, the projected Home was spoken of as calculated to "afford a peculiar solace to the Missionaries who are labouring abroad, by providing a home for their children, whom they may be obliged to send away for the preservation of their health."

It must be borne in mind that the Church Missionary Society has, from its earliest days, charged itself with the care and education of the children of Missionaries who are labouring abroad, in climates in which children cannot be reared, as well as of the orphans whose parents have died in its service—where the parents or friends do not make any other provision. The salaries which are given to the Missionaries are regulated upon this principle. An unmarried Missionary receives an increase of salary upon his marriage, and an allowance for each child under eight years of age. At that age the child may be sent home for education at the expense of the Society, and "the whole cost of maintenance and education, at an establishment selected by the Committee, is defrayed by the Society;" or, if the parent wishes to select another school, a moderate allowance is made for that purpose.

The result of this system of graduated payments, according to the increasing wants of the Missionary, and of making provision for the education of their children, has been very satisfactory upon the experience of more than fifty years. Where the system of giving a fixed salary is adopted, the younger Missionary has more than sufficient for his wants, and when he has arrived at the maturity of his Missionary life, if he has children to be sent home for education, he becomes straitened in income, and obliged either to educate his children himself, to the great detriment of his Missionary work, or perhaps to withdraw from the Mission to avoid involving himself in debt, and to secure a proper education for his children in England.

In a financial point of view, also, the system has proved advantageous to the Society, for while some Missionaries with large families have cost the Society 500*l.*, or even 600*l.* a year, the average of all the Missionaries has been below 300*l.* a year, which would be a very moderate allowance upon the system of fixed salaries.

Before the institution of the Children's Home, the Society, in the fulfilment of its obligations, selected for the sons of their Missionaries King William's School, in the Isle of Man, as affording a sound classical education at very low charges; and for the education of girls the Society was permitted to send a few to the Clergy Daughters' School at Casterton, Westmoreland, where the expense was partly borne by the funds of that school: a few were admitted on the same terms into St. Mary's Hall, Brighton, and others into private schools.

There were several disadvantages in this arrangement. The distance of the Isle of Man and of Westmoreland from London was found a serious inconvenience to parents returning to England, and desirous of seeing their children, but it was ascertained that the same advantages of education could not be obtained nearer London, except at a greatly-increased expense.

Under this arrangement, also, the brothers and sisters of a family were often separated for years; whereas in the Home they are under the same roof, and meet at meals, but at other times all intercourse between the boys and girls is effectually prevented, as they inhabit the separate sides of the building, the Director's House being in the centre. The present Director and his wife state, that though the union of a boys' and a girls' school under the same roof involves in many ways increased trouble and responsibility, this circumstance is, in their opinion, counterbalanced by the comfort to the parents, and by the advantage to the children, in keeping up their family affections. They state farther, that they have discovered no evils arising from the present arrangement.

A more serious disadvantage which called for a remedy in the old arrangement was, that children brought up in heathen countries, and often by heathen servants, with no Christian associates of their own age, required peculiar treatment, especially upon their first arrival; and that their immediate association in school with other children often proved disadvantageous to both parties.

A lady of great intelligence, who was superintendent at Casterton, and afterwards at St. Mary's Hall, Brighton, and who had taken a deep interest in the Missionaries' daughters at both Institutions, directed the attention of the Secretary to this point before a Home was established; and strongly urged the importance of a separate establishment for the children of Missionaries, at least for the first two or three years after their arrival in England.

The present Directors of the Home entertain precisely the same views, and speak of the peculiar treatment and forbearance required for the children on their first arrival, and testify with special satisfaction to the gradual improvement of the children in their moral tone and feeling as their residence in the Home continues.

These considerations will sufficiently prove the need of such an Institution.

II. The success of the Institution as a Home for homeless children.

The Visiting Committee have pursued their inquiries beyond the question how far the Institution has provided a remedy for former disadvantages; and have endeavoured to ascertain how far it has in all other respects succeeded as "a Home."

In pursuing this inquiry the Visitors have received the testimony of numerous Christian friends—who have had opportunities of observing the state of the Institution, either as members of this Committee of Visitors, or as the friends of the Superintendents, or of the children—that all the essential advantages of a home have been secured. The Directors have ever manifested an individual interest in each child, a tender concern for their health, a still more earnest longing for their spiritual state, and a carefulness for their future welfare in life; which constitute the characteristics of a Christian Parents' Home, and which distinguish a Parents' Home from a mere place of education.

There is, also, satisfactory testimony that the children have, as a general rule, the reciprocal home feelings towards the Institution.

These "Home" advantages are very satisfactory even in the case of children whose parents are still living in a foreign land. But it is a greater satisfaction to know that such advantages are provided for many orphan children, whose parents did not count their lives dear unto themselves for Christ's name's sake, but cheerfully resigned themselves to death in a distant land, bequeathing the care of their widows and children to the church at home as a sacred charge.

The Sub-Committee are thankful to add that a religious influence has pervaded the whole establishment. In diffusing this influence, the Directors have been aided by the excellent senior Governess, who has been long connected with the Home. This religious influence has, in many cases, been blessed of God to a sound conversion of a child's heart to his service. Every such case is watched over and cherished with parental solicitude and encouragement.

Another important "Home" benefit must not be omitted, namely, the care of the health of the children. Every provision has been made which the most careful family could adopt for promoting health. A medical man of experience, who receives a mere nominal remuneration, constantly visits the Home. The Home is furnished on both sides with infirmaries, which can be isolated in cases of infection from all intercourse with the rest of the building. Hence the health of the children, making due allowances for birth in the tropics, has been very satisfactory. Even when the scarlet fever has broken out on two occasions, no child has been sent away, but the cases have been treated in the Home, infection has been checked, and no death has occurred. An examination was lately made by three medical men, two of them well acquainted with tropical climates, and their report was highly satisfactory in respect of the general sanitary condition of the building, and of the health of the children.

III. Success of the Institution as a place of education.

The Visitors have further inquired into the success of this Institution as a place of education.

The Committee appoint annually certain competent persons to examine the children in the various branches in which they have received instruction. A review of the annual reports of the examiners enables the Visitors to state that the children are well taught, and especially that they are thoroughly grounded in the elements of a sound and liberal education.

The girls are continued to the age of sixteen. At that age, the children of parents in the liberal professions at home generally receive what is termed the "finishing course of instruction." But many of the girls from the Home have been so far advanced in education as to take their position in society when they join their parents in India, or, if they remain at home, to seek situations as teachers in schools.

The boys leave at the age of fifteen. The great majority of them have left the Home with the foundation of a good classical education, which has been of great advantage to them, when they have entered mercantile offices; but many of the boys have afterwards gone to the Islington Proprietary School, to Marlborough and Repton Schools, or to private tutors, and the testimony from such schools to the sound instruction and good habits of the boys has been remarkable. At a late examination at Repton School, three boys from the Home stood at the head of the first, second, and third classes respectively. The Rev. Dr. Pears, Head Master of Repton School, has kindly furnished the following testimony to the previous teaching and moral training of these boys:—

"I have now (April 1863) three boys in school who have had their early training in the Missionary Home. They happen to be boys possessed of natural gifts considerably above the average. I cannot, therefore, say what the 'Home' might do for boys of deficient capacity or faulty disposition; but for good material well handled, I have never known any set of boys to equal them.

"With a good deal of difference in character, they are alike in steady good sense and sound elementary scholarship. Their behaviour since they came to this school has been quite unexceptionable."

The Visitors need not, after such a testimony, add any further proof of the success of the education imparted in this Home. But in order to test, in the most complete manner, the results of the general training which the children receive, they have procured a list of the names of all the children who have passed through the Home, amounting to 196, and of their present circumstances and employments. An inspection of that list will show that a very great blessing has rested upon the training received. The proportion of those who have turned out well is large indeed. The oldest in the list is only twenty-eight; the number who have reached twenty years of age is little above fifty. Out of these fifty, not fewer than twenty have already devoted themselves to Missionary work including one ordained Missionary, two students at Islington, and seven wives of Missionaries. Others of the fifty have obtained honourable positions in competitive examinations, one in the Indian Civil Service, another for its Military Service. Only two out of the 196 children have been returned to their parents, before the completion of their education, on account of misconduct, which rendered their removal from the Home necessary.

IV. Financial Aspect of the Institution.

Having thus reviewed the success of this Institution as a "Home," and as a place of education, the Visitors have thought it right to institute a careful inquiry into the expenses of the system in comparison with the old system, and with other educational establishments of an analogous character.

It has not been easy to ascertain the cost of the education of children under the old system, while they were placed in various different schools. In the Clergy Daughters' Schools, at Casterton and at Brighton, a part of the expense was borne by the funds of these institutions; but such a pecuniary advantage could only be conceded to a limited extent to the children of Missionaries in consistency with the claims of the Clergy of the Church of England generally.

King William's School, in the Isle of Man, was selected as providing the best education for boys at the cheapest rate, consistently with their moral training and health. The average expense of each boy sent to that school was 57*l.*

The average expenditure in the Home upon each child, during the last three years, has been 55*l.* But during these years the Home has had an average of only sixty-five children, whereas an establishment of tutors, governesses, and servants has been maintained for eighty or more children. Had the number of children in the Home been eighty, the average upon each child would have been reduced below 50*l.*; and there is every prospect of a still further reduction upon certain changes which are in contemplation.

Food for the entire Establishment, comprising 96 inmates	1272	16	11
Clothing for Children .	421	1	2

Sundries	156	7	11
Contingent Expenses:

Furniture . . - - .	133	8	4

The Committee have endeavoured to compare this expenditure with the expenditure in establishments of an analogous character. But they have not been able to hear of any other Institution which affords a Home for children of both sexes, and provides an equally liberal education. The advantages which arise from this combination of the sexes certainly entail an increase of expense. For instance, the Royal Naval Female School at Richmond, Surrey, which supports and educates eighty daughters of naval officers, needs only a staff of governesses, whereas the Home requires a staff of tutors and governesses for the same number of children of both sexes. Making, however, due allowance for the differences of circumstances, the Committee believe, after extensive inquiries, that the expense of the Home is nearly the same as that of other Institutions which provide a superior education.

V. Conclusion.

The Committee cannot close this review of the Missionaries' Children's Home during the thirteen years of its existence, first under the management of the Rev. S. H. Unwin, and subsequently under the Rev. W. G. Barker, and their admirable wives, without a devout acknowledgment of the goodness of God in granting His blessing to the Institution, in a very signal degree; and the Committee would earnestly entreat on its behalf the continuance of the fervent prayers of the friends of the Society, which they know to be offered up by many hearts both at home and abroad, that the Institution may be defended from the dangers which beset all seminaries of youthful education, that a Divine influence may continue to pervade the whole of the establishment, and that it may prove a spiritual nursery for the training up of pious and useful members of society, and, if it pleases God, of many future Missionary labourers in his vineyards abroad.

PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds *free of Legacy duty for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereout but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto† shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund‡ and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, for the general purposes of the said Society, such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half, (according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same, &c.§

* If so intended.

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds *free of Legacy duty for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereout but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto† shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund‡ and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, for the general purposes of the said Society, such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half, (according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same, &c.§

* If so intended.

† In case there be other charitable Legacies, insert here, "other than and except charitable Legacies."

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

I.—BENEFACTIONS OF FORMER YEARS, TO MARCH 31, 1863,

WHETHER PAID DIRECT TO THE PARENT SOCIETY OR THROUGH ASSOCIATIONS.

The Committee would be glad to receive information respecting any names in this list of "Benefactions of former Years" which should be expunged or altered, from death or other causes.

 This mark * denotes that the Sermon was preached at St. Ann's, Blackfriars; this †, that it was preached at St. Bride's, Fleet Street; the Twenty-third was preached at Christ Church, Newgate Street; the Thirty-first at St. Sepulchre's; the Thirty-second at St. Clement Danes; and the Thirty-third at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

The Collections at the Sixteenth and subsequent Anniversaries include the sums contributed at the Annual Meetings.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society request the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations to transmit the proceeds of their respective Associations, together with the Contribution Lists and Accounts, as soon after the close of their Financial Year as possible. The Lists and Accounts should be written legibly, to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. The Local Officers being appointed by the Associations, their names, as well as the date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, should be specified. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Committee would also point out, for wider adoption, the convenience of a practice already very generally observed by Associations, of making remittances on account whenever any considerable proportion of the year's receipts is in the hands of the Local Treasurer. This practice, they have reason to believe, would be acceptable to many of their Contributors, and would tend to equalize in a greater degree the income and expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial Year.

The Society's General Accounts are closed on the 31st of March, and all Moneys and Lists belonging to the year must be received at the Society's House by that date, in order to the Lists being inserted in their proper place in the Report.

The appending of the Lists and Accounts of the Associations to the Annual Report is a general acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Society; and the Committee are desirous of preventing the dissatisfaction which they are aware is occasioned by the omission of the Lists in the Report in consequence of the Money or the List having been received too late for insertion.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Accounts of the Branches should be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the period for forwarding the Accounts of the Association to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches should be considered as self-excluded, and the Accounts forwarded without them.

To prevent mistakes, it is requested that Branch Associations will in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

The Committee return their cordial thanks to the Treasurers of Associations, and to those friends who kindly fill the office of Secretary—an office which, they are well aware, draws largely on the time and attention of those who occupy it, but on the efficient discharge of the duties of which, the prosperity of an Association chiefly depends.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will find them in the List of "Benefactions of former Years."
